DENVER, March 13.—George Schistler shot and killed Mr. and Mrs. K. Fill and their son in their home here. He then set fire to the house.

When attempting to arrest Schistler, Police Captain William Bohanna and Police Surgeon Frank Dulin were shot by him and seriously wounded. Schistler barricaded himself and held a large force of officers at bay for several hours, many shots being exchanged. The desperate man was finally killed by Undersheriff Felix O'Neill.

Mrs. Schistler dropped dead when she heard of the tragedy. There had been trouble between Schistler and the Fills over a lawsuit.

An Immense and Gigantic Fraud.

SALT LAKE CITY, March 13.—The special committee recently sent to St. Louis by the lower house of the legislature of Utah to investigate irregularities in the accounts of Utah's commission to the Louisiana Purchase exposition has presented a report that is severe in its criticism of the management of the exposition. The report says: "We are unanimous in reporting that, according to our knowledge and belief, the so called awards, consisting of medals, ribbons, etc., supposedly given as marks of merit by the St. Louis official award ribbon committee by authority of the Louisiana Purchase exposition to the so called successful exhibitors, are, in our opinion, an immense and gigantic fraud." A certain well known manufacturing concern paid as high as $20,000 for a so called official award to be used for advertising.

Miser Murdered In His Cabin.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., March 13.—A special from Port Byron says that the body of Robert Kidney, an aged miser living about six miles from there in a cabin in the woods, has been found lying in a pool of blood. He had been murdered and his home robbed. The murderer is thought to have secured several thousand dollars in gold, silver and bills. He overlooked $1,800 in gold in the house and several hundred dollars in paper currency. There is no clew to the murderer.

Veteran Confederate Officer Dead.

HIGHLAND FALLS, N. Y., March 13.—Colonel Caleb Huse, aged seventy-five years, died suddenly at his home here following a surgical operation. Colonel Huse graduated from the United States Military academy in 1851 and was for many years an instructor at West Point. He resigned from the Union army in 1861 and subsequently was commissioned by Jefferson Davis as colonel and sent to Europe as purchasing agent for the Confederate army.

BRATTLEBORO, Vt., March 13.—Rev. Lewis Grout, for many years a Congregational missionary in Natal, South Africa, and an authority on the Zulu language, for which he compiled a grammar, is dead here in his ninety-first year. He was graduated from Yale in 1842 and in 1846 went to South Africa, where he remained twenty years.

LINGERIE HINTS.

Many Dainty Ways of Making Underwear—Embroidered Hats.

The nightgowns in lingerie sets have the sleeves set in with the tiniest of beading and the long skirt seams put together in the same way.

Some of the smartest nightdresses are embroidered in large sprawling designs not unlike those used on shirt waists.

The French are substituting the elaborate chemise in place of the corset cover, but here in America the corset cover is sharing honors with the chemise. Some of the new covers are marvels of fine hand work embroidery.

China silk slip petticoats are growing in favor. The prettiest of the new ones have shirring and lace and hand embroidered dots by way of trimming.

Lingerie blouses are things of beauty with their fairylike traceries of hand embroidery and fine inset laces. The sewing on these blouses is as exquisite as the materials.

Silk golf petticoats come very much frilled, and the short woman may profit by this elaborate golf finery and purchase them for ordinary wear.

Hats of hand embroidered linen and batiste are trimmed with liberty ribbon and flowers.

Fetching hats of embroidered batiste have wreaths of shaded roses around the crown.

The airy little toque illustrated is of swathed white tulle. It is dented into a becoming shape, with knots of the tulle holding a bunch of peacock feathers at the side.

PARASOL NEWS.

The Handles Are Things of Beauty. Animal Heads a Novel Design.

The parasols on view in the shops have elaborately carved handles showing animals' heads with jeweled eyes. Many of these handles may be bought separately and adjusted to odd parasols.

The handle on a white taffeta silk parasol is formed of a swan's long curved neck and head. The eyes are small black beads.

A stunning parasol is of black peau de sole, lined with white silk and trimmed with motifs of white lace. Violet silk treated in the same way is charming.

A scarlet parasol has a handle of black onyx, with a knob incrusted with mock rubies.

All the smart parasols have large bows tied about the handles.

A new automobile parasol of silk has a wide border of scalloped leather about the edge and a matlike piece at the top.

Little round French crowns appear on the new hats. A smart hat is called the "polo." It has charming little curves and is simply trimmed with a bunch of flowers or an aigret and chou.

Jaunty suits of checked tweed are shown in the shops for early spring wear.

A summer fad will be the wearing of colored silk girdles with hair nets to match.

Light blue linen for shirt waist suits will be very much worn. This linen sells for 50 cents a yard.

Heavy padded embroidery is used on light cloth and linen gowns.

The strapped shirt waist with a long silk scarf pulled down through the strap is a smart model.

Very good style is the envelope hat, its four corners folding over the crown and a long plume showing through the openings.

The tiny tot's gown illustrated is of heavy linen. The skirt is box plaited. The smart reefer jacket has inset cuffs and a collar of blue linen. Large pearl buttons fasten the coat.

KATE BONNET

THE ROMANCE OF A PIRATE'S DAUGHTER

By FRANK R. STOCKTON

Copyright, 1902, by D. Appleton & Co., New York.

CHAPTER I.

TWO YOUNG PEOPLE, A SHIP, AND A FISH.

THE month was September and the place was in the neighborhood of Bridgetown, in the island of Barbadoes. The seventeenth century was not 17 years old, but the girl who walked slowly down to the river bank was three years its senior. She carried a fishing-rod and line, and her name was Kate Bonnet. She was a bright-faced, quick-moving young person, and apparently did not expect to catch many fish, for she had no basket in which to carry her finny prizes. Nor, apparently, did she have any bait, except that which was upon her hook and which had been affixed there by one of the servants at her home, not far away. In fact, Mistress Kate was too nicely dressed and her gloves were too clean to have much to do with fish or bait, but she seated herself on a little rock in a shady spot not far from the water and threw forth her line. Then she gazed about her; a little up the river and a good deal down the river.

There was a bunch of white flowers in the hat of the young girl; not a very large one, and not a very small one, but of such a size as might be easily seen from the bridge, had anyone happened to be crossing about that time. And, in fact, as the wearer of the hat and the white flowers still continued to gaze at the bridge, she saw some one come out upon it with a quick, buoyant step, and then she saw him stop and gaze steadily up the river. At this she turned her head, and her eyes went out over the beautiful landscape and wide terraces rising above each other towards the sky.

It is astonishing how soon after this a young man, dressed in a brown suit, and very pleasant to look upon, came rapidly walking along the river bank. This was Master Martin Newcombe, a young Englishman, not two years from his native land, and now a prosperous farmer on the other side of the river.

As Master Newcombe stepped near his spirits rose, as they had not always risen, as he approached Mistress Kate, for he perceived that, although she held the handle of her rod in her hand, the other end of it was lying on the ground, not very far from the bait and the hook which, it was very plain, had not been in the water at all. She must have been thinking of something else besides fishing, he thought. But he did not dare to go on with that sort of thinking in the way he would have liked to do it. He had not too great a belief in himself, though he was very much in love with Kate Bonnet.

"Is this the best time of day for fishing, Master Newcombe?" she said, without rising or offering him her hand. "For my part, I don't believe it is."

He smiled as he threw his hat upon the ground. "Let me put your line a little farther out." And so saying, he took the rod from her hand and stepped between her and the bait, which must have been now quite hot from lying so long in a bit of sunshine. He rearranged the bait and threw the line far out into the river. Then he gave her the rod again. He seated himself on the ground near by.

"This is the second time I have been over the bridge to-day," he said, "and this morning, very early, I saw for the first time your father's ship, which was lying below the town. It is a fine vessel, so far as I can judge, being a landsman."

"Yes," said she, "and I have been on board of her and have gone all over her, and have seen many things which are queer and strange to me. But the strangest thing about her, to my mind, being a landswoman, is that she should belong to my father. There are many things which he has not, which it would be easy to believe he would like to have, but that a ship, with sails and anchors and hatchways, should be one of these things it is hard to imagine."

Young Newcombe thought it was impossible to imagine, but he expressed himself discreetly.

"It must be that he is going to engage in trade," he said; "has he not told you of his intentions?"

"Not much," said she. "He says he is going to cruise about among the islands, and when I asked him if he would take me he laughed and answered that he might do so, but that I must never say a word of it to Madam Bonnet, for if she heard of it she might change his plans."

The wicked young man found himself almost wishing that the somewhat bad-tempered Madam Bonnet might hear of and change any plan which might take her husband's daughter from this town, especially in a vessel; for vessels were always terribly tardy when anyone was waiting for their return. And, besides, it often happened that vessels never came back at all.

"I shall take a little trip with him even if we don't go far; it would be ridiculous for my father to own a ship and for me never to sail in her."

"That would not be so bad," said Master Martin, feeling that a short absence might be endured. Moreover, if a little pleasure trip were to be made, it was reasonable to suppose that other people, not belonging to the Bonnet family, might be asked to sail as guests.

"What my father expects to trade in," said she, contemplatively gazing before her, "I am sure I do not know. It cannot be horses or cattle, for he has not enough of them to make such a venture profitable. And as to sugar-cane, or anything from his farm, I am sure he has a good enough market here for all he has to sell. Certainly he does not produce enough to make it necessary for him to buy a ship in order to carry them away."

"It is opined," said Martin, "by the people of the town, that Maj. Bonnet intends to become a commercial man and to carry away to the other islands, and perhaps to the old country itself, the goods of other people."

"Now that would be fine!" said Mistress Kate, her eyes sparkling, "for I should then surely go with him and see the world, and perhaps London." And her face flushed with the prospect.

Martin's face did not flush. "But if your father's ship sailed on a long voyage," he said, with a suspicion of apprehension, "he would not sail with her; he would send her under the charge of others."

The girl shook her head. "When she sails," said she, "he sails in her. If you had heard him talking as I have heard him, you would not doubt that. And if he sails I sail."

Martin's soul grew quite sad. There were very good reasons to believe that this dear girl might sail away from Bridgetown, and from him. She might come back to the town, but she might not come back to him.

"Mistress Kate," said he, looking very earnestly at her, "do you know that such speech as this makes my heart sink? You know I love you,

HE STOOD AND LOOKED AFTER HER.

I have told you so before. If you were to sail away, I care not to what port, this world would be a black place for me."

"That is like a lover," she exclaimed, a little pertly; "it is like them all, every man of them. They must have what they want, and they must have it no matter who else may suffer."

He rose and stood by her.

"But I don't want you to suffer," he said. "Do you think it would be suffering to live with one who loved you, who would spend his whole life in making you happy, who would look upon you as the chief thing in the world, and have no other ambition than to make himself worthy of you?"

She looked up at him with a little smile.

"That would, doubtless, be all very pleasant for you," she said, "and in order that you might be pleased, you would have her give up so much. That is the way with men! Now, here am I, born in the very end of the last century, and having had, consequently, no good out of that, and with but 17 years in this century, and most of it passed in girlhood and in school; and now, when the world might open before me for a little, here you come along and tell me all that you would like to have, and that you would like me to give up."

"But you should not think," said he, and that was all he said, for at that moment Kate Bonnet felt a little jerk at the end of her line, and then a good strong pull.

"I have a fish!" she cried, and sprang to her feet. Then, with a swoop, she threw into the midst of the weeds and wild flowers a struggling fish, which Martin hastened to take from the hook.

"A fine fellow!" he cried, "and he has arrived just in time to make a dainty dish for your supper."

"Ah, no!" she said, winding the line about her rod; "if I were to take that fish to the house it would sorely disturb Madam Bonnet. She would object to my catching it; she would object to having it prepared for the table; she would object to having it eaten when she had arranged that we should eat something else. No, I will give it to you, Master Newcombe; I suppose in your house you can cook and eat what you please."

"Yes," said he; "but how delightful it would be if we could eat it together."

"Meaning," said she "that I should never eat other fish than those from this river. No, sir; that may not be. I have a notion that the first foreign fish I shall eat will be found in the island of Jamaica, for my father said that possibly he might first take a trip there, where lives my mother's brother, whom we have not seen for a long time. But, as I told you before, nobody must know this. And now I must go to my supper, and you must take yours home with you."

He stood and looked after her until she had disappeared among the shrubbery, after which he walked away.

"I should have said more than I did," he reflected; "seldom have I had so good a chance to speak and urge my case. It was that confounded ship. Her mind is all for that and not for me."

Public Notice!

Public Notice is hereby given that an ordinance of the Board of Health, of the city of Plainfield, entitled: "An Ordinance Licensing and Regulating Barber Shops in the city of Plainfield, N. J.," passed its second reading at the regular meeting of the said Board held at its offices in said city of Plainfield on the 7th day of March, 1905; and that it is the intention of the said Board to adopt said ordinance at a meeting of the said Board to be held at its offices, No. 149 North avenue, in said city, on the 4th day of April, 1905, at four o'clock p. m.

HEAD-ON COLLISION BETWEEN TWO TEMPERAMENTS!

Every hour, all over the city—in homes, in factories, in stores, in offices—collisions are occurring between incompatible human temperaments. The housewife is conservative, likes to keep her china and furniture intact; the servant is iconoclastic—a "collision between temperament" occurs, and a "want ad." tells those girls who can read that a servant is wanted at a certain home.

The factory-foreman, always opposed to square pegs in round holes, finds that one of his workmen is a misfit. Again a temperamental collision. And a workman who is a "round peg" finds a want ad. that offers a better job for him than his present one; and the other man advertises for a job where square pegs are needed.

A store-manager finds that a certain clerk has not an ounce of salesmanship in his make-up. Collision again.

A want ad. brings another clerk to the store; and finds a job for the ex-clerk where salesmanship is not a requisite.

In the office the stenographer got to "running the business."

Boss was a "brute," and believed he could manage things himself.

Simply another Collision Between Temperaments. Want ad. found a "boss" for the young lady who rather liked to be managed; and found a stenographer for the old "boss" who didn't "grate on his nerves."

An Ideal Location

Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE

LINDEN, N. J.

Beautiful and Accessible

2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,

14 MILES FROM NEW YORK

On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

FOR INFORMATION concerning lots in these beautiful Park Cemeteries, and FREE transportation to prospective lot buyers, apply at once to any LEADING UNDERTAKER or offices of the Associations:

RESCUED BY A DOG

HELPLESS CHILD IS DRAGGED FROM BURNING HOUSE.

Noble Animal Defies Flame and Smoke in Saving His Little Master—Thrilling Incident of a Swiss Village.

It was midnight. The little Swiss town of St. Saphorin lay slumbering. Not a soul was abroad to notice a certain house from which the blue smoke curled.

Within the burning house a father, a mother and three young children lay sleeping.

An ominous crackling succeeded the silent outpouring of the smoke. The woodwork was ablaze.

A horrified man sat up in bed. With eyes outstaring, he tried to penetrate the darkness. He caught sight of a small glow that issued from beneath the door.

He awoke his wife, and, endeavoring to hide his awful fear, quickly explained the danger. Then, bidding her await his return, he opened the door and disappeared into a dense cloud of smoke.

A moment later he had entered his children's bedroom. Groping his way to a cot, he seized the youngest child in one arm, whilst with the other he threw his little daughter, dazed and scarcely awake, over his shoulder.

And now came the terrible journey down the already burning stairs. But help was at hand, for just as they reached the bottom of the stairs the front door burst open, and the half-suffocated family staggered into the street.

Suddenly a piteous cry broke from the mother. Heavens! where was little Henri? Her little four-year-old boy lay sleeping in the burning house! An exclamation of horror escaped the father.

He looked around him helplessly. Just then his retriever trotted up to him. Its faithful brown eyes, gazing trustfully up into his master's face sent a wild thought through the distracted man's mind.

"Go, fetch Henri!" he said, pointing to the burning house.

Would the dog go? On him alone hung Henri's life. A second the handsome creature hesitated, then, trotting forward, was swallowed in the thick smoke.

A minute went by—one terrible minute in which the anxious parents stood, hoping with the hope of despair. Then through the smoke there loomed a strange creature. Could this hairless, black animal be the handsome retriever? It must be! But how he staggered. Surely he was carrying something—a little night-clad figure!

A cry burst from the mother. She rushed forward and snatched her baby to her arms—saved by a faithful dog.

Cookery and Government.

Rossini, the Italian composer, is reported to have said a droll thing on the unification of Italy when some one asked his opinion on this matter. He replied that he thought it very difficult, if not impossible to effect it, for the simple reason that the Neapolitans eat nothing but macaroni, the Florentines nothing but fagiuoli and the Lombards only polenta, while the Piedmontese swallow all they can get. "It is clear," he said, "that uniformity of cookery must precede unity of government."—Chicago Daily News.

A Little Tokio.

The following notice was posted up recently in an art exhibition in Tokio, Japan: "No visitor who is mad or intoxicated allowed to enter in, if any person found in shall be claimed to retire. No visitor is allowed to carry in with himself any parcel, umbrella, stick, and the like kind, except his purse, and is strictly forbidden to take within himself dog, or the same kind of beasts. Visitor is requested to take care of himself from thievely."—Argonaut.

SPORTING NEWS

AT THE TRAPS.

The Plainfield Gun Club is planning to hold several interesting events during the summer, in which a number of crack shots will participate.

Tom Keller, formerly of this city, and well known throughout the country as an expert trap shooter, is now in Savannah interesting himself in several trap events.

"Jim" Beisel, one of the pitchers for the Plainfield Baseball Association team, is a crack shot with the gun. He frequently occupies his spare time in breaking clay pigeons.

CLOSED PORTALS.

Crescent Company, No. 13, U. R. K. of P., will take up several important matters at tomorrow night's regular meeting.

In honor of St. Patrick's day, Perseverance lodge, No. 74, K. of P., will hold a "Celtic" night, Friday. An appropriate programme has been prepared which will include specialties by New York artists. The affair will be exclusively for members.

All others in New Jersey who have been so constantly petitioning Congress for legislation, or remonstrating against other proposed legislation, excepting the Junior Order of American Mechanics, have decided to wait until Congress again assembles, next December. The Junior Order continues, however, to send in several remonstrances each day to both Senators against sectarian use of the Indian trust funds.

Safety Lodge, branch of the Stationary Engineer' Association, of this city, is interested in a bill now before the legislature which provides for the licensing of stationary engineers. There has been a public hearing of the measure and nearly all of the trades of the State are urging the passage of it. One point in favor of the bill is that New York and Pennsylvania license engineers and it is believed that New Jersey should follow with similar action. Another hearing will be granted tomorrow for the opponents of the bill. It is understood that there is opposition among the manufacturers and it has been hinted that they will defeat the bill if possible.

OBITUARY.

Mabel Hoffman Pearson.

Mabel Hoffman Pearson, the eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs Charles Pearson, of West Fifth street, died Saturday after a brief illness. She had previously been ill seven weeks and had so far recovered as to be out a few days until last Tuesday. Much sympathy is expressed for her parents and for her grandfather, William W. Pearson, among their many friends. She was a very precocious child, liked by everyone and the joy of the household. She attended the Irving School and Hope chapel Sunday-school, her last presence in the latter being a week ago yesterday when she recited a verse in the primary department in celebration of her return after her illness. Her playmates were numerous and she will be greatly missed by all. Funeral services will be held from the parents' home tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock with Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck in charge.

Theodore Hoagland.

Theodore Hoagland, a former Plainfielder who left the city many years ago, died March 5 at his home in Menominee, Wis., after a long illness. He was born in the old Hoagland homestead at the head of the Plainfield avenue hill seventy-six years ago. There were twelve children in the family, the late Peter Hoagland, the expressman, being a brother. Mr. Hoagland went West to engage in farming and had followed it nearly all the time he was in Illinois and Wisconsin. He was married twice, his first wife being Miss Annie Voorhees, of this city, a sister to Mrs. John H. Tier, of Bank place. The burial was made at Menominee.

Mrs. Freelove S. Staats.

Mrs. Freelove S. Staats, aged sixty-six years, died Saturday night at her home, 21 Elm place, from neuralgia of the heart. She was the daughter of John L. and Rebecca M. Laing, and had lived in Plainfield all her life. She was a faithful member of Trinity Reformed church and always attended the services when able to do so. She was the mother of Mrs. Elias H. Bird, Mrs. Edward T. VanWinkle and sister of Voorhees Laing, of East Front street, and Mrs. Oscar Ulrick, E. Fifth street. He had lived in this city about twenty years. Last fall he moved to Quincy, Mass., where he continued to reside. He had been ill with a complication of diseases for some time. During his residence here he attended the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church. He is survived by a wife.

John J. Conklin.

The funeral service of John J. Conklin, of Springdale, who died at his late home yesterday will be held at the Springdale M. E. church Tuesday afternoon, March 14, at 2 o'clock.

Lewis D. Holmes.

Following a week's illness with pneumonia, Lewis D. Holmes died Saturday afternoon at his home on Grandview avenue. He was born in Rhode Island fifty-eight years ago but had lived in Plainfield thirty-seven years, following the carpenter's trade. He was a member and regular attendant of Trinity Reformed church. He belonged to Plainfield Council, No. 711, R. A. Surviving him are a widow and two daughters, Mrs. Clarence L. Thorn and Miss Achsah Holmes. The funeral will be held from his late home tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

LITERARY.

Stories, descriptive articles and drawings by several San Franciscans appear in Sunset Magazine for March, which is an unusually attractive number of this wide-awake western magazine. Among the local contributors are noted Maynard Dixon, V. J. Waterhouse, Dr. Alfred Emerson, John Hamilton Gilmour, J. C. Simpson, John D. McGillivray, Wallace Everett, Charles K. Field, Professor Alexander McAdie, Gelett Burgess, Albert Bancroft (Mrs. James Steele Reid), T. Wesley Wright and Isabel Fraser. Here, also Dr. A. Emerson, formerly of Berkeley, now of the Chicago Art Institute, tells for the first time the interesting story of California's Etruscan Museum. Professor McAdie, of the United States Weather Bureau, tells of the method by which the world is weighed; Mrs. Mary L. Cheney, appointment secretary of the University of California, tells of the superiority of the California high school system over that of Massachusetts, and E. S. Harrison writes of the railways and reindeer of Alaska.

Thomas Breese and John Collins have resumed their former positions at the Poser Press Company Plant.

The new building to be erected by The Plainfield Trust Company, at Park avenue and West Second street, will undoubtedly be furnished with vaults by the Manganese Steel Safe Company.

William Nichols, who is employed by the Campbell Company, has just completed installing in the office of the New York Sun, one of the large auto plate machines made by this firm. He is to remain in charge of it for a few weeks while the employes of the paper become thoroughly acquainted with its workings. These machines cost $35,000 each and are one of the greatest of the modern improvements in the mechanical department of a large newspaper plant. The New York Herald has three of them, the World one and is soon to get another.

JOS. M. TITSWORTH ASPHYXIATED

Treasurer of the Potter Press Company Found Dead in His Bed.

GAS STOVE RESPONSIBLE

Son-in-Law of the Late Charles Potter Meets An Untimely End—Married Man With Children.

Joseph M. Titsworth, for many years a prominent resident of the city and treasurer of the Potter Printing Press Co., was found dead in bed at his home on West Seventh street at 10 o'clock this morning, having been asphyxiated some time during the night by the fumes from a gas stove.

He retired as usual last evening but failed to appear for breakfast and when he continued to absent himself, a servant went to his room. The body was in the bed and to all appearances death had come while he was quietly sleeping. Dr. T. E. Davis, who was passing at the time, was called in, and Dr. P. J. Zeglio, the family physician, was also summoned. They found that life had been extinct for several hours.

Mr. Titsworth has not been in good health recently, but retired last evening feeling quite well, according to members of his family. He had evidently failed to turn the gas entirely off, and while the window was open as he usually left it. The escaping gas caused asphyxiation. His brother, Arthur L. Titsworth, heard him during the night and it was probably after that time that he turned off the gas to retire. At 10 o'clock this morning a servant called to waken him, and getting no response, opened the door and found him unconscious.

Sketch of His Life.

Mr. Titsworth was the son of the late Rudolph M. Titsworth and was born in Plainfield in 1849. He leaves two daughters, Mrs. Frank J. Hubbard and Miss Ethel Titsworth, now in Smith College. His brother, Arthur L. Titsworth, also survives him. He was for many years connected with The Potter Printing Press Company and was treasurer of the concern at this time. He was a member of the Seventh-Day Baptist church and was connected with several of the business interests of that denomination. Notices of the final services will be given in tomorrow's issue.

BILLS INTRODUCED IN THE LEGISLATURE

MEASURES OF GENERAL INTEREST PRESENTED YESTERDAY.

Among the important bills introduced in the Legislature yesterday, were these:

Mr. Scovel, of Camden. Authorizes publication in two newspapers of annual financial statements of towns, etc., under 12,000 population. (Towns and townships.)

Mr. McKee. Imposes a tax of twenty-five per cent. on the business of any "trading stamp" company operating in this State. Tax to be paid to the State Comptroller. (Revision of laws.)

Mr. Hulse. Provides that all cities other than those of the first-class may form a relief fund or pension association to pension firemen, their widows, dependent parents and children. (Municipal corporations.)

FLOMERFELT JURY DIVIDED.

The jury in the Flomerfelt case at Somerville retired yesterday afternoon and at 2:15 this afternoon was still out. The indications are that they will fail to reach a verdict as in the various ballots they have been evenly divided.

Miss Josephine Lapsley, of First place, is the guest of friends in Boston, for a few days.

Miss Anna Murphy, of the Jackson building, who has been spending several days in Washington, has returned home.

—The condition of City Treasurer William F. Arnold remains unchanged today.

BASEBALL TEAM FOR Y. M. C. A. THIS YEAR

ASSOCIATION WILL HAVE GOOD TEAM ON THE DIAMOND.

It is now an assured fact that the Y. M. C. A. will be represented on the diamond by a baseball team this season. It is the intention of the committee to put a first class amateur nine in the field. If it can be done without additional expense to the association a league will undoubtedly be run under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., and will include Dunellen, Clinton Avenue, Orange Field Club and the Y. M. C. A. aggregations.

As to material, nothing can be said previous to the meeting tomorrow night, when candidates will present themselves and a detailed plan of action will be outlined. The committee has already selected the manager, appointing Physical Director F. A. Henckel to that position. Mr. Henckel is a capable manager, knows the game and is a favorite. The Physical Work committee is composed of the physical director, L. R. Thurlow, John Doane and Mr. Randolph.

NO BASEBALL TEAM FOR SCOTCH PLAINS

PROPOSED COMBINATION WITH THE AEOLIANS HAS FALLEN THROUGH.

The prospects of a baseball team at Scotch Plains this season now seems to be poor. Two weeks ago a combination of the Aeolian and 'Plains club was talked of. A meeting was held between representatives of both clubs and plans were discussed by which it would be an easy matter to bring the "organ grinders" under the combination banner. But interest in the game at 'Plains is at a low ebb and it is thought that the necessary money needed to launch the venture could not be raised unless the same "fever" could be aroused as two years ago, when the town was backing a game that was costing nearly $125 per week.

That it was done successfully was shown by the balance of nearly $300 in the treasury at the close of the season, but those days are past and only remain a pleasant memory to the rooters. The grandstands were sold last season and the treasury balance wiped out. This would mean that the "fans" would have to begin all over again and the amount of money needed would not warrant them in trying to raise with the small amount of interest manifested. So it is good-bye to the National game at the 'Plains for some time.

FALSE ALARM.

Severe Punishment in Store for Culprits If They Are Captured.

Breaking one of the new glass fronts recently put in by Chief Doane, some malicious person turned in a false alarm from box 47, opposite the Pond Tool Company's Works, shortly after 7 o'clock last night. The Chief and the department were soon on the scene but no fire could be found or no one who had seen the glass broken.

The act was evidently the work of young men and the police department has been asked to assist in running down the culprits. For such offenses the punishment is severe, four years being the minimum sentence, and Chief Doane declares it will be enforced once an arrest has been made. The local department has been particularly free from such dangerous acts, this being but the third false alarm that has been turned in since the present system was installed. In neither of the previous instances was the perpetrator caught although Chief Doane spent months in personally running down clues.

Fighting the Hen Trust.

"How to Make Hens Lay," was the subject of a very interesting paper discussed by the Somerset County Board of Agriculture at a meeting held in Somerville on Saturday. Among those who took part in the discussion were Grant Davis, of Whitehouse; Assistant Prosecutor Frederick Pope, Rev. Dr. LaFevre, of Somerville, and Hubert P. Phillips, of North Plainfield. Mr. Phillips exhibited some fine potatoes from a patch in which he had grown 200 bushels to an acre.

CROSS GETS JUDGESHIP

President Sends Union Co. Man's Name to Senate.

KEAN IS SPONSER

State Senator to Have the U. S. District Court Judgeship, Recently Created—His Career.

President Roosevelt has sent to the Senate the name of State Senator Joseph Cross, of Union county, to be United States District Court Judge for the district of New Jersey. Congress has just passed a measure giving an additional judgeship to New Jersey, Judge Lanning being the sole incumbent at present. United States Senator John Kean presented Senator Cross's name to the President and his action met with hearty approval.

Joseph Cross was born near Morristown December 29, 1843, and graduated from Princeton College in 1865. Immediately thereafter he began the study of law in the office of William J Magie, Esq. He also took a course of lectures at Columbia College Law School, and was admitted to practice as an attorney-at-law in June, 1868, and as counsellor in 1871.

Upon his admission to the bar he was taken into partnership by his preceptor, under the firm name of Magie & Cross, which relation existed until 1880, when Mr. Magie was appointed one of the justices of the Supreme Court.

Mr. Cross has resided in Elizabeth since the spring of 1858, and has always been a staunch Republican. In 1888 he was appointed a judge of the District Court of the city of Elizabeth, but in common with all the other Republican District Court judges of the State was legislated out of office in April, 1891.

Mr. Cross was elected a member of the Assembly from Union County in the fall of 1893, and again in 1894 When Speaker Holt resigned the chair, May 26, 1894, Mr. Cross was chosen his successor for the remainder of the session. In 1895 he was re-elected Speaker by the unanimous vote of his Republican colleagues. In November, 1898, he was elected Senator to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Senator Voorhees, who had been nominated as the Republican candidate for Governor.

He was re-elected to the Senate for a full term in 1899, and again in 1902. Last year he was the leader of his party on the floor of the Senate when he served as chairman of several of the most important committees. This year he was elected President of the Senate.

Fainted in Church.

While attending the funeral services of Rev. Dr. David J. Yerkes at the First Baptist church, yesterday afternoon, Mrs. N. W. French, of West Fourth street, fainted away in attempting to leave the edifice from the gallery where she had a seat. It was quite warm in the church and feeling oppressed Mrs. French started to leave. Dr Norman H. Probasco promptly rendered assistance and in a few minutes Mrs. French was revived. She was taken home.

Alleged Murderer Taken With Fit.

While standing in his cell at the county jail Sunday night, George H. Wood, the New York man accused of the murder of George Williams, the Watchung grocer, suddenly fell face downward on the stone floor being attacked by vertigo Dr. A. L. Still well reached the jail half an hour after Wood fell and he found the prisoner dazed. Wood said his mind was a blank from the time he was standing at the door until he saw the doctor beside him.

In the City Court.

Yesterday's session of the city court disposed of the following cases: William Newman and Robert Evans, violations of the back ordinance, each fined $3; John Cuff, arrested by Patrolman Messler for drunkenness, fined and paid $5; William Martin, of Raritan, drunkenness, twenty days.

WOMEN'S CLUB EVENT

Monday Afternoon Club Represented at Westfield Affair.

MRS. HALL SPOKE

Metuchen, Cranford and Roselle Delegates Attended—Tea Followed.

The Women's Club, of Westfield, celebrated its tenth anniversary yesterday afternoon. Mrs Robert Lowry, the president, and Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, represented the Monday Afternoon Club, of Plainfield. The clubs of Metuchen, Cranford and Roselle also sent delegates to the meeting, which was a very enjoyable one.

Mrs. Robinson, president of the Westfield Club, presided gracefully over the occasion, and received, on behalf of the society, an ivory gavel bound with silver, the gift of former presidents. The fact that this club has existed ten years without a gavel, shows that the members possess the spirit of order to a marked degree. Mrs. Anderson, of Newburg, president of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, made an interesting address, telling of the work of the State body.

As Mrs. Lowery was detained by the funeral of Dr. Yerkes, until a late hour, Mrs. Hall spoke for the Plainfield Club, and expressed her gratification at the growth and progress of the Westfield Society. She reminded her hearers that the Monday Afternoon Club of Plainfield, being older than the Federation, the Westfield and the Jersey City clubs, had had the honor of contributing certain features to the constitutions of these bodies. Mrs. Hall was at that time, chairman of correspondence of the General Federation for New Jersey.

Mrs. Bance read an excellent paper on "American Women of the Eighteenth Century," which was supplemented by a loan exhibit of dresses, silver, crockery, etc., of that period.

A social hour, with tea and refreshments, including a handsome birthday cake, followed. There were lilies of the-valley, violets and potted plants decorating the assembly room, the meeting being held in the Presbyterian chapel. Letters from former presidents were read. The Westfield Woman's Club now has one hundred members, and is a flourishing organization. In addition to their literary work, the women are interested especially in the public schools of the town, and in the public library.

INDULT FOR LENT RENEWED BY POPE

ANNOUNCEMENT READ IN ST. JOSEPH'S CHURCH ON SUNDAY.

The request to Pope Pius for the renewal of the special dispensations during the Lenten season has been granted. This announcement has been made from the Bishop's house and was read in all the Catholic churches of Trenton diocese, including St. Joseph's church in North Plainfield yesterday, as follows:

"The indult of the holy see, which expired March 15, 1900, has been renewed. By it the bishops of the United States are empowered to dispense from the common law of abstinence when they judge is expedient. Right Rev. Bishop McFaul therefore permits working people who cannot easily abstain from flesh meat to use it once a day on all abstinence days throughout the year, with the exception, however, of all Fridays, Ash Wednesday and Saturday of holy week and the vigil of Christmas.

"This dispensation is granted to working people, and the members of their families share in it, but it does not exempt from fasting where such an obligation exists, nor does it permit the use of fish or flesh meat at the same meal. When the faithful avail themselves of this indult they should perform some penitential work as a substitute for the dispensation enjoyed. A most useful and commendable custom is that of abstaining, especially during Lent, from stimulants in honor of the sacred thirst of our divine Savior."

Dance at Bound Brook.

The eighth annual ball under the auspices of Council No. 1, A. O. H., of Somerset County, will be held in Bound Brook hall on Friday night. Eugene O'Reilly, of this city, with a full orchestra, will furnish the music.

LAST WOMAN HANGED

Valentina Conviction Recalls a New Market Murder Case.

BACK IN THE 60'S

Bridget Durgan Suffered Death Penalty for Killing Dr. Corteil's Wife—Plainfielder, Hangman.

The final verdict of the higher courts that Anna Valentina, now confined in the Bergen County jail as Hackensack, must go to the gallows for the murder of Rosa Colucci, brings to mind that the last woman hanged in New Jersey was Bridget Durgan who perpetrated at New Market one of the most heinous crimes in the annals of the State's criminology. She forfeited her life at New Brunswick in the late 60's and from the sensationalism attached to all the proceedings widespread attention and comment was attracted at the time. Her execution was a bungling affair and it was perhaps due to her torturesome death that since that time no woman has been sent to the gallows although many have been convicted of murder in the first degree and are now serving sentences in the penitentiary at Trenton.

Bridget Durgan was a middle aged spinster, employed as a kitchen servant in the home of Dr. C. H. Corteil, at New Market, his residence still standing on the right side of the main road from Dunellen near the Lehigh Valley tracks. She was repulsive in appearance and unattractive in manner, but was a competent servant, and for that reason became a fixture in the physician's family.

Eventually she developed an infatuation for the Doctor and grew to be insanely jealous of his wife, although Mrs. Corteil was a most estimable woman and an indulgent mistress toward her servants. One day when the Doctor was absent the Durgan woman assailed Mrs. Corteil, and after calling her vile names and charging her with absurd offences declared she meant to put her out of the way.

Mrs. Corteil fled in terror to the upper part of the house and the servant followed armed with a big bread knife. Frantic with fear, Mrs. Corteil seized a pillow from one of the beds and attempted to shield herself from the attacks of the infuriated servant. The Durgan woman, however, slashed at the pillow and cut it to pieces and then her mistress was at her mercy. An hour later the Doctor returned and found his wife dead from thirty stab wounds and the room marked with evidences of the crime.

The Durgan woman made no denial of the crime, and rather seemed to enjoy the fact that her fancied rival had been killed She was arrested, committed to jail, and in due time arraigned. She was ably defended, but there was no evidence offered in her behalf and she was speedily convicted and sentenced to be hanged.

The execution is interesting locally in another way from the fact that the deputy sheriff who assisted in adjusting the noose about the wretched woman's neck and swinging her into Eternity was Captain Samuel Randolph, of West Fourth street. He had been then residing at Dunellen but when Sheriff Clarkson sought his services he removed to New Brunswick. Several weeks previous to the Durgan hanging, he went to Camden to execute a murderer and returning to New Brunswick, carried the noose with him. It was used for a second time on a colored man who expiated a crime a few days before Bridget Durgan ascended the scaffold and lastly it was brought into service on her.

Randolph retained the noose and it was at his home until two years ago when in removing some furniture it became mislaid. The owner searched for it unceasingly but the nearest he ever came to finding it was information that the van driver had used a rope like it in tieing a couch on the back of his vehicle.

Conference Not Concerning Reed.

Mayor Newton B. Smalley said today that the name of former Senator Charles A. Reed was not mentioned at his meeting with Col. Joseph Frelinghuysen, Republican chairman of Somerset County, in New York on Saturday. Mayor Smalley did not enter into the report that peace overtures were being made, but stated that he saw Mr. Frelinghuysen on business. Senator Reed's name is coupled with the Somerset County judgeship. Mayor Smalley says the Senator does not want the position. The conference in question took place at the New York Athletic Club, and it is reported that there were some political bouts before adjournment.

STOCK EXCHANGE FOR ELIZABETH?

JOHN W. WHELAN SAID REPORT WAS STARTED BY MEMBERS AS A JOKE.

Former City Treasurer John W. Whelan yesterday denied the story that Elizabeth expected the Stock Exchange to move from New York to Elizabeth. He said the rumor was a canard and had been started Saturday night as a joke. Everybody would like to see it moved to Elizabeth, but Mr. Whelan thought there was absolutely no chance for such a transfer.

The cause assigned for the change is the contemplative legislative action on a bill pending at Albany, which would impose a tax on all transfers of stock on the exchange. Another reason for the alleged removal was the indignation of those who have been forced to pay from $60,000 to $85,000 for a seat in the circle of the selected few.

There had been some talk of removing it to Jersey City, but Elizabeth bulls and bears said it was a "bluff all around."

REV. DR. YERKES' FUNERAL

Many Fellow Ministers From Here and Elsewere Present.

CHURCH THRONGED

Mayor Buckle Represented the City—Prominent Citizens in the Congregation.

The high esteem in which the Rev. Dr. David J. Yerkes was held in this community found true expression yesterday afternoon in the great outpouring of people of all stations in life at the funeral services held at the First Baptist church, of which he was the beloved pastor for nearly forty years. The laity and the clergy of all denominations united in one common bond of sympathy and love for one who had been so closely identified with all that was good and best in the religious interests of Plainfield. The services were held at 3:15 o'clock, but fully an hour before that time the large edifice was filled with mourners and when the cortege arrived at the church, there was scarcely standing room for all those who wished to be present. Not only did the pastors in this city attend, but there were many Baptist ministers from distant and nearby cities, who had known Dr. Yerkes for years and had always admired him for his sterling qualities and exemplary life.

First Baptist Church.

The funeral cortege in entering the church was preceded by Rev. Dr. J. A. Chamblies, the pastor, and President Rush Rhees, of Rochester University, a life-long friend of the departed pastor. As they proceeded up the aisle, Dr. Chamblies read aloud appropriate Scripture selections, while Howard Case, at the organ, rendered an impressive dirge. Following the pastor and President Rhees, were the honorary pall-bearers, Frank W. Jones, George F. Brown, L. W. Randolph, E. L. Bonny, H. E. Needham, Dr. J. B. Probasco and George H. Batcheler, deacons of the church, and behind them the remains were borne on the shoulders of six porters. The bier was almost covered with beautiful flowers and wreaths of galax leaves.

The members of the Plainfield Ministers' Association, of which Dr. Yerkes was an honored member, entered in a body. They included the Revs. Dr. A. H. Lewis, Erskine M. Rodman, Charles E. Herring, Theophilus Bond, George H. Whitney, J. B. Bryan, J. P. Taylor, Cornelius Sobenck, W. O. Hubbell, L. R. Howard, F. D. Tildon, J. S. Zelie, W. C. Snedgrass, John W. Musson, A. E. Finn, George Mooney, Edward Love, L. T. Lindholm, George B. Shaw and Charles L. Goodrich.

Then followed the immediate relatives and close personal friends who occupied seats reserved for them in the front part of the edifice.

Rev. Dr. J. A. Chamblies, was in charge of the service, which was simple and impressive. The full choir of twenty-one voices opened the service with a sweet rendition of Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar." There was a short prayer by Dr. Chamblies, followed with the singing of "How Firm a Foundation," by the choir, and after the reading of Scripture selections by the pastor, the choir sang "My Peace I Leave With You." There was additional Scripture reading and a prayer by President Rhees. In an earnest petition to Almighty God, he referred to the beautiful life just closed and he invoked divine blessing on the bereaved family, as well as pastor and people. At the conclusion of the prayer, the choir sang "Rock of Ages."

While the mourners were seated the remains were borne to the vestibule of the church and there all were given an opportunity as they passed out to take a final look on the face of the departed one.

In the profusion of floral tributes was to be seen another strong testimonial of love and esteem. The pulpit platform was completely hidden by a wealth of flowers. From the

2D ANNUAL CONCERT BY SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

EXCELLENT PROGRAMME AT PARK AVENUE BAPTIST CHURCH.

Orchestral music and violin and 'cello solos delighted a large audience at the Park Avenue Baptist church last night on the occasion of the second annual concert of the Plainfield Symphony Orchestra. The main auditorium of the church was packed and the seats were used in the Sunday-school room at the rear. The soloists were Miss Florence Wohlfert, violin, and W. Paulding DeNike, 'cello. Both were greeted with their usual reception, and were encored after both numbers. Miss Wohlfert's playing was excellent, her expression being distinctly marked, and her rendition perfect. Mr. DeNike was as popular as ever and responded generously to encores.

Of the selections by the orchestra, "In Old Alabama," a characteristic piece by Cruger, and Wagner's 'Pilgrim's Chorus," were especially well played. The orchestra was under the direction of Kenneth Shupp, who deserves credit for the excellence of the concert.

The members of the orchestra were O. Kenneth Shupp, conductor; first violins, Arthur Mosher, concert master; Joseph Satteis, Ernest Higham, George Spier, Dyckman Winckler; second violin, Maurice Audsley, Dr. W. F. Gaston, William Gaston; viola, G. W. V. Mey; flutes, Elmer Wheeler, Charles Shupp, Archibald Hallard; clarinet, James Hewitt; cornets, Whitney Frazee, John Emery; trombone, Garret T. Dunham; double bass, Dr. J. H. Buchanan, Jacob Byer; piano, V. G. Sokol; pipe organ, H. J. Harold.

Memorial Service Date.

It has not yet been decided whether the memorial service for Rev. Dr. David J. Yerkes will be held on Tuesday, March 28, or Thursday, March 30, but it will undoubtedly be held on one of those two dates. Those in charge of the plans will have a conference in a short time to decide the matter.

Suburban Boys Won.

Three games were rolled last night on the Suburban Club alleys, Fanwood, between the Suburban and Scotch Plains' second teams. The Plains' boys took the first game, the Suburban boys won the second by one pin and took the third by a total score of 110.

SNAP SHOTS.

New Jersey's strange and wonderful hadrosaurus, which interested thousands of visitors at the St. Louis exposition, has arrived at the State House at Trenton, and under the direction of Curator Morse and State Geologist Kummel is being prepared for permanent exhibition in the museum. When completed visitors to the Capitol will see what kind of gigantic animals roamed the State before the Indian war whoop was heard or the white man put his foot on Jersey soil. The hadrosaurus is a plaster reproduction of the skeleton of the reptile of the same name exhumed on the farm of John H. Hopkins, near Haddonfield, in 1857. The original skeleton is in the museum of the Academy of Science at Philadelphia, and is the most perfect fossil specimen of the prehistoric animal ever found. The model at the State House is full size and is 28 feet long. It is being erected on a platform in what is supposed to have been a natural pose of the reptile, showing it standing on its hind legs, reaching up to devour the twigs of a tree. It will stand about 16 feet high. Another curio has been received for the museum by Mr. Morse. It is an albino squirrel with pure white fur and pink eyes. It was shot by Lewis Stackhouse of Newton, Sussex County, last fall. It has been stuffed and mounted, and is in one of the new cases in the museum. Such specimens are a great rarity and Curator Morse says New Jersey is fortunate in securing one.

A number of new editorial features are included in the March number, which has just been issued, among them being a striking series of photographs of anglers at work, in every section of the United States. There are a great many well-written stories of the forest, the field and the stream, with many hints for the users of rod and reel. TALKS TO MOTHERS

President Roosevelt's Address at National Congress.

PLAIN WORDS ON RACE SUICIDE

Advice to Wives and Matrons as to the Rearing of Their Children by Head of the State, Who Said Childlessness Is a Crime.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—Before the National Congress of Mothers, in session here, President Roosevelt delivered a notable address upon the duty of the woman to the state, in which he denounced "race suicide" with his accustomed vigor. The president said in part:

The welfare of the state depends absolutely upon whether or not the average family, the average man and woman and their children, represent the kind of citizenship fit for the foundation of a great nation, and if we fail to appreciate this we fail to appreciate the root morality upon which all healthy civilization is based.

Just as the happiest and most honorable and most useful task that can be set any man is to earn enough for the support of his wife and family, for the bringing up and starting in life of his children, so the most important, the most honorable and desirable task which can be set any woman is to be a good and wise mother in a home marked by self respect and mutual forbearance, by willingness to perform duty and by refusal to sink into self indulgence or avoid that which entails effort and self sacrifice.

I do not in the least believe in the patient Griselda type of woman, in the woman who submits to gross and long continued ill treatment, any more than I believe in a man who tamely submits to wrongful aggression. No wrongdoing is so abhorrent as wrongdoing by a man toward the wife and the children who should arouse every tender feeling in his nature. Selfishness toward them, lack of tenderness toward them, lack of consideration for them—above all, brutality in any form toward them—should arouse the heartiest scorn and indignation in every upright soul.

I believe in the woman keeping her self respect just as I believe in the man doing so. I believe in her rights just as much as I believe in the man's and, indeed, a little more, and I regard marriage as a partnership in which each partner is in honor bound to think of the rights of the other as well as of his or her own. But I think that the duties are even more important than the rights, and in the long run I think that the reward is ampler and greater for duty well done than for the insistence upon individual rights, necessary though this, too, must often be. Your duty is hard, your responsibility great, but greatest of all is your reward. I do not pity you in the least. On the contrary, I feel respect and admiration for you.

Into the woman's keeping is committed the destiny of the generations to come after us. In bringing up your children you mothers must remember that while it is essential to be loving and tender it is no less essential to be wise and firm. Foolishness and affection must not be treated as interchangeable terms, and besides training your sons and daughters in the softer and milder virtues you must seek to give them those stern and hardy qualities which in after life they will surely need. Some children will go wrong in spite of the best training, and some will go right even when their surroundings are most unfortunate; nevertheless an immense amount depends upon the family training.

If you mothers through weakness bring up your sons to be selfish and to think only of themselves you will be responsible for much sadness among the women who are to be their wives in the future. If you let your daughters grow up idle, perhaps under the mistaken impression that as you yourselves have had to work hard they shall know only enjoyment, you are preparing them to be useless to others and burdens to themselves. Teach boys and girls alike that they are not to look forward to lives spent in avoiding difficulties, but to lives spent in overcoming difficulties.

Teach them that work for themselves and also for others is not a curse, but a blessing; seek to make them happy, to make them enjoy life, but seek also to make them face life with the steadfast resolution to wrest success from labor and adversity and to do their whole duty before God and to man. Surely she who can thus train her sons and her daughters is thrice fortunate among women.

There are many good people who are denied the supreme blessing of children, and for these we have the respect and sympathy always due to those who, from no fault of their own, are denied any of the other great blessings of life. But the man or woman who deliberately foregoes these blessings, whether from viciousness, coldness, shallow heartedness, self indulgence or mere failure to appreciate aright the difference between the all important and the unimportant—why, such a creature merits contempt as hearty as any visited upon the soldier who runs away in battle or upon the man who refuses to work for the support of those dependent upon him and who, though able-bodied, is yet content to eat in idleness the bread which others provide.

I actually read not long ago in a certain paper an article in which a clergyman was quoted, seemingly with approval, as expressing the general American attitude when he said that the ambition of any save a very rich man should be to rear two children only, so as to give his children an opportunity "to taste a few of the good things of life."

This man, whose profession and calling should have made him a moral teacher, actually set before others the ideal not of training children to do their duty, not of sending them forth with stout hearts and ready minds to win triumphs for themselves and their country, not of allowing them the opportunity and giving them the privilege of making their own place in the world, but, forsooth, of keeping the number of children so limited that they might "taste a few good things!"

A HOPE FOR PEACE

Russian Disaster at Mukden May End War.

CZAR AWARE JAPAN DESIRES IT

Recall of Rojestvensky May Mean That St. Petersburg Is Ready to Accept Mikado's Conditions and Stop Hostilities.

LONDON, March 14.—St. Petersburg dispatches say that a Russian official close to the czar has expressed the opinion that Russia will be forced to ask for peace in view of Kuropatkin's defeat.

There is high authority for the statement that the Russian second Pacific squadron has been recalled by the Russian government. While not regarded as a sure sign of peace, the recall of Admiral Rojestvensky's squadron in the opinion of European chancelleries is regarded as a hopeful sign that peace is at hand.

Another diplomat has expressed the opinion that the field of battle would be the scene of the first negotiations between the belligerents looking to peace. However secret the negotiations, it is declared that the United States, Great Britain, Germany and France are keenly on the alert for just such a development and would promptly demand the terms of the agreement for their inspection.

When the czar calls his war council today he will be able to inform them that Japan will welcome peace on reasonable terms and will promptly name her conditions provided she receives trustworthy assurances that they will be seriously considered.

This the emperor has learned from friendly chancelleries in Europe as well as the general terms acceptable to Japan. These, it is said, include the retention by Japan of Port Arthur, a Japanese protectorate over Korea and an indemnity.

Briefly these were reports current in the diplomatic corps, and as a result of this important information it is believed that Russia and Japan are on the verge of peace. If it be true that the second Pacific squadron has been recalled even the most optimistic of Russia's friends admit that this is a strong indication that Oyama's mighty blow has made for peace.

The small portion of the Russian army which General Kuropatkin had gathered along the banks of the Shakhe and Hun rivers that has reached Tie pass is worn out from many days of fighting and retreating and is not yet out of danger, the Japanese, it is reported, having already started another turning movement which will force the Russians on to the plains north of Tie pass, where in their disorganized state they would be easy prey for the victory flushed soldiers of the mikado.

A report from General Kuroki's army in the field, northeast of Mukden, says:

"Every hour increases the magnitude of the disaster suffered by the Russian armies. Now 25,000 dead are known to have been left on the field, making the casualties at least 100,000. Between fifty and sixty thousand prisoners, some seventy guns and enormous quantities of ammunition and provisions fell into the hands of the Japanese. The Japanese losses do not exceed those of former great battles, even General Kuroki's army losing only 5,000.

"Field Marshal Oyama's plans deceived General Kuropatkin. The Russian commander misjudged the positions and the strength of the Japanese. He at first thought that General Nogi's Port Arthur army was pressing his east flank and concentrated a great force there. This force he was afterward obliged to shift to Mukden, where it arrived in a state of exhaustion after a forced march and was unable to fight.

"A retreat from Mukden began on March 9. It became a demoralized flight when the Russians discovered that their egress was blocked by Japanese infantry and artillery from the east. The rapid approach of the Japanese was a complete surprise to the Russians, who expected that their retreat would be harassed only by the Japanese cavalry from the westward.

"Saturday morning one division of Japanese encountered several Russian regiments retreating along the road to Tie pass. The Japanese descended from the hills on the Russians, who attempted to break through the line. After a sharp engagement, in which the Japanese guns did great execution, 4,000 Russians surrendered, with their guns. The Japanese lost a hundred men.

"According to stories told by captured Russian officers and the appearance produced by their troops, the retreat lacks organization, every battalion shifting for itself."

Emperor Nicholas has summoned a war council for today at which the whole situation will be considered.

The report that Kuropatkin has asked to be recalled is not confirmed in any reliable quarter.

It will be difficult to find a capable successor for him. It is said now that probably General Grodekoff, governor of the Amur, will be chosen, although in casting about for another commander in chief some military officials are turning to General Dragomiroff, who is considered to be Russia's greatest strategist.

Zemstvos Make Demands.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 14.—In the midst of all the confusion incident to the defeat of the Russian army in Manchuria there is no pause in the great reform movement. The zemstvos of various governments at a meeting held in Moscow, and the Moscow douma have telegraphed Interior Minister Bouligan a request, which is practically a demand, that they be represented on the commission formed under the imperial rescript, and other local organizations are preparing to follow their lead.

Terrorists Active at Moscow.

MOSCOW, March 14.—Further terrorist attempts are reported. Lieutenant Kouloff of the Volga Cossacks has been mortally injured by revolutionaries in the courtyard of his house at Kremenchug. It is supposed, in revenge for his share in suppressing the disorders here.

CORDOVA ON TRIAL.

Companion of Eloping Minister's Flight Tells Her Story.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., March 14.—Miss Julia Bowne, the star witness in the famous Cordova case, was called late yesterday afternoon, at the trial here. She was brought in by Sheriff Carman, heavily veiled. She took the witness stand without raising the veil. Lawyer Cook advised her not to answer a question as to her being with Cordova from May 17 to July 8, as it would degrade her.

Judge Strong ruled against her. Miss Bowne said she could not remember. To every question as to Cordova and herself she said:

"I don't remember." She finally said she was with Cordova, but she could not remember for how long. She was in Washington with him. She went from New York there with him and from New York to Mexico and back again. She identified letters he wrote.

Cordova cried when Miss Bowne was on the stand testifying. He sobbed loudly when Miss Bowne was asked questions she did not care to answer.

Earlier in the day the Rev. J. F. Cordova was brought to book for abandoning his wife and three children for the pretty soprano of the choir in the little Methodist church at South River, five miles from here, where he worked and preached.

Mrs. Cordova was the first to take the witness stand and testify against her husband. While she was in the witness stand the prisoner watched her unceasingly. As she told of his desertion of her the steady glance never wavered. The woman kept her eyes away from the man who had ill used and deserted her.

Aroused by his wife's testimony, Cordova jumped to his feet in the courtroom and cried to the witness, his wife:

"You lie; that is a lie!"

The scene created the greatest excitement. Judge Strong and Prosecutor Berdine called for order repeatedly, but the spectators, who packed the courtroom to suffocation, could not be quieted until the police threw out more than a score.

Objection was made by Lawyer Cook to the offer of the book of discipline of the Methodist church as to the marriage vow. It was admitted, however. In reply to the court Mrs. Cordova said her husband was earning $700 a year at the time he left her.

There was a sensation when Cordova was led into the courtroom by two detectives. Practically all of the members of his former parish were present, and there were many adverse comments made that were not friendly, for sympathy for Mrs. Cordova is almost unanimous.

As Cordova was being led back to his cell he again made an attempt to see the girl.

Ian Maclaren Resigns For Rest.

LONDON, March 14.—The Rev. Dr. John Watson (Ian Maclaren) has resigned the pastorship of the Sefton Park Presbyterian church in Liverpool. In his farewell address Dr. Watson says he is worn out and cannot go on. He never had been strong, he says, and had to do his work with hindrances from bodily weariness, and now his strength is nearly exhausted.

Morris Canal Bill Hearing.

TRENTON, N. J., March 14.—The house committee on municipal corporations gave a hearing on the bill providing for the abandonment of the Morris canal. Varied interests were represented in opposition to the measure. Counsel for property owners at and about Lake Hopatcong made strenuous appeals for amendment to the present bill.

Contract For Twin Tunnels Let.

PHILADELPHIA, March 14.—The Pennsylvania Railroad company has awarded the contract for the twin tunnels under the Bergen hills to a New York construction company. The Bergen hills tunnels will be about a mile and a quarter in length. They will form the entrance to the North river tunnel from the New Jersey side.

Clark Jewel Robber Punished.

COOPERSTOWN, N. Y., March 14.—William Coleman, whose theft of the Clark jewels from the office of the Clark estate in July last created a great sensation here, withdrew his plea of not guilty in court and was sentenced by Judge A. H. Sewell to six years and five months in Auburn prison.

Bribed With Fifty Cents.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 14.—W. H. Perry, who tried to vote illegally at the recent charter election here, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to two years in the penitentiary. Perry, who was a caricature poster, said he had accepted 50 cents to vote against the charter.

Corinth Hotel Damaged.

SARATOGA, N. Y., March 14.—The Central house at Corinth has been damaged to the extent of $5,000 by fire. Richard P. French of Saratoga, a guest, was rescued in a partially asphyxiated condition.

Azienza Specialties Co.,

Dear Sirs:—For over two years I have been troubled with inflamed and itching blotches on both feet. I have doctored and used any number of preparations which failed to cure. Azienza Cream, immediately after the first application, caused the soreness and itching to cease. After using two fifty-cent jars I am cured. I cannot speak of and recommend it too highly. Azienza Cream is a necessity in every household.

The Republicans were successful in the other municipal elections held in the state, electing mayors as follows: Augusta, Charles M. Hichborn; Biddeford, Nathaniel B. Walker; Belfast, Lendall T. Shales; Brewer, Hadley C. Clapp.

The steamer was refused clearance papers by the collector of customs at San Juan because she had on board 11 officers and 317 men of the Porto Rico regiment coming to the inauguration of President Roosevelt while her inspection certificate allowed her to carry only forty passengers.

STORM ON PACIFIC.

Los Angeles Bridge Swept Away With Fifteen Persons.

FLOOD CONDITIONS WORST KNOWN

Santa Monica Piers Destroyed—Long Beach Damaged—Trains on Many Roads Tied Up—Only One Wire Working.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 14.—The Seventh street bridge over the Los Angeles river collapsed last night, carrying with it into the flood swelled river twelve to fifteen persons, two of whom are believed to have been drowned.

Two unknown men went down with the bridge, and their bodies are thought to have been carried down the river. Mrs. Clara Webb of 216 East Seventh street was rescued from the flood, but was probably fatally hurt by falling timbers.

The high water in the river had attracted a number of sightseers to the bridge. The buttresses of the bridge had been weakened by the flood, and when a sudden swelling of the waters came the supports were carried away and the bridge collapsed. Clifford Linthal, who was on the bridge, said after he was rescued that two young men had stood beside him just before the bridge fell. He looked for the men afterward, but could see nothing of them.

The Ninth street bridge is on the point of giving way, and police are on guard to keep any persons from going upon the structure.

Flood conditions in Los Angeles and vicinity are the worst known in many years. Los Angeles river, flooded by tributaries from the mountains and from the high country, where heavy floods have occurred, is bank full and has reached the highest point known in thirteen years. Much loss has been sustained by the city from damaged streets, broken storm drains and sewers.

Along the coast various other towns have suffered. At Santa Monica two piers were destroyed, and the damage along the shore there is estimated at $200,000. At Long Beach the damage to the wharf and to small boats is estimated at $20,000.

Trains into Los Angeles on the Southern Pacific and the Santa Fe are stalled by washouts. Telegraph and telephone lines have been blown down by a high wind. The Western Union has one wire to Chicago, and all communication between Los Angeles and the outside world is carried on over this wire.

Gale on Pacific Coast.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 14.—A southwest gale, accompanied by rain and at some places with thunder, which has prevailed over the Pacific coast since Saturday, reached a climax when the wind at Point Reyes, near here, reached the velocity of 100 miles an hour. According to United States Forecast Official McAdie, there is no authentic record exceeding this.

Patrick Murder Case Opens.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 14.—The famous Patrick murder case opened here today and the court has settled down to hear arguments, expected to last at least two days. The defendant, Albert T. Patrick, was convicted of murder in the first degree on the charge of having brought about the death of William Marsh Rice, a New York millionaire, for whom he was confidential attorney. The prosecution alleges that Patrick devised the scheme by which Rice's valet, Charles F. Jones, chloroformed his master on a sickbed.

Some Disbelieve Murder Theory.

HONOLULU, March 14.—In the absence of further discoveries the case of the death of Mrs. Jane Lathrop Stanford at the Moana hotel here is resolving itself into a scientific controversy between chemists as well as between physicians. Some prominent persons here who do not desire to be quoted argue against the poisoning theory and believe that Mrs. Stanford died from natural causes.

Buried Under Tons of Coal.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., March 14.—Two men met instant death at the Stanton mine here. They were Edward McManiman and Charles Staley. Without warning forty feet of the coal chute gave way, and the men were buried under a mass of broken timbers and fifty tons of coal.

Colon Treasury Robbed.

Plainfield, N. J., March 14, 1905.

In a lecture on "Railroad Advertising" delivered at the University of Chicago last week, says an exchange, Charles S. Young, advertising manager of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway, declared that while alluring posters depicting the luxury of modern travel are very effective, railroads get better returns from newspaper advertising than from any other medium. As the big railroads spend from $100,000 to $800,000 a year for publicity, the opinions of their experts carry great weight. It is advertising that keeps the rust off the rails.

The selection of Joseph Cross, of Elizabeth, for the United States District Court judgeship recently created by Congress cannot fail to meet with hearty approval. A trained lawyer and a conservative, dignified and polished man he will be an ornament to the bench and will be a source of great credit to Union County. United States Senator John Kean, who has a faculty of looking out for the interests of his friends and is not a man of mere empty promises and selfish practices, is responsible for the appointment of the Union County Senator to the new berth in the judiciary. Senator Cross remained loyal to Kean and sacrificed his own personal interests at a time when needed by the Senior Senator of New Jersey. His reward comes while he fills the position of President of the State Senate and for the rest of his career he will hold a proud place on the bench of the Federal government.

Probably there has been no more unpopular act on the part of the Legislature of New Jersey in recent years than the abolition of the publication of all laws. To rush through bills and then not to give the people any satisfactory knowledge concerning the provisions of the same is harmful to the best interests of the State. Citizens of New Jersey should know something about the statutes made by their representatives at Trenton and the only way they can gain such information is through the public press. Their official publication would be productive of great good. What sane argument is there against printing the statutes? None except economy that we have ever heard of and this excuse is a poor one. Money spent judiciously in the interests of the whole people is never extravagance. Large amounts of public funds are used for less worthy objects. Cut out some of less useful appropriations and let the people know what is going on in the Legislative mill. From all quarters of the State comes the cry for publication. The Camden Post-Telegram says:

"A bill providing that synopses of the laws passed by the Legislature shall be published in a certain number of newspapers has been introduced in the House by Assemblyman Miller. It is practically the same bill that passed both houses of the Legislature two years ago, but failed to meet Governor Murphy's approval. The Post-Telegram said at that time and now repeats that it as a measure which should become a law. The people have a right to know what laws are enacted and that information can be best conveyed through the columns of newspapers, which are read by the masses. Need of economy was the excuse for stopping newspaper publication of the laws some years ago, the change effecting a saving of nearly $100,000 annually Under the present act the expenditure would not amount to more than $35,000, a sum which can well be spared for the purpose of enlightening the people as to the laws which they are expected and required to obey."

John Layton Dead.

John Layton, formerly of Plainfield, but for many years a resident of Brooklyn, died at his home on Sunday, March 5, after a long illness. For the past five years he was sightless. He was seventy-seven years old. He was a son of John Layton, who lived on East Second street, adjoining the entrance to the stable of the Plainfield Cab Company. He was a veteran of the Civil War and a brother of the late Josiah Layton. He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Theodore Allen, who lives at Peapack, Somerset County, and who is the last one in the family living at the present time.

trustees of the church there were American Beauty roses and lilies-of-the-valley in two large vases. The deacons gave a standing wreath of white roses and galax leaves, while from the Sunday-school there was an open Bible of violets and white flowers inside of which was a book mark with the words "God is Love" inscribed thereon. From the primary department there was a basket of sweet peas and pink roses, and the Men's Club gave a large set piece of Easter lilies and violets, on top of which there rested a white dove. The tribute from the family comprised a galax wreath with white roses and violets, tied with violet chiffon ribbon. A tribute of lilies and pink roses was received from the Mt. Olive Baptist church, and in addition there were a number of personal tributes, all of which were surrounded with beautiful palms.

In addition to those already mentioned as being present there were these well known divines: Rev. Dr. Robert Stuart MacArthur, of Calvary Baptist church, New York; Rev. Dr. T. E Vassar, of Elizabeth; Rev. Dr. Studdiford, of Trenton; Rev. C. J. Greenwood, of the Baptist church, Westfield; Rev. G. M. Shott, of Scotch Plains; Rev. Frank Fletcher, of the Baptist church, New Market; Rev. Edward Burr, of the Baptist church, Montclair; Rev. A. G. Lawson, of the Clinton Avenue Baptist church, Newark; Rev. C. H. Dodd, of the Peddie Memorial Baptist church, Newark, and Rev. W. G. Fennell, of the South Baptist church, Newark, and Rev. W. E. Honeyman and Rev. T. Logan Murphy, of this city. There were also present Mayor James F. Buckle and many other officials of this city, as well as those prominent in the business of this city and New York.

Those who served as ushers were Dr. Norman H. Probasco, John G. MacLaughlin, Samuel Case, Edgar I. Serrell, J. H. Crane, J. Herbert Case, N. Douglass Drake and Fred Armstrong.

The remains were conveyed to Hillside cemetery and placed in the receiving vault. They will be interred later in a family plot.

TWO GAMES AT Y. M. C. A.

1st Team Defeated Mt. Vernon and Business Men Won From 2d Team.

Two good basketball games attracted a large crowd at the Y. M. C. A. last night, when the first team of the association defeated the Mt. Vernon aggregation, and the Business Men's team won from the second Y. M. C. A. five. The first team displayed good fast basketball playing and made the score against the Mt. Vernon Y. M. C. A. 51 to 19. The score of the Business Men's game was 22 to 13.

The Mt. Vernon boys were clearly outclassed, and at times failed to take their defeat in the best manner. Smith and Hand were the strong points for the local team, while Gilmore also guarded well.

Spicer played well for the Business Men, throwing five baskets. Sheppard, of the opposing team, was also in good form. Collier was off his usual game. The line up of the Plainfield teams was as follows: First team, Smith, Hand, Scull, Gilmore and Uzinger; Business Men, Eagle, Spicer, Browning, Letson and Clark; second team, Barlow, Sheppard, Collier, Sebring and Hoagland.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINTIY.

It is officially stated that Manager James Dumphy's original plan of running an independent team in the borough, has been abandoned, and the two managements will combine in putting one of the best representative baseball aggregations on the diamond which has ever appeared under Dunellen colors. Mr. Dumphy will head the managerial end of the concern with Fred Vail, last season's manager, as assistant. Instead of running two opposing nines, all the best material will be combined and the borough will undoubtedly have a nine to be proud of. With a view to further investigating the material for the team, and looking into the financial situation, a meeting will be held tomorrow night. It has been decided to use the same grounds, the grandstands still being in place, and in the possession of the managers. The subject of repairs to the grounds will be discussed tomorrow night, and as soon as frost is out of the ground, the diamond will be put into condition.

An unknown man, and one so badly shaken up by drunkenness that recognition would be hard if he was known, was arrested on Front street, Saturday night, by the borough marhal. The man was supposed to have come from Bound Brook and the indications were that he had partaken of the bottle too freely on the way. His clothes were torn and his face badly scratched. After making considerable disturbance by demanding graft from local store-keepers he was finally closeted, and when brought up before Recorder Campbell, sentenced him to sixty days in jail.

The citizens of the borough have been notified that the annual election for four members of the Board of Education will be held on Tuesday, March 21. The date was decided upon at the recent meeting of the Board of Education. An appropriation for $200 to defray certain expenses on Lincoln School will also be voted for on that date.

The Holy Name Society, of St. John's church, held their regular monthly meeting Sunday evening at the conclusion of the regular church service. The meeting was largely attended and the usual business transacted. John McMann and John Fuchs were received into the membership of the society.

Rev. Mr. Brewer, of Trenton, who is interested in the work for the Children's Homes throughout the State, was the preacher at the morning service at the First Baptist church on Sunday. In the evening, he preached at the Presbyterian church.

The congregation of the First Baptist church will meet again tonight to further discuss the plans for improving the church edifie. After next Sunday the services will be held at the Seventh-Day Baptist church.

A business meeting will follow the regular service of the Y. P. S. C. E., of the First Baptist church, tomorrow night. The election of officers and annual reports will be received.

Dr. P. W. Brakeley has ordered a new stock of baseball goods for his store, anticipating a good season in the national sport.

James Vail, who was reported to have moved to Westfield, will continue to make his home in this borough.

A consultation of doctors was called in the case of Mrs. Jane Apgar, who is critically ill.

William Tabb was the guest of freinds in New Market Sunday.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Borough Collector Charles Sheelen now does his borough work with the aid of a typewriter, thanks to a thoughtful Commen Counicl. What is the matter with the township? The several officers have been "kicking" for this improvement for several years but so far without avail.

The Township Committee has again put an officer on duty at the trolley crossing on Sundays. Officer Pangborn's presence had the desired effect upon those who have been in the habit of running things. The improvement is one appreciated by the travelling public.

A meeting of the Woman's League, connected with the Industrial School, was held this afternoon in the Industrial rooms. Matters relating to the work of the school was the business transacted.

The Symphony Orchestra concert at the Park Avenue Baptist church, last night, was enjoyed by a large number of the music lovers from here.

F. J. Palmer has resigned from the borough Commen Council. The vacancy will be filled at the April meeting of the Council.

Miss Susie Parse returned yesterday from a stay of several days with Brooklyn friends.

Harry Flannery has taken a position in the drawing room of the Rushmore Dynamo Works.

Fanwood Council, R. A., holds its semi-monthly meeting tonight in the Library rooms.

Augustus Frents, Jr., has returned rfom a visit with friends at Summit.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The voters of the South Plainfield school district will meet at the schoolhouse Thursday night at 8 o'clock for the purpose of considering plans to establish the higher grades in the public school here.

Rev. J. A. Cubberley attended the weekly meeting of the Baptist Ministers' Conference in New York yesterday.

W. E. Smith and family are expected to remove from Plainfield to their home here March 28.

The weekly prayer service will take place at the Baptist church tonight.

GLAZER'S FACTORY TO BE REMOVED

ALTON PEOPLE BELIEVE THEY HAVE WON THE FIGHT.

The residents of Alton, who have been waging a relentless war against Theodore Glazer's fat rendering factory for nearly three years past, are beginning to see victory ahead. Petitions have been presented to the Fanwood township Board of Health and the case brought to the attention of the State Board of Health, but with but little success until two weeks ago, when a delegation from that end of the township attended a meeting of the local Board and made a personal appeal for an abating of the nuisance, which they claim is a menace to public health.

This appeal had the desired effect. The Board said if any resident will make an affidavit that the factory is a nuisance the township counsel will take the necessary steps towards securing an injunction against Glaser. The residents were satisfied and claimed that as soon as the weather becomes warm and the factory "product" begins to make life unbearable the necessary steps would be taken to bring the matter to the courts. This probably was the last straw for Glaser as it is said he has begun negotiating for a piece of property near Ash Swamp, far removed from any habitation, and will remove the factory machinery, etc., during the coming month.

The neighbors claim that if he does not the fight will be renewed and pressed to a finish in the courts.

SAYS CO. K IS ONE OF THE VERY FINEST

ARMY OFFICER'S COMPLIMENT AFTER INSPECTING LOCAL SOLDIER BOYS.

Company K made a good showing last night on the occasion of its annual inspection conducted by Gen. Quincey O'M. Gilmore, as a captain of the Federal Army. The armory was well filled with spectators and the inspection went off without a hitch.

Afterwards Gen. Gilmore made an address in which he complimented Captain Martin and the members of Company K on their work. "Though out of military courtesy it is impossible for me to say that this company is the best in the State," he said, "I will say that it is one of the best I have ever inspected." Captain Parks, of Company C, and Captain Hall, of Company I, were present.

T. S. Lonergan, of New York, will give a lecture at the meeting of Watchung Council, No. 552, Knights of Columbus, tonight, on "A Catholic Chapter in American History."

WASHINGTON LETTER

PERSONALITY OF COMMISSIONER OF CORPORATIONS GARFIELD.

OFTEN ADVISES PRESIDENT

Speaker of the House Has a Guide at His Elbow — Treasury Department Valuable School for Financiers.

WASHINGTON.—Few men are more prominently in the public eye to-day than James Rudolph Garfield, commissioner of corporations in the department of commerce and labor. He has on his hands just now investigations into the operations of two of the biggest corporations in the United States, the Standard Oil company and the "Beef trust." It is probable that before long he will have added to his list the United States Steel corporation. Mr. Garfield is a plain, matter-of-fact gentleman, possessed of the valuable secret of keeping his own counsel. He pursues the even tenor of his way, directing a corps of inspectors in their investigation of corporations, without paying any attention to criticism or commendation. Like the Wisconsin statesman who "seen his duty and done it," Mr. Garfield has little thought of anything but carrying out instructions from the president and filling the requirements of the law that governs his bureau.

Mr. Garfield is the youngest son of the late President Garfield, and was a mere "kid" when his father occupied the white house. He has had a flattering public career for a man of his age, having been a successful lawyer, member of the Ohio senate, civil service commissioner and now commissioner of corporations, a position that is hardly second to that of secretary of the department of commerce itself. He is such a matter-of-fact gentleman that there are few anecdotes and stories told about him. He is serious-minded, although appreciative of a good joke, but seldom makes one himself. He was a close friend of the late Senator Hanna, and the latter was very anxious that young Garfield should have placed him in nomination before the Ohio legislature for the senatorship, to succeed John Sherman. The latter would have been proud of the honor, but he relinquished it in favor of a close personal friend, John J. Sullivan, now United States District Attorney at Cleveland.

Congenial Associates.

WITH the execption of Attorney General Moody and Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, of Massachusetts, Mr. Garfield is the man most frequently consulted by the president. This is due largely to the work of the bureau of corporations, which is to carry out the president's policy of publicity in the affairs of great corporations. There is a strong personal bond of sympathy between the president and Mr. Garfield, on account of similarity of tastes in many directions. They both served as United States civil service commissioners, and are devoted to the highest principles of civil service. They frequently discuss together the welfare of the civil service bureau and the best methods of enforcing the law.

In another way there is a similarity of taste, and that is a fondness of outdoor exercise and sports. During the slack season in Washington, when the president can devote a few hours each day to out-door exercise, Mr. Garfield can be found two or three times a week pitted against the chief executive in a game of tennis in the court in the rear of the white house offices. When these games first began Mr. Garfield was not very expert and the president usually had the best of it. One day, after having unmercifully beaten him, the president declared:

"Garfield, if you make as poor a comminssioner of corporations as you do a tennis player, I am going to put somebody else in your place."

Since that time Mr. Garfield has improved, and the honors are now about even when they contest with the racquets. Mr. Garfield is very useful also to the president on account of his familiarity with literature. The commissioner is an omniverous reader and devours everything in the way of new publications. He is able to advise the president as to the quality of any new work that may appear, and Mr. Roosevelt finds it very convenient and advantageous to follow his suggestions.

Prompts the Speaker.

IT IS a constant source of marvel to strangers in the house galleries how the speaker is able to decide complex questions of parliamentary procedure on the spur of the moment, cite precedents and give a decision that will stand all tests of parliamentary law. Few of these visitors pay any attention to a tall, smooth-faced man who stands at the speaker's right, apparently with nothing to do but look over the house, and occasionally open a book. That tall man with a smooth face is the real parliamentary power behind the throne. He is Asher Hinds, clerk at the speaker's desk. He is a walking encyclopedia of parliamentary lore. He hails from Maine, and for the better part of his life has done nothing but study parliamentary law and precedents. He is prepared at an instant's notice to lay a history of decisions and precedents before the speaker and prompt the latter as to the proper decision to make.

Mr. Hinds was brought to Washington from Maine by that great master of parliamentary law, Speaker Reed, and many of the latter's hair-trigger decisions were snatched from Hinds' mouth as the latter whispered to him the proper way to get out of a tangle in the rules of the house. He has occupied that position for ten years almost, and no new republican speaker would think of attempting to manage the house without having Hinds at his elbow. During the Swayne impeachment trial in the senate many complications arose, and a prominent senator paid a warm tribute to Asher Hinds when he said: "What a pity the senate has no Asher Hinds. When it gets off its regular beaten path it is very much at sea. By the way, what would the house do if Asher Hinds should become ill or die?"

Training School for Financiers.

THE United States treasury department has come to be a training school for financiers, from which they graduate into good positions with financial corporations and at salaries usually double that which the government pays to the secretary of the treasury. The last graduate from this institution is Hon. Robert B. Armstrong, better known as "Bobby" Armstrong, the young assistant secretary of the treasury, who was brought into prominence by Secretary Shaw. Mr. Armstrong has just left the government service to accept the presidency of the Casualty Company of America, a New York insurance concern. Some five years ago "Bobby" Armstrong was a hustling, bright young newspaper man, whose work attracted the attention of Mr. Shaw.

When Mr. Shaw became secretary of the treasury, he made young Armstrong his private secretary, and later, when a vacancy occurred in the most important assistant secretaryship of the department, he recommended the young man for appointment. Mr. Armstrong was then not more than 28 years of age, and the youngest man who ever held the office. He filled the position for some two years, and has left it to accept one of higher salary by probably $10,000 a year than he has been receiving. In this he has followed the example of Hon. Frank A. Vanderlip, who came here as private secretary to Lyman J. Gage, Mr. Shaw's predecessor at the head of the treasury department. Vanderlip also became an assistant secretary of the treasury, a position which he left to accept the vice presidency of a big banking institution in New York.

Hon. Milton E. Ailes, who began public life as a coal heaver in the treasury department, working from that position to an assistant secretaryship, has also graduated from the government financial school, and is now vice president of a big bank in Washington. James H. Eckles and Charles G. Dawes, now prominent in financial circles in Chicago, are also graduates of the treasury school, both having held the position of comptroller of the currency. Half a dozen other men holding influential positions in the financial world began their careers in the treasury department.

We Drink Much Coffee.

THE people of the United States are the greatest coffee drinkers in the world. This is demonstrated beyond dispute by the figures compiled by the bureau of statistics regarding the use of coffee. Last year there were more than one billion pounds of coffee, valued at $88,000,000, brought into the United States, and practically all of it was used by the people of this country. The total world's production of coffee in the year 1903-4 was in round numbers 2,260,000,000 pounds, or only about the double quantity that was brought into the United States during the calendar year 1904. In a general way the United States consumes practically one-half of the coffee entering into the world's markets.

The latest period covered in reliable details giving the consumption of coffee in the various countries is for the calendar year 1902. These figures show for that year a consumption by the United States of 852,272,000; Germany, 380,820,000 pounds; France, 188,760,000 pounds; Austria-Hungary, 96,360,000 pounds; Holland, 82,500,000 pounds; Belgium, 72,600,000 pounds; Sweden, 57,420,000 pounds; Russia, 39,600,000 pounds; Italy, 35,640,000 pounds, and Great Britain, 32,340,000 pounds.

There has been a steady growth in coffee consumption in the United States. Beginning with 1830 each decade up to 1890 shows an increase per capita as follows: In 1830 there were less than three pounds per capita; in 1840, five pounds; in 1850, 5.6 pounds; in 1860, 5.8 pounds; in 1870, six pounds; in 1880, 8.9 pounds; in 1890, 7.8 pounds, and in 1900, 9.8 pounds. Since 1900 there has been an increase until last year the consumption was 13.64 pounds. The highest consumption per capita was in the year 1902, when it amounted to 13.82 pounds for each, man, woman and child in the United States.

FACTS AND FANCIES.

Veilings to Be Much Worn—Summer Gowns Simple In Effect.

French veiling in the softest weaves is to be very much worn this spring. It comes in exquisite designs worked out by artistic designers in all the modish colorings.

A number of summer dresses will be joined together at the waistband so that there can be no danger of waist and skirt slipping apart. They are not princess by any means, but bodice and skirt are simply joined by a band of embroidery or a plain piece of muslin, over which is worn the fashionable broad girdle.

Wide shaded ribbon belts are to be worn with wash frocks next summer.

For tennis an entire costume is much smarter than the tailor made shirt waist worn, with a separate skirt. When a separate bodice is worn with the linen coat and skirt it should be made of the sheerest batiste and elaborately tucked and trimmed with lace.

With light flowered wash gowns very wide girdles are to be worn formed of three or four pieces of ribbon, each a different shade of the same color.

The dainty gown illustrated is of ecru all over embroidery. The top skirt ruffle is shirred to the daintily worked upper portion. The bodice has a gathered vest of mull and is otherwise formed of the embroidery.

A New Cotton Braid For Wash Dresses—Stocks and Girdles.

There is a new cotton braid for trimming wash dresses which has just made its appearance. The center is formed of a combination of braid and cross stitch and the edge is finished with featherstitch.

A popular spring skirt model has three flounces of embroidered material.

Dainty girdles of lace will be worn with summer frocks.

An important feature of the blouse is the stock worn with it. Straight bands of English embroidery with cuffs to match are a pretty style, while very new are the plaited ruffles of lace or lawn four or five inches deep placed at the lower edge of the band. Sometimes the stock has a tabbed front with the plaiting arranged around it in a V shape.

Generally speaking, on the soft shirt waists a plain lace stock and cuffs matching, without any bow or tie, are much smarter on a blouse than any other finish.

A white linen frock is made with a plaited skirt and bolero which latter is set on a yoke of Irish crochet. It is slashed up the sides under the arms to show an underblouse effect of the crochet. The full sleeves are formed of the crochet, while from the shoulders fall two little cap sleeves of the linen rounded and slashed to match the bolero fronts. A heavy design of wheat is embroidered on the jacket.

The shirt waist in the cut is of fine handkerchief linen. The fronts are tucked from the shoulders to the waist line. Over the tucks and the plain vest is embroidered in white cotton in over and over stitch.

KATE BONNET

THE ROMANCE OF A PIRATE'S DAUGHTER

By FRANK R. STOCKTON

Copyright, 1902, by D. Appleton & Co., New York.

CHAPTER II.

A FRUIT-BASKET AND A FRIEND.

MAJOR STEDE BONNET, the father of Kate, whose mother had died when the child was but a year old, was a middle-aged Englishman of a fair estate, in the island of Barbadoes. He had been an officer in the army, was well educated and intelligent, and now, in vigorous middle life, had become a confirmed country gentleman. His herds and his crops were, to him, the principal things on earth, with the exception of his daughter; for, although he had married for the second time, there were a good many things which he valued more than his wife. And it had therefore occasioned a good deal of surprise, and more or less small talk among his neighbors, that Maj. Bonnet should want to buy a ship. But he had been a soldier in his youth, and soldiers are very apt to change their manner of living, and so, if Maj. Bonnet had grown tired of his farm and had determined to go into commercial enterprises, it was not, perhaps, a very amazing thing that a military man who had turned planter should now turn to be something else.

Madam Bonnet had heard of the ship, although she had not been told anything about her step-daughter taking a trip in her, and if she had heard she might not have objected. She had regarded, in an apparently careless manner, her husband's desire to navigate the sea; for, no matter to what point he might happen to sail, his ship would take him away from Barbadoes, and that would very well suit her. She was getting tired of Maj. Bonnet. She did not believe he had ever been a very good soldier; she was positively sure that he was not a good farmer; and she had the strongest kind of doubt as to his ability as a commercial man. But as this new business would free her from him, at least for a time, she was well content; and, although she should feel herself somewhat handicapped by the presence of Kate, she did not intend to allow that young lady to interfere with her plans and purposes during the absence of the head of the house. So she went her way, saying nothing derisive about the nautical life, except what she considered it necessary for her to do, in order to maintain her superior position in the household.

Maj. Bonnet was now very much engaged and a good deal disturbed, for he found that projected sailing, even in one's own craft, is not always smooth sailing. He was putting his vessel in excellent order; and was fitting her out generously in the way of stores and all manner of nautical needfuls, not forgetting the guns necessary for defence in these somewhat disordered times, and his latest endeavors were towards the shipping of a suitable crew. Seafaring men were not scarce in the port of Bridgetown, but Maj. Bonnet, now entitled to be called "captain," was very particular about his crew, and it took him a long time to collect suitable men.

As he was most truly a landsman, knowing nothing about the sea or the various intricate methods of navigating a vessel thereupon, he was compelled to secure a real captain—one who would be able to take charge of the vessel and crew, and who would do, and have done, in a thoroughly seamanlike manner, what his nominal skipper should desire and ordain.

This absolutely necessary personage had been secured almost as soon as the vessel had been purchased, before any of the rest of the crew had signed ship's articles; and it was under his general supervision that the storing and equipment had been carried on. His name was Sam Loftus. He was a big man with a great readiness of speech. There were, perhaps, some things he could not do, but there seemed to be nothing that he was not able to talk about. As has been said, the rest of the crew came in slowly, but they did come, and Maj. Bonnet told his daughter that when he had secured four more men, it was his intention to leave port.

"And sail for Jamaica?" she exclaimed.

"Oh, yes," he said, with an affectionate smile, "and I will leave you with your Uncle Delaplaine, where you can stay while I make some little cruises here and there."

"And so I am really to go?" she exclaimed, her eyes sparkling.

"Really to go," said he.

She was very happy, and she laughed.

"Yours will be an easily laden ship," said she, "for you take in with you no great store of goods for traffic. But I suppose you design to pick up your cargo among the islands where you cruise, and at a less cost, perchance, than it could be procured here?"

"Yes, yes," he said; "you have hit it fairly, my little girl, you have hit it fairly."

New annoyances now began to beset Maj. Bonnet. What his daughter had remarked in pleasantry, the people of the town began to talk about unpleasantly. Here was a good-sized craft about to set sail, with little or no cargo, but with a crew apparently much larger than her requirements, but not large enough for the desires of her owner. To be sure, as Maj. Bonnet did not know anything about ships, he was bound to do something odd when he bought one and set forth to sail upon her, but there were some odd things which ought to be looked into; and there were people who advised that the attention of the colonial authorities should be drawn to this ship of their farmer townsman. Maj. Bonnet had such a high reputation as a good citizen, that there were few people who thought it worth while to trouble themselves about his new business venture, but a good many disagreeable things came to the ears of Sam Loftus, who reported them to his employer, and it was agreed between them that it would be wise for them to sail as soon as they could, even if they did not wait for the few men they had considered to be needed.

Early upon a cloudy afternoon, Maj. Bonnet and his daughter went out in a small boat to look at his vessel, the Sarah Williams, which was then lying a short distance below the town.

"Now, Kate," said the good Maj. Bonnet, when they were on board, "I have fitted up a little room for you below, which I think you will find comfortable enough during the voyage to Jamaica. I will take you with me when I return to the house, and then you can make up a little package of clothes which it will be easy to convey to the river bank when the time shall come for you to depart. I cannot now say just when that time will arrive; it may be in the daytime or it may be at night, but it will be soon, and I will give you good notice, and I will come up the river for you in a boat. But now I am very busy, and I will leave you to become acquainted with the Sarah Williams, which, for a few days, will be your home. I shall be obliged to row over to the town for, perhaps, half an hour, but Ben Greenway will be here to attend to anything you need until I return."

Ben Greenway was a Scotchman, who had for a long time been Maj. Bonnet's most trusted servant. He was a good farmer, was apt at carpenter work, and knew a good deal about machinery. A few months ago, anyone living in that region would have been likely to say, if the subject had been brought up, that without Ben Greenway Maj. Bonnet could not get along at all, not even for a day, for he depended upon him in so many ways. And yet, now the master of the estate was about to depart, for nobody knew how long, and leave his faithful servant behind. The reason he gave was, that Ben could not be spared from the farm; but people in general, and Ben in particular, thought this very poor reasoning. Any sort of business which made it necessary for Maj. Bonnet to separate himself from Ben Greenway was a very poor business, and should not be entered upon.

The deck of the Sarah Williams presented a lively scene as Kate stood upon the little quarter-deck and gazed forward. The sailors were walking about, smoking, talking, or coiling things away. There were people from the shore with baskets containing fruit and other wares for sale, and all stirring and new and very interesting to Miss Kate as she stood, with her ribbons flying in the river breeze.

"Who is that young fellow?" she said to Ben Greenway, who was standing by her, "the one with the big basket? It seems to me I have seen him before."

"Oh, ay!" said Ben, "he has been on the farm. That is Dickory Charter, whose father was drowned out fishing a few years ago. He is a good lad, an' boards all ships comin' in or goin' out to sell his wares, for his mither leans on him now, having no ither."

The youth, who seemed to feel that he was being talked about, now walked aft, and held up his basket. He was a handsome youngster, lightly clad and barefooted; and, although not yet full grown, of a strong and active build. Kate beckoned to him, and bought an orange.

"An' how is your mither, Dickory?" said Ben.

"Right well, I thank you," said he, and gazed at Kate, who was biting a hole in her orange.

Then, as he turned and went away, having no reason to expect to sell anything more, Kate remarked to Ben: "That is truly a fine-looking young fellow. He walks with such strength and ease, like a deer or a cat."

"That comes from not wearin' shoes," said Ben; "but as for me, I would like better to wear shoes an' walk mair stiffly."

Now there came aft a sailor, who touched his cap and told Ben Greenway that he was wanted below to superintend the stowing some cases of the captain's liquors. So Kate, left to herself, began to think about what she would pack in her bundle. She would make it very small, for the fewer things she took with her the more she would buy at Spanish Town. But the contents of her package did not require much thought, and she soon became a little tired staying there by herself, and therefore she was glad to see young Dickory, with his orange basket, walking aft.

"I don't want any more oranges," she said, when he was near enough, "but perhaps you may have other fruit?"

He came up to her and put down his basket. "I have bananas, but perhaps you don't like them?"

"Oh, yes, I do!" she answered.

But, without offering to show her the fruit, Dickory continued: "There's one thing I don't like, and that's the men on board your ship."

"What do you mean?" she asked, amazed.

"Speak lower," he said; and, as he spoke, he bethought himself that it might be well to hold out towards her a couple of bananas.

"They're a bad, hard lot of men," he said. "I heard that from more than one person. You ought not to stay on this ship."

"And what do you know about it, Mr. Impudence?" she asked, with brows uplifted. "I suppose my father knows what is good for me."

HEAD-ON COLLISION BETWEEN TWO TEMPERAMENTS!

Every hour, all over the city—in homes, in factories, in stores, in offices—collisions are occurring between incompatible human temperaments. The housewife is conservative, likes to keep her china and furniture intact; the servant is iconoclastic—a "collision between temperament" occurs, and a "want ad." tells those girls who can read that a servant is wanted at a certain home.

The factory-foreman, always opposed to square pegs in round holes, finds that one of his workmen is a misfit. Again a temperamental collision. And a workman who is a "round peg" finds a want ad. that offers a better job for him than his present one; and the other man advertises for a job where square pegs are needed.

A store-manager finds that a certain clerk has not an ounce of salesmanship in his make-up. Collision again.

A want ad. brings another clerk to the store; and finds a job for the ex-clerk where salesmanship is not a requisite.

In the office the stenographer got to "running the business."

Boss was a "brute," and believed he could manage things himself.

Simply another Collision Between Temperaments. Want ad. found a "boss" for the young lady who rather liked to be managed; and found a stenographer for the old "boss" who didn't "grate on his nerves."

LARGEST IN THE STATE
LINDEN, N. J.
Beautiful and Accessible
2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad
Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors
BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.
BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.
LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW
BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.
BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.
LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT
BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.
BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

DEFENSE OF SCHMIDT.

Carcasses of a Pig and Dog In Court at Murder Trial.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., March 14.—The carcasses of a pig and a dog were exhibited to the jury in the trial of Paul H. Schmidt, the youth accused of the murder of William Taylor, a farm hand employed on the estate of W. H. Crittenden. The animals had been subjected to tests by several medical men employed by the defense as experts on gunshot wounds.

Dressed in men's clothing so that the effect on both the fabric and living tissue could be noted, the animals were made the targets of shotguns fired at different distances. Witnesses for the state have asserted that, judging from the character of the wounds on Taylor's body, he must have been at least ten feet away from Schmidt when the fatal shot was fired.

As a result of the animal experiments the experts for the defense testified that the men could not have been more than four or six feet apart at the time of the shooting. Their testimony is in support of the contentions of the defense that Schmidt shot Taylor in self defense immediately after a struggle for possession of the gun.

THE POWER OF MUSIC.

Woman Victim of Robbery Can Only Be Quieted by Songs.

ST. LOUIS, March 14.—Thrown into violent hysteria by an encounter on the street here with a footpad, who robbed her of $10, Mamie Powers, aged eighteen years, lies at her home unable to recognize those about her and is quieted only while songs are sung her. The attending physician thinks that the soothing influence of the music will eventually restore her to health.

Miss Powers rushed home after her encounter with the robber and fell fainting. When revived she raved unintelligibly and since has not had but a lucid moment. That was Sunday afternoon, when she suddenly cried: "Send for Will McGraw, I want him to sing." The young man was summoned and, accompanying himself on a mandolin, began singing. Instantly Miss Powers became calm. The moment the music ceased she grew hysterical.

McGraw sang himself out and was relieved by another musical visitor, and the music was continued until midnight, when the patient fell into a deep sleep. Later she was again hysterical, and the singers again calmed her.

Had an Endless Chain.

BURLINGTON, Vt., March 14.—B. C. J. Beauchamp of this city has been arrested here on an indictment issued by the federal grand jury charging him with using the mails with intent to defraud. Beauchamp, it is alleged, operated largely in the west with an endless chain plan offering home employment under the names of the "Acme Supply company" and "Fields company."

Lecture to School Children.

WASHINGTON, March 14.—W. H. Noble, editor of the Galveston Times, lectured here to some 300 or 400 school children on "Our Duty Today." Mr. Noble had a talk with the president before leaving for Texas.

WOMEN'S GOLF PLAY HERE MONDAY, MAY 29

ONE-DAY TOURNAMENT AT PLAINFIELD COUNTRY CLUB.

Considerable enthusiasm is being shown in the proposed plan of the clubs in the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association wishing to give one day tournaments for the feminine players and their offers will be snapped up as soon as made. The announcement comes in a formal way from the executive committee, which has already booked the Plainfield Country Club for such a tournament on Monday, May 29.

It is believed that a number of other clubs will offer their clubs for such tournaments. To make the plan the success that the women are working for, there should at least be one tournament of the sort each week between April 24 and the middle of July.

It is easy to arrange an attractive card that will combine both medal and match play for a one-day tournament, so framed that the interest will be kept up for both the class A and B players. To attain the best results no entrance fee should be imposed and the clubs volunteering in the cause should offer a proper series of prizes, as they do in the tournaments for men. The clubs intending to enter the field should communicate at once with the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association, so that the full schedule may be prepared at the April meeting.

Newark Priest Temporary Assistant.

Rev. Father William Smith, of Newak, has been appointed by Bishop O'Conner as temporary assistant at St. Mary's church. He will serve under Father Delehanty until a permanent successor to Father Egan has been appointed. During all this week the mission services at the church will be in charge of the Paulist Fathers and the attendances so far have been overwhelmingly large. The church extends a special invitation to non-Catholics to attend.

DR. ANDERSON PROTESTS

Colored Physician Condemns the "Jim Crow" Car Suggestion.

BOYCOTT THE P. S. C.

If Plans Were Carried Out, He Says, Negroes Would Run Their Own Conveyances.

Dr. J. C. Anderson, whose overwhelming defeat at the polls as the Republican candidate for coroner a year ago last fall was attributed to race prejudice, protests against H. C. Harcourt's letter concerning "Jim Crow" cars. He says:

Editor, The Daily Press:

I would like to make a few comments through your valuable paper concerning "Wants Jim Crow Cars," which appeared in your issue of March 10. The letter written by L. C. Harcourt is an insult to the self-respecting colored citizen of this city in particular and to the colored citizens in general. If there were any just complaint advanced by the letter then another view might possibly obtain, but the flimsy charge of crowding the cars continually and jostling the white patrons of the line is advanced as sufficient ground to have "Jim Crow cars." It seems that the negro and white people of this city have gotten along very well these many years, on the whole, without such rare prejudice being shown, and any fair minded citizen can see the hornet's nest of trouble that is brewing when any attempt is made to carry out such an unwarranted suggestion.

In the first place, can the Public Service Corporation institute such a schedule with profit and without the approval of the Common Council, and would the present Common Council, noted for its wise and just legislation, approve such a plan? I think not. If they did approve such a plan, could those members, coming from the negro districts sit idly by and allow such a nefarious ordinance to be passed without a solemn protest? No, for they value too highly their return to that body by the ballots of some of those very negroes.

Secondly Would we, as self respecting citizens, patronize the "Jim Crow" cars? If the writer thinks so he is highly mistaken for here would be the greatest blow of all to the Public Service Corporation—a boycott. Sir we would press our ash wagons in service and collect three cent fares before we would submit to such unfairness. I believe the white citizens of Plainfield as a whole, reverence the doctrine of equality of treatment and opportunity to all of the citizens based upon righteousness. This is putting some men up and some men down, which is against the advice given by that most noble Roman of them all, Theodore Roosevelt.

There are fifteen or more colored taxpayers who own property about the Fourth street line. Are we to be consulted in the matter or not? Do not our taxes directly or indirectly help to keep that thoroughfare in good condition? Are we to be ignored entirely and given something we do not want, then make our "kerchy" and say "thanks massa."

The gentleman seems to be straining a point in suggesting such illegal practices as obtained in the South. The thing is permeated through and through with the very nauseating smell of rare prejudice pure and simple. The objector does not seem to be concerned so much about being jostled, but who jostles him—it is not the crowding but who crowds him or the cars. The cars are common carriers and for that reason the public, each paying the required fare, has a right to ride as comfortably as he can, either sitting or standing, as long as he does not infringe upon the rights of others. In this instance we find no charge of infringement, simply crowding and jostling—the latter is unavoidable when the former exists.

Why not suggest a separate car for Italians and others who may at certain hours crowd the cars to the discomfort of the unnamed hundred or more white citizens of the West End?

The problem, says our President, is the dealing with the man of one color so as to secure him the rights that no one would grudge him if he were of another color. This is the keynote of our contention. The negro asks no special favors because of his color. We seek no special legislation; we ask for justice, fairness and the treatment that is accorded other men, and a fair chance in the race of life.

Yours respectfully,
J. C. Anderson.

SCHOOL HOUSE SQUABBLE

South Plainfield to Establish Independent Higher Grades.

MEETING THURSDAY

Objection to Appropriation of $20,000 for School House at New Market—South Plainfield's Claim.

The first decided opposition to the plan to erect a $20,000 high school at New Market, is being shown by the voters of South Plainfield who will hold a meeting at the school-house on Thursday night to consider plans toward establishing the higher branches, known as the ninth and tenth grades. At present the parents at South Plainfield are obliged to send their children to New Market for the higher education. There is a four-room school-house at South Plainfield and one room not now occupied will be employed for the teaching of the ninth and tenth grades. The additional expense will be comparatively small, as it will only be necessary to employ a primary teacher to carry out the proposed plans. One of the three teachers now employed is competent to teach the higher grades and it will not be necessary to increase her salary for this work.

One of the strong arguments against the erection of a $20,000 building at New Market, is that aside from the number of children attending the school from various parts of the township, there are about one hundred children who are residents of New Market, while there are 140 regular attendants at the South Plainfield school and they live in that town. On that basis it is argued that South Plainfield would be entitled to a larger building. There are many prominent taxpayers in the township who object to paying the increased tax for the higher education of their children, believing that it would be cheaper for them to send the children to Plainfield, where they could get all the advantages of a high school. If South Plainfield adopts the higher grades, it will take away a number of children from the New Market school and reducing the attendance there will be less demand for the expenditure of $20,000 at that place.

New Market will be obliged to have a new school building to take the place of the one destroyed by fire, but many taxpayers think that a less expensive building will answer the purpose.

JUDGE SCHENCK IS REAPPOINTED

Senate Confirms Selection of Governor Stokes for Somerset's Judgeship.

LEADERS PLEASED

Senator Reed's Name Not Mentioned—The Situation in County Politics at the Present Time.

After listening to the leaders in county politics, Governor E. S. Stokes has reappointed Lewis H. Schenck, of Neshanic, as judge of the Somerset County Court. His name was transmitted to the Senate along with a batch of other nominations and no opposition was made by the law makers.

Since former State Senator Charles A. Reed declared that he would not consider the position no effort had been made by his friends to press his claims before the Governor. In fact all opposition to Judge Schenck disappeared in thin air.

Judge Schenck's term is for five years. He was first appointed in 1900. The jurist is a graduate of Rutgers and is popular in Somerset County. The salary attached to the office is but $1,800 per year.

It is generally believed that the regular Republican organization in the county wished to see the judgeship fight settled in order to clear the way for the disposition of the prosecutorship. Griggs and Reger are in a contest for that office and the signs now point to the reappointment of the former.

GOOD WORK DONE BY FIRST M. E. ORGANIZATION

ANNUAL MEETING OF LADIES' AID SOCIETY.

Encouraging reports together with the election of officers comprised most of the business at the annual meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society, of the First M. E. church, held in Vincent chapel, yesterday afternoon. This is one of the largest and most influential societies in the church, the membership being about 120. Its chief purpose is to care for the church and parsonage and its furnishings and every year large sums of money are expended in this way. A year ago the society re-carpeted the edifice and made other improvements at an expense of about $1,400. There is now a balance of $300 in the treasury.

During February and March the society has been engaged in making useful articles for the Children's Home and in this way the wardrobe has been substantially replenished.

These officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. Nelson A. Miller; first vice president, Mrs. Henry A. McGee; second vice president, Mrs. J. C. Peck; secretary, Mrs. L. M. French; treasurer, Mrs. Nelson Y. Hull. The committees for the year will be appointed later.

It was decided at the meeting to give Rev. Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Snodgrass a reception before the Newark Conference, thereby showing the esteem in which they are held for the faithful services performed by Dr. Snodgrass during his eight years' pastorate. The date for the reception will be announced within a few days.

Dinner for Teachers.

Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Berry, of Dunellen avenue, gave a delightful dinner party Monday night for her daughter, Miss Mildred Berry, to which were invited four of the teachers of the Plainfield High School of whose classes Miss Berry is a member. The dinner was given that Mr. and Mrs. Berry might become better acquainted with the teachers as their daughter has just entered the High School. The guests included Miss Cumming, Miss Gilbert, Miss Ball, Miss Berry and Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Berry.

Lease New Lodge Room.

Franklin and Somerset Councils, Jr. O. U. A. M., have leased the entire top floor of the Scheuer & Co. building on West Front stret, and will take possession at once. The main lodge room, one of the finest in the city, is 40x40 and there are also two well arranged committee rooms.

FORMER MAYOR LAUDS JAPANESE WARRIORS

L. V. F. RANDOLPH REVIEWS THE WAR IN THE EAST FOR THE VETS.

Former Mayor L. V. F. Randolph, a veteran of the Civil War and a member of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., favored the members of the Post and their wives with an entertaining talk last night on affairs in the Far East, where the plucky Japanese are meeting with such phenomenal success in their war against the Russians.

He based his remarks on the cause of the success of the Japanese and this he believed was due to the character of the men. He thought it was a most daring effort on the part of the Japs to try to conquer one of the largest world powers, such as Russia, but when he described the men, their mode and manner of conducting warfare, it did not seem so surprising that they were successful. He contrasted the two nations as regards habits and cited the fact that while the Japs were great advocates of the cold water principle, the Russians were devoted to their wines, which had a tendency to unfit them for fighting.

He said that it was one of the most remarkable incidents in history that 300,000 Japanese were able to surround and defeat approximately an equal number of Russians and he then described what this meant. He referred to the undying love of the Jap and his willingness to sacrifice everything and anything for the country of his birth. Many incidents which Mr. Randolph has picked up in his study of the war helped to make the talk one of great interest to the veterans.

After the talk Mrs. John Manley sang several patriotic selections, and the entertainment committee comprising Fred Wenzel, chairman; John R. Nayler, Dr. Berg, William Hand and William Day served bean soup, crackers and coffee and a social time was enjoyed.

GEORGE THATCHER IS MARRIED AGAIN

PLAINFIELD MINSTREL WEDS AN ACTRESS IN THE WEST.

George Thatcher, the well-known minstrel who was a resident of West Seventh street, and who gained such prominence as a member of the Thatcher, Primrose & West troupe, was married yesterday afternoon in Chicago to Miss Zenaide Williams, who is playing the part of the milliner in George Ade's production of "The County Chairman." The marriage was performed by Judge George W. Underwood, of Chicago.

Mr. Thatcher is a member of "The County Chairman" company, now playing at the Studebaker Theatre, Chicago. He takes the part of Sassafras Livingston, the negro politician. Miss Williams is a native of Mississippi and she met Mr. Thatcher during the early rehearsals of the piece in New York last summer.

Mr. Thatcher's first wife, who was well-known here, died suddenly in a New York hotel between eight and nine months ago, after Mr. Thatcher had started on the road with the company he is now a member of. He was in the vicinity of Omaha when Mrs. Thatcher died. It is said that Mr. Thatcher's daughter is now with him.

PRISON REFORM WORK

Addresses Made by Those Who Reform Convicts.

MRS. WILLIAMSON TALKS

Speeches Made Before Grace Church Men's Club at Y. M. C. A. Last Night.

"The Discharged Prisoner and How He Can be and is Aided," was the subject of the public meeting at the Y. M. C. A. last night, which proved not only an interesting but an instructive occasion. The subject was handled by experienced workers in prison reform in the State, and was presented in such a way that none could fail to realize the fact there is help for the criminal and that relief is being administered to him in every possible way through such societies as the State Charities Aid Association.

William H. Riley, of this city, a member of the State Charities Aid Association, who presided at the meeting, made a few introductory remarks.

Father A. M. Fish, Roman Catholic Chaplain at State Prison, told of the work which is being carried on for ex-convicts both in and out of prison and emphasized particularly the fact that the old saying "Once a thief, always a thief," is not true so far as his experience has been concerned. He mentioned examples of good citizens who were former criminals, and declared that criminals have the same sensibilities as other men and can be made as good citizens. "Criminals are not a class," Father Fish said, "but are composed of men from all classes whom circumstances have affected."

The reformatory work in connection with criminals was referred to by the second speaker, Rev. C. L. Crooder, of the Rahway Reformatory. His account of the life in the reformatory, its rules and practices was not only interesting, but new to most of his hearers. "The object of the reformatory is not to punish, but to reform and to train," he said.

"There are three grades at the Rahway Reformatory," the speaker continued. "The first is for the good behavior class, the second for those whose record is medium, and the last for the bad inmates. The first grade is the one which particularly concerns the subject, as it is this class to which parole is allowed." Mr. Crooder continued to mention the conditions for parole, and stated the manner in which the teaching at the reformatory is conducted. In conclusion, the speakers aid: "It is the duty of every good citizen to help the offender back to good citizenship."

Mrs. K. E. Williamson, president of the New Jersey State Charities Aid Association, was the last speaker. As the head of all the various prison reform organizations, the society of which Mrs. Williamson is president has aroused public opinion against the mis management of jails and toward proper care of miner convicts in addition to introducing education and other valuable features into the prison life. Mrs. Williamson spoke at some length of the difficulty of the prisoner after being discharged and of the hardships with which he must contend in becoming a good citizen. It is after the discharge that the society does its great work in assisting the ex-convict to a standing whereon ridicule and trade prejudice are ineffective. The speaker said that the average age of prisoners in the reformatory is between 16 and 22 years.

In conclusion, Mrs. Williamson thanked the Plainfield people for the interest which they have always displayed in the work and for the help which they have afforded to those in active service for the relief of the ex-convict.

Reed, of Rahway, was named for deputy census clerk of Union County and a committee composed of William Newcorn, chairman; Andrew McCardell, of this city; James White and Edward Bauer, of Elizabeth, and S. PROTEST AGAINST RAZING HISTORICAL BUILDING

DAUGHTERS OF THE REVOLUTION WANT COURT HOUSE KEPT UP.

The Daughters of the American Revolution throughout Somerset, Middlesex and Union Counties have evidenced their opposition to the destruction of the court house at Somerville, by several outward demonstrations. The Somerset Board of Freeholders received a communication from Camp Middlebrook Chapter, of Bound Brook, yesterday, protesting against its proposed razing because of the building's historical interest. The members argue that suitable repairs could be made to place it in condition for years to come and that to tear it down would mean the loss to the county of one of its most interesting structures.

Other chapters in this city and other nearby places have been appealed to for support in the movement and the protest will soon become general with the order. So far, the Board has continued to go ahead with its plans and the communications that have been received have simply been placed on file. At the meeting yesterday, James B. Diehl, of Bernardsville, addressed the Board in regard to the architectural designs of the new buildings.

ROBERT RUSHMORE TALKS ON OUTING

CAMERA CLUB HEARS OF A PLEASANT HUNTING TRIP.

Under the auspices of the Plainfield Camera Club, Robert Rushmore, of Grant avenue, entertained the members last night with a number of views and a description of his trip last fall through Maine and Canada in quest of game. The trip occupied the best part of a month and while away Mr. Rushmore succeeded in getting nearly fifty excellent views of the country through which he travelled. They were thrown on the screen by John Nagle, while Mr. Rushmore in his own interesting fashion told of the many incidents that helped to make the outing one of the best he had ever taken.

Mr. Rushmore and his party went to Boston, thence to Maine and through to New Foundland where the wildest sort of country is found. The party had great luck in shooting game, Mr. Rushmore capturing two fine specimens of caribou, the antlers and head of which he brought home. There were many amusing incidents which Mr. Rushmore related in his humorous style.

In addition to the lantern-slides, there was an enjoyable musical programme consisting of piano selections by Vincent Sokol, vocal solos by William Jeffery and violin selections by Maurice Audsley, all of which were well received. Mr. Rushmore's talk also received hearty applause. After the programme refreshments were served and one of the pleasant features was the "smoker."

Brown is Recovering.

SCHOOL BOARD TIMBER

No Dearth of Good Material in North Plainfield.

MEETING ON TUESDAY

Rev. J. C. McKelvey Among Those Mentioned—Terms of Three Members Expire.

The posters are up for the school election in the borough and for a wonder all is quiet over the brook, where, for the past two or three years the factional fighting has been carried into educational affairs where it is decidedly out of place. All signs seem to indicate that the North Plainfield people intend to take the school board out of politics—the factional politics which have raged so fiercely ever since the annexation question came to the front. The terms of President E. A. Overton, District Clerk R. M. Fountain and A. V. D. Honeyman expire this month, and their successors will be elected Tuesday evening at the public meeting which also votes on the annual appropriation for the support of the schools. These three trustees have served several successive terms of three years each.

It is not yet stated whether the three retiring members will stand for re-election, but meanwhile there is evidently a disposition, it seems, to bring forward new men for the position, who will be entirely free from factional prejudice or control. There is a strong demand, it is claimed, for the election of at least two men at this time whose occupations do not require their absence from Plainfield every day. As now constituted all but two members out of the nine are commuters, and can not give the most effective service, it is said, on those committees which require a close personal oversight of the property and educational work.

Among the new names most frequently heard in the circles in which the school election is being talked over are the Rev. J. C. McKelvey, who would seem to be just the right man to suit all parties; John P. Emmens, the real estate man; former Councilman Robert Clark, Jr., R. H. McCullough, Nelson A. Miller, Allen B. Laing, Harrison Coddington and Ernest A. Lowe. From among these, it is claimed, it should be easy to make up a ticket which would steer clear of the dangerous reefs which ruffle the political waters of North Plainfield and would save the school system from the danger which always threatens it from ambitious politicians.

FREEHOLDERS ASKED TO BUILD NEW BRIDGE

MAYOR SMALLEY MAKES APPLICATION TO SOMERSET COUNTY BOARD.

Mayor Newton B. Smalley, of the borough, appeared before the Somerset County Board of Freeholders at its regular meeting, yesterday, and made application for a new bridge over Green brook on West End avenue. There is an iron structure there at the present time but it was built many years ago and is very narrow. As that section is soon to be made into a residential park, West End avenue is to be widened into boulevard-like proportions and the bridge would be entirely out of place. In addition, a new structure would be needed to span the old mill stream a few hundred feet north of it and it could be shifted to this point. The Board took the Mayor's explanation into consideration and will view the site Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

While the Board was in session, samples of building stone which will probably be used in erecting the new court house, were exhibited by representatives from Martinsville and Gouverneur, N. Y. A resolution was passed fixing the compensation of the members of the committee on the new court house at $3 each a day for actual work.

P. B. A.'S CRACK PITCHER

"Jimmie" Beisel is in Good Form for the Season.

GREAT BALL PLAYER

Started His Career in the National Game at Washington, Pa.—One of the Hoboken Nine.

"Jimmie" Beisel, has signed to pitch for the Plainfield Baseball Association, this season. He is well-thought of by his friends. Ever since December he has been practicing daily at the Y. M. C. A. and he is in the pink of condition. During the past two weeks he has been throwing a ball nearly every day and he says that his arm was never in better condition.

Considering his age, "Jimmie" has had a remarkable career. From the time that he was able to throw a ball he has followed the game, despite the strong opposition of his father, who is a very strict member of the Methodist church in Pennsylvania and not until this year would he consent to his son's playing ball, although he has pitched unbeknown to him.

Beisel while living in Pennsylvania, in Washington in that State, where he was employed to do engrossing work, his father got him the position on the understanding that he was not to play baseball. At the time he was in fine condition and was persuaded to pitch one game for the Washington team. He won and after much effort the management got him to sign for the season. He continued to pitch winning ball and it was not until long after his return home that his father learned that he had been playing.

The next year he went to Brandywine, Pa., where he combined business with ball playing, still keeping his father in ignorance of the fact. Last year he came to New Jersey and Lines Groo, a personal friend, secured him a position with the Equitable Life Insurance Company. Out of business he pitched for the Roselle team early in the season and toward the last of the year he pitched successfully for Hoboken in a few games.

Beisel has always been fond of outdoor life and is one of the best pedestrians in this vicinity. Nearly every Sunday he walks fifteen or twenty miles across country and he seems capable of doing almost an unlimited amount of work. He has made his home with Lines Groo since coming to this State and he is now much attached to Plainfield, although he has lived here a short time.

Not only as a baseball twirler is "Jimmie" an artist, but with the pen he is an expert Always jolly and good natured and ready for a game of ball or any other legitimate sport, he has become very popular. It was through the efforts of Mr. Groo, who is well acquainted with his father, that the latter consented to his son joining the Plainfield nine this year and he now takes as much interest in his baseball playing as his business success.

HONORS TO GROSS APPROVED BY SENATE

COLLEAGUES 'RAH FOR UNION COUNTY MAN.

The news of the appointment of President of the Senate Gross as the new United States Circuit judge was received with much satisfaction by his fellow-Senators. During the session of the Senate, Monday night, when the president called Senator Bachelier to the chair and took his seat on the floor for the purpose of advocating the passage of a bill, Senator Ferrell, of Gloucester, taking the floor, offered resolutions of congratulations.

"It gives me great pleasure," said Leader Bradley, "to second these resolutions on behalf of the majority. My associations with Senator Gross in the Legislature have always been most pleasant, and during a long period of close contact I have learned to admire him for his many sterling qualities."

When Senator Wakelee was called on to vote on the resolution he remarked:

"Not only the Senate but the people of the entire State are to be congratulated in that they have an upright, honorable judge."

President Gross replied feelingly to the complimentary things which had been said about him, and, thanking his colleagues for the honor they had done him, said that no honor which he might win could be greater than that of serving the people as a Senator and associating with fellow-members whom he so greatly esteemed.

HEAD-ON COLLISION BETWEEN TWO TEMPERAMENTS!

Every hour, all over the city—in homes, in factories, in stores, in offices—collisions are occurring between incompatible human temperaments. The housewife is conservative, likes to keep her china and furniture intact; the servant is iconoclastic—a "collision between temperament" occurs, and a "want ad." tells those girls who can read that a servant is wanted at a certain home.

The factory-foreman, always opposed to square pegs in round holes, finds that one of his workmen is a misfit. Again a temperamental collision. And a workman who is a "round peg" finds a want ad. that offers a better job for him than his present one; and the other man advertises for a job where square pegs are needed.

A store-manager finds that a certain clerk has not an ounce of salesmanship in his make-up. Collision again.

A want ad. brings another clerk to the store; and finds a job for the ex-clerk where salesmanship is not a requisite.

In the office the stenographer got to "running the business."

Boss was a "brute," and believed he could manage things himself.

Simply another Collision Between Temperaments. Want ad. found a "boss" for the young lady who rather liked to be managed; and found a stenographer for the old "boss" who didn't "grate on his nerves."

SPORTING NEWS.

DIAMOND DUST.

Edward McLane will again pitch for Fordham College, this season.

Goldberg, who played occasionally for Westfield last season, will play with the Bayside team on Sundays during the coming season.

Charlie Denman says that Westfield may lose a game occasionally this year, but at the end of the season he expects to find his team still on top.

Already the physicians and ministers are beginning to talk about another game of baseball for the benefit of the hospital. Last year's contest was a great success—financially.

Frank Quinby, the former Yale player, has decided to remain with the Crescent Athletics, this year, and this means that "Happy" Kiernan will cover second base for Plainfield.

It is reported that George Johnston, of Scotch Plains, who managed the Plainfield baseball team last season, has been a member of the Westfield Baseball Association during the past two years.

Connelly, who will cover right field, is always in the game, aggressive, fast, good thrower and batsman. Last season he had the habit of frequently connecting with the ball for three bases when the bases were filled.

Manager Daab, of the Hoboken team, has decided to play Ridgewood, Murray Hill, Visitation Lyceum and Perth Amboy on Sundays in April, prior to opening the season here. These games will put the team in fine condition.

The management of the Westfield Baseball Association declares that 300 coupon books must be sold to insure the proper outfit to meet Plainfield. According to the present outlook it will be necessary to "raise the ante" higher than that.

It is being generally reported that Linderman, who will undoubtedly pitch for Plainfield, this season, has been writing to the Westfield management for terms and that "Pete" Oregan has been trying to land a position on the same team.

Linderman, who was reported to have gone south with the New York Giants, still holds his position with the Equitable Life Insurance Company, and is at business every day. He will undoubtedly pitch here on Saturdays and holidays.

"Pete" Lamar, who will officiate behind the bat this season, is now putting in daily practice getting his arm into shape. He says that he feels like playing the best game of his life, and he predicts that the team will lose very few contests this year.

The Jersey City Eastern League team won the championship in that league in 1903, and during the season the Hobokens gave them a hard fight which they will never forget. When the two teams meet here on Saturday, April 15, a battle royal should result.

All of the talk about Joe McGinnity not signing with the New York Nationals this year, was good advertising for the pitcher and his team. Only a few persons believed that he might play elsewhere. Joe says that he will be on hand in good condition to pitch the game of his life.

The Westfield Standard admits at last that the umpire question is a serious one and adds that special consideration will be given this year to getting the proper official. Westfield had no kick coming last year, but the management now realizes that to get games with reputable teams an impartial umpire must be secured.

"Rube" Oldring, the bright youngster from New York, who will play short for the Plainfield team, is sure to become a prime favorite. He handles himself like a veteran. Of massive frame, with broad shoulders and close to six feet tall, he covers plenty of ground, has a strong arm and can be depended upon to hit the ball.

There is now every indication that there will be but one representative ball team in Plainfield this season. It was started yesterday on excellent authority that the St. Mary Baseball Association would not put a team in the field. This news has been received with much satisfaction as there is a general feeling that the united support of the city should be given the Plainfield Baseball Association and help to make it a success.

The Daily Press is in receipt of an advance copy of Reach's official American League Guide, for 1905, and as usual it is filled with data of interest to all lovers of baseball. It gives the record of the American League teams and other teams of importance for last year and is of much value to all who follow the game. The guide will soon be obtainable at the various news stands and everyone who wants to keep posted on the National game should have a copy.

Miss Margaret Dohenny, of New York, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shirley, of Madison avenue.

CORDOVA IS GUILTY

New Brunswick Case Ends In Conviction of Pastor.

PROSECUTOR CHEERED IN COURT

State Attorney Scored Eloping Divine, Who Leaped Up In Fury, but Was Howled Down by Spectators—Court Against Him.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., March 15.—After six hours' deliberation the jury which tried J. Frank Cordova, the former South River minister who eloped with Julia Bowne, one of his choir singers, for abandoning his wife, came into court last night with a verdict of "Guilty as indicted."

Cordova appeared to be greatly shaken by the verdict. He will probably be sentenced on Saturday. The extreme penalty is imprisonment for one year.

As soon as the case was given to the jury the second indictment against the ex-minister was called. It accuses him of assault and battery upon his wife. She and her fourteen-year-old daughter will be the principal witnesses.

When Cordova was put on the stand in his own defense he was subjected to a severe cross examination by Prosecutor Berdine, who tried to bring out that Cordova in his trips to Philadelphia, Camden, Canada, Mexico and other places was accompanied by Julia Bowne. The efforts to make the former pastor admit that Miss Bowne was his companion on these journeyings were thwarted by the defendant, however, as he declined to answer to this line of questioning, on the ground that he might incriminate himself. He appealed to Judge Strong, who said that he need not answer questions that might incriminate him.

Mr. Cook, counsel for Cordova, then took the witness in hand and elicited a statement that Cordova had been in the habit of giving his wife all his salary, with the exception of $10 a month. The prosecutor objected to the introduction of letters received by Cordova from his wife while he was in Mexico and was sustained by Judge Strong, who said:

"Even if these letters declared that it was necessary for the defendant to stint himself and to cease remitting funds home I would charge the jury not to allow such a fact to quash the indictment, for this is an action brought by the state of New Jersey against the defendant and does not concern merely Mr. and Mrs. Cordova alone. Forgiveness by Mrs. Cordova does not imply forgiveness by the state of New Jersey."

After Cordova had testified that he directed his wife to sell $700 worth of property and apply the proceeds to her personal needs the defense rested.

In summing up Prosecutor Berdine scored the former minister unmercifully, and once Cordova leaped from his seat in fury, sinking back again when the spectators howled at him and shouted, "Sit down." The close of the prosecutor's address was hailed with cheering, which the court officers could not suppress.

Judge Strong's charge was brief and he emphasized the point that the prisoner could not be excused because he had sent money to his wife.

Officer Sent to Alcatraz Island.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—The president has approved the sentence in the case of Lieutenant Francis M. Boone, Nineteenth infantry, who was tried and convicted by court martial at Vancouver barracks on the charge of desertion, absence without leave, breach of arrest and nonpayment of debts. The sentence of the court was dismissal and two years' imprisonment, but the president, upon recommendation of the war department, reduced the term of imprisonment to one year. Alcatraz island, California, is designated as the place of confinement.

Hospitals For Canal Zone.

PANAMA, March 15.—An arrangement is being made between the governments of Panama and the canal zone for the construction of three buildings for lepers, lunatics and incurable indigents. Panama contributes $40,000 as its share of the cost. The sanitary department will control the management of the hospitals, and the running expenses will be divided proportionately between the two governments.

Santo Domingo Treaty In Senate.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—The discussion of the Dominican treaty in executive session of the senate resulted in the drawing of party lines. The Democrats who have been reported as likely to support the treaty will return to the fold, it is said, and on both sides of the chamber it is admitted there is little prospect that the convention will be ratified.

Operation on Mrs. Shaw Successful.

BALTIMORE, March 15. — Mrs. Shaw, the wife of Secretary of the Treasury Leslie M. Shaw, was operated on here for a serious ailment at Dr. Howard Kelly's private sanatorium. The operation was performed by Dr. Kelly and was reported to be successful. Secretary Shaw was present in the sanitorium during the operation.

Deposit Man Died From Exposure.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., March 15.—John Ryan, aged fifty, is dead at his home in Deposit as a result of exposure on Sunday last. While suffering from mental derangement he undressed and lay down in a snowdrift, thinking that he was at home and going to bed. When found his legs were badly frozen.

FIVE FAVORITES WINNERS.

Fighting Jockeys Caused a Stir at City Park Track.

NEW ORLEANS, March 15.—Five out of the seven favorites won at City Park, while the other two winners were liberally backed. Something of a sensation was stirred up by a cutting affray between two jockeys, in which Jockey McCarley cut and seriously wounded Jockey Shea. The stewards promptly ruled McCarley off the turf. Shea will probably recover. Summaries:

First Race.—Sister Edith, first; Colonial Lady, second; Helen S., third.

Second Race.—Orderly, first; Governor Sayres, second; Lila Noel, third.

Third Race.—Ida Davis, first; Reticent, second; Armorer, third.

Fourth Race.—Australina, first; Little Giant, second; Dr. Kier, third.

Fifth Race.—Esterre, first; Weberfields, second; Billy Handsel, third.

Sixth Race.—Kernel, first; Miss Nannie, second; Brunswick, third.

Seventh Race.—Leenja, first; Red Thistle, second; Rudebek, third.

Jake Sanders Handicap Winner.

NEW ORLEANS, March 15.—The Boston Club handicap, a six furlong affair, worth $900 to the winner, was the feature of the new Louisiana Jockey club's card. Invincible set out to make a fast pace, Rapid Water forcing him all the way. The pair were used up and faltered in the stretch, where Jake Sanders caught and passed them, winning very cleverly. The Huguenot, out to the last ounce, and Inspector Halpin, which had little if any more to spare, were the winning favorites.

Andrew Mack In a Gallop.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 15.—At Oakland Andrew Mack on the first turn was knocked out of his stride by Del Carina, but that did not stop him, as he passed his field one by one, winning in a gallop. Hainault set the pace, but tired and secured second money from Red Cross Nurse. The handicap was easily won by Letola, the favorite. Four favorites and two second choices won.

Racer Huganetta Poisoned.

THE CZAR'S DECISION

Kuropatkin Complains of Generals and Troops.

PREPARING TO DEFEND TIE PASS

Oku Accuses Russians of Firing on Red Cross Bearers With Wounded. Harbin a Vast Disorganized Hospital.

LONDON, March 15.—St. Petersburg dispatches say that the war council held at Tsarskoe-Selo, at which War Minister Sacharoff, General Dragimoroff and others were present, has decided to continue the war to the bitter end.

General Kuropatkin in his report has assumed full responsibility for accepting a battle at Mukden. He has complained to the emperor that his plans miscarried, largely through the failure of two generals, whose names he does not state, to execute his orders. He also throws blame on some of the troops, which failed to respond properly at the critical moment.

General Oku, reporting to headquarters, complains of seeing wounded men being carried across a plain shelled by Russians. He says they shelled a large party of stretcher bearers till they were out of range. Hospital carts crossing the field were plainly followed with a fire of shrapnel for over a mile.

Tokyo reports say that Japan will now demand a war indemnity of between $500,000,000 and $750,000,000.

Dispatches from Russian headquarters at Tie pass say that preparations for the defense of the fortifications there are being carried on with frantic haste.

General Kuropatkin telegraphs that General Meyendorff, commander of the First army corps, who held the famous Putiloff hill until the general retreat of the Russian army compelled him to abandon it, has been injured by a fall from his horse.

General Kuropatkin does not say in his telegram that he has succeeded in reorganizing his forces.

Eyewitnesses of the retreat after the battle of Mukden describe with pitiless realism how the panic stricken condition of the troops reached its climax. When the Russians were near the village of Pethke shells burst among the confused procession of infantry and artillery and thousands of carts. The sufferings of the wounded in the course of the pursuit were beyond description. Most of the foreign military attaches who were with the defeated army, including one British and two American officers, fell into the hands of the Japanese.

Dispatches from St. Petersburg say that some of the Russian surgeons remained at Mukden to care for the wounded who had to be left behind and are in the hands of the Japanese, together with several American and English war correspondents. The sanitary service there is completely disorganized. Chloroform and antiseptics are lacking, and the sick are piled up on uncovered railway trucks. The mortality among them is frightful. Civil doctors have been requisitioned and are operating without cessation.

The railway station at Harbin has been transformed into a vast amphitheater, where the dead, the dying and the wounded are, so to speak, abandoned. The confusion is indescribable.

The Russian army exists in name only, being at the mercy of the slightest Japanese attack. There is ground for fearing that not a man of the present fighting force will reach Harbin if the Japanese follow up their success.

The dispatch adds that three Japanese divisions have been in action with the Third Russian corps on the line of the Fan river, between Hsientun, on the Mandarin road, and Tafanho, on the railway.

Oku's and Nogi's troops are pressing westward, following the road to Tieling. General Nodzu is marching along the Mandarin road. General Kuroki is pushing on to Tieling from Fushun.

A battle at Tieling appears to be inevitable. The fortifications there are the last hope of the Russians.

Peasant Revolt Spreads.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 15.—The peasant movement is spreading to the northwest provinces. Serious disturbances are reported in the province of Vilna and Kovno, where the estates and property of government officials and others have been sacked and burned, necessitating the employment of the military to suppress the revolt.

Marquis of Anglesey Dead.

MONTE CARLO, March 15.—The Marquis of Anglesey, who came here several weeks ago with a system of his own invention with which he hoped to break the bank, is dead. The cause of his death was consumption. Henry Cyril, earl of Uxbridge, Baron Paget and marquis of Anglesey, was head of the great Paget family, and his eccentricities and lavishness have been the subject of extensive public comment for many years.

Ulster Park Man Shot Himself.

KINGSTON, N. Y., March 15.—Elton Benjamin, twenty-two years old, accidentally killed himself at Ulster Park while cleaning a revolver. He was found dead by his wife and child, who returned home from a visit to a neighbor's house after waiting several hours for him to call for them.

A Democratic Victory.

COOPERSTOWN, N. Y., March 15.—The Democrats elected their entire ticket at the village election here. Michael Hanlen was chosen president by eighteen majority, and Dr. Ernest L. Richter and George H. Carley were elected trustees.

CROWD SAW THEM DIE

Nineteen Persons Perish In New York Tenement.

INCENDIARY LIT FIRE IN BASEMENT

House Destroyed Had Given Shelter to Twenty Families With Seventy-eight Children, and It Is Said 200 Slept In Burned Building.

NEW YORK, March 15.—Nineteen persons, men, women and children, were burned to death in a fire which destroyed the five story tenement house at 105 Allen street. More than forty were injured, and only a few of the sleeping inmates escaped unhurt. Several of those who perished were roasted to death in plain view of thousands in the streets.

Coroner Goldenkrans declared after an investigation that he had reason to believe the blaze was the work of an incendiary.

He issued subpoenas for the fire marshal, tenement house and building inspectors and health and police officials to appear before him at the inquest tomorrow.

The fire started in the basement and spread with frightful rapidity to the roof. The victims were caught in traps of flames, the halls and exits being rendered impassable in a few minutes after the blaze started.

The building was one of the usual crowded tenements, where lived twenty families with seventy-eight children, nearly all Hebrews.

The disaster was the worst in the history of the east side. The district attorney's office has begun an investigation to place the blame for the great loss of life.

Chief Croker of the fire department asserts that the police and the tenement house departments are to blame for the disregard of the fire escape law. The tenement house department officials, however, say that the blame is on the shoulders of the fire commissioner.

Of the nineteen dead three bodies, those of a boy and two girls, remain unidentified.

The majority of the dead are children. The east side was thrown into a turmoil, and the police reserves from all of the nearby stations were turned out to handle the unreasonable crowd.

The fire escapes were blocked with baskets, boxes, tin pails, bedding and other paraphernalia, so that they were impracticable. The flames meantime were belching from the windows and licking out hungrily for the frightened tenants.

There had been a fatal delay in turning in an alarm.

Policeman John J. Dwan was the hero of the fire. He scaled the fence and, climbing to a shed in the rear of the burning house, improvised a bridge with a plank to the fire escape on the second floor, over which he made his way and extricated twenty panic stricken persons and hurried them over the plank to safety.

The flames, however, had been growing hungrier every minute, and Dwan was invisible from the street on account of the smoke. He did not desert his post, however, and remained until, overcome by the fumes, he lost his footing and fell to the court below, where he was found some time later with a broken collarbone and severe contusions.

Victims of Mine Disaster 111.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 15.—With the removal of the last four bodies from the Virginia mine the total fatalities from the awful explosion is swelled to 111. The fund which was raised for the relief of the widows and orphans left by the disaster reached nearly $30,000. This is being distributed among them in the form of a semi-monthly allowance by a committee composed of the most prominent ministers in the Birmingham district.

Anderson's Nomination Confirmed.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—The nomination of Charles W. Anderson, the negro candidate, to be internal revenue collector for the Second district of New York has been confirmed by the senate. The senate also confirmed the nomination of Alston G. Dayton to be United States judge for the northern district of West Virginia and Charles H. Treat of New York to be treasurer of the United States.

First Negro Voter Dead.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., March 15.—David Strother, the negro who cast the first vote cast by a member of his race in the United States, is dead at El Paso, Ill. Woodford county turned out en masse to pay a final mark of respect to Strother, who had been a resident of El Paso for forty-one years.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—Regarding the production and use of the precious metals in Korea, United States Minister Horace N. Allen says: "The Japanese have just caused the Korean government to adopt the gold standard, and 10,000,000 yen ($5,000,000) will be borrowed from Japan with which to establish a currency."

President Titsworth Asphyxiated.

Anyone who has carefully read through one of our statutes and then wonders what it is all about can appreciate the recommendation made by Governor Stokes that the Legislature frame laws in the ordinary composition of the English language. Ambiguous and inexcusably long sentences, badly punctuated and woefully constructed are altogether too frequent in the composition of the laws of this and other States. This being the condition it is not surprising that courts are kept busy declaring Legislative acts unconstitutional. The Paterson Call declares that "If a school boy went to work on trial as a reporter in any New Jersey newspaper office and made such wretched 'copy' as some of the New Jersey statutes he would be told that his vocation in life was picking oakum or gathering cigar butts or something of that sort." The Jersey City Journal says that "some of the frightfully long-drawn-out and involved sentences on the statute books are enough to give a lawyer a headache." The reform can come none too soon. "The Paterson Guardian asserts," declares the Camden Post-Telegram, "that if a newspaper man had ever been Governor, the framing of the laws in the ordinary form of English composition, as recommended by Governor Stokes, would have been done long ago, but fails to state how Executive effort could have accomplished this desirable change." Bring about the reform even if it necessitates sending the legislators to night school.

A CATHOLIC CHAPTER IN AMERICAN HISTORY

SUBJECT OF A LECTURE BY T. S. LONERGON, OF NEW YORK.

"A Catholic Chapter in American History," was the subject of a lecture by T. S. Lonergon, of New York, at the meeting of Watchung Council, No. 552, Knights of Columbus, last night. Over 300 hundred of the lodge members and their friends were present. Mr. Lonergon began with the discovery of America, and traced the history of the American race since 1492, pointing out Roman Catholics who have been prominent as warriors and statesmen.

"The Catholics," the speaker said, "were the discoverers of this country. A Catholic woman made possible the exploring expedition of Columbus. In the early history of America, and later in the Colonial days, a large percentage of the settlers were Catholics.

"LaFayette, DeKalb and Kosciuski were members of this faith," he declared and he added that later in the history of America, Sheridan, Shields, Marr, Hoffman, Carmin and Mulligan were well known for their achievements.

He concluded by a brief reference to the number of Irish Catholics in this country, mentioning the growth of Catholicism as an evidence of the strength of the faith

MISSIONARY WORKER'S ADDRESS ON INDIA

MRS. GILLESPIE'S TALK AT CRESCENT AVENUE CHURCH SOCIETY MEETING.

Encouraging reports and an address made the annual meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Crescent Avenue church yesterday afternoon a gratifying one. The speaker of the afternoon was Mrs John Gillespie, of New York, a worker and traveller in foreign mission lands. Previous to the address a business meeting was held, which resulted in the election of these officers for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. Samuel L. Milliken; vice president, Mrs. W. G. Hubbell; second vice president, Mrs. John S. Zeile; third vice president, Mrs. John G. Foster; secretary, Miss Julia Scribner; treasurer, Miss Emily Tracy; secretary of literature, Mrs Isaac N. Field; young people's secretary, Mrs. Frank B. Clark. The report of the secretary showed the work which the society has covered during the last year was an extensive and a profitable undertaking. An increase in membership, and a growth in finances are encouraging items which the reports of the secretary and treasurer brought out.

Mrs. John Gillespie's husband was secretary of the Foreign Mission Board. Her own story of the mission work in India, its hardships, on account of the caste distinctions which are so strong in that country, and of the methods used in accomplishing the greatest results was indeed an interesting one.

Mrs. Gillespie described vividly her trips through various countries where little is known of the Christian religion, and where many are in ignorance of the light of the Gospel.

At the conclusion of the address a social hour was enjoyed. Tea was served by Mrs. Henry Cockran and Mrs. Josiah Brown.

is a fairly large amount of money. How to get it is a question, and how to take care of it after you do get it is another. The way to get it is to save, and deposit a certain sum each month. By allowing the interest to compound semi-annually, the principle is surprisingly increased. We take care of the large and small deposits and pay 3½ per cent. interest.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINTIY.

Plans for an entertainment to be given under the auspices of the Y. P. S. C. E., of the Presbyterian church, on April 6, were discussed at a committee meeting last night, and the arrangements made for a social. Though definite announcement of the committee's plans has not yet been made known, the programme will probably consist of music and recitations, with the addition of a few other attractive features such as games and charades. The proceeds of the entertainment will be devoted to the society fund to be expended at the discretion of the finance committee. The social committee in charge of the affair is composed of the following: Rev. W. W. Casselberry, chairman; Miss Emma Craig, Clarence Carmin and Robert Begardus.

In addition to the vote for new board members on March 21, the citizens of the borough will be called upon to ballot for a tax appropriation of $4,200. The items included in his sum are $250 for building and repairs, $3,450 for current expenses, $300 for books and supplies, and $200 for the erection of a fire escape on Lincoln school. The latter appropriation may be balloted for separately.

Rev. W. W. Casselberry, pastor of the Presbyterian church, is planning for a vacation of two weeks. The pastor will probably leave this week some time, though he has not announced the object of his trip, or where he will go.

The round house is now being used as before the accident, the repairs on the exterior and roof having been completed. There are a few interior improvements to be made and several of the tracks are blocked with lumber at present.

Miss Janet Lake is confined to her home by a slight attack of the grip. The local doctors say that the season has been one of the worst for the disease, and that there have been more fatal cases than usual this year.

At the conclusion of the regular church prayer meeting tonight at the First Baptist church, New Market, the annual meeting of the Y. P. S. C. E. will be held, when officers will be elected.

Lester Meseroll is still confined to his home by illness. His place at the school is being taken by Rev. W. W. Casselberry.

Rev. W. W. Casselberry will have charge of the regular weekly prayer meeting at the Presbyterian church tonight.

Miss Amy Sampson, of Trenton, is expected to visit her parents of the borough at the latter part of the week.

Mrs. J. T. Sutphen, who has been critically ill, was reported to be slightly better yesterday.

The Plainfield Symphony Concert was largely attended by local residents Monday night.

Fred Kirchner, who has been confined to his home by illness, is able to be out again.

F. Dunlap is visiting friends in New York city for a few days.

Mrs. F. W. Vail is visiting relatives at Quakertown for a few days.

Miss Mary Hetfield is among those who are on the sick list.

Mrs. W. S. Shotwell is visiting friends in Newark.

A. W. Waters is confined to his home by illness.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The borough sprinkler, roller and scraper are sadly in want of some kind of shelter. A borough tool house is what is needed and would mean a saving to the taxpayers in the end.

The weekly reception of 'Gene O'Reilly's dancing class, to be held tonight in the I. O. T. rooms, will be attended by several of the young people from town.

Lynus Marsh, who has been seriously ill for two weeks, is improving nicely now, being able to leave his room for a short time each day.

Only about two more weeks before the annual moving day. There will be a number of changes among the residents this year.

Miss Mattie Hull, who has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Hull, has returned to her home in Plainfield.

Mrs. William H. Lee, who has been quite ill for the past week, being threatened with pneumonia, is able to be around again.

The blue bird has made his appearance. This certianly means better weather and an end to a long winter.

Mrs. Fred Cooper, of Westfield, has been visiting her father, Loftus Hollingsworth, of Prospect avenue.

George Baldwin, formerly of the village, but now of Rahway, has been visiting friends in town.

Fanwood Council, R. A., held a well attended meeting in the Library rooms last night.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The transporting of school children by carriage and by trolley line to and from their country homes to school by township conveyance, is not to be continued beyond a few months in the future.

Samuel Dayton recently had a driving horse that became lame while on the road, and was unable to proceed further. Is has not yet recovered.

Jesse Dayton will occupy the Jones farm on Maple avenue this year, and will remove his family there soon.

Miss Emma Tappen is enjoying a new upright piano.

HEPTASOPHS INSTALL.

Protective Conclave Holds Annual Meeting.

The annual installation of officers of Protective Conclave, No. 505, of the Improved Order Heptasophs, took place last night at the rooms in the Exempt Fireman's Hall. Deputy Supreme Archon John V. E. Vanderhoef had charge of the ceremonies and was assisted by Organizer Joseph W. Shaw, of Millville. The various reports presented showed the Conclave to be in an excellent condition and the outlook for the coming year promising.

The officers installed are as follows: Past archeon, E. L. VanCampen; archeon, F. A. Weber; provost, F. G. Spellmeyer; secretary, Judge V. W. Nash; financier, M. Armstrong; treasurer, E. M. Laing; inspector, J. P. Laire; warden, R. H. Barnard. Four candidates received the degree and two applications for membership were presented. Addresses were delivered by Deputy Vanderhoef, Organizer Shaw, Judge Nash, E. M. Laing and others.

Dr. Mattison Returns Home.

Dr. W. E. Mattison, of Somerset street, who went to Demarest, Ga., a week ago to visit his daughter, returned home last night, being unable to remain in the South owing to climatic conditions. The air was so rarified at Demarest that the doctor's breathing was greatly affected, in fact his condition was so serious that at one time it was doubtful whether he would be able to reach Plainfield alive. At one town en route where he had to wait two hours for a train, his condition was so grave that a physician had to be summoned to administer stimulants so that he might continue his journey.

David Lennox, formerly of this city, but now of New York, was in this city Monday attending the funeral services of Rev. Dr. Yerkes. It was his first visit here in several years.

THE CAMEL OUSTED

DAMASCUS-MECCA LINE TO REVOLUTIONIZE HOLY LAND.

Progressive Sultan with an Eye to Utilization of Modern Methods—Abdul Hamid Wily in Influencing the Mohammedan.

Do we look upon the sultan of Turkey as unmodern, a survival of the dark ages? If so, we mistake. Consider for a moment his enterprise in the matter of railway building.

In the land of the superstitious Mohammedan, in the land where every inch is holy ground, Abdul Hamid has been able to introduce that hated innovation, the railroad; an innovation that will have a most revolutionary effect on this old, old region, for ages seeming unchanged, unchangeable.

The picturesque camel has had its day, likewise the picturesque Bedouin, raider of the holy caravans; for the Damascus-Mecca railroad in the future will carry the pilgrims, and soldiers of the Damascus-Mecca road will act as protectors of the caravans.

In times past, the suspicious Mohammedan evinced vigorous hostility toward the steam carrier; mobs attacked the first railway train arriving at Horut, and stoned the house of the American agent that was introducing strange western machines into Syria. But the sultan knows his people, knows how to deal with them; as is indicated by the circular distributed among the faithful, the faithful who are sharing in the expense of the building of the new line that is to convey zealots to the holy city of Mecca. The circular sets forth: "The Damascus-Mecca line is the holy railroad. It extends from Damascus to Medina, the city of the prophet, and thence to Mecca. It is the road of the most honorable apostle of God, because 3,000 years ago Abraham, the prophet, was preaching to the faithful in Syria with his son Ishmael, and they went from there to the neighborhood of El Kabba, according to the commandment of God, when Sarah asked him to leave his second wife. Thus, when Abraham left Damascus for Medina, he did not pass through Egypt, but took the nearest way, and the nearer way is the same way that the sultan of Turkey is now constructing the present railroad.

It is Abdul Hamid's large standing army that is building the road, no war at present requiring their services. The work is looked upon as military in a sense, as Turkey ever since her trouble with Greece has appreciated the advantage of quick transportation of troops; and a Damascus-Mecca line connecting fortresses and seaports is looked upon as most desirable.

It is estimated that the road will cost $50,000,000. It is to be continued beyond Mecca to Djedda, on the Red sea. A road owned by French capital, already connects Damascus with Beirut, and it is the sultan's desire to annex this to the Mecca line. The sultan has possession of the Jaffa-Jerusalem line, and expects to extend this line to connect with the new one. Other extension is planned in the direction of the Euphrates, and into the great grain region; and here trains of camels will make way for railway trains. Work is now progressing on a railway crossing the Jordan country, reaching from the coast through famous towns of Galilee. A student of the subject says, writing in the Los Angeles Herald, that only those familiar with the holy land can even dimly conceive what these vast changes mean to the natives, the Bible scholars and the tourists of the world at large. To the tourist, the sultan is undoubtedly opening the door wide, and he promises necessary police protection to the traveling public.

Railway extension is to change the character of this historic land in various ways, an important one an efficient patrol along the line in the desert, where Bedouins have attacked and looted from time immemorial. This wild people will find in the new road a more formidable foe than the soldier of caravan days; and one of the many advantages pictured is the important one of driving the Arabs farther inland, into lands so unproductive they will eventually have to give up the struggle. It is hoped the line will be in operation as far as Mecca at the end of the next three years.

SCORED MORMONISM.

Senator Dubois, Before Mothers' Congress, Spoke on "Purity of Home."

WASHINGTON, March 15.—Senator Fred T. Dubois of Idaho talked to the Mothers Congress last night on "The Purity of the Home." His speech was chiefly a historical review of Mormonism in the United States and a severe arraignment of the doctrines and practices of the Mormon organization.

He declared, with emphasis, that there should be no toleration of the present teachings and practices of the Mormon hierarchy and in suggesting a remedy said:

"It is the duty of the United States senate so to act on the case of Senator Apostle Reed Smoot as to serve notice on the polygamous head of this church and his apostles that they must live within the law; that the nation is supreme; that the institutions of this country must prevail throughout the land, and, second, there should be an amendment of our constitution wide enough in its scope to place plural marriage and political control by the church entirely out of the realm of possibility."

GRAFT IN NEW YORK STRIKE.

President Gompers Will Probe Report of Reward to Officials.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—Charges have been filed with Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, which are said to reflect on the integrity of individuals connected with the subway and elevated railroad strike in New York. Mr. Gompers said the charges would be investigated.

It is said that the charges contain allegations that the strike was engineered for the sole purpose of being broken. Officials of the union, it is declared, received or expected to receive a large reward for bringing about the strike. President Gompers would not give out the name of the person who filed the charges.

Mr. Gompers may visit New York in quest of evidence bearing on the charges.

Trying to Save Anna Vallentine.

TRENTON, N. J., March 15.—Dr. Magnani, Italian consular agent at Newark, N. J.; Alderman H. G. Voll of Hoboken, Dr. F. V. Fasola of the Italian Benevolent institute of New York and Bernard Vozetti of Hoboken, president of the Italian Fratellanza, the leading Italian society of New Jersey, called upon Governor Stokes and Secretary of State Dickinson in the interest of securing a commutation of the death sentence imposed upon Mrs. Anna Vallentine. The members of the delegation expressed themselves as pleased with their reception.

President Jordan Doubts Murder.

HONOLULU, March 15.—President David Starr Jordan of Stanford university, has emphatically expressed the opinion that Mrs. Stanford's death was not due to strychnine poisoning. He says that when he became familiar with her symptoms he reached that conclusion. He is a doctor of medicine and says that since he has learned that the amount of strychnine taken by Mrs. Stanford was not beyond a medical dose he is more sure than ever that she was not poisoned.

Wynne Declines Punch Bowl.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—Former Postmaster General Wynne has declined the gift of a solid silver punch bowl tendered him by former subordinates in the postoffice department. The bowl had been purchased before Mr. Wynne learned of the movement, but he promptly refused to accept it because of his conviction that it would be a violation of the law prohibiting government employees from making gifts to their superiors. The presentation was to have been made today.

Picture Machine Took Fire.

LYNN, Mass., March 15.—During a moving picture exhibition at Cole's auditorium here last night the picture machine caught fire, seriously burning George A. Cole, the operator and proprietor, and throwing the 200 spectators into a panic. The flames from the burning picture machine communicated to the building, causing an estimated loss of $3,000. Two of the tenants suffered a combined loss of about $6,000.

CHIC STYLES.

Colored Lace Blouses Are No Longer Modish—Chine Silk Popular.

Colored lace blouses are not as modish as they have been. When a dressy waist is to be selected for wear with the three piece suit a blouse of chiffon, taffeta or a net matching the gown in tone is most approved by Dame Fashion at present.

The elegant reception and garden party gowns of the spring will be made of figured pompadour crepe de chine.

SPRING HAT OF CHIP.

This is a new material which is totally unlike the crapes which have been so attractively used. It has broad stripes, six inches of the crepe de chine between two bands of liberty silk of the same coloring. Over these stripes is an exquisite floral design.

The old fashioned chine silks of civil war times have been revived. These silks are very highly glazed and are quite thin and brilliant in coloring.

A shirt waist suit of this material is extremely useful. The waist is made with small box plaits and the skirt fashioned in double box plaits. These plaits are lapped very much at the waist, stitched down for about ten inches, then flare out in a bouffant style. The skirt is three inches from the ground—that is, if a swagger length is attained.

Very chic is the spring hat shown in the cut. Black chip makes the attractive shape. It is lined inside with shirred black tulle. About the low crown is a heavy twist of tulle and at one side a panache of handsome black ostrich tips. This is a very useful all around piece of headgear.

FROCKS AND FASHIONS.

Striped Taffeta and Gray Green Crepe de Chine Are the Vogue.

Striped taffeta silk is to be very much worn for dressy spring gowns. A finely striped gray and black taffeta has been recently made for a woman going south. The skirt is trimmed with two bands of embroidered tulle edged with narrow plaiting of rose taffeta. The bodice is a gem with its drapery at the sides above a high girdle of taffeta fastened in front with tiny pompadour bows of black velvet. A tulle collar somewhat on the lines of a sailor trimmed with rose taffeta quillings is about the Dutch neck. A chemisette of gathered tulle is trimmed with a row of the velvet bows.

VIOLET SILK GOWN.

Gray green crepe de chine the exact tone of an olive tree will be employed this spring in the making of dainty frocks. A dress of this color and material has a pretty skirt cut with a great deal of fullness, with a zigzag velvet trimming of the same shade as the material running horizontally around the skirt to the height of the knees.

The gown illustrated is of violet taffeta. The skirt is trimmed with bands of velvet, between which are disks of velvet. The swathed bodice is held on the shoulders by dull gold buckles set with amethysts. Two of these buckles fasten the bodice above a girdle of silk outlined with velvet disks. Folds and chemisette are of embroidered mull. The sleeves have a wide effect at the elbow, softened with many ruffles of mull.

KATE BONNET

By FRANK R. STOCKTON

Copyright, 1902, by D. Appleton & Co., New York.

"But he is not here," said Dickory.

Kate looked steadfastly at him. He did not seem as ruddy as he had been. And then she looked out upon the forward deck, and the thought came to her that when she had first noticed these men it had seemed to her that they were, indeed, a rough, hard lot. Kate Bonnet was a brave girl, but without knowing why she felt a little frightened.

"Your name is Dickory, isn't it?" she said.

He looked up quickly, for it pleased him to hear her use his name. "Indeed it is," he answered.

"Well, Dickory," said she, "I wish you would go and find Ben Greenway. I should like to have him with me until my father comes back."

He turned, and then stopped for an instant. He said in a clear voice: "I will go and get the shilling changed." And then he hurried away.

He was gone a long time, and Kate could not understand it. Surely the Sarah Williams was not so big a ship that it would take all this time to look for Ben Greenway. But he did come back, and his face seemed less ruddy than when she had last seen it. He came up close to her, and began handling his fruit.

"I don't want to frighten you," he said, "but I must tell you about things. I could not find Ben Greenway, and I asked one of the men about him, feigning that he owed me for some fruit, and the man looked at another man and laughed, and said that he had been sent for in a hurry, and had gone ashore in a boat."

"I cannot believe that," said Kate; "he would not go away and leave me."

Dickory could not believe it either, and could offer no explanation.

Kate now looked anxiously over the water towards the town, but no father was to be seen.

"Now let me tell you what I found out," said Dickory, "you must know it. These men are wicked robbers. I slipped quietly among them to find out something, with my shilling in my hand, ready to ask somebody to change it, if I was noticed."

"Well, what next?" laying her hand on his arm.

"Oh, don't do that!" he said, quickly; "better take hold of a banana. I spied that Big Sam, who is sailing master, and a black-headed fellow taking their ease behind some boxes, smoking, and I listened with all sharpness. And Sam, he said to the other one—not in these words, but in language not fit for you to hear—what he would like to do would be to get off on the next tide. And when the other fellow asked him why he didn't go then and leave the fool—meaning your father—to go back to his farm, Big Sam answered, with a good many curses, that if he could do it he would drop down the river that very minute and wait at the bar until the water was high enough to cross, but that it was impossible because they must not sail until your father had brought his cash box on board. It would be stupid to sail without that cash box."

"Dickory," said she, "I am frightened; I want to go on shore, and I want to see my father and tell him these things."

"But there is no boat," said Dickory; "every boat has left the ship."

"But you have one," said she, looking over the side.

"It is a poor little canoe," he answered, "and I am afraid they would not let me take you away, I having no orders to do so."

"Dickory," said she, "what shall I do? Shall I scream and wave my handkerchief? Perhaps they may see and hear me from the town.

"No," said Dickory, "I would not do that. The night is coming on, and the sky is cloudy. And besides, if you make a noise, those fellows might do something."

"Oh, Dickory, what shall I do?"

"You must wait for your father," he said; "he must be here soon, and the moment you see him, call to him and make him take you to shore. You should both get away from this vessel as soon as you can."

For a moment the girl reflected. "Dickory," said she, "I wish you would take a message for me to Master Martin Newcombe. He may be able to get here even before my father arrives."

Dickory Charter knew Mr. Newcombe, and he had heard what many people had talked about, that he was courting Maj. Bonnet's daughter. The day before Dickory would not have cared who the young planter was courting, but this evening, even to his own surprise, he cared very much. He was intensely interested in Kate, and he did not desire to help Martin Newcombe to take an interest in her. Besides, he spoke honestly as he said: "And who would there be to take care of you? No, indeed, I will not leave you."

"Then row to the town," said she, "and have a boat sent for me."

He shook his head. "No," he said, "I will not leave you."

Her eyes flashed. "You should do what you are commanded to do!" and in her excitement she almost forgot to whisper.

He shook his head and left her.

CHAPTER III.

THE TWO CLOCKS.

IT WAS already beginning to grow dark. She sat, and she sat; she waited, and she waited; and at last she wept, but very quietly. Her father did not come; Ben Greenway was not there; and even that Charter boy had gone. A man came aft to her; a mild-faced, elderly man, with further offers of refreshment and an invitation to go below out of the night air. But she would have nothing; and as she sadly waited and gently wept, it began to grow truly dark. Presently, as she sat, one arm leaning on the rail, she heard a voice close to her ear, and she gave a great start.

"It is only Dickory," whispered the voice.

Then she put her head near him and was glad enough to have put her arms around his neck.

"I have heard a great deal more," whispered Dickory; "these men are dreadful. They do not know what keeps your father, although they have suspicions which I could not make out; but if he does not come on board by ten o'clock they will sail without him, and without his cash box."

"And what of me?" she almost cried, "what of me?"

"They will take you with them," said he; "that's the only thing for them to do. But don't be frightened, don't tremble. You must leave this vessel."

"But how?" she said.

"Oh! I will attend to that," he answered, "if you will listen to me and do everything I tell you. We can't go until it is dark, but while it is light enough for you to see things I will show you what you must do. Now, look down over the side of the vessel."

SHE WAITED AND SHE WAITED.

She leaned over and looked down. He was apparently clinging to the side with his head barely reaching the top of the rail.

"Do you see this bit of ledge I am standing on?" he asked. "Could you get out and stand on this, holding to this piece of rope as I do?"

"Yes," said she, "I could do that."

"Then, still holding to the rope, could you lower yourself down from the ledge and hang to it with your hands?"

"And drop into your boat?" said she. "Yes, I could do that."

"No," said he, "not drop into my boat. It would kill you if you fell into the boat. You must drop into the water."

She shuddered, and felt like screaming.

"But it will be easy to drop into the water; you can't hurt yourself, and I shall be there. My boat will be anchored close by, and we can easily reach it."

"Drop into the water!" said poor Kate.

"But I will be there, you know," said Dickory.

She looked down upon the ledge, and then she looked below it to the water, which was idly flapping against the side of the vessel.

"Is it the only way?" said she.

"It is the only way," he answered, speaking very earnestly. "You must not wait for your father; from what I hear, I fear he has been detained against his will. By nine o'clock it will be dark enough.

"And what must I do?" she said, feeling cold as she spoke.

"Listen to every word," he answered. "This is what you must do. You know the sound of the bell in the tower of the new church?"

"Oh, yes," said she, "I hear it often."

"And you will not confound it with the bell in the old church?"

"Oh, no!" said she; "it is very different, and generally they strike far apart."

"Yes," said he, "the old one strikes first; and when you hear it, it will be quite dark, and you can slip over the rail and stand on this ledge, as I am doing; then keep fast hold of this rope and you can slip farther down and sit on the ledge and wait until the clock of the new church begins to strike nine. Then you must get off the ledge and hang by your two hands. When you hear the last stroke of nine, you must let go and drop. I shall be there."

"But if you shouldn't be there, Dickory? Couldn't you whistle, couldn't you call gently?"

"No," said Dickory; "if I did that, their sharp ears would hear and lanterns would be flashed on us, and perhaps things would be cast down upon us. That would be the quickest way of getting rid of you. But now I must get out of sight, or somebody will come and spoil everything."

Dickory Charter had not told Miss Kate Bonnet all that he had heard when he was stealthily wandering about the ship. He had slipped down into the chains near a port-hole, on the other side of which Big Sam and the black-haired man were taking supper, and he heard a great deal of talk. Among other things he heard a bit of conversation which, when expurgated of its oaths and unpleasant expressions, was like this:

"You are sure you can trust the men?" said Black-hair.

"Oh, yes!" replied the other, "they're all right."

"Then why don't you go now? At any time officers may be rowing out here to search the vessel."

"And well they might. For what needs an old farmer with an empty vessel, a crew of 70 men, and ten guns? He is in trouble, you may wager your life on that, or he would be coming to see about his girl."

"And what will you do about her?"

"Oh, she'll not be in the way," answered Big Sam with a laugh. "If he doesn't take her off before I sail, that's his business. If I am obliged to leave port without his cash box, I will marry his daughter and become his son-in-law—I don't doubt we can find a parson among all the rascals on board—then, perhaps, he will think it his duty to send me drafts to the different ports I touch at."

At this good joke, both of them laughed.

The minutes moved slowly, very slowly indeed, as Kate sat, listening for the sound of the old clock, and at the same time listening for the sound of approaching footsteps.

It was now so dark that she could not have seen anybody without a light, but she could hear as if she possessed the ears of a cat.

Presently the old clock struck, one, two— In a moment she was climbing over the rail. In the darkness she missed the heavy bit of rope which Dickory had showed her, but feeling about she clutched it and let herself down to the ledge below. Her nerves were quite firm now. It was necessary to be so very particular to follow Dickory's directions to the letter, that her nerves were obliged to be firm. She slipped still farther down and sat sideways upon the narrow ledge. So narrow that if the vessel had rolled she could not have remained upon it.

There she waited.

Then there came, sharper and clearer out of the darkness in the direction of the town, the first stroke of nine o'clock from the tower of the new church. Before the second stroke had sounded she was hanging by her two hands from the ledge. She hung at her full length; she put her feet together; she hoped that she would go down smoothly and make no splash. Three—four—five—six—seven—eight—nine—and she let her fingers slip from the ledge. Down she went, into the darkness and into the water, not knowing where one ended and the other began. Her eyes were closed, but they might as well have been open; there was nothing for her to see in all that blackness. Down she went, as if it were to the very bottom of black air and black water. And then, suddenly she felt an arm around her.

Dickory was there!

She felt herself rising, and Dickory was rising, still with his arm around her. In a moment her head was in the air, and she could breathe. Now she felt that he was swimming, with one arm and both legs. Instinctively she tried to help him, for she had learned to swim. They went on a dozen strokes or more, with much labor, until they touched something hard.

"My boat," said Dickory, in the lowest of whispers; "take hold of it."

Kate did so, and he moved from her. She knew that he was clambering into the boat, although she could not see or hear him. Soon he took hold of her under her arms, and he lifted with the strength of a young lion, yet so slowly, so warily, that not a drop of water could be heard dripping from her garments. And when she was drawn up high enough to help herself, he pulled her in, still warily and slowly. Then he slipped to the bow and cast off the rope with which the canoe had been anchored. It was his only rope, but he could not risk the danger of pulling up the bit of rock to which the other end of it was fastened. Then, with a paddle, worked as silently as if it had been handled by an Indian, the canoe moved away, farther and farther, into the darkness.

"Is all well with you?" said Dickory, thinking he might now safely murmur a few words.

LARGEST IN THE STATE
LINDEN, N. J.
Beautiful and Accessible
2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad
Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors
BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.
BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.
LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW
BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.
BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.
LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT
BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL, or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.
BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

CONVICT PATRICK IN COURT.

Ex-Senator Hill Made Strong Argument For New Trial.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 15.—While senators, assemblymen and state officers were being turned away from the door on account of lack of room inside Albert T. Patrick sat before the robed judges of the court of appeals here and heard ex-Senator David B. Hill argue his appeal from the judgment convicting him of the murder of William M. Rice, the New York millionaire. The unusual event of a condemned murderer attending the argument of his own case before the highest state court brought crowds of people to the capitol, but only a small proportion of them were successful in getting a sight of the prisoner. Patrick's original intention was to address the court, but upon the advice of his counsel he remained silent, contenting himself with listening to the argument and making notes, which he used afterward with Mr. Hill regarding the rebuttal.

He was defended by ex-Senator Hill and Samuel Bell Thomas of New York. Assistant District Attorney Howard Gans was assisted in the prosecution by former Supreme Court Justice Judson S. Landon.

Mr. Hill argued that the judgment of conviction should be reversed and a new trial granted upon the ground that no murder had been committed and that Rice had died, as the attending physician testified, from old age and a weak heart as a remote cause, with indigestion and diarrhea, with mental worry, as the immediate cause.

The case is expected to continue two days.

Storm's Damage at Los Angeles.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 15.—The day dawned clear and cool in Los Augeles, and it is apparent that the great storm that has raged almost incessantly along the southern coast for the past few days is over. As far as has been learned but one life has been lost as a result of the storm, that of a laborer who was drowned near Cajon pass. The total damage scattered over a wide stretch of territory is conservatively estimated at an amount in excess of $500,000. This includes the damage to streets, buildings, bridges and other property in this city, the loss to the steam and electric railways and the damage to wharfs, piers and shiping all along the coast.

Club Law at Carnegie Lake Strike.

PRINCETON, N. J., March 15.—Two hundred Italians employed on the Carnegie lake declared a strike and in an organized body, headed by a man named Delucci, marched through the lowland with clubs, forcing every laborer to stop work. Foreman O'Keefe was injured while attempting to check the strikers. The men demand an increase of wages from 17 cents to 20 cents an hour.

Weather Probabilities.

PLAINFELD CONCERNS TO BE REPRESENTED AT THE SESSIONS.

Treasurer J. Herbert Case, of the Plainfield Trust Company, will go to Atlantic City to attend the annual convention of the New Jersey Bankers' Association, which will be held at the Hotel Chelsea on Friday and Saturday. Several notable speakers have promised to be present and deliver addresses upon financial topics. A feature of the gathering will be the banquet, to be held Friday evening. Governor Stokes, who is president of the Mechanics' National Bank of Trenton, will be the guest of honor.

The programme of the two days' session has practically been decided upon. The convention will be called to order at 3 o'clock on Friday afternoon and will be welcomed by Mayor Stoy. Usal H. McCarter, president of the association, will make a fitting response and declare the session open. Jordan J. Cannon, vice president of the Fourth National Bank of New York, will deliver an address on "Bank Credits," and Clark Williams, vice president of the United States Mortgage and Trust Company of New York, will speak on "An Element of Danger to Banks in Municipal Bonds as Security." David O. Watkins, State commissioner of banking and insurance, will also speak.

The banquet will be held at 8 o'clock and Mr. McCarter, who is president of the Fidelity Trust Company of Newark, will act as toastmaster. Speeches will be made by Governor Stokes, John W. Griggs, former United States Attorney-General, and James M. Beck, former Assistant United States Attorney-General.

Saturday will be devoted entirely to business sessions, at which committee reports will be received and officers elected for the coming year.

FANWOOD SIDEWALKS GIVE MUCH TROUBLE

FLAG PAVEMENTS ARE FOUND TO BE UNSATISFACTORY.

The word sidewalks mentioned, to a resident of Fanwood borough at the present time, can make more trouble than "a bull in a china closet" could in a month's time. The reason for it is the residents claim that the expenditure last fall of $2,200 for a uniform grade of sidewalks in the borough was a mistake. For a number of years the borough residents, who are nearly to a man commuters, who have come from New York to establish suburban homes, have wrestled with the question of sidewalks.

The borough was enjoying other improvements, fine macadam roads, electric lights, as well as gas, city water and even street sprinkling during the summer months, but the walks in many places were wretched and the commuters were obliged to go to business each morning with the "Jersey mud" stamp upon their feet. This led to the question of sidewalk improvement, but opposition developed and for several years the question was an issue, even at the elections. Last summer, the Common Council, realizing the need of an improvement, gave a public hearing upon the matter before passing the ordinance which has raised the trouble. The taxpayers and Council met and the question was thoroughly discussed. Some wanted asphalt pavement, others flagging and still others believed Pennsylvania slag would make the best walk. Estimates were read and it was finally agreed to use slag.

Then the Council passed an ordinance compelling each property owner benefitted to pay his proportionate share towards the laying of the walk. The only clause being left to the owners being that slag or some other material equally as good should be used. None took advantage of this clause, however, although some wish they had now. The work was done under the direction of the borough and when completed it was thought that a most troublesome question had at last been settled. Money was borrowed on three and six-month notes to meet the improvement, as the assessment against the property owners could not be collected until the annual taxes for the year were gathered. Many put up a kick when they found upon receiving their tax bills that improvements come high, but this was nothing to what it is now. During the fall and winter months the walk in many places washed out and had to be repaired. Now that winter is breaking up the slag is also showing signs of life by presenting a spongy and elastic body which is decidedly uncomfortable for pedestrians and a very sore spot to the taxpayers.

As the matter of good walks in Fanwood still seems to be a question and one that would not doubt had been heard at the spring election had the new law abolishing it failed to pass.

SPORTING NEWS.

DIAMOND DUST.

The West End Baseball Association of Somerville met Monday night at Cawley's Hotel and effected an organization by electing John A. Maxwell president and Charles C. Kenyon manager. The other officers are all leading business men of the town and it is expected that a much stronger team than last year's will be hired to represent Somerville on the diamond this season. An effort will be made to arrange games with Plainfield and Westfield.

Charlie Denman, of Westfield, dropped in town Saturday afternoon, merely to keep in touch with the situation. When questioned as to his opinion, he replied: "Just tell The Daily Press readers that Plainfield's prospects are very bright this year. I have the highest regard for 'Phil.' Daub's ability to manage the local end of the game." Mr. Denman would have nothing to say as to his complete lineup. He says that a new short-stop, second baseman and an outfielder will be secured. He has abundant confidence in "Al." Farmer's ability as a catcher, and says that "Al." is tickled to think he will be in Westfield this season.

GOLF.

Andrew Blair, the well known golf expert who left Plainfield two years ago to become instructor in a Massachusetts club, has returned to the city and will probably remain permanently.

Plainfield Twirler Returns Baltimore Eastern's Contract.

A CUT IN SALARY

Louis Wiltse Will Play on Local Team if Oriole City Does Not Make Good.

That there is considerable dissatisfaction among the majority of the players in the Eastern League over the cut in salaries this season, is a well-known fact, and among those who feel as though they have been treated in a shabby manner is Louis Wiltse, of Madison avenue, who is considered one of the best twirlers in the league, if not in the country. Last season he practically led his league in pitching and in stick work he was among the top-notchers. He was well satisfied last season with his salary, but when his contract was forwarded to him this year he noticed that a slice had been taken out and he has returned the contract to the Baltimore management without his signature.

In speaking about the matter yesterday Wiltse said that he would not stand for such a cut, unless different arrangements are made. Under the salary offered he will demand the privilege of pitching for independent teams when such work does not interfere with the league games. He expressed a desire to appear in the box for the local team, having a natural pride in the success of the aggregation which will represent his own town. If the Baltimore management denies him this privilege Wiltse may decide to play independent ball entirely, and then no doubt he would be seen wearing a local uniform occasionally if satisfactory arrangements could be made. In case he goes with Baltimore he would be able to spend many Saturdays and Sundays at home and this would give him a chance to pitch here, and besides he would be in demand for Sunday games in the Metropolitan district.

Wiltse says that he has put in more time in practice this winter than ever before and he now considers himself in the very best of condition, and able to start playing at once. He put himself in this condition, believing that he would join the Brooklyn team and he was anxious to make a good showing. His record last season shows that he is of major league material and would be able to hold his own with the best of the National League twirlers. His work of last year was even much better than that of his brother, George Wiltse, of the New York Giants. The latter pitched about twelve games, winning nearly all of them, but Louis took part in many more games, the majority being victories.

Wiltse is a great favorite wherever he plays. He is steady, has no bad habits and can always be relied upon to do his share. In the two games he pitched for Plainfield last year, he demonstrated his ability. In the last game against the New York Giants, he held his opponents down in good shape, and if he had had a strong team behind him the score might have been different. The fans would like to see him wear a Plainfield uniform this year and no doubt the management will make such arrangements if possible.

Referring to the Baltimore team, Wiltse says that a more gentlemanly lot of players would be hard to find. They all have steady habits and they have been playing good ball. Why the management wants to reduce their salaries he cannot understand and he believes it will result in a number of withdrawals from the league. Thus far but few members of last year's Baltimore Club have signed for this season.

COLORED MINISTER ADVOCATES RESISTANCE

REV. E. E. JACKSON INDIGNANT OVER "JIM CROW" CAR SUGGESTION.

Rev. E. E. Jackson, pastor of Mt. Olive Baptist church, declares that the Plainfield negro should resist any attempt to introduce "Jim Crow" cars on the trolley lines here should the company plan to carry out the suggestion made by F. C. Harcourt, of this city. He goes one step further than Dr. J. C. Anderson, the colored physician, who advises a boycott of the Public Service Corporation, and says that resistance should be made against any race distinction in carrying people on trolley cars.

Rev. Mr. Jackson said today that he is firmly convinced that if the Federal Government would offer each negro, who would settle in Africa, a pension or bounty of $800 per year for ten years, that one-half the colored race in the State of New Jersey would take advantage of the terms. He declared that the black man is capable of conducting an independent Democratic form of government and that recent race prejudices and fight have stirred him up to such a pitch that he would willingly make the trial. There are two kinds of negroes, according to the parson, and he only wants the good class to be deported.

MISS JENNIE GIDDES BECOMES MRS. THUMM

WEDDING AT MT. HOREB ATTENDED BY PLAINFIELDERS.

Miss Jennie Giddes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Giddes, of Mt. Horeb, and John Thumm, of Martinville, were married last night at 8 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, in the presence of about 160 guests from New York, Bound Brook, Dunellen, North Plainfield, this city and from nearby towns in Somerset County. Rev. Mr. Walton, pastor of the M. E. church at Mt. Horeb, performed the ceremony. The bride was attended by Miss Edith Nuise, of Mt. Horeb, as bridesmaid, and Eugene Giddes, brother of the bride, was the best man.

After the ceremony, a wedding supper was served. The couple received numerous presents. They are spending their honeymoon in the South and upon their return will live at Martinville, where the groom is engaged with his father in farming. Among the guests from here were Henry De Mott and family, Dr. and Mrs. Elmer A. Giddes, Mrs. Isaac Giddes, W. J. Conroy and family, Miss Emma Giddes, Miss Lillie Giddes, Grover Kipsey, Mr. and Mrs. John Pierson, Amos Giddes and family.

Dr. and Mrs. Cornelius Schenck. Sociability, music and refreshments will serve to make the evening a pleasant one to the pastor and his family. Mrs. A. E. Leggett was chosen chairman of a committee to carry out a programme not yet completed. For eighteen years Rev. Dr. Schenck has been the faithful and energetic pastor of the church.

FLOMERFELT JURY DISAGREES.

Judge Schenck Discharged Jurors Yesterday.

After having been out for forty-four hours at Somerville, the jury in the case of Jacob Flomerfelt, on trial for having caused the death of Frank D. Cramer, was discharged yesterday by Judge Schenck.

It came into court in the morning and said it would apparently be unable to agree on a verdict. Judge Schenck sent it back, but when the jurors returned to the jury room it soon became evident there would be no agreement and they filed into court at noon and announced a disagreement. It is reported the jury stood ten to two for conviction.

Flomerfelt was on trial for manslaughter, for having beaten his brother-in-law, Frank D. Cramer, so severely that he died. The trial was finished Monday afternoon, and the case was given to the jury about 4 p. m. The jury was locked up all Monday and Tuesday nights.

Card Club Meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Asa F. Randolph, of West Fourth street, entertained the card club, of which they are members, last night, and the usual prizes were given. At the close of play the club unanimously adopted a resolution pledging each member not to give any news concerning the club meetings for publication. The fortnightly meetings have been reported in the newspapers during the winter and there has been considerable objection to it, hence the adoption of the resolution. The club will hold one more meeting before adjournment for the spring and summer seasons.

Took Short Cut, Hit by Engine.

Edward N. Brogan, of Bound Brook, was struck by a locomotive early yesterday morning on the Central tracks near the local station at that place, while on his way to the works of the Standard Paint Company, where he is employed. He was severely injured about the head and shoulders and was sent to the Somerset Hospital. Mr. Brogan was taken a short cut across the tracks, instead of going by the street which runs under the railroad, thus saving a few steps at the risk of his life.

PORTRAYAL OF HINDU LIFE

Mrs. Abby S. Burnell Spoke at Congregational Church.

A NATIVE OF INDIA

Girl's Mission Club Organized and Starts Under Favorable Auspices—The Officers.

The Girls' Mission Club of the Congregational church, was organized yesterday afternoon, a supper following the business meeting and an interesting lecture being given under its auspices in the evening. These are the officers chosen: President, Miss Alice Morgan; vice president, Miss Ethel VanZandt; secretary, Miss Ethel MacIntosh; treasurer, Miss Myra Emmons. The chairman of the committees were appointed as follows: Supper—Miss Marion Winant; work—Miss MacIntosh; programme, Miss Whital. In addition to the election of officers the constitution and by-laws of the club were drawn up.

In the evening an audience was delighted with the address by Mrs. Abbie Snell Burnell, a native of India, who in a decidedly graphic manner pictured the life of a High Caste Hindu. Mrs. Burnell was costumed as the High Caste Hindu, and during her address portrayed the Hindu language and manners. She told of her own life, the circumstances of her marriage and her conversion to Christianity. "So ignorant are the people of India," Mrs. Burnell said, "that I wonder that they have existed for the centuries through which they have lived in darkness. Yet hidden away in the darkness of India is many a diamond waiting to be found and to be picked out into the light by the Gospel by you Americans."

Mrs. Burnell referred often in her speech to the power of the Americans if used toward the relief of the destitute millions in India, and said that by the smallest economy and sacrifice of the common American luxuries, thousands could be saved from the tortures of caste degradation through the Gospel of Christ.

It was through an American girl that Mrs. Burnell became converted and afterward joined her son, who had learned the Christian life at a government school. He had broken caste and forsaken his family for the sake of the Christian religion.

The speaker's description of the social system among the Hindu was at once graphic and pathetic. Married at seven years, the Hindu girls are often made widows in early childhood and are thus subject to the eternal curse of the gods and of their fellow country-men. "There are 78,000 widows in India," Mrs. Burnell said, "the average age being nine years. Through the social system of the Hindu, there is no love in marriage. It is a binding ceremony in which the bride and groom have no part, and which subordinates the women to little more than the rank of a servant."

During the evening piano duets by Miss Myra Emmons and Miss Sadie Winckler, and violin selections by Miss Margaret Burnett and Mrs. Johnson added much to the enjoyment of the occasion. A duet, "The March of the Priest," by Miss Emmons and Miss Winckler, was especially well rendered.

TO VISIT RAHWAY.

Y. M. C. A. Boys Will be Guests of That Association on April 1.

In response to an invitation from the Rahway association, the members of the Y. M. C. A. boys' department will go to Rahway on April 1 to participate in an indoor athletic meet. A basketball game will be part of the morning's programme, which will consist of four events to be selected by the Plainfield authorities. There may be other associations in the meet, but so far it is the intention to conduct a dual affair.

At the end of the athletic events, a dinner will be served, and the afternoon will be spent with a special attractions. Those who will go from the Plainfield department will probably be the same as the representatives in the recent inter-association meet held here.

Preparing for Street Work.

The councilmanic street committee is beginning to plan for the spring and summer work on the streets. The past winter has been a particularly hard one on the street and it will be necessary to devote considerable time and money in putting them in proper condition.

BRANTINGHAM BUYS CAMPBELL CLUBHOUSE

SOUTH PLAINFELDER SUCCESFFULLY BIDS $7,575.

The Campbell Clubhouse property on Park avenue, one of the best known roadhouses in this part of the State, was sold yesterday afternoon at public auction for the purposes of settling up the estate of the late Ellis Campbell. Thomas Brantingham, of South Plainfield, was the purchaser, the price being $7,575. There was a large crowd present and the bidding was spirited. The present tenant, Mr. Wood, was desirous of remaining and he continued to meet the bids up to the figure offered by Mr. Brantingham. The sale was in charge of W. A. Coddington, of the firm of Reed & Coddington, attorneys for the estate. The price paid is considered a good one.

Mr. Brantingham will occupy the clubhouse himself and after April 1 will be the new proprietor. He intends to make a number of improvements about the property and he will remodel the clubhouse to some extent. By the sale of this property it is expected that the half-mile race track will remain as it is. The members of the Plainfield Horse Show Association have been considering the advisability of purchasing the track for horse show and trotting purposes and a meeting will be held soon to decide this matter.

Mr. Wood has conducted the roadhouse since the Campbell family retired from the business and now that there is a change of ownership he has not decided just where he will go

A. floor by the score of 33 to 22. The Rahway boys were faster than their opponents of this city. They played together better and showed greater ability at goal shooting.

The line up of the North Plainfield team was as follows: Woodland and Mundy, forwards; Steiner, center; Webster and Peacock, guards. On the local team Woodland and Mundy played the best game. Freeman, of Plainfield High School, was the umpire; Waldron, of Rahway, refereeing the match.

Police Should Take Action.

Father and Son in Court.

PREPARE TO WIDEN WEST END AVENUE

THOROUGHFARE TO BE ONE HUNDRED FEET IN WIDTH.

Surveyors are still engaged in the preliminary work incident to the widening of West End avenue in the borough. The avenue was staked out this week and it is expected that within a short time the actual work of widening will begin. As previously stated it is proposed to make the avenue about one hundred feet in width, including sidewalks, from the Green brook bridge to Stine's bridge and there will be a driveway on each side of the roadway in the centre of which will be a row of shade trees and a grass plot. The work preparatory to opening a boulevard from the city into the borough at that point continues.

Monday morning the Somerset County Board of Freeholders will meet at the West End avenue bridge for inspection, in response to a request from Mayor Smalley asking for a new bridge on West End avenue over Green brook. It is believed that the freeholders will vote for the new bridge, while no opposition is expected from the Union County members, it being understood that they favor the improvement and have for some time been willing to join in this improvement.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM E. MAC CLYMONT CELEBRATE THE EVENT.

In celebration of the tenth anniversary of their wedding, Mr. and Mrs. William E. MacClyment, of Washington avenue, entertained seventy-five friends at their home last evening. The majority of the guests were from New York, coming to Plainfield by special train. Music was a feature of the gathering and there were many delightful vocal and instrumental selections, among the soloists being members of Trinity church choir, New York, of which Mr. MacClyment is organist, and Fred VanEps, the well-known local banjoist. Supperw as served at a late hour.

The decorations were strikingly pretty and were comprised for the most part of white carnations and roses, intermingled with green. Though the tenth anniversary implies "tin," the majority of the presents extended Mr. and Mrs. MacClyment were of silver and cut glass. The celebrants were married in Westfield and have resided in the borough since.

BARLOW WON 2 PRIZES

Highest Score and Second Best Average in Bowling Contest.

HISTORY OF LEAGUE

Standing of Clubs Shows Parks to be Fifth Out of Seven Competitors—The Averages.

William Barlow, of Prospect place, a member of the Park Club bowling team, was the winner of two prizes in the Central Journal Bowling League which was recently finished at Elizabeth with a match between the Jersey City and Elizabeth teams. Barlow won the individual prize of $5 for the highest individual score, and also captured a second prize for the average score. 247 was his high mark, and he was one of two men who played in all the games. Howe, of Roselle, the winning team in the league, made the best average out of the thirty-six games, rolling 183 21-36. The Plainfielder's average was 176 14 36.

The Park team finished fifth in the league. Among the local bowlers who made a good showing in the average score list are Ball, Townsend, Daniel and Rogers.

The complete schedule of games for the season numbered forty-two, which brought each of the seven club teams together six times, three at home alleys and three abroad. The schedule began on November 9, 1904, at Cranford, and ended March 10, 1905, at Jersey City. The league is the most successful ever organized to increase the interest in bowling along the line of the Central Railroad, where the seven clubs are located between Jersey City and Plainfield. The league was so named because of the excellent traveling accommodations offered for the visiting teams, it being possible to travel between all towns with no inconvenience. In September of last year there was talk of organizing a new league for the approaching season.

The Elizabeth Journal offered the prize cup and agreed to give $15 additional for prizes. An enjoyable meeting of clubmen from the seven clubs assembled at the Roselle Casino Club in answer to the call for a meeting sent out by S. C. Greves on the evening of October 18, when it was unanimously decided to form the league to be known as "The Central Journal Bowling League," and it was the unanimous voice of the meeting that a vote of thanks be extended to the Journal for the trophy and prizes so kindly presented. Mr. Greves was selected president of the league and Aubrey B. Smith, of the Westfield Club, secretary-treasurer. A schedule committee was appointed, and before many days passed the list of games was prepared and the tournament started. The league is run entirely for sport. Each club is assessed $10 entrance fee, which money, with that contributed by the Journal, is utilized for prizes and printing schedules and score blanks. The business manager of the league, Mr. Smith, takes great pleasure in his work, which he conducts with credit. Mr. Smith has completed his labors in preparing the tables which give the list of averages, standing of teams, etc., for the season just ended.

The team score follows:

Clubs.	W.	L.	Ave.	H. S.
Roselle Casino	25	11	846.1	976

AMUSEMENTS.

After an interval of three seasons, America's premiere comedienne, May Irwin, is playing a week's engagement in her merriest play, "Mrs. Black is Back." May Irwin was the first woman of the American stage to be accorded "funny" and that was ten years ago, since that time few other women have succeeded in being described with that adjective. Miss Irwin's short absence from the stage seems only to have emphasized her laugh provoking proclivities, and in "Mrs. Black is Back" she has scored the triumph of her career. Unlike most offerings in which music and singing are features, "Mrs. Black is Back" contains a well defined plot of screamingly humerous incidents, outlined by that master craftsman, George V. Hobart.

"Buster Brown" continues to break records at the Majestic Theatre. The very first Saturday matinee this Lilliputian champion in the juvenile theatrical lists proceeded to beat the best record for afternoon receipts left on the books of this theatre during the long and phenomenally successful run of "The Wizard of Oz" and "Babes in Toyland." The second Saturday he broke his own record, and lastly he achieved the apparently impossible by exceeding even this high-water mark. In this connection it is pleasing to note that merit is rewarded in the dramatic world, regardless of size; for Manager Raymond announces that, in consequence of his two season's success in the title role of "Buster Brown," of which role he was the originator on the stage, Master Gabriel, the "toy comedian," will next season be promoted to stellar rank in a new production designed especially to display his talents, musical and mimic.

Last Monday evening, the new comedy, "The Education of Mr. Pipp," at the Liberty Theatre, entered upon the fourth week of its metropolitan run with every guarantee of popularity established. To the high class intellectual audience which were attracted to the Liberty Theatre by the recent performances of Madame Rejane and Ada Rehan, the Thomas-Gibson comedy has added the distinctly fashionable element of New York society, until the nightly audiences comprise almost as representative a list of the four hundred as those of the grand tier at the Metropolitan Opera House. "The Education of Mr. Pipp" is, as the New York Herald succinctly phrased it, "a great, big, laughing hit," which verdict is given fresh endorsement every night by the prolonged outbursts of laughter and applause which punctuate frequently each of the three acts. Digby Bell, Kate Denin Wilson, Jennie Eustace, W. S. St. Clair, Robert Warwick, Fred Courtenary, Marion Draughn and Janet Beecher, are among the clever people who "materialize" the personal essences of Mr. Gibson's delightful satire in black and white.

SNAP SHOTS.

The feature of Monday evening in the House at Trenton was the appearance of former Assemblyman Samuel S. Swackhamer, of North Plainfield. Mr. Swackhamer was discovered in the gallery about 9 o'clock, and at once there were calls for him. Various members asked that last year's orator be brought before the bar of the House. The speaker appointed Mr. Hamill, of Hudson, and Mr. Miller, of Cumberland, a committee to bring Mr. Swackhamer on the floor. This was done. The committe appeared at the rear of the chamber, half dragging the familiar form down the centre aisle. They surrendered their prisoner in front of the Speaker's desk, amid applause. The old member from Somerset went around and shook hands with Speaker Avis and then endeavored to disappear among the newspaper correspondents. It didn't work, however. Leader Duffield arose and said if his old rival wished to talk to him he was ready to receive whatever he said. Mr. Scovel, of Camden, also intimated a willingness to confront the sarcasm of the "Tall Sycamore." Mr. Swackhamer walked part way down one of the side aisles, and, addressing the Speaker, remarked that he did not like to disturb the apparent existing happiness. "I hope," he continued, "that my friends from Essex and Camden are in good health and are having pleasant dreams. I am glad there is no disturbance that calls for criticism. I am particularly glad Duffield and Scovel are satisfied. They remind me of a story I heard today of a man who was trying to sell a horse. He was asked whether the horse was speedy and answered he was not especially so. He was then asked whether the animal behaved extra well, and he replied that he did not. When asked what merit there was in the beast he said that he showed off well. That is what my old friends do." Amid laughter and applause, Mr. Swackhamer meandered back to the gallery.

—William M. Day, teller of the First National Bank, will remove next month from Summit avenue to 142 Grove street, which residence will be vacated by Eugene M. Laing.

LARGEST IN THE STATE
LINDEN, N. J.
Beautiful and Accessible
2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL, PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

TO ABANDON TREATY

Santo Domingo Protocol Will Not Be Pressed.

THE SENATE MAY ADJOURN TODAY

President Conferred With Vice President Fairbanks and Many Senators—Chances Are Against Ratification.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—President Roosevelt had a series of conferences with leading senators, including Messrs. Platt (Conn.), Spooner (Wis.), Cullom (Ill.), Frye (Me.) and Foraker (O.), in regard to the Santo Domingo treaty, now pending in the senate. Vice President Fairbanks also talked with the president. It was virtually decided to abandon the treaty at the present session rather than allow it to come to a vote with the chances strongly against its ratification.

Mr. Roosevelt has consented to this plan, as it was agreed that nothing but the absence of Republican senators would make possible the ratification of the convention, and the best opinion among the leaders is that the matter should be postponed until the next session of congress.

As a result of the conference at the White House there is some probability that the extraordinary session of the senate may come to a close today. In that event no vote will be taken on the treaty, which will go over without action until the next session.

In the senate Mr. Teller offered a resolution calling upon the secretary of state for information regarding instructions issued to Commander Dillingham, U. S. N., and Minister Dawson for the negotiation for the protocol with Santo Domingo and asking for the draft of any proposed agreement, protocol or treaty.

Messrs. Cullom and Kean objected to the reading of the resolution in open session on the ground that it was strictly executive business. Mr. Teller replied with vigor that he proposed to have the treaty read and that only a vote of the senate could prevent him. Opposition was withdrawn, and the resolution was read. On Mr. Cullom's suggestion it went over under the rule.

One alternative is that Senator Cullom, as chairman of the committee on foreign relations, should offer a resolution directing the president to appoint a commission to make an investigation of the Santo Domingo debt and other questions involved in the protocol. This plan has been agreed on tentatively as the programme most desirable under existing conditions, especially as it is believed that such a resolution could be adopted without debate. No decision was reached which which may not be changed, however, and other plans have been suggested or are brewing.

Patrick Case at Albany.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 16.—The second day of the Patrick murder case brought still larger crowds to the court of appeals and increased the number denied admittance. Ex-Senator Hill, senior counsel for the defense, finished his argument, and the presentation of points for the prosecution gave the prisoner plenty to do. With a pad on his knee and a fountain pen he took notes continually, afterward turning them over to his counsel. Patrick's wife, whom he married in the Tombs prison a year or more ago, came up from New York and joined him in court.

Post Mortem Bath While Living.

WATERBURY, Vt., March 16.—Mrs. Mary Upham Berry of Burlington, formerly matron at the Waterbury Insane asylum, appeared before the legislative committee which is investigating the conduct of state institutions here and severely arraigned the management of the asylum. Her recommendations as matron, she said, had been ignored. She told of a woman patient who, she said, was given a post mortem bath before life was extinct. The patient died during the bath.

Police Official Guilty.

PITTSBURG, March 16.—Police Superintendent Melvin H. Campbell of Allegheny was found guilty as indicted for accepting money under color of his office to aid and abet in the maintenance of a house for the sale of liquor without a license and for immoral purposes. This is the first to be tried of 125 "graft" cases which include three other Allegheny city officials and men and women charged with conducting illegal resorts.

Rev. John Cotton Brooks Better.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., March 16.—The condition of the Rev. Dr. John Cotton Brooks, rector of Christ church, Springfield, Mass., who is recuperating from the effects of overwork here, shows marked improvement. Dr. Brooks, who is accompanied by his daughter, daily takes strolls and trolley rides around the Fort Monroe reservation.

Missionary Convention at Columbus.

COLUMBUS, O., March 16.—Over a thousand delegates and visitors are in attendance at the missionary convention here from all over the United States, this being the largest purely missionary meeting, it is said, ever held in the United States. A long programme was carried out, with Bishop Spellmeyer in the chair.

Captain Boomed Banana Trade.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, March 16.—Captain Baker, founder of the United Fruit company, was presented last night with a handsome silver service by his Jamaica admirers in recognition of the great benefit conferred on the colony through the inauguration and development of the banana trade.

HER LAST VOYAGE.

Mrs. Stanford's Funeral Ceremonies at Honolulu.

HER GREAT SERVICE TO HUMANITY

Public Funeral Accorded San Francisco Philanthropist as Body Started For America—All Flags Half Masted.

HONOLULU, March 16.—The remains of Mrs. Jane Lathrop Stanford, who died at the Moana hotel, were escorted to the Congregational Central Union church here by officials of the police department, other territorial officials, a large number of citizens and the following pallbearers: Dr. David Starr Jordan, president of Stanford university; Timothy J. Hopkins, a member of the board of trustees of the university; Governor Carter, United States District Judge Dole, Carl Smith, a member of the house; J. F. Hackenfield, representing the Stanford interests here; C. M. Cooke, president of the Bank of Hawaii, and Charles Dole, A. Lewis and D. L. Vandine, alumni of Stanford university, as well as by many graduates of the university residing in Honolulu.

The church, which is one of the largest in Honolulu, was crowded. The procession was met at the church entrance by Right Rev. William M. Kincaid. The services were opened by the Rev. Mr. Kincaid, and the Episcopal burial service was read by Bishop Restarick. The choir sang "Beneath the Cross of Jesus," "Nearer, My God, to Thee" and "Lead, Kindly Light," which were favorite hymns of Mrs. Stanford.

Rev. Mr. Kincaid in his prayer referred especially to Mrs. Stanford's life and offered thanks for her noble example and her great service to humanity. The text for his sermon was taken from St. Paul's second epistle to Timothy, fourth chapter, seventh and eighth verses: "I have fought a good fight. I have finished my course. I have kept the faith. For the rest there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness."

The preacher paid an eloquent tribute to the life of Mrs. Stanford and made many references to the great things that she had done for the cause of education, the advancement of civilization and the uplifting of humanity.

Bertha Berner and May Hunt, secretary and maid, respectively, to Mrs. Stanford, were present at the funeral, each in deep mourning. Miss Berner especially displayed intense grief.

At the conclusion of the service the cortage, which included the pallbearers, the choir, Revs. Restarick and Kincaid, the police escort and many prominent citizens, proceeded to the wharf, where there was an immense gathering of people. The remains were placed on board the steamer Alameda. The casket was surrounded with violet and black drapery and covered with fresh violets. Captain Dodwell received the remains, standing at the portway with uncovered head. The steamer's flag hung at half mast, and a similar mark of respect was paid by other vessels in the harbor.

A number of splendid floral pieces, sent by Californians, members of the university alumni and others, were placed about the casket.

Miss Bertha Berner and Miss May Hunt were escorted on board the vessel by Deputy High Sheriff Rawlins.

President Jordan and University Trustee Timothy Hopkins also followed the remains.

As the Alameda then left the wharf and began her voyage to San Francisco there was an intense silence, the usual concert by the government band on the steamer's sailing was dispensed with and her departure seemed like the closing scene of a funeral.

Steamer From Calcutta Burned.

BOSTON, March 16.—A threatening fire which broke out on the Hansa line steamer Wildenfels of Bremen at Mystic wharf here caused damage to its cargo estimated at $50,000. In addition to the damage to the cargo, the steamer itself suffered, many of her plates being warped and her compartment walls damaged. The Wildenfels carried a general cargo valued at $1,000,000. She arrived Monday from Calcutta, carrying jute, burlaps, India silk, tea, cocoanut oil, calfskins, hides and other products of India.

Tower Dines the Kaiser.

BERLIN, March 16.—Emperor William dined with Ambassador and Mrs. Tower at their residence last night. The empress, who dines out nowhere this season, was not present. Others who were at the dinner were Chancellor von Bulow, General Count Moltke, General Count Hohenau, General von Loewenfeld, Count Schmettow, Admiral von Tirpitz, Admiral Hollman, American Minister and Mrs. Townsend, from Brussels, and Consul General and Mrs. Mason.

Death From Acute Alcoholism.

NEW YORK, March 16.—Coroner's Physician Wuest has held an autopsy at the Brooklyn morgue on the body of Mamie Savage, found dead in a cab. Dr. Wuest in his report to Coroner Philip T. Williams states that he found no irritant poison in the stomach of the dead girl and no traces of drug. Death, he adds, was apparently due to acute alcoholism.

No New Collector at Baltimore.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Concerning recent stories about the appointment of a collector at the port of Baltimore, President Roosevelt authorized a statement that there would be no vacancy in the collectorship until 1906 and that the present collector, William F. Stone, would not be disturbed during his term of office.

Here's a Point About Buying Diamonds.

After you've decided to buy diamonds and selected a place to buy them at, don't merely go there because it's called a jewelery store or they have a 'jewelery department' or because you have a friend engaged in some capacity in a "wholesale" house. But go to the most trustworthy diamond store. We are reliable, we possess the necessary knowledge and experience, we are diamond merchants. SLOT MACHINES BARRED.

Mayor of Cincinnati Orders Their Removal Immediately.

CINCINNATI, O., March 16.—Mayor Fleischmann issued an order directing the police to cause the removal of all slot machines in Cincinnati. This action is based on an opinion rendered by the city solicitor to the effect that a machine simply used as a mechanical sales agent for the delivery of an article of value is not a gambling device.

An instrument, however, in which money is deposited and there is an element of chance as to whether there is a return of value to the depositor is a gambling device, the operation of which is a violation of the law.

The police will give notice to each owner that arrests will follow failure to remove machines by April 1. It is estimated that 10,000 of the machines are operated in Cincinnati, doing a daily business amounting to $35,000.

SPENCERIAN WON.

Handicap Was Feature at New Orleans Jockey Club Track.

On the turn Knowledge, with Robbins up, crowded Inquisitive Girl and cut her off. The boy was set down for the remainder of the meeting. Summary:

Sire of Champion Pacer Dead.

NEW YORK, March 16.—Direct, formerly champion pacing stallion and sire of many grand circuit winners, dropped dead of rupture of the heart at East View farm, James Butler's stock farm, near here. The stallion had been in good health up to the time of his death. He was valued at about $50,000 and was the sire of Directly, 2:03¼, and Direct Hal, 2:04¼. Directly is still the world's champion two-year-old pacer.

Four Favorites Won.

NEW ORLEANS, March 16.—The card offered at City park was a good one, and the track was fast. Four favorites, two second choices and one well backed third choice finished first. Jean Gravier, which finished second to Mary Worth in the fourth race, was disqualified for swerving against Lida Lieb near the finish.

E. W. McCabe All Round Champion.

BOSTON, March 16.—An international checker tournament between American and British teams of ten men each has opened at the American house here. Of the first twenty games the Americans won three and the Britishers three, while fourteen games were drawn.

Rochester Bench Show.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., March 16.—The third annual bench show of the Rochester Kennel club opened auspiciously. The classes judged were toys, Boston terriers, greyhounds and pointers.

NEW YORK, March 16.—Tom Jenkins of Cleveland, O., defeated Frank Gotch of Humboldt, Ia., in their wrestling match here last night.

Police Captain Dead of Wounds.

DENVER, March 16.—Police Captain William Bohanan is dead here of bullet wounds inflicted by William Schlisser, who, because he was beaten in a $10 lawsuit, killed Mr. and Mrs. Keysill, his neighbors, and Police Surgeon Frank Dulin. Schlisser himself was finally killed by the police. The condition of Michael Keelly, a bystander who was also shot by Schlisser, is serious, but he will probably recover.

Reward For Captain Leonard.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—The president has decided to order Captain Harry Leonard, United States marine corps, who distinguished himself in the march to Peking, to the Chinese capital as military attache of the American legation. Captain Leonard will go with Mr. Rockhill, the new minister to China.

A RUSSIAN VICTORY

Japanese Driven Back From Tie Pass With Heavy Loss.

LARGE FLEET AFTER ROJESTVENSKY

American Attaches Safe and Well. Report of Little's Death False. Grand Duke Nicholaievitch to Succeed Kuropatkin.

LONDON, March 16.—A special dispatch from Santoupou, ten miles north of Tie pass, says that after the evacuation of Mukden by the Russians eighty foreigners were killed by Chinese, included in the number being Richard H. Little, correspondent of the Chicago Daily News.

Mr. Little, however, has cabled direct from Yinkow, saying that he had been captured by the Japanese and was being taken to Kobe. The cablegram contained references which demonstrated that the message was from Mr. Little personally and that he was alive and well.

It is now definitely stated that Emperor Nicholas has approved the decision of the council of war to send Grand Duke Nicholas Nicholaievitch to replace General Kuropatkin as the best means of putting a stop to the intrigues and jealousies among the generals of the army both at St. Petersburg and at the front. General Soukhomlinoff will be chief of staff.

The fact that Kuropatkin was able to evacuate the place with 50,000 men wounded and extricate his army from the meshes of the net set by Field Marshal Oyama, even with heavy cost in men and munitions, is looked upon as a military feat of the first order.

A steamer arriving at Singapore reports having passed a squadron of twenty-two Japanese warships about twenty miles east of the entrance to the strait of Malacca. Two Japanese cruisers and two auxiliary cruisers previously arrived at Singapore. Presumably these vessels are on their way westward in search of the Russian second Pacific squadron, last reported in Madagascar waters.

Dispatches from General Kuropatkin to the czar report that the Japanese have attacked the central Russian positions on the Fan river, which is ten miles south of Tie pass, and were repulsed, leaving 1,000 dead on the field.

The magnificent brigade of Caucasian Cossacks who bore the brunt of the fighting at Mukden were practically annihilated. Only two of the officers survive. All belonged to the St. Petersburg nobility, and hence many of the highest families in Russia are in mourning.

Generals Bilderling, Linevitch and Kaulbars have reached Tieling with a large number of troops in good order.

A Harbin report says that General Kuropatkin has only 100,000 troops organized and able to take the field. He does not believe it will be possible to remain at Tieling and prefers to intrench himself at Harbin, where he could keep in touch with Vladivostok.

Captain W. V. Judson and Colonel V. Havard, United States army attaches to the Russian forces in Manchuria, who were captured by the Japanese at Mukden, have reported that they were captured, but are safe and well within the Japanese lines. The whereabouts of Major M. M. Macombe of the artillery corps, the third of the military attaches of the United States army with Kuropatkin, is not known. It is presumed that he was not in Mukden at the time of the capture of the city.

A dispatch from General Oku's headquarters says that up to the present time 40,000 prisoners and fifty guns have been taken.

Arrangements were concluded at a final conference between representatives of the Russian government and of French banking houses by which a Russian loan of $120,000,000 will be negotiated at Paris.

A Berlin report says that the man who was killed in the hotel Bristol at St. Petersburg by the explosion of his own bomb was a Russian by the name of Naumann and that he was a member of the terrorist organization.

A Singapore report says four Japanese cruisers have arrived there.

Grand Ducal Estates Plundered.

MOSCOW, March 16.—Nothing is known here of the reported plundering of the estates of Emperor Nicholas, Grand Duke Vladimir and the Grand Duke of Oldenburg. The estates of Grand Duke Michael Alexandrovitch in the government of Orel and of the late Grand Duke Sergius in the Dmitrov district, near Moscow, were plundered by peasants. Reservists who were waiting in the barracks at Wolkowsk, government of Grodno, formed a conspiracy to foment organized disturbances among the troops in order to avoid being sent to Manchuria. The offenders were court martialed, five of them were condemned to death and executed on Monday last, four were sentenced for life and eight to twenty years of penal servitude.

Beer Trust For Portland.

CLEVELAND, O., March 16.—A Cleveland syndicate has, it is announced here, secured options on all the breweries in Portland, Ore., and will shortly merge them under one management. The Northern Breweries company at Columbus will take over the consolidated properties at Portland.

Atkins Guilty of Manslaughter.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., March 16.—The jury in the case of Burd Ray Atkins of Geneva, O., on trial at Batavia, returned a verdict last night of guilty of manslaughter, first degree. Atkins was connected with a traveling theatrical company and shot Leonard Scheer of Batavia in the course of a quarrel.

From the absurd suggestion that "Jim Crow" cars be placed on the Public Service Corporation's trolley lines in Plainfield has arisen protests from representative men without distinction as to race. No such class privilege conveyances are wanted in this city and none would be tolerated even if they were considered for one moment by the trolley company. Furthermore separate cars for blacks and whites would be a violation of the laws of the State. One of the few remaining blots on the South today is its persecution of the negro simply because he is a black man. Fortunately the colored citizen gets a "square deal" in the North and Plainfield has always shown every respect for him. He is only asked to behave himself and so long as he does no distinction should be made to him so far as public rights and duties are concerned. The time was within the memory of man now living when separate horse cars for negroes were run on the Sixth avenue line in New York, but things have changed and the colored passenger is entitled to the same privileges as his brother of fairer skin. Today impartial men class their brethern according to their ability and their behavior. Referring to this phase of the so-called "negro question," the Woodstock, Ont., Sentinel-Review, recently said: "Most of the members of the negro race at present are not such as the ordinary white would like to admit them on terms of social equality. But when it is possible for them to develop into the most intelligent and industrious of citizens should they not be held in due honor? The fact that they have risen from the lowest estates is all the more credit to them. Booker T. Washington when he went to Britain was received by the King, who paid him the most marked attention. Yet in pure democracy of which this really great colored man is a citizen, the head of the State cannot show him ordinary courtesy without making himself the subject of virulent attack." But the attacks on Roosevelt for entertaining the distinguished principal of Tuskegee Institute does not come from broad-minded men but from narrow bigots who are of little value in any community. Plainfield is practically free of such men and it is a slander on its reputation to think that it would tolerate "Jim Crow" cars or any thing else which would humiliate the black man.

The physicians at Elizabeth are to be commended for the stand they have taken against the "dead beat" and we submit that the local medical society will do well to take similar action. No longer will a man who can but won't pay be able to "do" the doctor out of the fee to which he is justly entitled for reputable physicians have combined to put a stop to one of the meanest practices existing. A man who receives the services of a doctor and then does not pay although perfectly able to is a pretty rank customer. He is too much afraid of his own reputation to neglect to pay other debts for he knows that suit will be brought and the newspapers will make note of it. But he feels comfortably convinced that the doctor will use no forcible means to collect the debt and he is generally right for the average doctor feels that it is beneath him to sue for professional services. What the Elizabeth physicians have done is to make a "black-list" and all that one member of the fraternity will have to do when he receives a new patient is to scan the roll to see if the name is written thereon. If it is, the man will be forced to settle his doctor's bill before engaging the services of any other physician in the city. Let the Plainfield doctors do likewise.

The announcement made several weeks ago that Barnum & Bailey and the Ringlings, the great circus proprietors of the country, had come to the decision hereafter to abandon the huge billboard and colored lithograph method of advertising and rely solely on the newspapers for publicity, seems to be fully confirmed. It has been found that while the great posters were very expensive, taxing a tremendous force to get them on the walls, they were easily destroyed, and at best appealed only to the eye of the passer-by. The newspaper, on the contrary, goes directly into the household, distributes itself, contains day after day full particulars of the coming entertainment, and thus educates the mind by appealing to the imagination. Under these considerations the circus men have concluded that the newspapers are at once the cheapest, most available and best mediums.—Exchange.

If the Board of Trade desires to take up a matter that will certainly redound to the credit and benefit of Plainfield it should lend its support to the week's carnival planned to be held in May for the benefit of Plainfield charities. When such a public spirited citizen as former Mayor Charles J. Fisk is at the head of such a scheme, it augurs well for the success of the venture. In fact the "Dreamland Carnival" is already an assured success, but the Board of Trade can give substantial aid in many ways. Hundreds of people will be attracted to Plainfield during that week, which means good advertisement for the city, and therefore the Board should lose no time in endorsing the undertaking.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Catharine M. Drake.

Mrs. Catherine M. Drake, formerly Miss Staats, an aunt to Postmaster E. H. Bird and of Edward T. VanWinkle, of Elm place, died yesterday morning at her home in Newark. She had been acquainted with the death of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Freelove Staats, which occurred a few days ago at her home in Elm place but was unable to attend the funeral services. Yesterday Mr. Bird went to Newark to visit her and tell her about the funeral, when to his surprise he found her dead. Mrs. Drake was seventy-two years old and lived here many years ago. Her husband was formerly owner of the Central New Jersey Times. The funeral services will be held at the residence of her nephew, George L. Staats, 24 West End avenue, Vailburg, Newark, tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock. The interment will be at the convenience of the family.

IN THE SHOPS.

Andrew Blair, who recently returned to the city from Massachusetts, has taken a position at Pond's in the night gang.

The employes of the Taylor Iron & Steel Company, of High Bridge, have received a ten per cent. increase in their wages.

Frank Hepner, of West Fourth street, and Ramsay Wilson, of Richmond street, are recent additions to the force at Pedrick & Ayers'.

Respecting the memory of Joseph M. Titsworth, the late treasurer of the company, the employes of the Potter plant will not work tomorrow afternoon when the funeral is to be held. A large number of the older men will attend the service.

All the local machine shops are undergoing a brisk season at the present time. The Pond shop has its night gang fully established, the Potter Press Works is running overtime and the Pedrick & Ayer plant is also busy. The Aluminum Press Company at West Dunellen is in line with the "rush" and has taken on its full complement of employes. The indications are that the Levering & Garrigues people will get a big share of the structural iron trade and the other plants will keep the pace in their own direction.

The local branch of the International Association of Machinists received word from President O'Connell yesterday, that the Chicago machinists had won their strike against the Goss Company and several other concerns. The men are to return on a wage scale of thirty cents an hour with an increase to thirty-two cents later on, and are to dictate terms regarding the number of apprentices nad handy men to be hired. The victory was surprising as the companies had made great efforts to effect a lock-out by getting new hands from the East, several Plainfielders having "bitten" at the terms offered. They are now out of positions and will probably return.

FRAZIER FOR SENATOR.

Successor to Late W. B. Bate Nominated by Acclamation.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 16.—Governor James B. Frazier has been nominated for United States senator by the Democratic caucus of the state legislature. The vote was by acclamation, no other name being presented to the caucus. When that body convened it was supposed the contest was to be a three cornered one, friends of former Governors Benton McMillin and Robert L. Taylor having been actively at work in their interests. A test vote came, however, in an effort to adjourn the caucus until Monday next. The motion was defeated, 36 to 64, and it was apparent that the Frazier forces were in the ascendency. Friends announced the withdrawal of ex-Governor Taylor and of Mr. McMillin from the race, and Governor Frazier's election is assured, as the legislature is very largely Democratic.

He will succeed the late Senator William B. Bate, who was himself elected by the present legislature and therefore practically has a senatorial term before him.

Tuesday, March 21, is the day set for the formal election by the joint assembly. Governor Frazier will be succeeded in the gubernatorial chair by John I. Cox, present speaker of the state senate.

Until elected governor in 1902 James B. Frazier had never held public office, although in 1900 he was presidential elector for the state at large. He is in his forty-ninth year and was born in Bledsoe county, Tenn., Oct. 18, 1856.

CORDOVA AGAIN CONVICTED.

New Brunswick Jury Found Ex-Pastor Guilty of Assaulting Wife.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., March 16.—J. F. Cordova, the former pastor of a Methodist church in South River and who was convicted of abandoning his wife and children, has also been found guilty of assault and battery upon his wife. Cordova is the man who twice eloped with Miss Julia Bowne, a choir singer in the church of which he was pastor. On the first time he returned of his own accord, and a partial reconciliation with his wife was effected. The next time he was arrested in Washington with Miss Bowne and brought back here for trial.

Mrs. Cordova testified against her husband, declaring that they got into a quarrel over a letter which he had received from Miss Bowne and that Cordova bombarded her with a drinking glass, cake pan and earthenware dish, but that his aim was so bad that only the cake pan struck her.

Cordova said there had hardly been a month in thirteen years in which he and his wife had not quarreled, that he had never had an hour of happy home life since his marriage and that on the day when he threw the kitchen utensils at her she had aggravated him by calling Miss Bowne a bad name.

Under the two convictions Cordova may be sentenced to two years in prison. Miss Bowne, who has been held in jail as a witness and who has refused to accept bail, will be allowed to go to the home of her father. Cordova will be sentenced on Saturday.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning March 19.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Glorifying God in our daily work.—Matt. v, 13-16; Rom. xii, 11.

"What I write here is for the glory of God." This is the opening sentence of the autobiography of John G. Paton, missionary to the New Hebrides, whose thrilling story of carrying the cross to the New Hebrides cannibals electrified the Christian world. For more than twenty years he had been importuned to tell the world of his unusual experiences, but steadily refused, characterizing the idea as "savoring too much of self." But at last, convinced that this narration might be of use to the church of God and hence for His glory, he undertook it, emphasizing the fact that it was written for the glory of God by adding, "I lift my pen with that motive [the glory of God] supreme in my heart." For the glory of God he had undertaken his missionary labors, and for the glory of God he reviewed them to the world.

Man's supreme business in this life is to glorify God. This is his vocation. He may have many avocations, but the calling which should have the supreme place in his life is that of living for the glory of God. "Man's chief end is to glorify God and to enjoy Him forever." "Let us hear the conclusion of the whole matter. Fear God and keep His commandments, for this is the whole duty of man." But if the supreme duty of man is the glorifying of God we must glorify God in our daily lives. Life is not a succession of Sabbaths, but the sum of the endeavors of every day. Out of seven days there is but one Sabbath. Therefore the man who limits his religion to the Sabbath day falls six-sevenths short of making it the supreme business of his life to glorify God.

Religion between Sundays is as important as religion on Sunday. We serve God and glorify Him by faithfulness in business and by fervency in spirit in discharging the most routine duties of life. The statesman should legislate, the business man direct his business, the agent buy and sell, the tradesman labor, the student study, the home life be lived for the glory of God.

When we can write over every act of life, whether performed on the Sabbath or on a week day, "What I do is for the glory of God," we shall have reached the point where our religion means what it should mean in view of the inspired injunction, "Whether, therefore, ye eat or drink, or whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God."

Glorifying God in daily life is the best sermon that can be preached. Observant men will see not only our good works, but also the propelling motive back of them, and they, too, will be led to glorify not you, but God. "What in your sermon converted me? Nothing," answered a questioned inquirer. "I have been led to accept Christ by the nine years' consistent daily life of the man beside whom I work in the shop." Let your light shine for God. That is your mission as a member of God's kingdom on earth. Men will see it and will want to and will enter the kingdom and will also glorify God.

Salt was not made to grow savorless by lack of use. It was made to season and to preserve. Light was not made to be hidden. It was made to shine. Do you possess the grace of God that will season and preserve the world morally and spiritually? Use it. Have you the light of Christ in your heart? Then let it shine, and let it shine every day. The world needs daily preservation and daily light.

BIBLE READINGS.

Ps. xxxiv, 1; xcii, 1-3; cxlv, 1-12; Eccl. xii, 13; Matt. vi, 11; John xv, 8; Acts xvii, 10-12; I Cor. x, 31; Col. iii, 17; Eph. vi, 1-9.

Endeavor Among the Disciples.

A very encouraging—indeed, a triumphant—report is made by Rev. R. H. Waggener, national superintendent of Christian Endeavor among the Disciples of Christ.

During the past year the number of Christian Endeavor societies in his denomination has increased 500, and it is now 7,016, with 165,252 members.

During the year these Endeavorers contributed to their denominational board $63,058.

The conversions among them were 11,458.

"All our missionaries in the field, both home and foreign," says Mr. Waggener, "are enthusiastic Endeavorers."

The superintendent traveled more than 25,000 miles in his work during the year, and all at no expense to the denomination.

It is his special desire that the Endeavorers join forces and support in the theological seminaries the ablest young men that can be found to take up the work of ministers and missionaries.—Christian Endeavor World.

Put In Paragraphs.

"The secretary was absent, but I found him after a ride on a bicycle of twenty miles over the mountains and through the ravines to North Fork." That is a characteristic bit from a report by Field Secretary Hadlock of the California union.

Finland's Christian Endeavor organ is for the present written by hand, a monthly called Sarastus—The Dawn. Almost every week, however, there is something about Christian Endeavor in Finland's Weekly (Finnish) and the Home Friend (Swedish).

Rev. Charles Murray, brother of Andrew Murray, has just died in South Africa. He held a position of honor only second to that of the gifted author and orator, and was especially earnest in his efforts to promote peace between the English and his countrymen, the Dutch. He was an enthusiastic Endeavorer and a founder of societies.

March 19: "Glorifying God In Our Daily Work"—Matt. v, 13-16; Rom. xii, 11.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, Ph. D.

"Ye are the salt of the earth."

"Ye are the light of the world."

Salt may not be food in the strict sense of the term, but no other article we eat is so necessary to health. Light is not life, but without light no life could exist.

Is it possible that we hold a relation to the religious life of men as vital as salt and light are to health and existence?

Occasional flashes of light will not answer the need of the world of life. Occasional pinches of salt are not sufficient for health. Nor will spasmodic exhibitions of goodness meet the religious requirements of men. Salt with every meal and light every day are the demands of nature.

"Whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God." That is the demand in Christian living. It is daily living in such fashion that men can see by our acts what right is and can know truth and so learn what God is saying to them. Then, as they see and realize and accept, they become lighted and then shine with God's light. God is glorified in the simple shining of men. This is more than reflection of light from a source outside. It is more like the lighting of the wick of one lamp by the flame of another.

"The spirit of man is the candle of the Lord." Men are capable of divine life. God touches them, and they burn in thought and feeling and doing. He lights them at His own flame, and they shine out as they burn with a light and life like His. They are sons of God, and so their light is of the same nature as His light. He ever shines, lighting all. So must we shine, that men may see continually, not intermittently or occasionally.

It is a grievous mistake to separate the daily and the religious life as if they were different in kind. Sacred and secular have been used as if there could be some things not touched by our religion. But light that does not shine is darkness, and salt that is not saline is savorless. All our living and doing is to be Christlike every day and all the days. If we are lighted and burning we cannot do other than burn continuously. He shines in our hearts, and we shine out.

We must not be misled by any false modesty either. There is a kind of pride that ostentatiously shrinks from being seen and shouts out for nobody to look at it, but to give all glory to God. It is all a self deceptive piece of mock humility. We are to be seen of men. We ought to want them to see us. We are to compel them to look at us if they do not look of their own accord. We are to do our good works in such a way that they can't help seeing them.

But this is an altogether different thing from doing them so they will see us. What is the difference, do you ask? It is just the difference between having attention called to the fact that a light is shining, so men can see their way in the dark and hasten on their way, and having attention called to the fact that there is an elaborate lamp which they would best stop and admire. Shine as you ought and you need have no fear that men will stop long to see what you are made of, whether gold, silver, glass or common clay. They will be so busy rejoicing in the light that not one in ten will give a thought to the vessel that holds the oil. Be genuine and your humility will take care of itself.

How shall you shine? Not by straining after anything, but just by simple daily living rightly. Think the good and pure thoughts. Let no evil stop in the mind. Then do each duty as it rises cheerfully, as if it was done for God, no matter what it is nor how simple. If it be washing a child's face or your own, if tying up a bundle or a shoe string, do it as it ought to be done, and do it gladly. At least do it pleasantly and the gladness will come in due time.

"Whatever you would like to have others do, go and do that thing yourself."

Probably no one else can shine that way yet. God has lighted your candle to shine on that place. Shine, then, and you shall light others by your flame.

So shall God be glorified as men see and take the path to life.

Tomorrow Morning.

In a remote churchyard in Cambridgeshire I read, a few years ago, an epitaph nearly a century old on two aged sisters. The text included in it was, "When the morning was come Jesus stood on the shore." It seemed to me to sum up lives in which the patience of faith had been the guiding principle. These two forgotten disciples had trusted through the night and the toil. They were willing to wait. They knew it would be well tomorrow morning.—H. C. G. Moule, D. D.

Content to Doubt.

Cold hearts are not anxious enough to doubt. Men who love will have their misgivings at times. That is not the evil, but the evil is when men go on in that languid, doubting way, content to doubt, proud of their doubts, morbidly glad to talk about them, liking the romantic gloom of twilight, without the manliness to say, "I must and will know the truth." That did not John the Baptist. Brethren, John appealed to Christ.—F. W. Robertson.

Contentment and Decay.

Sad will be the day for any man when he becomes absolutely contented with the life he is living, with the thoughts he is thinking and the deeds that he is doing—when there is not forever beating at the doors of his soul some great desire to do something larger which he knows that he was meant and made to do because he is a child of God.—Phillips Brooks.

MODES OF THE MOMENT.

A Simple Way to Obtain the Smart Straight Front Effect.

To obtain the much sought after Elizabethan straight front bodice effect dressmakers are placing a wide corset steel down the high girdle or pointed waist. Pads scented with sachet in heart shapes are also put in the girdle at the top to preserve the straight line from bust to end of girdle.

Tapestry girdles are the latest of fashion's fancies. They are wider in the back than in the front and are made of handsome bits of tapestry embroidery. In front they are finished with buckles ranging in size from half a dollar to a moderately large saucer.

Fancy mohair is predicted a great vogue for spring and summer, and fitted coat suits with vest effects will be prominent in the new sartorial order.

COSTUME OF GRAY SERGE.

The fichu trimmed waist will be a leader for the coming season in cotton and other fabrics.

A new thing in gloves are the navy blue gants stitched with pale colors.

One lingerie blouse with two colored silk slips is a commendable investment.

The dress pictured is a walking costume of gray serge. The coat is of the new rather close fitting short style. Chenille galloon trims both coat and skirt. The jaunty little waistcoat of white cloth is adorned with dull silver buttons.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

POPULAR COLORS.

Green Is One of the Leading Spring Shades—A New Stock.

There is a great lot of green shown in the spring finery. Blue and green combinations are to be popular if the present showing of materials is to be relied upon.

A dainty spring costume is of almond green cashmere. The skirt fits plainly about the hips and flares out in a fluffy fashion at the feet. Around the entire lower part of the skirt is a conventional design carried out in green braid through which runs a silver thread. The bodice is composed practically of a string colored bertha over a blouse waist of cashmere. A small collar of broderie anglaise over green velvet is a chic touch on this gown. A tie of darker green silk is arranged under the collar and ends in a smart bow. The chemisette is of white mull, and the sleeves wrinkle into a straight band of velvet. The girdle is of dark green chiffon velvet.

CHILD'S COTTON FROCK.

One of the new stocks of the season is simply a narrow heavy linen turnover, with a tab embroidered in shaded embroidery floss. The warmest summer day will not make this stock wilt, as it is scarcely higher than the neckband of the shirt waist. Shaded blues in delft tones are always pretty and becoming colors to use.

Sleeves ending at the elbow with turned up gauntlet cuffs and frills will be the thing on summer gowns.

The child's frock pictured is of mercerized cotton. The skirt has on each side of a plain panel front lines of braid, ending at the skirt edge with tabs of cambric insertion. The blouse waist is similarly striped with the braid, and about the cut out neck is a collar of embroidery.

KATE BONNET

By FRANK R. STOCKTON

Copyright, 1903, by D. Appleton & Co., New York.

"All well," she murmured back, "except that this is the most uncomfortable boat I ever sat in!"

"I expect you are on my orange basket," he said; "perhaps you can move it a little."

Now he paddled more strongly, and then he stopped.

"Where shall I take you, Mistress Bonnet?" he asked, a little louder than he had dared to speak before.

Kate heaved a sigh before she answered; she had been saying her prayers.

"I don't know, you brave Dickory," she answered, "but it seems to me that you can't see to take me anywhere. Everything is just as black as pitch, one way or another."

"But I know the river," he said, "with light or without it. I have gone home on nights as black as this. Will you go to the town?"

"I would not know where to go to there," she answered, "and in such a plight."

"Then to your home," said he. "But that will be a long row, and you must be very cold."

She shuddered, but not with cold. If her father had been at home it would have been all right, but her stepmother would be there, and that would not be all right. She would not know what to say to her.

"Oh, Dickory," she said, "I don't know where to go."

"I know where you can go," he said, beginning to paddle vigorously, "I will take you to my mother. She will take care of you to-night and give you dry clothes, and to-morrow you may go where you will."

CHAPTER IV.

ON THE QUARTER-DECK.

AS THE time approached when Big Sam intended to take the Sarah Williams out of port, it seemed really necessary that Mistress Kate Bonnet should descend from the exposed quarter-deck and seek shelter from the night air in the captain's cabin or in her own room; and, as she had treated him so curtly at his last interview with her, he sent the elderly man with the mild countenance to tell her that she really must go below, for that he, Big Sam, felt answerable to her father for her health and comfort. But when the elderly man and his lantern reached the quarter-deck there was no Mistress Kate there, and, during the rapid search which ensued, there was no Mistress Kate to be found on the vessel.

Big Sam was very much disturbed; she must have jumped overboard. But what a wild young woman to do that upon such little provocation, for how should she know that he was about to run away with her father's vessel!

"This is a bad business," he said to the black-haired man, "and who would have thought it?"

"I see not that," said Black Paul, "nor why you should trouble yourself about her. She is gone, and you are well rid of her. Had she stayed aboard with us, every ship in the colony might have been cruising after us before to-morrow's sun had gone down."

But this did not quiet the cowardly soul of Big Sam.

"Now I shall tell you," said he, "exactly what happened. A little before dark she went ashore in a boat which was then leaving the ship. I allowed her to do this because she was very much in earnest about it, and talked sharply, and also because I thought the town was the best place for her, since it was growing late and her father did not seem to be coming. Now, if the old man comes on board, that's what happened; but if he does not come on board, the devil and the fishes know what happened, and they may talk about it if they like. But if any man says anything to old Bonnet except as I have ordered, then the fishes shall have another feast."

"And now, what I have to say to you," said Black Paul, "is that you should get away from here without waiting for the tide. If one of these rascals drops overboard and swims ashore, he may get a good reward for news of the murder committed on this vessel, and there isn't any reason to think, so far as I know, that the Sarah Williams can sail any faster than two or three other vessels now in the harbor."

"There's sense in all that," said Big Sam as he walked forward. But he suddenly stopped, hearing, not very far away, the sounds of oars.

In a few minutes Bonnet was on board, with a big box and the crew of the long-boat. Speaking rapidly, he explained to Big Sam the situation of affairs. The authorities of the port had indeed sadly interfered with him. They had heard reports about the unladen vessel and the big crew; and, although they felt loath to detain and to examine a fellow-townsman, hitherto of good report, they did detain him and they did examine him, and they would have gone immediately to the ship had it not been so dark.

But under the circumstances they contented themselves with the assurances of the respectable Mr. Bonnet that he would appear before them the next morning and give them every opportunity of examining his most respectable ship. Having done this, they retired to their beds, and the respectable Bonnet immediately boarded his vessel.

"Now," cried Capt. Bonnet, "where is my daughter? I hope that Ben Greenway has caused her to retire to shelter?"

"Your daughter!" exclaimed Big Sam, before anyone else could speak, "she is not here. It was still early twilight when she told me she would wait no longer, and desired to be sent ashore in a boat. This request, of course, I immediately granted, feeling bound thereto, as she was your daughter, and that I was, in a measure, under her orders."

Capt. Bonnet stood, knitting his brows.

"Well, well!" he presently cried, with an air of relief, "it is better so. Her home is the best place for her, as matters have turned out. And now," said he, turning to Big Sam, "call the men together and set them to quick work. Pull up your anchors and do whatever else is necessary to free the ship; then let us away. We must be far out of sight of this island before to-morrow's sunrise."

In a very short time the cable was slipped, for Big Sam had no notion of betraying the departure of the vessel by the creaking of a capstan; and, with the hoisting of a few sails and no light aboard except the shaded lamp at the binnacle, the Sarah Williams moved down the river and out upon the sea.

"And when are you going to take the command in your hands?" asked Black Paul of Big Sam.

"To-morrow, some time," was the answer, "but I must first go around among the men and let them know what's coming."

Soon after dawn the next morning Capt. Bonnet was out of his hammock and upon deck. He looked about him and saw nothing but sea, sea, sea.

Big Sam approached him. "I forgot to tell you," said he, "that yesterday I shut up that Scotchman of yours, for, from his conduct, I thought that he had some particular reason for wanting to go on shore; and, fearing that if he did so he would talk about this vessel, and so make worse the trouble I was sure you were in, I shut him up as a matter of precaution and forgot to mention him to you last night."

"You stupid blockhead!" roared Mr. Bonnet, "how like an ass you have acted! Not for a bag of gold would I have taken Ben Greenway on this cruise; and not for a dozen bags would I have deprived my family of his care and service. You ought to be thrown into the sea! Ben Greenway here! Of all men in the world, Ben Greenway here!"

"I only thought to do you a service," said Big Sam.

"Service!" shouted the angry Bonnet. But as it was of no use to say anything more upon this subject, he ordered the sailing master to send to him, first, Ben Greenway, and then to summon to him, no matter where they might be or what they might be doing, the whole crew.

The other, surprised at this order, objected that all of the men could not leave their posts, but Bonnet overruled him.

"Send me the whole of them, every man jack. The fellow at the wheel will remain here and steer. As for the rest, the ship will take care of itself for a space."

"What can that old fool of a farmer intend to do?" said Big Sam, as he went away; "he is like a child with a toy, and wants to see his crew in a bunch."

Presently came Ben Greenway in a smothered rage.

"An' I suppose, sir," said he, without salutation, "that ye have gi'en orders about the care o' the cows and the lot o' poultry that I engaged to send to the town to-day?"

"Don't mention cows or poultry to me!" cried Bonnet. "I am a more angry man than you are, Ben Greenway, and as soon as I have time to attend to it, I shall look into this matter of your shutting up, and shall come down upon the wrongdoers like sheeted lightning."

"What a fearful rage ye're in, Master Bonnet," said Ben. "I never saw the like o' it. If ye're really angrier than I am, I willna revile; leavin' it to ye to do the revilin' wha are so much better qualified. An' so it wasna accident that I was shut up in the ship's pantry, leavin' Mistress Kate to gang hame by hersel', an' to come out this mornin' findin' the ship at sea an' ye in command?"

"Say no more, Ben," cried Bonnet. "I am more sorry to see you here than if you were any other man I know in this world. But I cannot put you off now, nor can I talk further about it, being very much pressed with other matters. Now here comes my crew."

Ben Greenway retired a little, leaning against the rail.

"An' this is his crew?" he muttered; "a lot o' unkempt wild beasts, it strikes me. Mayhap he has gathered them together to convert their souls, an' he is

Now all the mariners of the Sarah Williams were assembled aft and Capt. Bonnet was standing on his quarterdeck, looking out upon them. He was dressed in a naval uniform, to which was added a broad red sash. In his belt were two pairs of big pistols, and a stout sword hung by his side. He folded his arms; he knitted his brows, and he gazed fiercely about to see if anyone were absent, although if anyone had been absent he would not have known it. His eyes flashed, his cheeks were flushed, and it was plain enough to all that he had something important to say.

FASTED AT THE COMMAND OF GOD.

Pennsylvania Man Eats Nothing for Sixty-Nine Days—Long Abstinence Works Cure.

Sharon, Pa.—Lying on a cot in the hospital, B. J. Williams, who has just broken a 69 days' fast, related his experience during that time. He is in a very feeble condition, and the physicians say that if it were not for his wonderful constitution he could not survive many hours.

"My fast was self-imposed," said Williams. "I decided to abstain from eating because God told me to while I was eating my supper on the evening of October 28 last. I seemed to hear some one whisper to me: 'Abstain from eating.' To me it came as a message from God. From that time on until I was too weak to move and was taken to the hospital I did not eat any solid food. I took liquid nourishment regularly. At first I seemed famished, and I had an awful craving for something to eat, but luckily I had the physical endurance and decided to make a world-record for long fasts.

"The smell of cooking foods nearly drove me crazy, and I was forced to stay in my room to keep from breaking my fast. My friends tried both persuasion and threats to get me to eat, but I told them I had no desire. Often they would place appetizing viands in my room, thinking I would become so ravenous I would devour them, but I sent them back to the kitchen.

"For the last four weeks I did not suffer as severely as I did the fore part of my fast. I was aware that I was losing flesh rapidly, because my clothes became like bags on my body. I craved for food, but I reasoned that as I had been without it four weeks I could do so for as many more. My brain seemed bewildered at times, and I lost interest in everything.

"Before I began my fast I was troubled with some sort of stomach trouble and could scarcely retain any food, but since the doctors began giving me solid foods I do not suffer any pain. I believe that long abstinence has cured me."

HIDES JEWELS IN HOMEMADE BUSTLE.

Woman Seeks for Article Dropped on Street, in Which Were Diamonds Worth $500.

Kansas City, Mo.—"Lost—Homemade bustle; liberal reward; 633 Locust street, Kansas City."

The foregoing advertisement was inserted in a newspaper by Mrs. Frank Rohde, who explained why she was willing to pay liberally for the return of a "home-made bustle."

"No, it was not a family heirloom, just an ordinary home-made bustle," said she. "But it was worth about $500, for I had sewed up in it a diamond ring, a diamond stud, a diamond and turquoise ring, and a moonstone ring. They were jewels belonging to my mother and myself, and—well, we thought we had found a safe place for them.

"Yes, I lost it myself, but how I can't explain. I was shopping yesterday, and might have lost it in one of the big stores, in a car, or on the street. It has probably been thrown into a trash can or kicked into a gutter. No one would think of picking up a thing of that kind, ordinarily. The jewels had been in their hiding place more than a year."

Mrs. Rohde is the wife of a Kansas City (Kan.) fireman.

Hunting Bugs for Bounty.

Greensburg, Pa.—"For each and every dozen bugs captured and delivered, dead or alive, by the inmates of this home to the superintendent's office a bounty of three cents will be paid. Delivery must be made before nine a. m. on the day of capture." This message was posted in the Westmoreland county almshouse, and is signed by Superintendent Evans. The 100 inmates spent a very busy and profitable night, though they lost sleep. It was a bad night for the festive bedbug, as several scores of "scalps" were laid on the table the next morning. The county home has been overrun with bugs that bite early, late and often, and there were not a few complaints from the inmates. Superintendent Evans, instead of spending the county funds in bug powder, decided to offer a bounty on bug "scalps." Success of his plan has exceeded expectations and the bounty will be continued.

Money Advanced to Tenants.

The amount of money advanced to Irish tenants for the purchase of their land under the various acts of parliament passed since 1886 is, according to a parliamentary paper, $128,866,015.

GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER.

Bridgeport Murder Trial Ends In Conviction of Schmidt.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., March 16.—Paul Herbert Schmidt, eighteen years old, on trial in the superior court here for murder in the first degree, was found guilty of manslaughter last night, the jury returning a verdict after being out an hour and a half. Schmidt was accused of murdering William Taylor on the Crittenton farm in Sherman.

Judge Wheeler sentenced him to not more than ten years nor less than nine years in the state prison and fined him the nominal sum of $1. The maximum sentence for manslaughter in this state is ten years.

Schmidt and Taylor were employed on the Crittenton farm, and on the day of the supposed murder all the members of the household were absent. The accused man, it was charged, broke into the safe, robbed the house of many valuables and while doing so was caught by Taylor, whom he shot to death with a shotgun. Schmidt fled, pawned the stolen articles, and several weeks later was arrested in Paducah county, Ky.

Counsel for the prisoner attempted to prove self defense. Schmidt's mother, apparently the only friend he had in this state, was a constant attendant in court during the trial of her son.

OFFICER SHOT BY SENTRIES.

Lieutenant Francis Boone Attempted to Escape.

VANCOUVER, Wash., March 16.—Lieutenant Francis Boone, whose conviction by court martial has been made public, made a desperate attempt to escape from the barracks and was shot by the sentries.

Two serious but not necessarily fatal wounds were inflicted.

One bullet entered the head and another pierced the shoulder. Boone is in a debilitated state of health and blood poisoning is feared. The attending surgeons, however, express the hope that they will be able to save his life. It is reported that Boone courted death at the hands of the sentries, making a break for liberty to draw their fire.

THE DREAM OF HIS LIFE.

General Booth Carrying Salvation to the Holy City.

JERUSALEM, March 16.—General Booth of the Salvation Army has left Yafa for Australia. Before leaving here, with the Salvation banner flying over his head, he read a proclamation expressing his happiness at the accomplishment of the dream of his life in visiting Jerusalem and exhorting all Christians to co-operate in alleviating the miseries of outcasts.

The last carriages of the special train from Yafa, with 300 American and other tourists from the Hamburg-American line steamer Moltke on board, were derailed and upset, but no one was injured.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINTIY.

A meeting of the congregation of the First Baptist church, of New Market, was held Tuesday night when the definite plans for remodeling the church were announced and approved by those in attendance. The plans of the trustees were read and a vote showed the majority of the congregation in favor of the improvements. As was stated in the trustees' announcement, the alterations in the edifice are electric light wiring, wall papering, oak painting, the erection of a platform for the choir, the enlargement of the pulpit and the removal of part of the gallery. The work will commence at once, and it is estimated that the changes will be completed by the latter part of the month. During the time that the work is going on at the First Baptist church the services will be held in the Seventh-Day Baptist building.

In addition to the first team, a second baseball aggregation known as the Dunellen Juniors has been organized, and will begin practice with the earliest favorable weather. The captain of the team is Robert Bogardus, and the manager will be William Giddis. Among the candidates are Walter Law, Harvey Giles, Robert Lowrie, John Logan, Arthur Bogardus, Robert Bogardus and William Giddis. The team will averge about eighteen years of age, and will play games with the various teams of about the same age in the vicinity.

The pupils of the Whittier School have announced their intention of putting a nine on the diamond this spring, and have already begun to plan for a good team. The material includes Russell Garretson, captain; George Vleet, Benjamin Dodwell, Earl Ising, Thomas Moban, Harry Giddis, Ray Huff and Harry Vleet.

Rev. W. W. Casselberry, of the Presbyterian church, will exchange pulpits next Sunday with Rev. Mr. Davis, of Lebanon. On the following Sunday, Rev. Mr. Jordon, of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, will preach to the Presbyterian congregation, while the regular pastor is enjoying a short vacation.

An unknown farmer, who was on his way to Bound Brook, suffered a delay of about an hour yesterday by an accident to his hay wagon. A front wheel came off and part of the heavy load of hay was thrown off the wagon. It took him some time to get the rig in condition and clear the road.

The next and last meeting of the Fortnightly Whist Club will be held at the home of Miss Cory. At the recent meeting at the home of Miss Edith Boice, Hazelwood Craig won the men's prize.

The barn formerly owned by James Manning has been puchased by Eugene Runyon, who will shortly build on the corner of Lincoln and Dunellen avenues.

Jacob Snell has sold out his butcher business, and after a month's vacation will go into some other business. The purchaser was William Davis, of New York.

DR. RICHARDS AT HOPE

Prominent Divine Lectures in the West End Chapel.

A LARGE AUDIENCE

"The Wideness of God's Mercy," His Subject—Refers Feelingly to the Late Rev. Dr. Yerkes.

The second in the series of special addresses for the Lenten season at Hope chapel was given last night, by Rev. William R. Richards, D. D., of the Brick church, New York. A large congregation, including many of Dr. Richards' former parishioners of the Crescent Avenue church, filled the chapel to the doors. Judge William N. Runyon, who has been for years the pianist and music leader in the Sunday-school, presided in that capacity and several minutes was spent in stirring congregational singing.

The subject of Dr. Richards' address was, "The Wideness of God's Mercy." Jesus' parable of the Good Samaritan was used as the suggestive text and the entire address centered in a way about that. It was first pointed out that the lawyer who asked Jesus, "Who is my neighbor," and was answered by the parable was himself probably a pretty good neighbor to his immediate family and countrymen. The same was true of the priest and the Levite in the story, good Jews as they doubtless were. They obeyed the command to "love thy neighbor as thyself", so long as "neighbor" meant only those within certain limits, and it was a good thing that they did, so far as it went. A man must be a good husband, said Dr. Richards, a good father, a true neighbor to those nearest to him before he can begin to consider the wider obligations. The thing is, however, that according to Jesus a man cannot stop there. He must go beyond all limits even as far as the wideness of God's mercy.

The way Jesus brought home this truth to the Jews was through the story of the Samaritan, a man who belonged to the very nearest race to the Jews toward which, nevertheless, the traditional feeling was most bitter. They even had much the same religion but, like different sects of Christianity sometimes, they were all the more bester for that. This disposition of even religious sects to be exclusive was illustrated by the story of a certain rather narrow congregation which had painted upon the door of their church the suitable words "Jesus Only." Weather and time, however, had worn away the first three letters and the motto remained "Us Only," which perhaps was even more appropriate for that particular church, and might be a good motto for some others, but not for any who have really applied Christ's story of the Good Samaritan.

At this point Dr. Richards paid a tribute to the churches of Plainfield and their well known spirit of co-operation. Especially earnest was his reference to the influence of Dr. Yerkes in this connection. Referring to the honored clergyman who so lately passed away, he spoke most feelingly of him, especially of his influence in the Ministers' Association and among his associates in the pastorates of the several churches.

"The Plainfield churches are neighborly and yet," said Dr. Richards, "it is probably true that there are some in this audience, unless it has been very strangely selected, who believe in limiting their neighborliness at some point.

"The trouble is probably that such people do not see the injured man lying beside the Jericho road, but he is always there. It makes no difference to what race he belongs nor how repulsive he may be in appearance we are bound to get down and help him if we see him. Moreover, we are especially bound, as Christians and as Christian churches, to give the help of religion to the those who are suffering for the lack of it. We must not be like priest and Levite who might have given the highest comforts to the man by the Jericho road, but left it to the poor Samaritan to provide only the bare physical necessities which was probably all he could give. Commerce and science are not enough for Christian people, to give the rest of the world they must also give religion, and there must be no possible limit in their giving of it less than the limits of God's mercy. People like the Japanese seem to be forcing themselves into our consideration, which of course, ought never to be necessary."

Dr. Richards made a happy reference to Hope chapel's way of always

ROGERS SILVER CONCERN TO DISCARD ALL OLD DYES

WILL ADOPT NEW TRADE MARK TO AVOID INFRINGEMENT.

For the purpose of complying with the law concerning the infringement of copyright names, the W. H. Rogers Corporation is now preparing to discard all of its old dyes for a new style. In consequence the plant on Madison avenue is shut down pending the change. The style of trade-mark to be used has not yet been fully determined upon, but this matter will be settled within a short time.

It will be remembered that this corporation has been engaged in a legal combat with the International Silver Company, the trade-mark used by the local concern being considered an infringement on that of the compla ning company. The matter has been in the courts for a long time, and it is understood that while a man has a right to use his name in the manufacture of an article, he does not have the right to imitate the name of another concern having a previous copyright. The suit has been watched with more than ordinary interest throughout the whole country.

The W. H. Rogers Corporation has been endeavoring to prove its right to the use of a name, without any intention of injury to others, and in changing the dyes used on its silverware will do all and more than the law requires to escape any infringement. Not only will the dyes be changed, but all the old labels will be destroyed and new ones substituted. The plant will resume work just as soon as the changes are completed.

"COCKED HAT" CONTEST FOR PARK BOWLERS

COMMENCING TUESDAY NIGHT AND CONTINUING WEEKLY.

The Board of Governors, of the Park Club, has made appropriations for bowling tournament prizes and commencing Tuesday night at 8:30 there will be a "cocked hat" tournament, continuing every Tuesday until May 9. The highest individual average each Tuesday will score three points, next highest two points and the third highets one point. The contestant having the greatest number of points at the close on May 9, will receive the trophy.

In addition to this there will be a ten pin tournament for Wednesday nights at 8:30, commencing March 22 and continuing every Wednesday night until the end of September. Ten pins will be rolled. Points will be counted as in the "cocked hat" tournament. In the ten pin contest handicaps will be given and a plan for varying them will be adopted.

COMPLETING PLANS FOR YERKES' MEMORIAL SERVICE

DR. CHAMBLISS ALSO ARRANGING FOR SECOND ONE IN NEW YORK.

It has been thought best to hold the memorial service at the First Baptist church in memory of the late Dr. Yerkes on either the last Sunday in March or the first Sunday in April. Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, the pastor of the church, who has the arrangements in charge, is planning to secure Rev. Erskine M. Rodman, Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck and several other local pastors to take part in the service. He also hopes to have Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, of the Brick Presbyterian church, New York, present. Besides the addresses, there will be appropriate music.

Dr. Chambliss has been made chairman of the committee of arrangements to provide for a service to be held in New York on Sunday, April 9, in Dr. Yerkes' memory. The venerable pastor was one of the regular attendants at the meetings of the New York Ministers' Association and the members want to give expression of their feelings of appreciation.

George Lunger's Life Despaired of.

His sons, Raymond and Harry Lunger, of East Fifth street, were summoned to his bedside last night.

FIREMEN HAVE A JUBILEE

Borough's Paid Department Entertains Many Guests.

FIRST ANNIVERSARY

Plenty of Good Cigars, Music, Addresses and Lunch Make Up the Programme in Saengerbund Hall.

Three hundred borough residents, comprising constituents of both sides of the political fence, together with a generous sprinkling of friends from the city side of the brook, mingled harmoniously in Saengerbund Hall, last night, as the guests of the North Plainfield fire department. It marked the first anniversary of the paid organization and though small in numbers, the members did themselves proud by the manner in which they entertained the large gathering. Informality was the watchward but nevertheless it was one of the pleasantest affairs yet given in the borough noted for its political strife and social harmony.

As the guests entered the hall they were helped to cigars and then escorted to seats. Orchestral music entertained them until Mayor Smalley made his appearance on the stage and gave a few introductory remarks, detailing facts about the borough's fire fighters and ending by introducing James E. Martine. The "farmer orator" was accorded a vociferous welcome and gave one of his usual breezy addresses, interspersed with witty stories and honest commendation of the department which protects North Plainfield homes. A. W. Flynn, a professional vocalist from New York, gave illustrated songs, one of which was "The Man With the Ladder and the Hose," and A. E. Willard made everybody laugh with his rube impersonation and musical harmonica.

A second address was made by Mayor Smalley in which he touched lightly on matters politically. The fact that he is still the chief executive, he said, was due to no fault of his but came about through the anti-spring election law. He expressed the hope that when a new mayor is elected next fall, it will wipe out all differences and that harmony in every sense of the word will prevail. He intimated that another celebration would be held next year and although there were many of the Exempt Firemen's Association members before him, he said he wanted to see the volunteers and paid men lay aside their animosities and mingle together. The paid department, he declared, is superior to the volunteer system as the former are always ready for duty and they make fire fighting a study because it is their living.

The mayor was followed by Andrew E. Kenney, of the Democratic ranks, who gave a witty address that put everybody in good humor. He asserted that he had been a resident of the borough for twenty years and during the greater part of that time there had been political "scraps," most of them induced by the man who had preceded him in speaking. He also complimented the firemen and expressed his appreciation at being a guest. The "jubilee" ended by everybody adjourning to the supper room and enjoying an elaborate bouffe lunch and more cigars.

The committee of firemen which had the affair in charge consisted of Captain M. P. T. Smith, Captain M. H. Terry, Lieutenant William Campbell, William McCullough, Frank Schuck and Harry Dunham.

E. M. Cave Resigns.

Eugene M. Cave, who has been superintendent of the First Presbyterian church Sunday-school for eight years, resigned the position at the annual meeting of the school on Wednesday night. This action is partially due to Mr. Cave's health, which has not been the best. A committee comprising Harry Williams, I. B. Hill, Charles M. Hummer, Miss Bertha Wilcox and Miss Lettie Remsen was appointed to nominate a superintendent and an assistant to be elected at the next monthly meeting. Fred Haseltine was elected secretary; Freeman Shotwell, treasurer, and L. D. Townley, librarian. The reports for the year show a good condition financially and as to increase in membership. Before the meeting adjourned a vote of thanks was given to Mr. Cave for his faithful services.

WOMEN MAY VOTE AT SCHOOL MEETING

MRS. FLORENCE HOWE HALL ISSUES A NOTICE.

Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, of this city, chairman New Jersey school suffrage committee, has issued the following: "In spite of the law changing the date of town meetings, the school meetings will be held in our rural communities on March 21 (the third Tuesday) as usual. Women have the right to vote on these, on all questions, with the exception of the election of school trustees. They may serve as chairman or teller of a meeting, and may vote for such officers, as also for a tax or the issuing of bonds. They can also serve as school trustees if elected by the votes of men. (See chapter CCXXXVI., laws of 1873).

"Many women have done excellent work in this capacity," she states, "and substantial schoolhouses at Westfield, South Orange, Cranford and elsewhere owe their existence to the feminine vote. Since women are especially interested in the education of children, it is to be hoped the mothers, as well as the fathers, will attend the school meetings and help to secure the best advantages for the coming generation—the hope of the future."

Inspecting Manual Training Work.

The annual exhibit of the manual training work will be held at the North Plainfield High School building on Tuesday afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock. The parents and friends of the pupils are invited. Evarts Tracy, Wesley Abbott and A. R. Fisk were appointed a committee to arrange for the concert. After the concert there will be a dance.

ON A BIG SCALE

Original Site Inadequate and a Large Tract Will be Secured for Purpose.

Arrangements have been made for the general committee of the Oshkosh Dreamland Exhibition Company, Ltd., to hold a meeting at the Casino Tuesday night at 8 o'clock sharp, when will be unfolded plans covering the principal scope of the undertaking which promises to eclipse anything heretofore undertaking in Plainfield. That it will be "the greatest show on earth," so far as Union County is concerned, is admitted.

Already it has been found that the location first suggested will be entirely too small for the purpose and a larger area is being considered. It has passed from "the one horse" stage and is now "a three ring" production in circus parlance. According to the original plans the Casino and the surrounding streets were to have been used with the consent of the Common Council, but now it is planned to make use of some large tract of land in the city conveniently located to trolley lines.

Tuesday night will decide where it will be held and on that occasion also the various sub-committees will be announced. Oshkosh will be in control, but it is arranged that active and public spirited citizens who do enjoy membership in that interesting organization will assist in making the charitable venture in May a huge success.

WOMEN THE SUBJECT OF BACHELOR MARTINE

FARMER-ORATOR ENTERTAINS THE FRIENDLY SONS OF ST. PATRICK.

Under the auspices of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, a banquet was held in the Catholic Club house, Elizabeth, last night, which was attended by about 125 persons, including Mayor James F. Buckle, James K. Martine, P. S. Kiely and George Tobin, of this city. The farmer-orator responded to the toast "Women," with which subject he confessed he was not so well versed as politics, but he ventured that his married brethern would make the same plea.

"The world was sad! the garden was a wild!
And man, the hermit sigh'd—till woman smiled."

And Mr. Martine's turn to smile came when Senator Hillery arose, at the conclusion of his eulogism of woman, and read an original love poem addressed to the farmer-orator by one of America's most noted women writers.

The other speakers included Bishop John A. O'Grady, of New Brunswick; State Senator James P. Minturn, of Hoboken; Judge Gilbert Collins, of Jersey City; State Senator Thomas A. Hillery, of Morristown; Charles F. X O'Brien, of Jersey City. Former Mayor Ryan, of Elizabeth, was chairman of the reception committee.

Street Committee Work.

The plans for macadamizing and repairing streets during the coming season and installing the Richmond street and Plainfield avenue storm sewers and the decision to ask for an increased appropriations from the Common Council, formed the topics for discussion at the meeting of the street committee last night. The plans will not be made known until after the adjourned meeting to be held on Thursday, March 23.

They're Happy—It's a Girl.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Marion Hall, of Orange, are rejoicing over the birth of a daughter, their second, born yesterday. Mr. Hall is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David P. Hall, of Madison avenue, and the grandson of Mrs. Julia Ward Howe.

St. Patrick's Day Masses.

Masses in honor of St. Patrick were held at St. Mary's church at 5:30, 6:30 and 9 o'clock this morning, and at St. Joseph's church at 7 and 7:30. This evening at St. Joseph's church, a lecture will be delivered on "Ireland."

DUNELLEN METHODISTS CALL ANOTHER PASTOR

REV. ALEX. ANDERSON, OF GLADSTONE, MAY SUCCEED S. K. DOOLITTLE.

Failing in its attempt to secure Rev. J. H. E. Schultz as pastor of the Dunellen M. E. church, the congregation has extended a call to Rev. Alexander A. Anderson, of Gladstone, who in all probability will succeed Rev S. K. Doolittle, the retiring clergyman. Rev. Mr. Anderson has supplied the pulpit on several occasions, and is generally liked. He is a man of about thirty-six years of age, an able speaker and has a strong personality.

At present he is filling the pulpit of the Gladstone Methodist church though his home was formerly in Bayonne. Rev. Mr. Anderson preached there for four years, having entered the ministry in 1897. He is a married man and has one son. The call has only recently been extended, the trustees having had various other preachers in view. It is said that the wish of the Dunellen congregation is favored by the presiding elder and in all probability the conference will confirm the choice of the trustees.

The conference meets on April 5, when the changes will be made known, and the request of the Dunellenites considered. At this meeting, Rev. S. K. Doolittle, who has been pastor of the Dunellen Methodist church for over four years, will be given a charge. It is not known to what place the retiring minister will be assigned.

SOMERSET LAWYERS HOLD A BANQUET

SAMUEL S. SWACKHAMER AMONG THE SPEECHMAKERS.

S. S. Swackhamer, of the firm of Codington & Swackhamer, was one of the speakers at the annual banquet of the Somerset County Bar Association held at the Somerset House, Somerville, last night. There were twenty-five members present and among the other speakers were R. V. Lindabury, John R. Hardin and Vice Chancellor Bergen. Former Senator Charles A. Reed, H. C. Suydam and Judge Garretson were also present.

Mr. Swackhamer's remarks were along the line of the necessity of high character in the members of the Bar and the importance of thorough work and necessity of gaining and maintaining the confidence of the people. Some of the other speakers referred to the honor conferred on the former Assemblyman from North Plainfield by the Legislature on Monday night when he was given the privileges of the floor.

James L. Griggs was the toastmaster and his witticism put everyone in the best of humor.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD'S SCHOOL PETITION

CITIZENS WANT HIGHER GRADES IN EDUCATIONAL COURSE.

The voters of South Plainfield, at a school meeting held in that place, last night, adopted a motion which provided for the appointment of a committee comprising A. Steengraff, John Geary, J. F. TenEyck, William Norman and Peter McDonough, to get the signatures of all the voters in the district to a petition to the Board of Education favoring the establishment of the ninth and tenth grades in the local school.

The meeting was held for the purpose of entering a protest against sending ninth and tenth grade pupils to New Market, when they can be taught at home at less expense and trouble. It was shown that South Plainfield has twice as many resident pupils as New Market and it seemed unreasonable and extravagant to send them to New Market.

William Hamilton was chairman, and T. A. Lanneberry secretary of the meeting, which was an enthusiastic and orderly one. The corps of teachers was pronounced to be the best in the State. Before the meeting adjourned the future welfare of the village along other lines was considered and a committee appointed to report later.

Legislature's Adjournment.

The Legislature will adjourn on Wednesday, March 29. Speaker Avis and President Cross have agreed on that date.

TEN YEARS FOR TUNSTALL

Heavy Sentences Imposed by Judge Schenck This Morning on Four Negroes.

ASSAULTED POLICE

Court Delivers Scathing Arraignment in Imposing Sentence—Defendants' Counsel Ask for Mercy.

Before a crowd which packed the Somerset county court house at Somerville today, Judge Schenck imposed sentence upon the four Plainfield negroes, two of whom were convicted of murderous assault and two of simple assault on Marshals Flack, Smalley and Klein on Christmas eve, as follows: Whit Tunstall, ten years in State prison at hard labor; James Tems, one year in State prison at hard labor; Samuel Hunt and Thomas Henderson, each five months in the county jail.

When court opened this morning, Prosecutor Griggs moved at once for sentence but before it was pronounced, counsel for the defendants were allowed to speak. They made strong pleas for mercy, briefly on various points in favor of the men brought out at the recent trials. When they concluded Judge Schenck spoke as follows:

"The crimes of which you have been convicted have caused a great deal of comment and much anxiety to a number of people. Two officers were seriously injured and their lives threatened. You have been ably defended and everything has been done for you that could be done and you should be grateful to your counsel for their efforts. All of you have been convicted on two of the charges and three received the recommendation of the court's mercy on two of those charges. As to you, Tunstall, I have this to say: if it had not been for what you did the balance of the matter was comparatively light. The cuts you inflicted were very bad and the jury was justified in finding you guilty. I can see, however, that it was all done on the spur of the moment and therefore I am not going to impose upon you as severe a penalty as I could under the law. You must learn, and every man in the county must learn to control himself.

"The sentence of the court is that for the assault with intent to kill on Flack and Klein, you, Tunstall, must serve ten years in State prison at hard labor, and for the assault on Smalley, you serve one in State prison, the the sentences to run concurrently. As to you, Tems, you were convicted for the assault on Smalley and the affray was started by your challenging remarks to the officer. The jury was justified in finding you guilty. Your sentence is that you be confined in State prison at hard labor for one year, on each of the three changes, these sentences to run concurrently.

"As to Hunt and Henderson, you were acquitted on the first charge and the court is satisfied that you took little part in the affray. The sentence of the court is that you be confined in the county jail for five months on each of the charges on which you were convicted, the sentences to run concurrently."

The court's decree was taken without comment by the counsel for the men. Lawyers Swackhamer, Angleman and DeMeza, but they afterward consulted with them and offered them cheering words. They will be taken to Trenton tomorrow.

Planning Commencement Exercises

The North Plainfield Board of Education is already planning for the commencement exercises to be held in June. It has been definitely settled, but it is possible that it may be held in the Saengerbund Hall, that place having been remodled and enlarged. The address on that occasion will be delivered by Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, of the First Baptist church, he having consented to take that part in the programme. It is proposed to make the exercises more interesting than ever and several features are now being discussed.

Climbed 125 Foot Pole.

Clarence Mundy, who has come to be recognized as the local "Steeple Jack," successfully climbed the flagpole at the Plainfield Country Club's golf course, yesterday, for the purpose of painting it. The pole is 125 feet high.

Stole Wagonload of Wire.

Thieves raided the wires of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company and Baltimore and Ohio Railroad at Bayway, in the southern outskirts of Elizabethport, near the Baltimore and Ohio bridge over the Kills Tuesday night. It is said they got off with a wagon load of copper wire. The Postal Telegraph Company's wires running through Meadow street, in the eastern outskirts of Elizabeth, were also cut and stolen, presumably by the same gang of robbers who were operating along Bayway.

AMUSEMENTS.

Thursday, March 16, Mrs. Fiske and the Manhatan Company appeared at the Manhattan Theatre, New York, in "Leah Kleschna" for the one hundredth time. This play today, in the hands of the superb company that interprets it, fills the Manhattan steadily, as it has done from the first, and there is no sign whatever of the least weakening in its powerful hold on the public. As for its performance at this time, it is somewhat truly worth witnessing. Even on its first night, months ago, the acting of "Leah Kleschna" was hailed as the best seen in New York in a generation. Mrs. Fiske as the girl thief whose great natural integrity of character is awakened by admiration and love for a noble man originally showed new phases of the art that has distinguished her many difficult parts, while her associates in the several strong roles of the play disclosed remarkable aptitudes for their differing parts, and the work of all combined was a revelation to the press and the public. That this public prizes it is evident from the delighted audiences that throng the Manhattan, where scores who have enjoyed this play go again and again, so great is the pleasure of witnessing the work of Mrs. Fiske and her associates. There is but one matinee a week—on Saturday—and tickets should be secured for all performances in advance.

"Doc" Domehead.

Old Doctor Domehead, of "science simplified:"
He couldn't build a hencoop, by jingo, if he tried,
But dabbles deep in science—solves mighty problems, and
Each week instructs his class of three, "But—on the other hand—"

If you have the blues, consult old "Doc" Domehead; if fortune has frowned on you, consult "Doc" Domehead; if SHE has failed to smile, consult "Doc" Domehead. He is an advocate of the Simple Life, and his specialty is "Science Made Simple." He will make you laugh in spite of yourself, and will cure all your ills with the antics of himself and his class.

Doctor Domehead's class has taken the leading position in the Philadelphia Sunday North American's Comic Supplement.

You will get more fun out of these pictures than you ever had in your life out of a funny paper.

It is a new comic page that is really funny—a page with a laugh in every line.

With the old Doctor are Phoebe Ann, a scientific maiden, a fourteen-carat cut-up whose name is Dennis, and studious Walter Longlegs—he's a "yes, sir" proposition—who, as the class, add to the gaiety of every situation.

The Doctor knows his business; he shows that at the start—"but—on the other hand"—there you get right down to the point, and, as the wily press agent is wont to declare, the point "must be seen to be appreciated," and to appreciate it thoroughly you should become one of the Doctor's patients at once.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

A baseball meeting was held Wednesday night at the home of Manager Vail, though on account of the small attendance no definite action was taken. It was expected that a decision for or against the proposed baseball league would be made, but the subject was only touched upon briefly. From reports, the general opinion of the fans is that a league of five teams would be profitable. It has been suggested that a schedule be made out so that every third Saturday the teams would have dates with other outside aggregations. Communication with other teams in the vicinity shows that the possibilities of a league between Dunellen, Clinton Avenue, Bound Brook, O. F. C. and Y. M. C. A. are bright.

Following the regular church prayer meeting of the First Baptist church, of New Market, Wednesday night, the Y. P. S. C. E. held its annual meeting, electing officers and transacting the usual routine business. The balloting resulted as follows: President, John I. Nelson; vice president, Mrs. Ziba Osmun; secretary, Miss Ethel Garrieson; treasurer, Mahlon Dayto. The committees will be appointed by the executives of the society before the next meeting. The reports were received and showed the year's work to have been extensive. In the future, until the repairs on the church are made, the regular prayer meetings will be held on Friday night at the Seventh-Day Baptist church.

At the regular meeting of Lakeside Council, Daughters of Liberty, last night, plans were outlined for a social and entertainment to be given next Thursday night at Friendship Hall. A euchre will be a feature of the entertainment. It is expected that members of other councils in the vicinity will be in attendance and will aid in making the evening a pleasant one.

adding extensions, saying that it seemed to him that he never visited the chapel when they were not taking a collection for that purpose. This, he said, was quite in harmony with the spirit of which he was speaking, the spirit of limitless extension of Christian sympathy and labor in accordance with the wideness of God's mercy. This was said apropos of the present effort being made by Hope chapel to raise $2,000 for the new primary room by Easter Sunday, $1,500 of which is already in sight.

Following the address Dr. Richards held an informal reception to his old friends.

THE FORUM.

Editor, The Daily Press:

The children's education is an interest so close to the public heart that no effort is needed to bring out the voters when school questions are to be decided. There is no doubt that next Tuesday's meeting in the borough will be a full one.

In your issue of March 15 you drew attention to the intrusion of politics into the school board's meetings. It is certainly a blight, and there is no father or mother in the borough who doesn't think so. It seems to the writer that a realizing sense, in the candidates, of the very great necessity of harmonious action in the board, ought to be a leading consideration in making nominations. Politics has done away with our spring elections, which, I think, is a serious injury—we mustn't let it poison our school administration.

BIG DEMAND FOR SUPPER

Annual Affair at Trinity Reformed a Decided Success.

NEARLY 300 GUESTS

Affair Conducted by the Young Woman's Mission Band Has Many Delightful Features.

One of the most successful social affairs that has yet been given in the edifice, was held in the lecture room of Trinity Reformed church, last night, when the Young Woman's Mission Band conducted an oyster supper. It began at 6 o'clock, continuing until 9, and in the three hours nearly 300 people were served with a delicious repast while they were entertained otherwise with a programme of vocal and instrumental music. So great was the demand from the unusual number of dinners that the Band's "larder" was twice depleted and only the ingenuity and energy of the members warded off the threatened famine.

The affair taking place on the eve of St. Patrick's day, the memory of the good old Scotch missionary was honored in several ways, principally in the decorations and the incidental programme. Green was the prevailing color in the former, flowers and crepe paper being used with good effect, while every member of the Band wore a ribbon of emerald hue. The church choir rendered Irish songs and solos were contributed by Miss Etta Raybert, who sang "Kathleen Mavourneen" and "The Last Rose of Summer," and Miss Florence Bennett, who gave "The Dear Home Songs." Both Miss Raybert and Miss Bennett were in excellent voice and the combined sweetness of tone and the appropriateness of the selections was no small feature of the affair. Irish airs were played on the cornet by Edward Young, Miss Lillian A. Force acting as accompanist throughout.

In addition to the dining tables placed throughout the room there were others holding saleable articles, each presided over by members of the organization. They, too, derived benefit from the large attendance and may of the stocks were exhausted early in the evening. The cake table was in charge of Mrs. P. B. Hodge and Mrs. A. Zeiss, while candy was sold by Miss Cora Laire, Miss Cora Miller and Miss Emma Line.

The prospective diners were taken care of as they entered by a reception committee comprised of Mrs. C. Schenck, Mrs. F. E. Woodruff, and Miss Wilhelmina Vroom. In charge of the tables were Mrs. Leonard Smith, Mrs. Theodore Mantz, Mrs. W. F. Crawford, Miss May VanFleet, Miss Minnie Wyman and Miss Mabel Wilson. Every attention was shown those who sat down and though at times the abundance of guests caused a delay, the serving was accomplished quickly, the young women seeming to be tireless in their efforts to make every part of the supper pleasant. Chicken salad and oysters in several styles were features of the repast but the menu offered many others and the orders were executed by the following corps of waitresses: The Misses Kate Bodine, Alice Mills, Mary Gray, Jessie Garthwaite, Hazel Martin, Minnie Nischwitz, Edith Leek, Edna Dilts, Edna Debele, Florence Scribner, Estella Downs, Mabel Gano, Margaret Leggett, Helen Smith, Annie Bodine, Lyda Wyman, Mamie Davenport and Ada VanDoren, all of whom were in charge of Miss Anna Searing.

The menu cards at the several tables were the handiwork of Mrs. R. A. Meeker, and the representation of the green Shamrock around the edge of the cards was very effective and certainly very appropriate.

The supper was arranged and in charge of the following committee: Mrs. F. S. Cutter, chairman; Miss Lillian A. Force, Miss Anna Searing, Miss Mabel Wilson and Mrs. Leonard Smith, assisted by Mrs. A. R. Davis, Miss Metha Rose and Mrs. H. W. Marshall.

The net proceeds will be nearly $100 and will be used in mission work.

It has been learned that Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie's throat trouble is not at all serious and that he expects to return to his work within a few weeks.

IRELAND'S GREAT DAY

President Visits New York as Hibernians' Guest.

SIXTY THOUSAND IN GRAND PARADE

Roosevelt to Have a Busy Day—Will Attend Niece's Wedding, Banquet at Astor House and at Delmonico's.

NEW YORK, March 17.—The visit of President Roosevelt is the great feature of the St. Patrick's day celebration this year. Between the good old patron saint of the Emerald isle and the President of the United States, New Yorkers are to have ample opportunity to do all the shouting their lungs can stand.

In addition to President Roosevelt's visit on purpose to attend the annual dinner of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, the Ancient Order of Hibernians had one of the greatest street parades in the history of the organization since the extraordinary O'Connell demonstration in 1874.

The police preparations to guard the president during his stay in this city are completed and all avenues along which he is to travel have been carefully inspected and will be patrolled while he passes.

President Roosevelt is scheduled to arrive in Jersey City at 3 o'clock this afternoon. He will be met at the terminal by a squad of New York police and a delegation from the Society of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, whose guest he is to be. Both parties will accompany the president across the river.

On this side of the river the president will be joined by another detachment of police, which will escort him to the house of his sister, Mrs. Douglas Robinson.

The president has had a strenuous day cut out for him. Besides attending the dinner of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick he is to be present at the wedding of his niece, Miss Eleanor Roosevelt, daughter of Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt, to Frank Delano Roosevelt, son of James Roosevelt of Springwood. The marriage is to take place of 6 East Seventy-sixth street, at the home of Mrs. Henry Parish, Jr., Miss Roosevelt's aunt. There will be six bridesmaids, including Miss Alice Roosevelt, the president's daughter. Miss Roosevelt was willing to defy the superstition of a Friday wedding in order to have the president present at her marriage.

President Roosevelt will also find time somewhere between 6 o'clock and midnight to attend the banquet of the Empire State society of the Sons of the American Revolution, to be held at the Hotel Astor. He is booked to start for the dinner at Delmonico's as soon as possible after the wedding of his niece, probably shortly after 6 o'clock. He is to be escorted from the home of his sister on West Fifty-seventh street to Delmonico's by the Sixty-ninth regiment, with Colonel Edward Duffy in command.

The banquet of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick at Delmonico's is to be the most pretentious function ever given by the society. President Roosevelt is the only executive since Washington to attend the banquet.

The toastmaster, Justice Fitzgerald, will deliver the welcoming address, and the president will respond.

The other toasts on the programme are: "The Day We Celebrate," W. Bourke Cockran; "The Irish Revival," Justice William J. Gaynor; "The United States," Justice W. J. Keogh; "The State of New York," Governor Higgins; "The City of New York," Mayor McClellan. Grace will be by Archbishop Farley.

By special permission the banqueters are to have meat on the menu. The traditional Limerick bacon, with greens, is scheduled. Other Irish organizations to have banquets tonight neglected to secure the pope's dispensation regarding meat and must be content with fish as the principal item on their menu.

General Whitman Indicted.

SANTA FE, N. M., March 17.—General W. H. Whitman has been indicted by the grand jury on a charge of obtaining public funds under false pretenses. He was at one time a justice of the New Mexico supreme court and for the last seven years has been adjutant general of the territory. He was removed a month ago by Governor Otero, against whom he filed charges accusing the executive of the misappropriation of military equipment furnished by the United States.

Likened Rosebery to the Cuckoo.

LONDON, March 17.—John E. Redmond, speaking at an Irish banquet last night, said the political prospects of Ireland were never brighter and the Irish question now dominated parliament. Referring to Lord Rosebery's speech on home rule, he likened Lord Rosebery to the cuckoo, which was heard every spring, but which none heeded.

H. E. Simmons Convicted.

PUTNAM, Conn., March 17.—Henry E. Simmons, seventy-one years old, of Summit, N. J., last night was convicted of embezzlement of funds of the estate of Charles S. Hawkins, of which he was administrator. He was tried on eleven counts and convicted on six. Simmons' embezzlements amounted to $7,080.22.

Guillotine Motion Carried.

LONDON, March 17.—The house of commons last night adopted Premier Balfour's guillotine motion—208 to 129. The closure, or guillotine, motion was introduced in the house of commons with the purpose of securing the sanctioning of the estimates before the close of the fiscal year.

PLEDGED TO RESIGN

Peabody Elected Governor of Colorado Under Pledge.

JESSE F. M'DONALD TO BE SEATED

Elected by Majority of Ten—Peabody Claimed Governor Alva Adams Obtained His Seat by Fraudulent Votes.

DENVER, March 17.—James H. Peabody has won his contest for the office of governor of Colorado, from which he retired on Jan. 10, after serving a term of two years, but his victory was achieved only after he had given his pledge to resign and surrender the chair to Lieutenant Governor Jesse F. McDonald, Republican. Governor Peabody took over the office of governor from Adams last night.

The vote in joint convention of the general assembly by which Governor Alva Adams, Democrat, was ousted and Governor James H. Peabody, Republican, installed was 51 to 41. Ten Republicans voted with the Democratic members for Adams. Mr. Peabody maintained that Adams was elected only by fraudulent ballots, cast for the most part in Denver.

Although the Republican majority on joint ballot is 35, the membership of the legislature being 66 Republicans and 31 Democrats, it had been found impossible to gain for Peabody enough Republican votes to reinstate him as governor for the remainder of the biennial term ending in January, 1907. Twenty-two Republican members of the general assembly, according to report, refused to be bound by any action in caucus on the contest and entered into a compact not to vote for Peabody. A majority of them, however, was in favor of seating Lieutenant Governor McDonald in the governor's chair if means could be found to do so legally. Finally the leaders of the opposing Republican factions arranged a compromise by which Peabody would be vindicated by being declared elected and McDonald would be made governor.

At the conference at which the bargain was made pledges were given to the independent Republicans by active supporters of Peabody that he would retire after being seated and permit the lieutenant governor to take the office of governor.

Governor Peabody's undated resignation, it is said, was placed in the hands of W. S. Boynton and will be filed with the secretary of state today.

Governor Adams, who had spent the day packing his effects, surrendered his office to Governor Peabody shortly after 5 o'clock in the afternoon. Scores of letters, telegrams and telephone messages had reached the executive chamber during the day urging Governor Adams to hold his seat by force, but he decided to ignore this advice.

He said he felt outraged at the action of the general assembly and expressed surprise that Mr. Peabody should become a party to what he termed a conspiracy to secure the office of governor for a man who had no claim whatever to the place.

Jesse F. McDonald, who is slated to become governor of Colorado, was born in Ashtabula, O., in 1858. He came to Colorado in 1879 and has extensive mining interests in Leadville and elsewhere. He ran with Peabody on the Republican ticket and was elected lieutenant governor on the face of the returns, while Peabody was defeated on the vote as first retained. By throwing out 104 precincts the assembly gave Peabody a plurality over Adams.

"While I started the McDonald boom, I don't wish to be considered solely responsible for its successful ending," said Senator Morton Alexander. "McDonald is the man to satisfy the Republican ranks and bring peace to the state, disrupted long enough by political dissension. The people of the state will now settle down to quiet business pursuits."

ALBANY, N. Y., March 17.—The plan of W. E. D. Stokes and other New York railroad men for abandoning the proposed barge canal and constructing on the bed of the great Erie canal a freight railroad will be brought to the attention of the legislature Monday night by a constitutional amendment to be introduced by Senator Ambler. The measure provides that the proposed road may be built and operated by the state or private enterprise.

Governor Jelks' Return.

MOBILE, Ala., March 17.—After an absence of twelve months in New Mexico in search of health Governor W. D. Jelks returns next Monday to assume the duties of his office. His return will mean a special session of the legislature to pass on several laws that have been declared unconstitutional by the supreme court.

KATE BONNET

By FRANK R. STOCKTON

Copyright, 1902, by D. Appleton & Co., New York.

"My men," he cried, in a stalwart voice which no one there had ever heard him use before, "my men, look upon me and you will not see what you expect to see! Here is no planter, no dealer in horses and fat cattle, no grower of sugar-cane! Instead of that," he yelled, drawing his sword and flourishing it above his head, "instead of that I am pirate Bonnet, the new terror of the sea! You, my men, my brave men, you are not the crew of the merchantman, the Sarah Williams, you are pirates all. You are the pirate crew of the pirate ship Revenge. That is now the name of this vessel on which you sail, and you are all pirates, who henceforth shall sail her.

"Now look aloft, every man of you, and you will see a skull and bones, under which you sail, under which you fight, under which you gain great riches in coins, in golden bars, and in fine goods fit for kings and queens!"

As he spoke, every rascal raised his eyes aloft, and there, sure enough, floated the black flag with the skull and bones, the terrible "Jolly Roger" of the Spanish Main, and which Bonnet himself had hoisted before he called together his crew.

For the most part the men were astounded, and looked blankly the one upon the other. They knew they had been shipped to sail upon some illegal cruise, and that they were to be paid high wages by the wealthy Bonnet; but that this worthy farmer should be their pirate captain had never entered their minds, they naturally supposing that their future commander would not care to show himself at Barbadoes, and that he would be taken on board at some other port.

As for Big Sam, he was more than astounded—he was stupefied. He had well known the character of the ship from the time that Bonnet had taken him into his service, and he it was who had mainly managed the fitting-up of the vessel and the shipping of her crew. He did not know whom Bonnet intended to command the ship, but from the very beginning he had intended to command her himself. But he had been too late. He had not gone among the men as he had expected to do soon after setting sail, and here this country bumpkin had taken the wind out of his sails and had boldly announced that he himself was the captain of the pirate ship Revenge.

The men now began to talk among themselves; and as Bonnet still stood, his sword clutched in his hand and his chest heaving with the excitement of his own speech, there arose from the crew a cheer. Some of them had known a little about Stede Bonnet, and some of them scarcely anything at all, except that he was able to pay them good wages. Now he had told them that he was a pirate captain, and each of them knew that he himself was a pirate, or was waiting for the chance to become one.

And so they cheered, and their captain's chest heaved higher, and the soul of the luckless Big Sam collapsed, for he knew that after that cheer there was no chance for him; at least, not now.

"Now go, my boys," shouted Bonnet, "back to your places, every one of you, and fall to your duty; and, in honor of that black flag which floats above you, each of you shall drink a glass of grog."

With another shout the crew hurried forward, and Stede Bonnet stood upon the quarter-deck, the pirate captain of the pirate ship Revenge.

And now stepped up to his master that good Presbyterian, Ben Greenway.

"An' ye call yoursel' a pirate, sir?" said he, "an' ye go forth upon the sea to murder an' to rob an' to prepare your soul for hell?"

Mr. Bonnet winked a little.

"You speak strongly, Ben," said he, "but that might have been expected from a man of your fashion of thinking. But let me tell you again, my good Ben Greenway, that I was no party to your being on this vessel. Even now, when my soul swells within me with the pride of knowing that I am a sovereign of the seas and that I owe no allegiance to any man or any government and that my will is my law and is the law of every man upon this vessel—even now, Ben Greenway, it grieves me to know that you are here with me. But the first chance I get I shall set you ashore and have you sent home. Thou art not cut out for a pirate, and as no other canst thou sail with me."

Ben Greenway looked at him steadfastly.

"Master Stede Bonnet," said he, "ye are no more fit to be a bloody pirate than I am. Ye oversee your plantation weel, although I hae often been persuaded that ye knew no' as much as ye think ye do. Ye provide weel for your family, although ye tak' no' pleasure therein ye might hae ta'en had ye been content wi' ane wife, as the Holy Scriptures tell us is enough for ony mon, an' 'ye hae sufficient judgment to tak' the advice o' a judgmatical mon about your lands an' your herds; but when it comes to your ca'in' yoursel' a pirate captain, it is enough to make a deceased person chuckle by the absurdity o' it."

"Ben Greenway," exclaimed Maj. Bonnet, "I don't like your manner of speech."

"O' course ye don't," cried Ben; 'an' I didna expect ye to like it; but it is the solemn truth for a' that."

"I don't want any of your solemn truths," said Bonnet, "and as soon as I get a chance I am going to send you home to your barnyard and your cows."

"No' so fast, Master Bonnet, no' so fast," answered Ben. "I hae ta'en care o' ye for mony years; I hae kept ye out o' mony a bad scrape both in buyin' an' sellin', an' I am sure ye never wanted takin' care o' mair than ye do now; an' I'm just here to tell ye that I am no' goin' back to Barbadoes till ye do, an' that I am goin' to stand by ye through your bad luck and through your good luck, in your sin an' in your repentance."

"Ben Greenway," cried Capt. Bonnet, as he waved his sword in the air, "if you talk to me like that I will cut you down where you stand! You forget that you are not talking to a country gentleman, but to a pirate, a pirate of the seas!"

Ben grinned, but seeing the temper his master was in, thought it wise to retire.

CHAPTER V.

AN UNSUCCESSFUL ERRAND.

FOR what seemed a very long time to Kate Bonnet, Dickory Charter paddled bravely through the darkness. She was relieved of the terror and the uncertainty which had fallen upon her during the past few hours, and she was grateful to the brave young fellow who had delivered her from the danger of sailing out upon the sea with a crew of wicked scoundrels who were about to steal her father's ship, and her heart should have beaten high with gratitude and joy, but it did not. She was very cold, and she knew not whither young Dickory was taking her. She did not believe that in all that darkness he could possibly know where he was going; at any moment that dreadful ship might loom up before them, and lights might be flashed down upon them. But all of a sudden the canoe scraped, grounded and stopped.

"What is that?" she cried.

"It is our beach," said Dickory, and almost at that moment there came a call from the darkness beyond.

"Dickory!" cried a woman's voice, "is that you?"

"It is my mother," said the boy; "she has heard the scraping of my keel."

Then he shouted back: "It is Dickory; please show me a light, mother."

Jumping out, Dickory pulled the canoe high up the shelving shore, and then he helped Kate to get out. It was not an easy job, for she could see nothing and floundered terribly; but he seemed to like it, and half led, half carried her over a considerable space of uneven ground, until he came to the door of a small house, where stood an elderly woman with a lantern.

"Dickory! Dickory!" shouted the woman, "what is that you are bringing home? Is it a great fish?"

"It is a young woman," said the boy, "but she is as wet as a fish."

"Woman!" cried Dame Charter. "What mean you, Dickory, is she dead?"

"Not dead, Mother Charter," said Kate, who now stood, unassisted, in the light of the lantern, "but in woeful case, and more like to startle you than if I were the biggest fish. I am Mistress Kate Bonnet, just out of the river between here and the town. No, I will not enter your house, I am not fit; I will stand here and tell my tale."

"Dickory!" shouted Dame Charter, "take the lantern and run to the kitchen cabin, where ye'll make a fire quickly."

Away ran Dickory and, standing in the darkness, Kate Bonnet told her tale. It was not a very satisfactory tale, for there was a great part of it which Kate herself did not understand, but it sufficed at present for the good dame, who had known the girl when she was small, and who was soon busily engaged in warming her by her fire, refreshing her with food, and in fortifying her against the effects of her cold bath by a generous glass of rum, made, the good woman earnestly asserted, from sugar-cane grown on Master Bonnet's plantation.

An Ideal Location

LARGEST IN THE STATE

LINDEN, N. J.

Beautiful and Accessible

2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

FOR INFORMATION concerning lots in these beautiful Park Cemeteries, and FREE transportation to prospective lot buyers, apply at once to any LEADING UNDERTAKER or offices of the Associations:

PRETENSION AT NEW ORLEANS.

Extreme Outsider, at 40 to 1, a Winner at City Park.

NEW ORLEANS, March 17.—Another good card, combined with faultless track and weather conditions, prevailed at the City park race track. After the first race there was a tremendous slaughter of heavily backed favorites, the climax coming with the fourth race, when Pretension, an extreme outsider, at 40 to 1, and the only unbacked horse in the race, won by a length. Summaries:

First Race.—Isabella D., first; Lancashire Lass, second; Nevada, third.

Second Race.—Sid Silver, first; Felix Mozzes, second; Thespian, third.

Third Race.—Expressing, first; Chief Archibald, second; Hostility, third.

Fourth Race.—Pretension, first; Six Shooter, second; Bon Mot, third.

Fifth Race.—Lila Noel, first; Roger Smith, second; A Convict, third.

Sixth Race.—Brand New, first; Ora Viva, second; Florizel, third.

Seventh Race.—Lord Hermence, first; Trogon, second; Arab, third.

Surprises at Oaklawn.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 17.—The mile handicap at Oaklawn developed a surprise for the bettors. Only three horses started, and Huzzah, the longest priced animal, won, while Grenade, favorite, finished last. Crown Prince, Emergency and Sanction, the first named at the prohibitive price of 1 to 7, were the winning favorites. Hildebrand finished second four times.

New York Express Wrecked.

PHILADELPHIA, March 17.—The New York express from Washington on the Pennsylvania railroad was wrecked at Northeast, Md., late yesterday. A number of passengers were badly bruised, but no one was seriously hurt.

Checker Tournament at Boston.

BOSTON, March 17.—In the international checker tournament here the second day's score was: Americans, 6; Britishers, 5; drawn, 29. The total score now stands: Britishers, 14; Americans, 9; drawn, 57.

Pickaway a Winner.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 17.—Not a favorite won at Oakland. Pickaway, which finished third in the second race, was the only strong favorite to get in the money.

Astral at Los Angeles.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 17.—Astral, at 20 to 1, carried off the Santa Barbara stakes at Ascot. There were only two winning favorites.

A Fatal Hotel at Newark.

NEWARK, N. J., March 17.—A young woman was apparently murdered some time last night in a hotel here which had its license revoked a week ago, but which was still doing business because the limit of license had not expired. The woman is supposed to have been choked to death by a male companion, who left the hotel after locking the door behind him. No one saw him leave. A young man from Orange committed suicide in the same hotel a few weeks ago, and as a result of the investigation into his death the excise board ordered the license discontinued and the place would have been closed shortly.

Reform School For Filipino Boys.

ITHACA, N. Y., March 17.—W. R. George, manager of the George Junior republic at Freeville, N. Y., has been approached by Governor Wright of the Philippine Islands with the view of establishing a reform school for Filipino boys at Camp Gregg, Luzon island, recently abandoned as an army post. Governor Wright desires to conduct the proposed school along the lines of the institution at Freeville, where wayward children are taught to be good citizens, take courses in manual training and are self governed.

Central Railway Passes Forged.

NEW YORK, March 17.—Four men charged by the officials of the New York Central railroad with forging and selling passes over that road have been arrested here. The men are Albert Neuman, Max Zivelfach, Isidor Hauptmann and Louis Bringbaum, the latter three being printers. The New York Central has been victimized for over a year, forged passes representing a traffic value of $5,000 having been sold.

Patrick Back In Sing Sing.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 17.—From the company of his wife and children and a seat in the court of appeals room Albert T. Patrick last night returned to his cell in "murderers' row" in Sing Sing prison. The three days' argument of his appeal from the judgment convicting him of causing the death of William M. Rice came to an end, and his counsel, David B. Hill, summed up. The judges reserved their decision.

Turbine Principle Successful.

GLASGOW, March 17.—The Allan line's turbine steamer Victorian was given a trial on the Clyde and made a speed of nineteen and a half knots an hour. At a luncheon after the trial Mr. Dunlop, chairman of the Allan company, said all doubts as to the efficiency of turbine steamers had now been removed.

Killed by Fall From Horse.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., March 17.—Henry O. Ewing, clerk of the United States circuit court for the eastern district of Tennessee, is dead at his home in Chattanooga. He was thrown from his horse last Monday and badly injured.

Mothers' Congress at Washington.

WASHINGTON, March 17.—The mothers' congress listened to addresses by A. T. Stuart, superintendent of the public schools of Washington, and William L. Tomlin of Chicago, who had for his topic "Music In Education."

NEW STYLE TROLLEY CAR.

P. S. C. Experimenting With Remodeled Vehicle.

Officials of the Public Service Corporation are experimenting with an old trolley car which has been refitted and equipped after a type of vehicle the company may put into use on several of its lines in this city. The remodeled car is operated from one end only, and it has a wide, spacious, rear platform.

The trolley company announced some time ago that it intended to place loops or V-shaped switches at the end of all its lines, so that it would be necessary to have controllers in one end of the cars only, the vehicles to be then equipped with rear platforms several feet larger than the present style. The car which has been refitted has a narrow platform for the motorman and a very wide rear platform.

HORSE SHOW JUNE 9, 10

Date Set After Conference With Nat. Assn. Officers.

MEETING NEXT WEEK

Entries of High Bred Animals From New York, Brooklyn, Newark, Trenton and Philadelphia.

The Plainfield Horse Show Association will hold its annual show at the Plainfield Driving Park on Friday and Saturday, June 9 and 10, a week earlier than last year. This was decided yesterday at a meeting of officers held in New York. By the selection of these dates, the show will follow the one to be held in Philadelphia and will be of great advantage to the local affair as it will be possible to secure many of the horses exhibited in the Quaker City for the Plainfield event. This was the original idea of the association, but a conference with the officers of the National Horse Show Association was first necessary. The National Associtaion has given its approval and will lend its influence toward making the show a success.

Lewis E. Waring, president of the association, expects to call the members of the executive committee together for a meeting the latter part of next week and he will then appoint the committees on grounds, exhibits, transportation, prizes, decorations, music, advertising, judges and for many other details necessary in such an affair. Since the announcement was made that another show had been decided upon, the association has constantly been receiving inquiries concerning it and there is every indication that last year's show will be entirely eclipsed as to number of entries of fine horses and the attendance of well-known loves of horses.

There will be entries from New York, Brooklyn, Newark, Morristown, Philadelphia, Trenton and many other places in this State, while Plainfield will be represented by a number of prize-winning horses, including those of Charles W. McCutchen and W. J. Buttfield. Mr. McCutchen had taken blue ribbons at the New York Horse Show as well as at the local show.

Considerable attention will be given this year in an effort to secure some of the best known horses in the Metropolitan district for exhibit, and every arrangement will be made for quick and safe transportation from various points. A feature will be the decorations, there being more time to devote to this part of the show, than last year, when the association had but a short time to complete arrangements.

There will be a large number of events and particular attention will be given to allowing local horses as much show as these from out-of-town. The association would like to secure the extension of the Arlington avenue trolley line to a point near the driving park, and with the aid and assistance of the Plainfield Country Club it would seem as though this could be accomplished. If such a thing is possible, these two organizations will accomplish their purpose. It will give much better transportation to the thousands of people who will want to visit the horse show as well as those who go to the golf grounds throughout the season and the extension would soon pay for itself in the increased patronage.

LENTEN LECTURES.

Rev. Dr. MacArthur and Others on Timely Topics.

The Men's Club, of the First Presbyterian church, Westfield, has arranged a course of three lectures of unusual interest, the first of which will be given on Saturday night, March 25, at the First Presbyterian church by Rev. Dr. Robert Stuart MacArthur. His subject will be "The Empire of the Czar the Great Bear of the North." The second entertainment will be an illustrated rendition by Rev. Henry H. Rose, B. D., of Newark, on "Parsifal and the Holy Grail." This will be on Friday night, April 28.

The third entertainment will be held on Friday night, May 19, and will be in the form of a recital by Prof. Livingston Barbour, of Rutgers College, on "David Harum."

High Dive Exhibition.

Walter McNaughton, National champion high diver, will give an exhibition at the Y. M. C. A. Wednesday night, on the occasion of the Business Men's game with the Montclair aggregation. There will also be a tumbling feature by H. Hansen. The Montclair Business Men will be entertained at dinner before the game, the wives of the local department serving the repast at the association rooms.

HE 18, SHE BUT 15; THEY ARE DIVORCED

SHORT AND UNHAPPY MARITAL CAREER ENDED BY THE LAW.

Hugh S. Kelley, of Orchard place, has been granted an absolute divorce from his wife, Mrs. Edna Barth Kelley, the decree being signed yesterday by Vice Chancellor Stevens, in the Chancery Court, at Newark. William Newcorn represented the husband and William G. DeMeza was the master in the case. Mrs. Kelley was not represented and made no defense.

Letters received by Mrs. Kelley from several young men named as corespondents were put in evidence and it is said that Mrs. Kelley had made an admission to her husband. The couple was married on Feb. 27, 1903, Rev. H. W. Hand, of the First Church of Christ, performing the ceremony. He was then eighteen years of age and she was three years his junior. They lived together but three months. The complainant being still a minor, he was represented in the proceedings by his brother, Frank Kelley.

100TH BIRTHDAY OF HANS C. ANDERSEN

STATE SUPT. BAXTER SUGGESTS EXERCISES IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS MCH. 31.

Charles J. Baxter, formerly of this city, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, has issued circulars to the public schools of the State, one of which has been received by Dr. H. M. Maxson, superintendent of the Plainfield schools, calling attention to the fact that Sunday, April 2, will be the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Hans Christian Andersen, the Danish author, and suggesting that it be given due recognition in the schools Friday, March 31. The circular says incidently:

"I would suggest that your school give it such recognition Friday, March 31, as shall prove most practicable. One of your advanced pupils might prepare and read a brief sketch of the life of this charming writer of children, and several of the younger pupils might relate such of his stories and give such quotations from his works as are remembered. You can, at the least, make Hans Christian Anderson the subject of a brief talk to your school, and the children thus learn that, while he is most widely known as a writer of fairy stories, he is also the author of many volumes of poetry and descriptive travel, which they will be pleased to read when they are older."

HALF HOUR SERVICE, NEW YORK TO PHILA.

SEVERAL HUNDRED THOUSANDS TO BE SPENT ON THROUGH TROLLEY LINE.

Following the merging of the Trenton and New Brunswick railroad, the Camden and Trenton railway and the New Jersey Short Line railroad by the New York-Philadelphia company, for the establishment of a through trolley service between Philadelphia and New York, plans are being made for the expenditure of several hundred thousand dollars in extensive improvements on the Camden and Trenton line, so that a frequent and high speed service can be maintained over that branch.

The improvements which have been planned and which are under way will be pushed as rapidly as possible, and it is expected to establish very soon a half-hour service on all the various divisions.

Improving Cedar Brook.

Cedar brook, a source of much trouble in high water, is being much improved by Street Commissioner Gavett's men. The waterway is being widened and deepened considerable in the vicinity of East Seventh street as well as under the Richmond street bridge. Thus far the brook has been deepened a foot and it will greatly relieve the condition in hevy rains and during the spring freshets.

A Chemical Talk.

Kenneth Robbie, boys' secretary of the Y. M. C. A., spoke at the meeting of the Junior Epworth League, of Monroe Avenue church, yesterday afternoon, taking for his subject "A Chemical Talk," in which he showed the influence of bad companions by chemical illustrations.

NO SPRING ELECTION FOR SCHOOL TRUSTEES

BILL SIGNED BY GOVERNOR ABOLISHES IT IN TOWNS VOTING BY DISTRICTS.

Governor Stokes yesterday signed the Duffield bill amending the fortieth section of the school act of 1903.

As a result of this amendment becoming a law there will be no election this spring for school trustees in the towns of this State, where the trustees are elected by wards or districts.

The bill extending the provisions of the anti-spring election laws to all municipalities of the State was amended before it finally passed to except elections for school officials. Some towns, notably Bloomfield and Montclair, objected to the expense of holding an election in the spring solely for the purpose of electing school officers, and at their request Mr. Duffield introduced his bill, which becames a law yesterday.

The new act contains a provision that the present school officials in the towns exempted shall continue in office until their successors are elected.

WEST END STONE THROWERS BEFORE THE CITY JUDGE

FIVE OF THE OFFENDERS FINED $1 EACH FOR USING DRIVER AS A TARGET.

The city court resembled a juvenile mass meeting this morning, when six small boys from the West End were arraigned on the complaint of Benoni Pisniciatto, a driver for John Haskard, that they stoned him every time he and his wagon passed down South Second street or Muhlenberg place. Between others under suspicion of having a hand in the game and sympathizing friends it seemed as if the larger part of West End boydom was on hand.

The prisoners were Leo Ayers, Thomas Murphy, James Bergen, Joseph Kiernan, Patrick Henan and Thomas Kilbride, but the latter was proven guiltless. The other five entered a general denial but Pisniciatto and Haskard were both positive in their identification and Judge Runyon imposed a fine of $1 on each. Only one could produce the amount and there was a quartette of snivelling youngsters on a bench until Chief Kiely gave them permission to go home and get the dollar.

The practice of stone throwing has been prevalent throughout the city and Chief Kiely declares that offenders arrested in the future will be deals with heavily. Pisniciatto seems to have been a favorite target and his employer informed the court that for the past six months he has always had a big lump on his head, showing where good marksmanship had told.

WELCOME CURATE TO GRACE MISSION

RECEPTION TO REV. E. E. MILLER, WHO WILL HAVE CHARGE OF MISSION.

The members of the colored mission connected with Grace church gave a reception in the parish house last night to the new curate, Rev. E. E. Miller, of Gordonsville, Va., who recently assumed charge of the work. Prior to the reception a short service was held. Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of the church, was in charge and made a few remarks welcoming the curate to the work. Remarks were also made by Rev. Erskine M. Rodman, rector-emeritus of the church, and Rev. Dr. William Neilson.

The musical part of the service by the choir was in charge of Dantes Reeves, organist and choirmaster. After the addresses there was an informal social and refreshments were served by the women of the mission. The new rector is of a quiet, modest nature and in every way fitted for the work among the colored people. The mission now numbers about thirty communicants.

ONE LESS FIRE HOUSE

Agitation to Transfer No. 1's Home to Police Department.

TO SAVE RENT

Councilmanic Committee Discusses Feasibility of Proposed Change —Arguments Against It.

Agitation for the transfer of the No. 1 fire house, in West Second street, to the police department is again revived. The subject has not reached the Common Council yet but has been discussed at some length in committee. It is said that Chief T. O. Doane and his assistants are strongly opposed to the scheme and if that is the case there is not so much likelihood of it being favorably acted upon.

Chief Doane, it is said, fears the "pink slip," which means in insurance vernacular that should No. 1's house be closed up, the underwriters will raise the rates in Plainfield and that all insurance on hazardous risks will be cancelled. There is no room for No. 1's apparatus at fire headquarters in East Second street, there being an overcrowded condition there now.

The movement to bring about the suggested change grows out of a desire on the part of the city authorities to save rent. The present police headquarters, in East Front street, is owned by J. B. Coward and the city is spending its money annually in hiring the place, whereas if the building in West Second street were used for the purpose the amount would be saved. It is also said that the present quarters for the police department are too small and that ample room would be afforded by the change discussed.

PERSEVERANCE LODGE HAS AN ENTERTAINMENT

THE AFFAIR IS GIVEN IN HONOR OF ST. PATRICK'S ANNIVERSARY.

Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, K. of P., celebrated St. Patrick's anniversary by treating its members to an entertainment, last night, in which Celtic wit and songs took a prominent part. It was largely attended and was made still more enjoyable by an abundance of cigars.

The feature of the programme was the appearance of a comedy team, Murray & Steele, of New York, who sang and talked themselves into favor. The former gave several impersonations of well known actors, including James T. Powers, John T. Kelley, Edward Harrigan, Dan Daly, Richard Mansfield and J. H. Stoddard. Their comedy work and songs were greatly enjoyed. Illustrated songs were given by Elmer D. Cutting and William Schorb and other vocal selections were given by Alexander Muir.

The affair was arranged by David Bowden and he had as his assistants Samuel J. Robinson, Elmer D. Cutting, Philip Jahn and William Schorb.

AT MARCONNIER.

St. Patrick's day was observed with a social last night at Marconnier chapel at which the "famous watermelon mock trial" was presented by members of Trinity Reformed church. The affair was in charge of Horace Martin. Miss Hazel Martin, Miss Adelaide Cole, Miss Edna Cole and Horace Martin participated in the programme. The choir of Trinity church rendered a number of Irish ballads.

Those who took part in the mock trial which has been given in this city several times were Clarence Rittenhouse, M. Platz, William Trembath, Charles Deliver, Albert Schomp, Horace Martin and Miss H. M. Kreitling.

BEGGED TEN CENTS; 100 DAYS IN JAIL

DRINK CAUSES DOWNFALL OF ONCE INDUSTRIOUS MAN.

Because he insisted on one of his hard-working friends giving him ten cents, Joseph Miner, a well known West Ender, will spend the next 100 days in the county jail. He was arrested yesterday by Roundsman Flynn after he had made a general nuisance of himself by soliciting money and making threats when he was refused it.

Miner was formerly an industrious mechanic in one of the local shops but in recent years he has been in the police court several times for drunkenness and disorderly conduct. He has not been contributing to his wife's support and whenever he thought she had saved a little money from her scant wages he would browbeat her into giving him part of it. She refused him yesterday and he then sought from among others. In sentencing him this morning, Judge Runyon informed him that he and the police considered him to be "absolutely no good."

NOVEL DINNER SERVED BY EPWORTH LEAGUERS

ST. PATRICK'S DAY EVENT HELD IN VINCENT CHAPEL.

Those who attended the Epworth League social in Vincent chapel, last night, were a novel course dinner. The various class, rooms were used for the serving of the dinner, a course being served in each.

In the first room soup was served in the form of soap bubbles, the Misses Huber and VerPlanck being in charge. Next came the fish, miniature fish in imitation being displayed. Miss Schafer and Mrs. Scheurman presiding. The next course, meat, was served in the form of a tennis meet, the game of ping-pong being played under the direction of Miss Edna French, Miss Horn and Miss May Robley. The vegetable course consisted of beans and peas and these were used to play games with. Miss Mattie Humble and Miss Fanny Chandler being in charge. Then came the literary and chicken salad in the form of games carrying our the general idea, and last of all was the real thing—the desert—fruit punch, wafers and candy. Those in charge of the last two named courses were Miss Elsie Horne, Mrs. Stewart, Mrs. Atwood, Miss Bertha Whitney, Mrs. Frank Bucklin, Miss Nan Wilson and Mrs. Marguerite Runyon.

The decorations were green and white, in honor of St. Patrick's Day, while the waitresses and those in charge were dressed in white with a little decoration of green. There were about seventy-five members and friends of the league present. Miss Elsie Horne was chairman of the affair, assisted by Miss Bertha Whitney.

COLLECTOR PREPARES DELINQUENTS' LIST

READY FOR PRESENTATION TO THE COMMON COUNCIL.

Tax Collector Robert L. Lee has just completed a list of the delinquent real estate taxes for 1903 which he will present to the Common Council at the April meeting in accordance with the Martin Act. The Common Council then directs the collector to advertise the properties previous to selling them. In connection with the advertising there is a charge, in addition to the tax and interest, usually of three dollars on each piece or parcel and this is charged to the delinquent.

It is possible for the delinquents to save themselves this extra expense by paying the tax with accrued interest before the collector presents the list to the Common Council.

SAYS HIS WIFE SET FIRE TO THE HOUSE

STARTLING STATEMENT MADE BY MARTIN BRENNAN AFTER SLIGHT BLAZE.

The Dunellen fire department was called out at 1:30 this morning, for a mysterious blaze in the home of Martin Brennan at Front street and Madison avenue. When the apparatus arrived the members found Brennan and his son tossing what was left of a bed out of a window.

Brennan made the startling statement to Chief Wyhunkey that the fire was started by his wife who became angered at him for some unknown reason. He declared that she first set a woodbox in the kitchen in flames and that while he and his son were downstairs putting them out, she ignited the bed. He claimed to be at a loss to understand her action. The chief will investigate.

Only two extinguishers were necessary to be used in putting out the flames. The loss was but slight.

It is said that Brennan and his wife have not been living happily together of late.

IONA COUNCIL DANCE ENJOYED BY MANY

ST. PATRICK'S DAY AFFAIR LAST NIGHT WAS A SUCCESS.

More than two hundred merry-makers celebrated the closing of St. Patrick's Day at the annual dance given by the members of Iona Council, No. 44, O. of P., at Saengerbund Hall last night. It was a delightful occasion, a success in every way. Comfortably filled but not crowded, the hall presented an attractive appearance, decorated in flags and bunting, with an occasional sprig of green, which reminded one of the occasion.

Here and there a quaint costume, appropriate to St. Patrick's Day was to be seen, and nearly every one wore a touch of green in memory of the patron Saint. A few masqueraded, and came disguised in face and clothing, though the majority enjoyed the ball undisguised. It was about 8:30 o'clock when the crowd first began to come in, and it was fully an hour later when the orchestra began the music for the first dance. Refreshments were served later in the evening. The committee in charge of the affair comprised Mrs. Marie Claassen, chairman; Mrs. John Hallard, Mrs. Nimrod Horton, Mrs. Sadie Bowman and Miss Mary Burt. The committee in charge of the floor was Mrs. Charles Holstein, Mrs. I. H. Beehm and Miss Ella Sebring.

JR. O. U. A. M. RALLY AT ELIZABETH MARCH 29

MEMBERS OF FRANKLIN, SOMERSET AND BENEVOLENT TO ATTEND.

Franklin, Somerset and Benevolent Councils, Jr. O. U. A. M., of this city, are planning to attend the rally and open meeting to be held Wednesday night, March 29, in the Lyceum Theatre, Elizabeth, under the auspices of the State Council of the Jr. O. U. A. M. An unusually attractive programme of music and speeches has been arranged. It is the idea of the State Council to hold these rallies in every county and thus awaken an enthusiasm and interest in the order, which will result in an increase in membership.

There will be a similar rally in Krueger's Auditorium, Newark, for the Essex County Councils, in April. It is expected that fully two thousand members and friends of the order will attend the rally in Elizabeth, including the entire board of State Council officers.

After Grade Crossings.

Evidence will be gathered by the Elizabeth government against the Central Railroad of New Jersey in regard to the conditions existing at the grade crossings at that place. At Wednesday night's meeting of City Council, the Street Commissioner was authorized to hire watchmen to find out the number of trains that pass daily over the Long Branch division, their rate of speed, etc., and also to ascertain the extent of street traffic over dangerous crossings. The evidence thus obtained will be submitted to the Court of Chancery with a petition for relief.

J. M. TITSWORTH BURIED

Obsequies Over Treasurer of the Potter Printing Press Co.

MANY MOURNERS

Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, Rev. Geo. B. Shaw and Rev. S. R. Wheeler Officiated—Interment at Hillside.

The funeral services of Joseph M. Titsworth were held yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the late home in West Seventh street, there being a very large attendance of relatives and friends, including the employes of the Potter Printing Press Company, of which Mr. Titsworth was the treasurer for many years. There were also former business associates from New York, friends and relatives from Western New York, Rhode Island and Elizabeth, as well as this city.

There was a beautiful display of flowers, there being tributes from the Potter Printing Press Company and employes, relatives and friends, the bier being completely covered with this evidence of esteem.

Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, an almost life-long friend of Mr. Titsworth, was in charge of the service, assisted by Rev. George B. Shaw, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, and Rev. S. R. Wheeler, a Seventh-Day Baptist pastor from South Jersey, who has also known Mr. Titsworth for many years. Dr. Lewis opened the service with Scripture reading, after which the Lotus Glee Club, of New York, sang Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar." Rev. George B. Shaw then read several very comforting passages of Scripture, which was followed with the singing "Abide With Me," by the glee club.

Dr. Lewis then made a few remarks of a general character, the central point being the glory of the future life. He contrasted the imperfections, the sorrow and suffering of the present life with the finished and perfect life of the future. It being the wish of the family, as well as that of Mr. Titsworth, no personal remarks of eulogy were spoken concerning the departed. This wish of Mr. Titsworth was expressed in a favorite poem, which was found among his personal effects and which was directed to his children. This poem was read by Dr. Lewis and the beautiful thoughts expressed were very impressive.

With the conclusion of the remarks by Dr. Lewis the glee club sang "There's a Wideness in God's Mercy," and the service at the house closed with a prayer and benediction by Dr. Lewis.

After an opportunity had been given the mourners to view the remains the interment took place in Hillside cemetery. The pall-bearers were Arthur Titsworth, David E. Titsworth, Frank J. Hubbard, William M. Hubbard, Horace W. Fish and Albert Shepherd.

Water Didn't Cause Typhoid.

William R. Sutphen, clerk of the Somerville Board of Health, has issued a notice to the effect that no typhoid cases have resulted from the use of city water in that place. Several weeks ago there was a scare in that place because of a reported sewer running from the Kempton estate into the canal. Kempton died from typhoid fever.

SOME FIGURES REGARDING COST OF THE STATE MILITIA

INTERESTING REPORT PRESENTED BY QUARTERMASTER-GENERAL'S DEPT.

The report of the quartermaster-general's department for the year ending October 31, 1904, which has just been issued is of interest to members of Co. K, of this city. The document shows that there has been received from the National Government during the year an additional supply of small arms, giving the State a number sufficient for the armament of the guard at its maximum strength, as fixed by law. It is also set forth that under general orders prescribing the regulation uniform, adding the khaki coat, trousers and leggins, a supply of that clothing was drawn from the United States militia under the acts for arming and equipping the organized militia, and issued to the National Guard.

The disbandment of Company K at Long Branch is referred to, and it is set forth that the State has received from the National Government $61,828.34 on account of the Spanish war claims. The total claim of the State was $346,155.92, of which the government has paid $256,969.97, and a credit has been made of $89,185.95 for ordnance stores, clothing, etc.

The camp of the Second Brigade at Sea Girt is outlined, and the expense of the camp shown to be $23,249.54. The report also tells of the participation of the Fourth and Fifth Regiments in the regular army manoeuvres at Manassas, Va.

The expense of maintaining the armories was as follows: Newark, $4,506.02; Camden, $4,493.99; Jersey City, $3,791.41; Paterson, $4,621.62. The expenses of the naval reserves are given as follows: First Battalion, $6,637.47; Second Battalion, $5,494.92.

The amount received from the National Government on account of the camp of 1904 was $26,670.88. The expenditures from this were as follows: Pay, $8,921.78; subsistence, $2,559; transportation, $3,994.49; rifle practise transportation, $5,099.39; team to Fort Riley, Kan., $3,131.33; pay of disbursing officer, $97.72.

SPORTING NEWS.

DIAMOND DUST.

The Newark Eastern League team will do its spring training at Atlantic City.

The Phillies will have two former Eastern Leaguers in their infield this season—Doolin, of Jersey City, at second, and Courtney, of Buffalo, at third.

If "Jimmie" Bessel shows up as well as his condition indicates, he will probably be given a show to demonstrate his ability. It is not the purpose of the Plainfield management to waste too much time experimenting with players, but to start off with the real article and maintain it during the season.

Some of the fans have expressed doubt as to whether McCormick would play in Plainfield this season. He was drafted by Plainfield, but if it is possible he wants to secure his release. He has a good position in New York and would be satisfied to play Saturday and Sunday ball. If this can be arranged he will be here.

It is thought likely that Edward Overton will be made temporary captain of the Y. M. C. A. baseball team. Overton is the best of the players who have signified their intention of playing with the association team, and is a capable manager. Under his direction a good team will no doubt represent the Y. M. C. A. Overton will catch.

More than twelve of the games on the Plainfield High School baseball schedule are home games. The schedule is one of the best ever arranged for the team, and credit is due to the management of Howard Lapsley, both for getting out the schedule and for the advance sale of season tickets. Already over 180 season tickets have been disposed of.

"Dan." Connelly, who will cover right field for the local team, will undoubtedly be a strong acquisition. He had the honor of leading two of the best semi-professional teams in batting last season. During the spring he played with the Ridgewoods, of New York, and after June he joined the Perth Ambey team. His record with Ridgewood in fourteen games was three homes, four three-base hits, three two-base hits and eleven singles.

"Phil." Daab in speaking about using Louis Wiltse here as a pitcher, says that he would not attempt to put him in the game unless he was free and clear from Baltimore. He does not intend to use a single player who is in any way held by any other club under the National agreement. If Linderman pitches for Plainfield this season he will have to be in first-class condition and able to do the trick, else another boxman will be used.

Among the improvements to be made at Cresoent Oval prior to the opening of the baseball season on Saturday, April 15, will be the addition of several rows of extra bleacher seats on both sides of the diamond, and the old seats will be repaired and made more comfortable. It is also proposed to give some attention to the covered and open grandstands, all of which will give increased seating accommodations. Another matter that will be attended to is left field, which on one or two occasions last season was inundated and became popularly known as "Mumford's Lake." The management intends to have that corner surveyed for the purpose of ascertaining the proper direction to drain the water, and then suitable drainage will be provided. Last season was an exceptionally dry one, the Plainfield team being obliged to postpone but one game. However, no chances will be taken and all necessary improvements will be made.

FRANCE IS AROUSED

Government Asked to Define Venezuelan Policy.

CASTRO'S ACTION RESENTED AT PARIS

Treatment of French Cable Company to Result In an Ultimatum to Caracas and Possibly Visit of Warships.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—France has officially informed the United States of the action of the Venezuelan government against the French Cable company, which she regards as high handed and unwarranted. While insisting that diplomatic means will be exhausted in the effort to relieve the situation, it is declared that President Castro is rapidly exhausting French patience and thereby forcing France toward the limit of diplomacy.

France has invited the attention of the American government to the Venezuelan situation because of its interests in Pan-American affairs and in order that it may ascertain the probable course of action which this government will take against Venezuela. It is the wish of the French government to act along parallel lines as far as practicable.

These developments in the Venezuelan situation are regarded as the preliminary step toward the relief of a situation in Caracas which Europe as well as the United States has for some time regarded with dissatisfaction. Mr. Jusserand, the French ambassador, sent his first secretary, Mr. Des Portes de la Fosse, to the state department to inform the officials there of the suit of the Venezuelan government against the French Cable company and of the concern which this action has caused the French government. Mr. Des Portes gave to Mr. Adee, the acting secretary of state, the substance of the cablegram from Paris and asked him about the probable line of action which this government contemplated in connection with the asphalt case, which also is in President Castro's courts. Later Mr. Adee had a long conference with Secretary Taft, who in the absence of Secretary Hay the acting secretary of state is consulting on all matters of importance,

It is probable that upon the president's return from New York Mr. Jusserand, the French ambassador, will outline to him the position in which the French government finds itself as a result of President Castro's latest action and discuss generally with the president the entire situation about which France is keenly annoyed. It is pointed out that it is the wish of the French government to settle as quietly as possible its differences with Venezuela, and in case a French ultimatum is followed by no relief in the situation France will have well nigh reached the limit of diplomacy.

In view of the unfavorable conditions in Venezuela at this moment the French armored cruiser Duplex and the protected cruiser Julien de Gravierre of twenty-three knots speed, which are now in the Caribbean, will be retained in that vicinity indefinitely.

The greater part of the north Atlantic fleet is now in Dominican waters to guard American interests in case of an emergency in Venezuela.

Adams Feels Outraged.

DENVER, March 18.—"I am going back to my home and my business in Pueblo," said ex-Governor Alva Adams, who was deposed by the general assembly from the governorship after having served sixty-six days of the biennial term for which he was inaugurated on Jan. 10 last. "I am president of a savings bank and I have a hardware establishment, and so I have no fear about the bread and butter proposition. At the same time, I am by no means in a jocular frame of mind. I have been outraged, and I feel the resentment that is natural. However, if the people can endure it, I can."

Five Bullets In His Back.

ST. LOUIS, March 18.—Five bullets were fired into the back of Antonio Stanton, who was connected with the world's fair Argentine commission. The shooting took place during an altercation on Wash street with Antonio Cimento. After the shooting a crowd quickly gathered about Cimento and threatened him, but the revolver was suddenly seized from his hand by Harry Meyers, a newsboy, who stood off the crowd until the police arrived. Stanton was hurriedly taken to the city hospital, but died within an hour.

Held For Wife Murder.

LYNN, Mass., March 18.—Medical Examiner Pinkham has made a partial report of his autopsy on the body of Mrs. Susie A. Fuller, who was found dead in her room in a lodging house at 30 Ireson street. Death, he said, was due to hemorrhage of the brain, the result of "blows upon the head." The police have taken S. K. Whittier, the divorced husband of the deceased, into custody and are holding him on suspicion.

A Life Belt For Each Passenger.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 18.—The first of the legislative measures that resulted from the General Slocum fire disaster reached Governor Higgins and was promptly signed. This was Assemblyman Prentice's bill requiring excursion boats to carry at least one life preserver for each passenger.

SPEAKS TO IRISHMEN

Roosevelt Entertained by Sons of St. Patrick.

NAMES ERIN'S HEROES THAT ARE GONE

"They Who Have Come Here From Ireland Have Contributed to Our Common Citizenship Qualities Essential to Great Nations."

NEW YORK, March 18.—With the president of the United States in town and dining last night as the guest of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, the Ancient Order of Hibernians marching in a parade 60,000 strong, Lieutenant General Nelson A. Miles reviewing the First regiment of Irish volunteers, commanded by Charles J. Crowley, at Grand Central palace and scores of Irish organizations holding banquets and receptions from Coney Island to the northern boundries of the city the observance of the festival of Ireland's patron saint was the most elaborate in the history of the city of New York.

The toasts at the dinner of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick at Delmonico's, where the president was received with great and long continued cheers, were: "The President of the United States," by Mr. Roosevelt; "Ireland's Revival," by Justice Martin J. Keogh; "The Day We Celebrate," by Congressman W. Bourke Cockran.

After referring to the achievements of the Irish immigrants and pioneers of the eighteenth century the president said in part:

"By the time the Revolution broke out these men had begun to mix with their fellows of other stocks, and they furnished their full share of leadership in the great struggle which made us a nation. Among their number was Commodore John Barry, one of the three or four officers to whom our infant navy owed most. On land they furnished generals like Montgomery, who fell so gloriously at Quebec, and Sullivan, the conqueror of the Iroquois, who came of a New Hampshire family which furnished governors to three New England states, while the Continental troops of the hardest fighter among Washington's generals, "Mad Anthony" Wayne, were recruited so largely from this stock that "Light Horse Harry" Lee always referred to them as "the line of Ireland." Nor must we forget that of this same stock there was a boy during the days of the Revolution who afterward became the chief American general of his time and as president one of the public men who left his impress most deeply upon our nation—old Andrew Jackson, the victor of New Orleans.

"In the second great crisis of our country's history—the period of the civil war—the part played by the men of Irish birth or parentage was no less striking than it had been in the Revolution. Among the three or four great generals who led the northern army in the war stood Phil Sheridan. Some of those whom I am now addressing served in that immortal brigade which on the fatal day of Fredericksburg left its dead closest to the stone wall which marked the limit that could not be overpassed even by the highest human valor.

"The people who have come to this country from Ireland have contributed to the stock of our common citizenship qualities which are essential to the welfare of every great nation.

"They are a masterful race of rugged character—a race the qualities of whose womanhood have become proverbial, while its men have the elemental, the indispensable virtues of working hard in time of peace and fighting hard in time of war. In every walk of life men of this blood have stood and now stand pre-eminent as statesmen and as soldiers, on the bench, at the bar and in business. They are doing their full share toward the artistic and literary development of the country. And right here let me make a special plea to you: We Americans take a just pride in the development of our great universities, and more and more we are seeking to provide for original and creative work in these universities. I hope that an earnest effort will be made to endow chairs in American universities for the study of Celtic literature and for research in Celtic antiquities.

"It is only of recent years that the extraordinary wealth and beauty of the old Celtic sagas have been fully appreciated, and we of America, who have so large a Celtic strain in our blood, cannot afford to be behindhand in the work of adding to modern scholarship by bringing within its ken the great Celtic literature of the past.

"My fellow countrymen, I have spoken especially of what has been done for this nation of ours by its sons of Irish blood. But, after all, in speaking to you or any other body of my fellow citizens, no matter from what old world country they themselves or their forefathers may have come, the great thing to remember is that we are all of us Americans. Let us keep our pride in the stocks from which we have sprung, but let us show that pride not by holding aloof from one another, least of all by preserving the old world jealousies and bitternesses, but by joining in a spirit of generous rivalry to see which can do most for our great common country. Americanism is not a matter of creed or birthplace or descent. That man is the best American who has in him the American spirit, the American soul. Such a man fears not the strong and harms not the weak. He scorns what is base or cruel or dishonest. He looks beyond the accidents of occupation or social condition and hails each of his fellow citizens as his brother, asking nothing save that each shall treat the other on his worth as a man and that they shall join together to do all that in them lies for the uplifting of this mighty and vigorous people. In our veins runs the blood of many an old world nation. We are kin to each of those nations and yet identical with none. Our policy should be one of cordial friendship for all, and yet we should keep ever before our eyes the fact that we are ourselves a separate people, with our own ideals and standards, and destined, whether for better or for worse, to work out a wholly new national type. The fate of the twentieth century will in no small degree depend upon the quality of citizenship developed on this continent. Surely such a thought must thrill us with the resolute purpose so to bear ourselves that the name American shall stand as the symbol of just, generous and fearless dealing with all men and all nations. Let us be true to ourselves, for we cannot then be false to any man."

The banquet was given in the Golden dining hall at Delmonico's, and its annex and both rooms were filled to their fullest capacity. So great was the demand for tickets that the society was obliged to refuse more than 2,000 applications.

Both the main banquet hall and the annex were beautifully decorated with festoons of the stars and stripes, into which was effectively woven the green and gold flag of Erin.

The banquet tables were banked with American Beauty and bride roses and carnations. They were set off most effectively by garlands of green and gold electric lights strung diagonally across the hall.

Immediately back of and above the seat of the president were the Gaelic words, "Cead Mille Failte," in letters of fire, signifying "a thousand welcomes." To the right and left of the guests' table were fine medallions of Washington and Roosevelt, illuminated by unique electric effects.

The contrast of Washington and Roosevelt was significant. The Friendly Sons of St. Patrick entertained Washington in 1782 as the general in chief of the colonial armies. Roosevelt is the first president, as such, the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick have entertained, although both Arthur and Cleveland as ex-presidents were guests of the society.

The Day In Britain.

LONDON, March 18.—St. Patrick's day was celebrated in Ireland and observed in England much as usual. The Irish flag was in evidence generally, while Irishmen and Englishmen in London fraternized and sported bunches of real or imitation shamrocks, in which the street venders did a rushing business. In Ireland, of course, celebrations were general. In Dublin and other cities young and old, rich and poor, wore the green. Especially brilliant was the state ball at Dublin castle. Queen Alexandra gracefully recognized the day by presenting sprigs of shamrock to the entire Irish guards stationed at Chelsea barracks.

HULL MISQUOTED.

His Idea of Japan Wanting Philippines Was Speculative Only.

DES MOINES, Ia., March 18.—Congressman J. A. T. Hull, chairman of the military affairs committee, claims that he has been misquoted regarding an alleged interview which has appeared in the eastern press. It was asserted that he said the Japanese were after the Philippine Islands and would demand that the islands be turned over to Japan.

What Mr. Hull did say was, he stated here, that this country needed a big navy to protect its island possessions, and that if Japan was inclined to the idea the Japanese might in the future desire to gain possession of the Philippine Islands. His idea was of a speculative nature as to what the future could produce. So far as the purchase of the islands was concerned, he had never referred to the subject.

Murder to Conceal a Murder.

ST. PAUL, Minn., March 18.—The body of a young man supposed to be Joseph Hartmann, alleged accomplice of Edward Gottschall, who is charged with the murder of Christian Schindeldecker in the latter's butcher shop here, has been found in the Mississippi river. The body was found by the police, who have been dragging the river for days, on the supposition that after having assisted in the murder of Schindeldecker, Hartman was killed to prevent him giving information about the murder. The officers who found the body say that in a general way it answers the description of Hartmann.

Scranton Woman Murdered.

SCRANTON, Pa., March 18.—Two young colored women, lifelong friends, members of respectable colored families and the only colored girls ever graduated from the Scranton High school, were the principals in a sensational murder here. Mrs. Charles Welden was wheeling a baby carriage when Miss Lee overtook her and, drawing a revolver, sent two bullets into Mrs. Welden's chest. Mrs. Welden died in half an hour at the hospital. After the shooting Miss Lee gave herself up. She would only say that Mrs. Welden had been talking about her.

Cromwell Denies Morgan's Charges.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—Senator Foraker presented to the senate in executive session a telegram from William Nelson Cromwell of New York denying that he had had any dealings with President Morales in connection with the securing of concessions or in interesting the Dominican government in a scheme to petition the United States to take charge of the financial affairs of the Dominican government.

RECALL KUROPATKIN

Commander Has Left Seat of War For St. Petersburg.

Russians Lost Nineteen Thousand Men and Eighty Guns at Battle For Tie Pass—Rear Guard Fighting Continues.

LONDON, March 18.—St. Petersburg dispatches say that General Kuropatkin left Changtufu last night for the capital. The news of the dismissal of General Kuropatkin, announced in special editions of the newspapers, has caused a sensation. The appointment of a new commander in Manchuria is taken as an indication that the war will be continued.

It is officially announced that General Linevitch has been appointed to succeed General Kuropatkin.

The announcement of General Kuropatkin's recall, as published in the Official Messenger, is made in the coldest terms. It does not mention his distinguished services, and no thanks are accorded him. The terms in which the announcement is made entirely disprove the assumption that he resigned.

A dispatch from Antananarivo, Madagascar, says that the Russian second Pacific squadron left Nossi Be on the afternoon of March 16. Its destination is not known.

A commission has been appointed at St. Petersburg under the presidency of General Roop, a member of the council of the empire, to investigate the surrender of Port Arthur and act as a court to determine the responsibility of General Stoessel.

A dispatch from St. Petersburg says that fighting still continues north of Tieling.

An official report from Tokyo says that two-thirds of the provisions which the Russians had stored at Tieling railway station were burned, having been set on fire by the Russians when they began their retreat. The Japanese captured many trophies and also prisoners, the number of whom has not yet been estimated.

General Kuropatkin lost eighty guns at Tieling. His loss in killed and wounded there is estimated at 19,000.

Late dispatches from the front announce that General Linevitch had assumed command and that General Kuropatkin had departed for St. Petersburg, which disposes of a rumor that the latter had committed suicide.

Japanese columns are reported to be pushing northward as fast as possible to complete the envelopment of the Russian forces. General Linevitch, however, will have a considerable accession of fresh troops in a day or two, the Fourth European corps being now at Harbin and departing for the front. Military officials declare that there are now 268,000 men at General Linevitch's disposal in Manchuria, and it is believed that this force will be sufficient to cause the Japanese to exercise greater caution in their pursuit.

Revolt In Pskov District.

WARSAW, March 18.—A dispatch received here from Lodz says that owing to rumors of an approaching mobilization the workers in the woolen mills there have struck. Reports of the spread of the peasant agitation are coming from nearly every part of the country. In the government of Pskov bands ranging from 100 to 500 are marching from village to village and inciting laborers to join in the movement.

Train Wreckers' Attempt Failed.

NEWPORT, R. I., March 18.—The timely discovery by the engineer of an obstruction placed on the tracks of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad just outside of the city probably prevented the wrecking of the boat train from Boston last night. Five railroad ties had been placed between the rails, and the locomotive struck them with considerable force, although the power had been reversed and the brakes set. Four of the ties were picked up by the cowcatcher and thrown from the track, while the fifth was wedged between the pilot and truck wheels.

Mrs. Chadwick's Chattels Sold.

CLEVELAND, O., March 18.—The household property of Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick was sold at auction to A. D. Nelson of New York for $25,200. Samuel L. Winternitz of Chicago was the second highest bidder, with a bid for $25,100. There were twenty bidders. Clothing to the value of between $4,000 and $5,000, which Mrs. Chadwick held to be exempt from the claims of her creditors under the bankruptcy laws, was not offered for sale.

Bennett Killed Himself.

PATERSON, N. J., March 18.—After an investigation the police have concluded that John Bennett, whose body was found at the foot of the cliff below the Soldiers' monument, committed suicide and was not murdered as at first supposed. Bennett was despondent and had threatened to end his life.

Boy Murdered With Baseball Bat.

AMERICUS, Ga., March 18.—Grady Tevver, a boy, was placed in jail charged with murder. He and Augustus Oliver, son of a former police officer, disagreed about a trivial matter, whereupon Tevver struck young Oliver a stunning blow upon the head with a baseball bat, death resulting.

PORTLAND, Me., March 18.—Slight anxiety is felt for the Allan line steamship Hungarian, which is a week overdue. Nothing has been heard since she left Glasgow on Feb. 25. It is believed that some accident has happened to her machinery.

New York's Legislature has before it for consideration a bill which aims to put a stop to an abuse prevalent almost everywhere. The proposed statute provides that any person who uses profane or objectionable language over the telephone shall be guilty of a misdemeanor. So far as the lessee of the 'phone is concerned, Manager Runyon, of this city, has established a satisfactory penalty. Under his orders telephone privileges are denied to anyone who uses indecent language while making use of the service, but this does not prevent others, who do not regularly lease telephones, from resorting to the vile practice. Summary punishment should be dealt out by the State to all who are guilty of the offense.

Plainfield's sensible action in increasing its retail liquor license fee is evidently responsible for the decision of New Brunswick to raise its fee from $250 to $350, which though very small is still sufficient to show that the people over in Middlesex County have the right idea. It is asserted there that the change will have the effect in decreasing the number of saloons. Their number at present reflects discredit on that municipality. Our own city has approximately one licensed place to every 1,400 inhabitants and there is very little trouble with "speak-easies." Just contrast this condition with Vailsburg, for instance, where there is a saloon for each 166 persons. If the Vailsburg section of Newark, New Brunswick, Elizabeth and many other Jersey municipalities should have a license fee somewhat in proportion to the rate in this city, we believe that they would not have so much trouble with the liquor evil. High license has been found to solve many of the difficulties of saloon regulation here and it is submitted that the same result would be just as satisfactory elsewhere.

AUTHORESS ON "ROME"

Mrs. M. H. Elliott Talks Delightfully on Its Social Life.

CAPTIVATES AUDIENCE

Sister of Mrs. Hall and Writer of "Roma Beata," Gives a Lenten Lecture in All Souls' Church.

Mrs. Maude Howe Elliott's talk on "Social Life in Paris" attracted such a large audience, Thursday afternoon, that one of the women present asked, "Is your church filled like this on Sunday?" "Alas no, not often," was the reply.

Whatever the reason may be, it is evident to the thoughtful observer of the twentieth century, that women are greatly interested nowadays in the words spoken from platform or pulpit or in the quiet parlor, by their sister women. Where the message of the speaker is sound, sweet and wholesome as that given by Mrs. Elliott, surely the effect on the hearers cannot be other than beneficial.

The little church with the pretty name, "All Souls," makes a pretty setting for a gathering of women and it is pleasant for Plainfielders to remember that the decorations of golden lilies on a softly tinted background, were contributed by our fellow citizen, George Wharton Edwards, the artist. On the little stand which replaced for the day the more formal pulpit, stood a vase of daffodils, while the speaker herself contributed a note of beauty to the occasion, a note which was again struck by many of her fair hearers. Mrs. Elliott's portrait in the Corcoran Art Gallery at Washington, has been much admired, while a more recent picture of her by her artist husband, John Elliott, is full of poetic charm. As Mrs. Elliott, despite her occupation as a writer, has seen a great deal of society both in this country and in Europe, she was able to draw many interesting comparisons, as well as to describe vividly many interesting occasions at which she has assisted.

She said in part: "I can't tell you why Roman society is the easiest and pleasantest society I know; the fact remains that it is. * * * Our imaginations were busily at work weaving the darker threads of tragic memories into the background of our thoughts; and perhaps that is one of the reasons why social life is more interesting in Rome than in most places. To have as a setting of the scene of your daily life, Rome, with its myriads of traditions, is somehow stimulating to the imagination of the most casual person. Every street corner, almost every building links us to the past to which we owe so much."

Her description of the fox hunt on the Campagna, just outside of Rome, made her hearers long to behold the gay gathering on that historic ground. Owing to the fact that this country is honeycombed with the remains of ancient buildings, it is full of pitfalls, and therefore the most dangerous hunting country in the world.

Mrs. Elliott told her hearers that the Roman women, even those of high rank, do not spend nearly so much money in their dress as Americans. They put part of their pin money into laces and jewels which thus become heirlooms, and are handed down to later generations. The refreshments also, are of a much simpler nature. Thus even members of the Roman nobility, give only biscuit and wine, or sandwiches, cake and wine, at their evening receptions, in the noble palaces. One charm of society in the Eternal City, is the presence of old as well as gay people, and of men as well as women. Mrs. Elliott felt it to be an excellent thing for young people to be associated in this way with their elders, and to learn thus, to pay their the deference too often lost sight of in America. The presence of cultivated men add an element to society, which we sadly miss in our own country. Mrs. Elliott paid a tribute to our diplomatic representatives abroad, despite the pregnant criticism that we hear of them. She feels that they have always been able to stand their grounds, and to win the points desired by the United States.

Mrs. Elliott is a woman of decided charm, and of a vivid and magnetic personality which attracts all those who come into contact with her. She is so much occupied with her pen, that she does not often find time to speak in public, but when she does, her audience is always deeply interested. Her most recent books are "Beata Roma," and in collaboration with Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, "Laura Bridgeman, Dr. Howe's Famous Pupil." She is also the author of "A Newport Aguarcele," "The San Rosario Ranch" and other novels.

Mrs. Hall announced at the conclusion of the lecture, that the remainder of the series would be held at the same place—All Souls' Unitarian church, on Park avenue, near Eighth street. An informal reception was held at the close of the address. The next lecture in the course will be by Miss Catherine McG Johnston, of Erie, Pa., who will give a lecture-recital on Shake peare's "Anthony and Cleopatra," on Thursday, March 23.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Considerable surprise has been caused by the announcement that the probable successor to Rev. S. K. Doolittle, of the Dunellen M. E. church, will be Rev. Alexander Anderson and not Rev. Mr. Schultz. The surprise has another side, as it was recently rumored that the present minister would be asked to remain for another year. This fact and the assurance that Rev. Mr. Schultz was the only choice of the trustees made the announcement doubly surprising. That the lately called pastor will accept the call there is no doubt, and it is expected that the conference will confirm the choice without hesitation.

The question of gas will be again reviewed before the Borough Council Monday night. Col. Hine, of the Public Service Corporation, will attend the meeting of the Council and will again present the plans of the company. This time they will include provision for pipes for the streets on both sides of the track instead of on the north only, as formerly at the first presentation. The meeting will be open to all citizens of the borough, and merchants particularly are requested to be present. The question will be talked over publicly and the opinions of the public will be sanctioned.

After a long illness, Mrs. Sarah E. Eganey died at her home yesterday morning in her fiftieth year. Mrs. Eganey was the widow of M. J. Eganey, who recently died. She has been a resident of the borough nearly all her life, and was a faithful member of St. John's R. C. church. The funeral services will be held from her late home on Monday morning at 8:30 o'clock and from St. John's church at 9 o'clock. Father Dunphy, of St. John's church, will officiate.

Final plans for the changes which will be made in the First Baptist church edifice at New Market were discussed at an informal meeting of the Board Thursday night, and the work commenced yesterday morning. It is expected that the changes will be completed within the next month.

The plans for the Daughters of Liberty social, which will be given at Friendship Hall Thursday night, include progressive games, either whist or euchre. Prizes will be awarded and it is expected that the game will be an attractive feature.

Mrs. J. C. Gardener will entertain the Married Ladies' Card Club at its last meeting for the season on Friday, March 24.

Mrs. F. W. Vail has returned from Rockport, N. J., where she has been visiting her parents.

Miss Amy Sampson, of Trenton, has returned home for a visit with her parents.

Mrs. C. R. Ross is entertaining Miss Berden, of Elizabeth.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The local bowling team lost two out of the three games rolled against Westfield Thursday night on the latters alleys. This leaves the series of five games a tie, each team having two victories to their credit.

The work of making improvements about the stone crusher in the valley are about completed. New bins are being built and a new crusher installed to meet the increasing demands of the business.

The borough sidewalks on Park avenue will soon be in condition for pedestrians to use again, as it is said the snowdrifts of the blizzard of several weeks ago are gradually beginning to disappear.

"Promoting a Revival," will be the subject of Rev. T. Moore-Smith's sermon at the Baptist church tomorrow morning; in the evening: "What is Regeneration?" Services will be held at the usual hour.

The members of the Brookside Gun Club are holding a grand prize shoot this afternoon on the grounds near the brook. A number of out of town shots are competing for the honors and prizes.

Miss Sadie Heger, teacher of singing at the public school, is a member of the cast that will render the cantata, "Belshazzar," at the Westfield club house tonight.

The Baptist Sunday-school holds a social Tuesday night in the church parlors. Benjamin Allen's class will have charge of the pleasant affair.

The Sheelen homestead on Jerusalem road has been rented to Mrs. Creed, of Jersey City, who will take possession during April.

Rev. David B. Livingstone, of Grove City, Pa., will occupy the M. E. pulpit tomorrow, during the absence of the pastor.

The weekly prayer and praise service will be held tonight at the Methodist church. Rev. Warren T. Coons will lead.

Miss Nancy Wade, of Milburn, is spending Saturday and Sunday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Abram Wade.

The Bible study class held its weekly study last night in the class rooms of the Methodist church.

Miss Edith Marsh is spending two weeks at Atlantic City.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Public worship at the Baptist church will be held tomorrow as usual at 10:30 a. m. and 7:45 p. m.; preaching by the pastor. The communion service will follow the morning sermon.

Miss Emma Manning returned home yesterday from Asbury Park, where she spent several days with her sister, Mrs. Wilroy Voorhees.

The Ladies' Aid Society is about to furnish music books for the Sunday night services at the Baptist church.

Miss Marjorie Voorhees, of Asbury Park, is visiting her grandmother, Mrs. W. B. Manning.

Mr. and Mrs. David Bigley will visit friends out of town over Sunday.

Monroe Pyatt has taken a position with H. Hansen, of Plainfield.

LINCOLN.

Postmaster Silas Dewey Drake is hustling as usual; doing very little talking as to his plans, but at the same time, seeing all these substantial improvements going on, which makes him feel his judgment was correct when he founded the town of Lincoln. Mr. Drake has been postmaster about fifteen months, and the business has nearly doubled over the year previous to his taking charge. The weather for the past four months has held back many other improvements that will now be put in operation.

The Atlas Manufacturing Company here is having placed in position a 500-horse engine and boiler to supply power for its enormous plant. This company has been compelled to work all winter with a day and night force to keep up with their orders.

The Reimes Co., of New York, is busy installing new machinery in its new factory here. Sutphin & Co. are driving a six-inch well for them. This factory in operation will be another substantial addition to the town.

The Lincoln Water Proof Cloth Co. receive and ship from its works here daily from three to eight carloads of goods daily on the Lehigh Valley Railroad.

M. T. Wirts, of the Atlas Company here, will commence the erection of his new Colonial house at Beechwood Heights in a few days.

The Public Service Corporation is placing poles on Lincoln Boulevard, from their present line direct to Bound Brook.

The incubator factory is daily shipping large numbers of incubators to all parts of the country.

Negotiations are pending for the erection of two new industries here this spring.

Voorhees & Giles are having its two houses on Mountain avenue painted.

Mr. MacClyment's Recital.

Wm. E. MacClyment, of the borough, will give an organ recital at St. John's church, Somerville, on Tuesday night, March 28.

THREE GOVERNORS IN A DAY.

Jesse F. McDonald Now Governor of Colorado.

DENVER, March 18.—The bargain made by leaders of the opposing Republican factions of Colorado to take the governor's chair from Alva Adams and to seat in it Lieutenant Governor Jesse F. McDonald, after permitting James H. Peabody to hold it for one day, was carried to a conclusion last night.

In fulfillment of the agreement which he made before the general assembly that decided the gubernatorial contest in his favor, Governor James H. Peabody resigned the office in which he was inaugurated late Thursday afternoon. His resignation, of which W. S. Boynton of Colorado Springs had been custodian since Wednesday, when it was written, was filed in the office of the secretary of state at 4:20 p. m.

James Cowie, secretary of state, immediately certified Governor Peabody's resignation, and Lieutenant Governor McDonald was then sworn in as governor by Chief Justice Gabert. There was no further ceremony. Governor Adams was ousted and Governor Peabody installed by the general assembly about 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon, and Governor McDonald was sworn in yesterday. Thus in a space of less than twenty-four hours Colorado has had three governors.

Governor Peabody transacted practically no business of state while in the office of governor. He received many callers, who urged him not to resign, and also many messages of the same import by telegraph and telephone. To all these he replied that he did not care to hold the chair. He said that he was tired of the worry and excitement of his contest and wished to go back to his bank in Canyon City. Half a dozen members of the national guard patrolled the corridors about the executive chamber during the day as a guard for Governor Peabody.

Lieutenant Governor McDonald reluctantly takes the chair which Governor Peabody resigned after forcing Governor Adams out.

ST. PATRICK HANDICAP.

Old Stone Won the Feature at New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, March 18.—The St. Patrick handicap, at a mile and a sixteenth and worth $1,090 to the winner, was the feature of the new Louisiana Jockey club's card. The Smathers' pair, Rapid Water and Hands Across, were pronounced favorites at 6 to 5, with Phil Finch second choice at 11 to 5. The Goldblatt pair, Old Stone and Rainland, and Duke of Kendal opened and closed at 6 to 1. Rapid Water held the speed and set a fast pace for the mile, when he weakened, and Old Stone, who had been in close attendance, got up and won by a nose. Aggie Lewis, Athlana and Royal Arms were the other beaten favorites. Summaries:

First Race.—Vestry, first; The Laurel, second; Aggie Lewis, third.

Second Race.—Ethel Heyman, first; Handbag, second; Sainada, third.

Third Race.—Monte, first; Vic Ziegler, second; Inspector Halpin, third.

Fourth Race.—Old Stone, first; Rapid Water, second; Hands Across, third.

Fifth Race.—Invasion, first; Allista, second; Athlana, third.

Sixth Race.—Margaret O., first; Pure Favor, second; Cyuttica, third.

Seventh Race.—Ojibwa, first; Royal Arms, second; Darnivan, third.

Tokalon at Hot Springs.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 18.—Starting off with a severe reverse administered by Lady Moneuse, who won the first race at 25 to 1, the form players at Oaklawn finished with three winners to their credit. The feature event was the third race, a three horse affair, in which Tokalon, Lubin and Bill Curtis finished in the order named. Aviston was played heavily for the second race and was cleverly piloted to victory by Hildebrand.

Neatness at Ascot.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 18.—Neatness, a maiden two-year-old, as good as 50 to 1 in the betting, made a runaway race of the third race at Ascot, winning easily from La Chata, the favorite. El Otros won from Albert Fir, the favorite in the fifth race.

New Yorks Won First Game.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 18.—The New York (National league) team defeated Birmingham in the first exhibition game, 12 to 5. Batteries—Mathewson, Wiltse, Bowerman and Bresnahan; Reagan, Salee, Dessau and Matthews. Attendance, 2,000.

Salable at San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 18.—Salable won the St. Patrick's Day handicap. Princess Titania, the favorite, came home last. Jockey Davis rode three successive winners.

Yale Gun Club Won.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 18.—Yale's gun club defeated the team of the Boston Athletic club here 268 to 257. The men shot at fifty targets each.

Adams Woman Shot Herself.

ADAMS, Mass., March 18. — Miss Mary E. Edmunds, aged forty-six years, committed suicide at the home of her brother, Charles A. Edmunds, Bellevue avenue, last night, shooting herself with a 32 caliber revolver. She had been in poor health for the past six years, and it is thought had given up hope of recovery.

No Suspicion of Foul Play.

NEWARK, N. J., March 18.—The man who accompanied Miss Dennis to a hotel here and who deserted the body is said to have been Charles Silberdorff of Jersey City. The police say he will not be arrested, as there is no suspicion of foul play.

TRADE CONDITIONS.

R. G. Dun & Co. Report Need of Spring Weather.

NEW YORK, March 18.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Higher temperature is still needed to bring out full spring activity at many points, but improvement is discerned in almost all departments. Mercantile payments are also more prompt, which adds materially to the feeling of confidence. Railway earnings, which have been falling behind in comparison with last year, were 8.1 per cent larger for the first week of March, and there is comparatively little complaint of freight congestion. A good boating stage has produced large coal shipments at Pittsburg, and the movement of coke from Connellsville eclipses all previous records. This free distribution of fuel testifies to the activity of manufacturing plants, especially in the iron and steel industry.

Floods have done some damage on the Pacific coast, but farming prospects there, as in most other sections, are decidedly favorable. Large farm reserves of corn and oats are not accompanied by depressed prices, and the small wheat stocks are neutralized by most profitable quotations. Foreign commerce returns show unprecedented imports in February, and for the last week at this port alone there was an increase of $6,352,188 compared with the corresponding time of 1904, while exports rose $1,759,318.

Money markets are easy, considering the treasury withdrawals from the banks and the better demand in commercial and speculative channels, and the average of the sixty most active railway securities rose above all recent records, approaching within $1.33 of the high water mark established in September, 1902. Bank exchanges at New York were swelled by stock market activity, sales of securities being more than double those of the same week last year, which partly accounts for the increase of 87.3 per cent. At other leading cities the gain was 17.2 per cent.

Liabilities of commercial failures thus far reported for March amounted to $4,381,950, of which $1,788,758 were in manufacturing, $2,138,943 in trading and $454,249 in other commercial lines. Failures for the week numbered 250 in the United States against 229 last year and 26 in Canada compared with 21 a year ago.

Sea Threatens Coronado Beach.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., March 18.—The sea continues to eat into Coronado beach, and much alarm is felt. The great hotel is being threatened, and a force of men are working night and day dropping bags of sand in front of the devastating waves. The boulevard has been eaten away, and several dwellings are threatened. The wooden dwellings of Dr. Meadler, United States army surgeon, assigned to Fort Rosecrans, and Dr. George Gay are being moved.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

Closing Stock Quotations.

Money on call firm at 3½ per cent; prime mercantile paper, 3½@4½ per cent; exchanges, $348,437,715; balances, $11,262,384; total imports of dry goods at the port of New York for the week ending yesterday were valued at $2,562,587.

Many of the Novelties In Dress Trimming Are Homemade.

Perfectly stunning is the gold and silver lace and sequin embroidery dotted with mother-of-pearl sequins or with white and greenish beads.

A dainty trimming on evening dresses is made of scarfs of the thin frock fabric draped through applied empire wreaths of roses.

Black satin girdles made with long sash ends are worn with some of the dressiest shirt waist gowns. Mannish effects in shirt waist accessories have given place to soft, dainty feminine stocks of linen, lawn and lace.

If a woman uses a little ingenuity in making the trimming for her gown half the expense is saved. A most effective and stylish trimming is made out of white brussels net which is either darned with colored silks or appliqued with designs cut from the material of the gown it adorns. Afterward the designs are cut up in insertions or used as large medallions finished with stitched bands of cloth or silk.

The favorite patterns in dimities are bluebells and clover. Beautiful blendings of yellow, brown and buff appear in the spring cottons.

Unless the shoulders need breadth beware of adopting the exaggerated sleeve top.

The hat illustrated is of white crinoline straw. It is dented in becoming flutes all about the head. Tiny pompadour roses and loops of black velvet ribbon ornament the side and extend around to the high bandeau in the back.

Cloth Gowns Are More Severely Made—Braid Trimmings Used.

Spring tailored suits are on the French style and simply trimmed, braids being used extensively.

The cloth tailored frock will later on be superseded by one of silk. Canvas and voiles are among the new materials.

A new lease of life is predicted for linen collars during the spring and summer.

Hand etched buckles in artistic designs will be popular, and amethyst is the fashionable stone of minor importance, the rich deep stone being most expensive.

Overgaiters are a revived fashion. They match the gown in color and material or are made of tan or gray.

Myrtle green is a favorite color for silk petticoats.

Umbrella and walking sticks with watches set in the handles have been brought out for spring wear.

A touch of pink somewhere in the costume is very modish. Just now pink forms a connecting link between spring and winter, and a touch of this bright color makes one believe that spring styles are not far off.

Yellow in all shades will be much worn by blond and brunette alike next summer. To be worn successfully it should be selected with great care.

The negligee pictured is of figured challie. The skirt is shirred about the sides and back, hanging in a graceful little train. The surpliced waist and the front of the skirt are bordered with a band of plain colored silk. Silk frogs fasten the waist and hold the sleeve plaits in position.

Wise and Foolish Women

Cretonne and the Summer Home—The Critical Lady

The woman who is planning to furnish a summer home ought fully to bear in mind the merits of cretonne.

It is cheap, attractive in coloring and, above all, cool looking. Nothing can be prettier for a bedroom, for instance, than a white wicker set upholstered in pink and white cretonne bearing a rose pattern. The bed, dressing table and bureau, of course, are of white enamel. Very often the walls are hung with cretonne instead of paper. There is a new idea, too, which consists in making a paneling of plain colored cretonne on figured walls, and vice versa. These panelings are inclosed with strips of molding after the fashion of tapestry.

But it is not only in the boudoir that one finds cretonne popular. It invades even the drawing room of the summer home, and the latest—the very latest—thing is the cretonne covered piano. This, of course, has the regulation wooden frame, but in addition there is a cunningly fitted slip of the same dainty material that covers the rest of the furniture. Rooms done in blue and white material are considered very swagger this season, especially when combined with pale yellow or white woodwork.

The Female Critical.

Who has not met that disconcerting girl or woman?

Nothing is exactly right to her mind, and, let me whisper a secret, if she knew anything was all right she wouldn't admit it for worlds for fear of losing her reputation as a person of fastidious taste.

"I used to know a girl of that critical type," remarked a friend of mine the other day. "We girls used to think she was tremendously clever because she didn't say much. She would only look at us with one eyebrow raised when we made any remark or recited our lessons, and she used to smile in such an exasperating, superior way. I remember my first really grownup dance and how I started off in the highest of spirits to enjoy it. Well, at the end of the second twostep the whole affair was spoiled for me. I saw this young woman looking me over in that cold, critical way of hers, taking in my dress, the way I did my hair, my very slippers even, and doing it all with such a superior air of condescension and secret amusement that I could stand it no longer. I felt as if I should scream or do something awkward, and I stopped dancing and went and sat down in a corner."

"It's no fun going with Jennie anywhere," I heard a man say of his wife. "She is so critical. Unless things are just so she has no peace and doesn't let any one else have any. I remember once we had to stay overnight at a farmhouse and rough it a bit. She just sat on the edge of a chair and froze everybody with her manner because the inartistic and primitive surroundings worried her so."

For my own part, I remember very distinctly a friend of the family. She used to come and call on my mother mainly for the purpose of criticising and finding fault with everything the dear soul did. She would ask to see my mother's new dresses and then immediately point out that the material was out of style and ask why the shoulder wrinkled the way it did. By the way, no one had observed the wrinkle at all before, but we all became painfully aware of it. Then she would stay to lunch and tell what the cook ought to do and ask what was the matter with the pudding sauce. Next she would inquire into the doings of the children and wonder why on earth my mother was so foolish as to clip my hair on the ends when every one knew that singeing was the only thing.

No one escaped. She passed us all in critical review, and when she had gone we all felt tired and disgusted with life and ourselves.

KATE BONNET

THE ROMANCE OF A PIRATE'S DAUGHTER

BY FRANK R. STOCKTON

Copyright, 1902, by D. Appleton & Co., New York.

Early the next morning came Dickory from the kitchen, where he had made a fire (before that he had been catching some fish), and on a rude bench by the house door he saw Kate Bonnet. When he perceived her he laughed; but as she also laughed, it was plain she was not offended.

This pretty girl was dressed in a large blue gown, belonging to the stout Dame Charter, and which was quite as much of a gown as she had any possible need for. Her head was bare, for she had lost her hat, and she wore neither shoes nor stockings, those articles of apparel having been so shrunken by immersion as to make it impossible for her to get them on.

"Thy mother is a good woman," said Kate, "and I am so glad you did not take me to the town. I don't wonder you gaze at me; I must look like a fright."

Dickory made no answer, but by the way in which he regarded her she knew that he saw nothing frightful in her face.

"You have been very good to me," said she, rising and making a step towards him, but suddenly stopping on account of her bare feet, "and I wish I could tell you how thankful I am to you. You are truly a brave boy, Dickory; the bravest I have ever known."

His brows contracted. "Why do you call me a boy?" he interrupted. "I am 19 years old, and you are not much more than that."

She laughed, and her white teeth made him ready to fall down and worship her.

"You have done as much," said she, "as any man could do, and more."

Then she held out her hand, and he came and took it.

"Truly you are a man," she said, and, looking steadfastly into his face, she added, "how very, very much I owe you!"

Just then Dame Charter called them to breakfast. When they were at the table they talked of what was to be done next; and as, above everything else, Miss Kate desired to know where her father was and why he hadn't come aboard the Sarah Williams, Dickory offered to go to the town for news.

"I hate to ask too much, after all you have done," said the girl, "but after you have seen my father and told him everything, for he must be in sore trouble, would you mind rowing to our house and bringing me some clothes? Madam Bonnet will understand what I need; and she too will want to know what has become of me."

"Of course I will do that," cried Dickory, grateful for the chance to do her service.

"And if you happen to see Mr. Newcombe in the town, will you tell him where I am?"

Now Dickory gave no signs of gratitude for a chance to do her service, but his mother spoke quickly enough.

"Of course he will tell Master Newcombe," said she, "and anybody else you wish should know."

In ten minutes Dickory was in his canoe, paddling to the town. When he was out of the little inlet, on the shore of which lay his mother's cottage, he looked far up and down the broad river, but he could see nothing of the good ship Sarah Williams.

"I am glad they have gone," said Dickory to himself, "and may they never come back again. It is a pity that Maj. Bonnet should lose his ship, but, as things have turned out, it is better for him to lose it than to have it."

When he had fastened his canoe to a little pier in the town with a rope which he borrowed, having now none of his own, Dickory soon heard strange news. The man who owned the rope told him that Maj. Bonnet had gone off in his vessel, which had sailed out of the harbor in the night, showing no light. And, although many people had talked of this strange proceeding, nobody knew whether he had gone of his own free will or against it.

"Of course it was against his will," cried Dickory. "The ship was stolen, and they have stolen him with it. The wretches! The beasts!" And then he went up into the town.

Dickory now went further to ask more, and he soon heard enough. The respectable Maj. Bonnet had gone away in his own ship with a savage crew, far beyond the needs of the vessel, and if he had not gone pirating, what had he gone for? And to this question Dickory replied every time: "He went because he was taken away." He would not give up his faith in Kate Bonnet's father.

Five minutes afterward a man came running through the town with the news that old Bonnet's daughter, Miss Kate, had also gone away in the ship. She was not at home; she was not in the town.

"That settles it!" said some people. "The black-hearted rascal! He has gone of his own accord, and he has taken Greenway and his fair young daughter with him."

"And what do you think of that?" said some to the doubter Dickory.

"I don't believe a word of it!" said he; and not wishing on his own responsibility to tell what he knew of Mistress Kate Bonnet, he rowed up the river towards the Bonnet plantation to carry her message. On his way whom should he see, hurrying along the road by the river bank coming towards the town and looking hot and worried, but Mr. Martin Newcombe. At the sight of the boat he stopped.

"Ho! young man," he cried, "you are from the town; has anything fresh been heard about Maj. Bonnet and his daughter?"

Now here was the best and easiest opportunity of doing the third thing which Kate had asked him to do; but his heart did not bound to do it. He sat and looked at the man on the river bank.

"Don't you hear me?" cried Newcombe. "Has anybody heard further from the Bonnets?"

Dickory still sat motionless, gazing at Newcombe. He didn't want to tell this man anything. He didn't want to have anything to do with him. He hesitated, but he could not forget the third thing he had been asked to do, and who had asked him to do it. Whatever happened, he must be loyal to her and her wishes, and so he said, with but little animation in his voice: "Maj. Bonnet's daughter did not go with him."

Instantly came a great cry from the shore. "Where is she? Where is she? Come closer to land and tell me everything!"

This was too much! Dickory did not like the tone of the man on shore, who had no right to command him in that fashion.

"I have no time to stop now," said he; "I am carrying a message to Madam Bonnet."

And so he paddled away, somewhat nearer the middle of the river.

Martin Newcombe was wild; he ran and he bounded on his way to the Bonnet house; he called and he shouted to Dickory, but apparently that young person was too far away to hear him. When the canoe touched the shore, almost at the spot where the fair Kate had been fishing with a hook lying in the sun, Newcombe was already there.

"Tell me," he cried, "tell me about Miss Kate Bonnet! What has befallen her? If she did not go with her father, where is she now?"

"I have come," said Dickory, sturdily, as he fastened his boat with the borrowed rope, "with a message for Madam Bonnet, and I cannot talk with anybody until I have delivered it."

Madam Bonnet saw the two persons hurrying towards her house, and she came out in a fine fury to meet them.

"Have you heard from my runaway husband," she cried, "and from his daughter? I am ashamed to hear news of them, but I suppose I am in duty bound to listen."

Dickory did not hesitate now to tell what he knew, or at least part of it.

"Your daughter—" said he.

"She is not my daughter," cried the lady; "thank Heaven I am spared that disgrace. And from what hiding-place does she and her sire send me a message?"

Dickory's face flushed.

"I bring no message from a hiding-place," he said, "nor any from your husband. He went to sea in his ship, but Mistress Kate Bonnet left the vessel before it sailed and, her clothes having been injured by water, she sent me for what a young lady in her station might need, supposing rightly that you would know what that might be."

"Indeed I do!" cried Madam Bonnet. "What she needs are the clouts of a fish-girl and a stick to her back besides."

"Madam!" cried Newcombe, but she heeded him not; she was growing more angry.

"A fine creature she is," exclaimed the lady, "to run away from my house in this fashion, and treat me with such contumely, and then to order me to send her her fine clothes to deck herself for the eyes of strangers!"

"Madam!" cried Newcombe, "I cannot listen to such speech, such—"

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

ROMANCE OF THE NORTHERN WOODS

LEARNED GIRL ELOPES WITH SON OF THE WILD.

BOTH LOVERS OF NATURE

A Wealthy Evanston, Ill., Maiden Chooses to Link Her Life with a Trapper—How Friendship Ripened Into Love.

Chicago.—The poetry of summer in a Wisconsin forest awakened Edith Cleveland, daughter of the general manager of the Illinois branch of a New England life insurance company, to a romance that has put in the background her learning, gleaned from American and German universities. From across the chasm of social caste she discovered, while summering in the northern woods, Edward Kuharspe, a trapper, whose father was a political refuge from Poland. The other day Miss Cleveland's friends learned with surprise that the university-bred society girl had married the backwoods trapper. An elopement took place recently, and an Englewood minister read the marriage service over the wealthy girl and the giant of the woods, who has lived most of his life in a cabin of logs under monster pines.

Miss Cleveland is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Cleveland, of Evanston. Travel, cultivation, the education of books, and the small talk of society have been brought to bear in the molding of her character, with the leaven of summers out of doors and a consequent athletic training unusual in the experience even of an American girl.

Miss Cleveland was 22 when she met the Polish trapper.

And he was 25. He stood six feet one in his Indian moccasins. Black hair, hanging to the shoulders, and cut like a child's that has undergone the operation with the aid of a china bowl to measure the length and style, fell over his swarthy face and darkened his keen eyes. He knew little of books, for his father, who had fled to save his life from the wrath of the czar, had sought a spot far from civilization. But young Kuharspe was a philosopher. He had studied his Wisconsin wood, and he knew it well. On the border line of northern Wisconsin, 25 miles from the nearest town, he had built the cabin that is hung with skins and in which his table is daily laden with the spoils of his hunt and his rod.

City people began to find him out. From a village called State Line men of wealth and influence from city clubs would drive over the corduroy road to secure Kuharspe for their guide. It was his companionship as much as his valuable service as guide and trapper that they desired. His slight accent, his fearlessness, his strong personality, all contributed to make him a favorite with the summer wayfarers. For it is said of the trapper that his shot is true and his sympathy great.

"He takes a deer in the eye. Never fails, because he says the animal in that way suffers no pain," said a man who has spent many summers with the woodsman.

Such was the man Miss Cleveland met the year succeeding her graduation from a fashionable Washington school for girls. She had gone to the woods with her father and his friends. At first her admiration was frank, as for some valuable antique discovered in a dust-laden curio shop. From this the trapper shrank.

One rainy day she found him seated in his canoe reading a copy of Emerson. Already he had detected in her, sweater clad and felt hatted, the true sportswoman. They had met twice on mutual ground. He was 25, she was 22. He was handsome, strong—an alien, melancholy, but brave. She was daring and a patrician.

The guide in the Wisconsin woods became tender in his guidance, and with dawning smiles the summer people began to notice that his services were devoted to a party of one—a girl, pretty and blond. At this point Miss Edith's father took her home.

But summer came again, and the insurance man had forgotten his fears. So another and another summer went. The other day brought the climax of the romance, and Edith Cleveland forever turned her back on city life to share the cabin and woods with her trapper. A library and some rough costumes are the possessions she chose as dowry.

SPORTING NEWS.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

Training for the annual gymnastic contest of the Y. M. C. A.s of Northern Jersey, which will be held in this city on April 14, has already begun, and the local candidates for the team are practicing hard to acquire accuracy and grace in the movements. The rules of the meet have been issued and provide for three moves on each of the three pieces of apparatus. The horse, parallel and high bars will be used. The points will be awarded on the scale of 10, deductions being made for form in approach, execution of the movement and in retreat.

A prize valued at $7 will be presented to the association whose representatives win the most points, and individual prizes of silver and bronze watch fobs will be given for first and second places in the events. The associations competing in the meet will be allowed to send five men to the entire events. As the moves are quickly executed, and the competitors few, the time taken up by the meet will be short. It is thought advisable therefore to introduce some other feature at the meet, and it is possible that the annual spring exhibition will be run off at that time. This will make the programme of convenient length and decidedly interesting. Entries will close with F. A. Henckel on April 11.

TENNIS.

A feature of the club life at the Park Club this summer will be the tennis. The devotees of the game among the members will arrange an attractive schedule of events with possibly a series of matches

T. M. Day, Jr., chairman of the tennis committee at the Plainfield Country Club, has not yet completed the season's schedule, but he gives assurance that it will be one of the best the club has ever had.

Y. M. C. A. PLANS.

Series of Entertainments Will be Given for Benefit of Baseball Team—Prospective Candidates.

Though no names of the candidates were received at the Y. M. C. A. baseball meeting Thursday, a committee was appointed to look into the plans for a series of benefit entertainments. A. hall will be used for the entertainments, the proceeds of which will be devoted to the baseball management.

As yet the captain of the team has not been selected, though the material is being looked over. There were few of the prospective players out last night on account of other attractions, but from the outlook at present, the team will be made up from the following: Fred Armstrong, Phil Smith, Arthur Humble, Edward Overton, Harry Woodland, Paul Collier, Jackson, Koons, Sampson, Mundy and others. In addition to the above named, it is possible that there will be a number of the High School players who will join the Y. M. C. A., and help to make up the team.

Mrs. George H. Campbell, of 68 Grove street, entertained a number of friends at a delightful social affair, yesterday afternoon, it being the anniversary of her birthday. As the guests arrived they were handed small pigs cut out of flesh-colored cardboard and bearing an appropriate verse, and these directed them to the various tables they were to occupy.

Each guest also had a shamrock cut out of green cardboard, tied with green ribbon, and as the winners at the game progressed small snakes of all colors cut out of cardboard were tied to the shamrocks to indicate the number of games won. SERIES WITH WESTFIELD

Philip Daab and Charles H. Denman Agree on Dates.

SIX GAMES IN ALL

Double Umpire System—Plainfield in Shape for Contests—To Play for a Pennant.

President Charles H. Denman, of the Westfield Baseball Association, and Philip Daab, of the Plainfield Baseball Association, after a conference have re-arranged the dates for the series of games to be played during the season by the teams representing Plainfield and Westfield. In the new schedule two changes are made, the number of contests, six, being left as originally planned. One of the important changes is that the Westfield team will play here Fourth of July morning, and the game for June 24 is cancelled. It was agreed that a contest between these teams on a holiday morning would be the strongest attraction, and it will give the clerks and many others to see two games here on a holiday when they are off duty. The game scheduled for Saturday, August 19, is off and one is scheduled for Saturday, August 5, on Crescent Oval.

This is the correct schedule of games as re-arranged by the management of the respective teams:

Saturday, May 20, at Plainfield; Saturday, June 10, at Westfield; Tuesday morning, July 4, at Plainfield; Saturday, July 15, at Westfield; Saturday, August 5, at Plainfield; Saturday, August 26, at Westfield.

It was further agreed that the double umpire system shall be used in these contests. Merity will officiate for Plainfield and a man yet to be selected, for Westfield. President Denman assured Mr. Daab that he would not be "Dick" Watt, but a man thoroughly posted in the game and competent to act. Of course, Mr. Denman objected to Merity on general principles, and to overcome his feeling against this competent official, Mr. Daab suggested the double system, which was agreed to. The six games will be played for a pennant, the winner of a majority of the contests to receive it.

In speaking of the series, President Denman said that he wished to give the Plainfield fans timely warning that his aggregation would beat the local team to a pulp, that the proposition this season would be the easiest in his career as a baseball director. He says that he does not care what players are engaged for the Plainfield team he will have a nine that will be able to beat them to a standstill. He has his eye on two strong leaguers for shortstop and second base, and he will, as usual, depend on "Red" Waller to do the trick in the box with "Al." Farmer at the receiving end.

Westfield will open the season on Saturday, April 22, with the Seventh Regiment team, better and stronger than ever this season under the management of Sam Mack, formerly of the Bergen Point A. C. John Barnes, of this city, will play with the soldier boys. The Seventh Regiment team has games scheduled with West Point, and several of the strongest college nines.

REPORTER'S ROMANCE ENDS IN A WEDDING

"ARCH" HACQUER FOREVER FORSAKES HIS BOHEMIAN LIFE.

Miss Mary Augusta Duvier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Duvier, of West Fifth street, and Archibald Hacquer, a newspaper worker well-known in this city, were married Saturday night. The bride, through active work at Hope chapel and social connections in the West End, is almost as well-known as the groom.

The wedding was as quiet an affair as could be arranged. The ceremony was performed in the study of Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel, in the presence of only necessary witnesses. Besides Mr. Howard and his wife, the only others present apart from the young people chiefly interested were Percy A. McVey, a brother-in-law of the bride, and Miss Emily Duvier, the bride's youngest sister.

The ceremony was the shortest form permitted by the Presbyterian rules. Mr. Hacquer and the bride entered the minister's home at 9:08; four minutes later they were husband and wife.

Immediately after the ceremony the bridal party went to the home of the bride, a block away, where a wedding supper, attended only by the immediate relatives of the bride's family, was served. Immediately after the supper Mr. and Mrs. Hacquer left town for a two-weeks' honeymoon. They will reside in this city.

The wedding was the culmination of a reportorial romance. Mr. Hacquer first met his bride, three years ago, while reporting a social affair at Hope chapel. Cake and a cup of coffee served to Mr. Hacquer by Miss Duvier won his heart, making good the saying that "the way to reach a man's heart is through his stomach."

The groom is at present connected with the editorial department of the Newark Daily Advertiser.

RUSH RHEES SAYS CHRIST EXAGGERATED

BUT THE SAVIOUR DID IT FOR THE PURPOSE OF EMPHASIS SOLELY.

President Rush Rhees, of Rochester University, a former Plainfielder who frequently visits this city, spoke before the Rockefeller Bible class, in New York, yesterday.

His subject was the parable of the rich fool, as told in the Gospel of St. Luke. He dwelt on the apparent indifference of Christ to considerations of every-day honesty and righteousness, explaining this indifference by saying that the Saviour's attention was riveted on matters of far broader and more lasting importance than those brought to him by such men as this complaining brother.

"There are those now, and there are many of them," said Dr. Rhees, "who think there is a good deal to say for the brother of the prodigal son who stayed at home and stuck to his duty while the other was wasting his substance in riotous living. Many people do not see why Jesus Christ should have defended the cause of the prodigal.

"But it was that He was indifferent to every-day honesty and goodness; it was that He had something to teach more far reaching. And He paid little attention of the matters of less concern in order to emphasize the more essential teachings.

"I remember when I was a boy in Sunday-school they used to explain to me that Jesus didn't really mean the eye of a needle when He said so, but meant some sort of a gate to go through which a camel had to stoop. I know better now. Jesus meant the eye of the same sort of needle that you know—the kind to sew with. He exaggerated for the sake of emphasis.

"All Oriental teachers love exaggeration. Jesus Christ was an Oriental teacher, and He loved exaggeration. Another case is that of the mote and the beam; by a beam He didn't mean a little beam—He meant a great big roof beam. It was His way of making His comparisons forcible."

BIG JOHN FOOLS POLICE

But His Queer Sense of Humor Costs Him a $5 Bill.

COPS CALLED OUT

Patrol Wagon Carrying Five Blue Coats Hurries to Scene of Alleged Riot—Perpetrator Arrested.

John Kiely, or "Big John" as his friends in the West End know him, has been a resident of Plainfield thirty-eight years but not until Saturday afternoon did his nearest acquaintances know that beneath the surface in his make-up there lay dormant a sense of humor that a comic opera star might envy. John comes from the Emerald Isle where everybody possesses ready wit but the supply dealt out to him was extra large and that is why his love of fun placed him in the hands of the police.

Sundry drinks of the "creature" roused up his frolicsome nature and he decided he would make fun for the populace as well as himself. Chuckling and chortling he went into a West Third street store and rang up police headquarters on the telephone.

"Hurry up to the Boulevard," said John suppressing his guffaws with a supreme effort when Chief Kiely's voice was borne back to him, "There's a tur-r-rible fight goin' on down here. It's a regular Donnybrook fair and pon me sowl it'll soon be a riot. Sind all the p'lacemin yez hev to spare."

At this point John hung up the receiver in order to give vent to a roar and he was still rolling over the ground outside the store in a paroxysm of joy when the patrol wagon bearing five bluecoats dashed up. To their anxious query as to where the fight was John could only hold his sides and shout "ha ha" and "he he." Some one tipped a bluecoat off that he was having a little joke with them and the exasperated officers bundled him into the wagon, still laughing and snickering.

In the court this morning, John had lost the point of the joke and when failed to explain about the fight, Judge Runyon fined him $5. He paid it without so much as a smile and didn't even laugh when he found himself breathing the free ozone outside of headquarters.

GOOD SCORES MADE ON BROOKSIDE RANGE

'PLAINS GUN CLUB HELD A SUCCESSFUL SHOOT.

Under the auspices of the Brookside Gun Club a successful grand prize shoot was held at the club's grounds, Scotch Plains, Saturday afternoon. Three special events of ten birds each were run off, prizes being offered for first and second place. In addition there was sweepstake shooting. Slater, of Westfield, took two first prizes and was tied for first place in the other event. In the sweepstake shooting he led the field, killing forty-three out of a possible forty-five birds.

The principal event was a ten bird shoot, Slater making a perfect score, winning the silver chocolate pitcher. George Johnston was a close second, with a score of nine, and Scott Terry finished third with a score of eight. Scott Terry and Slater tied for first place in the second event, with a score of nine each. In the shoot off, miss and out, Terry won. Charles Maltby finished second. Slater won the third event, killing ten straight. George Johnston and Scott Terry were tie for second place, and Terry won in the shoot off.

COURT CONSULTS HOYLE

His Honor Can't Connect Pair of Fives With "Seven Up."

NEGRO "CALLS" HIM

Cops Sweep Down on a Little Game—All Four Defendants Receive Suspended Sentence.

Because the library at police headquarters does not contain a copy of Hoyle's dissertation on the "Art of card playing," a knotty problem was left undecided in the city court, this morning, when George Potter, Harrison Randolph, Gordon Carson, William Parson and Benjamin Potts, all colored, were arraigned on a charge of gambling. They were arrested by Patrolmen McCarthy and Meyers at Potts' home on East Fourth street, Saturday night, after they had lingered outside and heard various remarks which led them to believe that a game of poker was in progress.

As it was Potts' home, he acted as spokesman for the five and insisted that all that was engaging the attention of himself and friends was a game of "Seven up," which he claimed is in the same class with checkers and dominoes. The other four nodded assent when he said this but their faces dropped a bit when Judge Runyon held up what is known in poker parlance as "a pair of fives." That is, there was only half of them, as Patrolman McCarthy declared he had torn them from Harrison Randolph's hand and each got an equal portion.

"Now Potts," said the judge, "if you were playing seven up, how comes it that Randolph was so anxious to hold on to a pair of fives."

"O, why," Potts hastened to answer, "that's all in the game."

His Honor disagreed with him and he was upheld by Chief Kiely and several court officers. To make sure a cop was sent to look for a copy of "Hoyle" but he failed to locate one. The judge wouldn't go on with the case until he cleared up the point about the pair of fives and he was making more inquiries about them when Potts blurted out:

"Say now Jedge, why you keep on askin' fool questions 'bout dis here poker and dis here seven up when yo' know mere 'bout cider one dan we do."

The court didn't argue the contention with him and it was unnecessary through "Willie" Parson weakening. He was given a chance to speak and confessed that all five had been gambling, that they had been playing poker and that they also had a little seven up. The others fell in line and told what they knew but stuck to the point that the pair of fives were held in the game of seven up. All four got off with a suspended sentence and Potts was asked to either get a copy of Hoyle or bring an expert around to court some day to prove to the judge's satisfaction the question of the pair of fives.

The tip to the police that gambling was going on at Potts' place was furnished by George Potter's wife who got miffed because her better half preferred to stake his wages on cards instead of paying rent and grocery bills.

STEEPLECHASE, MAY 13

Watchung Hunt Club Event at Plainfield Driving Park.

DINNER TO FARMERS

Special Stewards for the Event Are Appointed—Six Races in All.

A series of amateur steeplechase races that promise to exceed anything similar to it yet seen in the city, has been arranged by the Watchung Hunt Club, the local organization which has been growing in numbers and activity since its formation. They will be given at the Driving Park on Saturday, May 13, and the races will be six in number for cups and sweepstakes.

The plans were first agreed upon at a meeting of the club in the Casino, Saturday night, and the details are now being worked out. President Lewis E. Waring was in charge and the following members were appointed to be stewards of the meet: Charles W. McCutchen, Charles J. Fisk, J. Wesley Johnston, George C. White, Dr. R. VanD. Hedges, George A. Beaten, Frank DeL. Hyde and J. W. Teele. The executive committee will consist of Paul T. Brown, C. E. S. Bellows, Dr. M. O'M. Knott, R. A. Shobbeare and A. E. Fisk. The judges and the names of the races are to be announced later.

It was also decided at the gathering to make the admission fee fifty cents with fifty cents extra for grandstand. All accommodations will be given and everything possible is being done to make the affair a big success. All the farmers over whose lands the club has gone on its weekly runs, will be special guests and after the meet they will be entertained at dinner at a local hotel. W. S. Blitz, who had charge of last season's horse show, will be clerk of the course.

The officers of the Watchung Hunt Club who were instrumental in bringing the idea for the races to a head are President, Lewis E. Waring; vice president, Charles T. Freeman; secretary, S. A. Cruikshank; treasurer, George S. King; Dr. M. O'M. Knott, master of the hounds, and George P. Mellick and Harry A. Bourn, stewards.

FREEHOLDERS VISIT WEST END AVENUE

PROPERTY OWNERS POINT OUT NEED OF A BRIDGE.

In response to a request from interested property-owners in the west end of the borough, the Somerset County Board of Freeholders, together with Captain J. Frank Hubbard and William A. Westphal, of the Union County Board of Freeholders; Street Commissioner Gavett, H. C. VanEmburgh, one of the borough engineers; George T. Rogers, representing the Park Club, met these property-owners this morning at 10 o'clock on West End avenue, where it is proposed to erect a new bridge over Green brook.

The officials listened to the request of the petitioners, who ask for an iron girder and concrete bridge, sixty-six feet wide, that being the width of West End avenue in the city. It is proposed to widen the avenue in the borough to one hundred feet. After the meeting all adjourned to the Chatham Hotel for dinner. A report on the bridge will be made later.

Dying; Won't Reveal Assailant.

John Stevenson, a son of the late John Stevenson, for many years a local resident, was shot through the right lung at Raritan, Saturday night. He is now in the Somerset hospital with slight chances of living but he steadfastly refuses to tell who held the pistol. He is employed by Michael Hickey, the contractor, and it is thought an Italian workman is the assailant. Just before his death, Stevenson's father boarded at McVey's hotel on North avenue.

William Waters Missing.

The friends of J. William Waters, son-in law of Herman Klinsman, of Harrison avenue, are greatly worried over his disappearance from home Saturday. He went out with the intention of getting something for a headache and failed to return.

FEAST OF PURIM OCCURS TOMORROW

PLAINFIELD HEBREWS TO OBSERVE THEIR DAY OF THANKSGIVING.

Purim, the Hebrew holiday that most nearly corresponds to the American Thanksgiving, will be celebrated tomorrow in this city and in common with members of the faith throughout the world. Although the holiday is only on one day, the celebrations of thanksgiving will continue for several weeks, and it is customary to give masquerade balls and dinners.

In the Book of Esther is found the story of Purim, which in English means the Feast of Lots. "Pur," word of Persian origin, means, "lot," and this connection refers to the casting of lots by Haman to determine the day on which the Hebrews should be destroyed.

From time immemorial it has been the custom for the younger people to drown the name of Haman whenever it is mentioned in the scroll. The efforts of the sexton and the older folks to stop the disturbance is but half-hearted, for they remember sympathetically how they used to do the same thing themselves.

On the evening of Purim every worshipper puts his contribution toward charity into a plate placed in the synagogue for this collection. The scene of the evening repeats itself on the following morning, when the "Megillah" is read for the second time. The observant Hebrew feels that he has not done his duty on this day by merely enjoying himself, but that he must also gladden the heart of other, as prescribed in the Book of Esther.

This is done through the "Shallach Monoth," the interchange of gifts, consisting usually of sweetmeats and wine, placed on a plate and covered with a spotless cloth.

HELP FOR SCHANZ FROM CITY FATHERS

WILL ATTEMPT TO SOLVE SALOON KEEPER'S DILEMMA.

For the purpose of considering the proposition to widen Park avenue, between Second street and the New Jersey Central, in accordance with the request of The Plainfield Trust Company, C. W. McCutchen and Boice, Runyon & Co., affected property-owners, and to take some action in the matter of Charles Schanz, regarding his liquor application, there will be a special meeting of the Common Council, tonight.

The first mentioned matter will go through probably without any trouble, but as to the Schanz matter it will be of interest to know just what action the Common Council will take.

It has been learned that the plan to place an iron gate with a lock and key at the entrance to the driveway adjoining the property at 136 Park avenue, was proposed by Mr. Schanz, having previously understood that that would be one of the objections offered by the adjacent property-owners to the establishment of a saloon in that block. The members of the Common Council do not in any way feel as though they are to blame because Mr. Schanz has thus far been defeated in his own proposition, yet there is an opinion that he would have received a license in the ordinary way without the suggested improvements, although there were not any too many votes to spare as it was.

H. S. Miller at Y. M. C. A.

H. S. Miller, of Washington avenue, who will shortly leave this city to locate at Elmira, N. Y., was the speaker at the meeting of the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon, at which the Southern Jubilee Singers furnished music. Rev. S. S. Sevier, a native of the West Coast of Africa, gave a short talk which was enjoyed.

Jubilee Singers at Y. M. C. A.

The Colored Jubilee Singers pleased a large audience at the Y. M. C. A. Saturday night by their Southern songs. There were seven in the company which provided an entertaining programme. Among other features was a series of colored monologue attractions which won considerable applause.

PUBLIC LIBRARY NEEDS

Books and Pictures Welcome at the Institution.

SOME RECENT GIFTS

Photographs of Scenes in Plainfield Wanted—Books and Magazines Received.

It is the Plainfield Public Library's purpose to serve the public as perfectly as possible and to this end welcomes and duly considers all serious criticism. If such criticisms occur to you, make them to the Librarian. That all the suggestions are not carried out does not mean that they are not acceptable—it is much more likely to mean limited funds. Occasionally give the Library a new book which you know to be interesting and valuable. For example, it is obvious that on so small a book fund it is impossible to duplicate very largely, and yet there are many books of which several copies are most desirable. Why not, now and then, after reading a new novel, turn it over to the Library?

Another field of great usefulness is the children's department. The Library's work with children is now very large. In addition to the large number who come to the Library, there is a large proportion reached by the schools, to four of which collections of 100 each are sent regularly, where they are greatly enjoyed by children who probably would never otherwise come within the sphere of the Library's influence. For this work considerable duplication is necessary. Why not give the outgrown picture and other children's books to the Library where they would be sure of doing good? All who do social or religious work of any kind feel that their most permanent and hopeful work is with the children and the work of a public library is no exception to this. Will you not help to make it more effective? If you are connected with any club or organization you can see that all the publications of that society are placed on file, thus preserving its history.

You can give photographs, mounted or unmounted. The Library would be glad to receive good amateur photographs of Plainfield and the vicinity, especially of historic places or places which are changing, and any photographic reproductions of works of art, of which the Library now has a small beginning, would be most acceptable. You can, perhaps, aid in completing the Library's periodical sets. The recently published list (which will be given to anyone on application) will show what is especially desirable in this line. Or if you are interested in some subject, now and then give a book or subscription to some periodical on that subject. If you are a specialist in any line, give the Library the benefit of your special knowledge of its literature, by recommending from time to time, the best books.

If you have any genealogical books that you do not care to keep, or any matter whatever relating to the history of our own State, be assured that if it is presented to the Library, it will be very gratefully received and carefully kept and you will have the satisfaction of feeling that the book is where it will do the most good. Finally, if you have any books, magazines, or papers which you do not care to keep, give the Library the chance of seeing them before they are destroyed or otherwise disposed of. The Librarian is always glad to confer with anyone on this matter, or if notified will call and ascertain what books the Library can use.

These are some of the little ways in which you can aid the Library: in some one of them almost anyone could help. There are other needs of the Library which the Librarian would be glad to talk about with any who are interested.

Among other recent gifts, the Library has received the Poetical works of W. C. Wilkinson, from Mr. L. V. F. Randolph, History of the Empire State regiments from Mr. Hugh Hastings, Tremaine's Last hours of Sheridan's cavalry, Stewart's New Jersey digest, National conference of charities and correction, 1904 from Col. M. W. Tyler, Decennial publications of the University of Chicago, from the University, 2 bound volumes containing all the reports of the Muhlenberg Hospital from the hospital; The Holland Society Yearbook from Dr. D. C. Romaine, Baptismal and marriage register of the old Dutch Church at Kingston, N. Y. from J. B. Dumont, Electrical handbook (11 vols.) of the American institute of electrical engineers, from the Institute, a collection of 46 vs. and about

SPORTING NEWS.

DIAMOND DUST.

By actual count 1,894 baseball players have thus far informed their managers that they never felt better and that they are in the best condition.

"Connie" Mack and Shetaline have completed arrangements for the spring series between the Athletics and Phillies. They will begin April 1 and continue to April 14, when the regular season opens.

"Rube" Oldring, who will play short-stop for the local team, is only twenty years old, but stands nearly six feet, with broad shoulders. He fields his position like lightning and can hit the ball, too.

Pitcher Phillipi, of the Pittsburg Club, says that he has no new "spit ball" or anything to offer but his ability to shoot them straight over the plate. The "deacon" is on the right track. The pitcher with control is still in demand.

Judging from reports from the Southern training camps every team in both major leagues will be a pennant winner this season. Just now the press agents are running over about the fine work of the youngsters, and the chances are that most of them will get back into the minor leagues before the season is very old.

Honus Wagner, the peerless short-stop on the Pittsburg team, has been detained from spring practice by the illness of his father. He is the only support of the family and Manager Fred Clarke has allowed him to defer practice for a time. Wagner is a lover of fast horses and is now the owner of three that can travel a fast clip.

Manager McGraw recently received a letter from a would-be first baseman who said that he was six feet four inches tall and that no thrown ball had ever gotten over his head. The Giants' manager showed the note to "Dan." McGann, who thoughtfully remarked: "None ever his head, eh? He don't say how many went between his feet."

HEAD-ON COLLISION BETWEEN TWO TEMPERAMENTS!

Every hour, all over the city—in homes, in factories, in stores, in offices—collisions are occurring between incompatible human temperaments. The housewife is conservative, likes to keep her china and furniture intact; the servant is iconoclastic—a "collision between temperament" occurs, and a "want ad." tells those girls who can read that a servant is wanted at a certain home.

The factory-foreman, always opposed to square pegs in round holes, finds that one of his workmen is a misfit. Again a temperamental collision. And a workman who is a "round peg" finds a want ad. that offers a better job for him than his present one; and the other man advertises for a job where square pegs are needed.

A store-manager finds that a certain clerk has not an ounce of salesmanship in his make-up. Collision again.

A want ad. brings another clerk to the store; and finds a job for the ex-clerk where salesmanship is not a requisite.

In the office the stenographer got to "running the business."

Boss was a "brute," and believed he could manage things himself.

Simply another Collision Between Temperaments. Want ad. found a "boss" for the young lady who rather liked to be managed; and found a stenographer for the old "boss" who didn't "grate on his nerves."

HORRIBLE MINE DISASTER.

Twenty-four Dead at Rush Run and Red Ash Collieries.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 20.—As the result of the horrible explosion in the Rush Run and Red Ash mines near Thurmond twenty-four men now lay stark in death in the two mines. Ten of these were killed in the explosion, and the other fourteen were a rescuing party who entered the mine to take out the charred and blackened remains of their fellow workmen. These latter were killed by a second explosion and the after damp.

The first explosion seemed to shake the foundations of the mountains, and the angry twin flash from the two neighboring drift mouths lighted up the heavens for miles around. Soon from the mining villages for several miles up and down the river hundreds of people rushed to the scene of the dreadful disaster. The first explosion was caused by a "naked" flame coming in contact with the gas. The flames leaped from the drift mouth and set fire to everything in reach that was not blown from harm's way by the force of the explosion.

The great drum by which the loaded cars are run from the drift mouth down the incline to the tipple and the empties drawn up was blown from its moorings and down the mountain side 600 feet, while the drumhouse caught fire and was totally consumed. The cars that stood at the mouth of the mine were blown far down toward the tipple, and much of the track of the incline was destroyed. The rails twisted, and the crossties were whipped from their beds in the ballast and sent scorched and charred many yards away. The big fan that furnished air in the mine was so damaged that it was several hours before it could be started again.

The first intimation of the disaster was a muffled yet terrific intonation, rocking all the houses in the little village. The people fled from their homes in scant attire, being too frightened to remain indoors and thinking for a time there had been an earthquake, the vibration being so intense.

Crowds are now gathered about the entrances to the mines, the families of the victims loudly lamenting.

PLUNGED TWENTY FEET DOWN.

Erie Express Badly Wrecked Near Hammond, Ind.

HAMMOND, Ind., March 20.—The Erie passenger train known as the Pacific express, while running at the rate of sixty miles an hour, close to Winfield Station, near here, plunged down a twenty foot embankment, injuring twelve people, two of whom may die.

The wreck was caused by the auxiliary reservoirs under the engine cab dropping into a switch frog which caught the front trucks of the tender. The engine remained on the track, but six cars toppled over and rolled down the embankment. Engineer Walnitz and Fireman Gorman remained at their posts and escaped injury.

The injured are Frederick Peavy, brakeman, Huntington, Ind.; William T. Drake, conductor, Chicago; Mrs. H. Cairo, Chicago; Morton Schnadig, Chicago; C. H. Williams, baggageman, Marion, O.; Joseph Nojack, Everett, Minn.; Stanley Yatian, Hegeswisch, Ill.; Joseph Schmulsky, Hegeswisch; John Swanson, Hegeswisch; Joseph Dreabuvold, Hegeswisch, and Joseph Pihl, Hegeswisch.

In the two passenger coaches attached to the express train were twenty-seven passengers, many of whom had narrow escapes from death. Mrs. Mary Cairo of Chicago, who was traveling with two children, neither of whom was injured, was badly crushed and may die.

All of the wounded were brought to the St. Margaret's hospital in this city, where they are being cared for.

Traffic on the Erie railroad is blocked, and trains are routed over the Pennsylvania tracks.

Flood Damage at Warren, Pa.

WARREN, Pa., March 20.—Warren is experiencing a flood of no mean proportions. The lower parts of the town are inundated, and dozens of families are rendered homeless for the present. An ice gorge in the Allegheny river at Red House let go, and the river rose four feet and six inches in about three hours. The island portion of the town is covered with four feet of water. The Glade Run tannery will sustain the heaviest monetary loss. The plant is flooded, and thousands of hides in the curing vat will be ruined. The losses will reach $5,000.

Engineers' Labor Trouble Settled.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 20.—It is announced that the subcommittee of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad had reached an agreement relative to the long existing trouble between the two unions and that the agreement is now in the hands of General Manager Higgins of the road. For seven weeks prominent labor men and the committees of the two brotherhoods have been trying to settle the trouble.

A WOMAN DIPLOMAT

Sidelights on a Dominican Plan That Failed.

HEROINE IS BEAUTIFUL MRS. READER

She Was to Be Fiscal Agent In United States For Morales, but He Feared Uncle Sam's Big Stick and Weakened.

NEW YORK, March 20.—William N. Cromwell, the attorney, made public a statement that he had never had any employment, understanding or agreement with Mr. and Mrs. Athole B. Reader respecting any Santo Domingo matters. In a statement published Saturday Mrs. Ella R. Reader had declared that Mr. Cromwell had acted as counsel for her husband and herself in a venture by which they had undertaken to secure financial relief for the republic of Santo Domingo in return for valuable concessions. Mrs. Reader declared that the project was stopped on the eve of consummation by a disclosure of it to the authorities at Washington and consequent dispatch of an agent of the United States government to Santo Domingo.

Mr. Cromwell said:

"I supplement my explicit denial with the statement that I never have had any employment, understanding or agreement with Mr. and Mrs. Reader respecting any Santo Domingo matters and have no information as to what was done or not done by them in Santo Domingo. I have never had and do not now have any interest or duty in the matter one way or the other, nor have I ever received or been interested in any claim, indebtedness or concession in anywise concerning Santo Domingo, nor have I in the remotest manner conferred with any official of the United States government upon the subject. It is not now and never has been of the least personal or professional concern to me what was done or not done in respect to any Santo Domingo affair."

The charge made by Senator Morgan of Alabama that William Nelson Cromwell, whom various Panamans have said was the guiding star of the isthmian revolution, negotiated the intervention of the United States in Santo Domingo has brought interesting developments here.

Mr. and Mrs. Athole B. Reader, the South American mine owners, whose plans to get concessions from President Morales, Senator Morgan said, were frustrated by the intervention of this country, turned up in New York, elaborated on Senator Morgan's story and added that Mr. Cromwell had been their legal adviser with respect to their Dominican enterprises, the failure of which followed the arrival of Commander Dillingham and the signing of the now famous Dillingham-Sanchez "agreement." Mr. Cromwell on his part issued a general denial of any connection with Dominican affairs.

It was arranged that Mrs. Reader should be fiscal agent in this country for President Morales; that Mr. Reader should take hold of the Santo Domingo end of the negotiations; that President Morales should hand over to the Readers the bay of Samana, which the Readers might or might not hand over to President Roosevelt as a coaling station. From there Mrs. Reader takes up the tale as follows:

"Mr. Perez and Mr. Reader arrived at Santo Domingo on the 30th of December, 1904, and were met on the boat by General Morales. Perez called upon Morales on Friday evening, as arranged, and returned to my husband about 11 o'clock with the news that everything was most satisfactory and that President Morales was ready to keep his promise and had agreed generally to everything Mr. Reader required.

"On Monday, Jan. 9, when he called at the palace, Mr. Sanchez informed him that they had a communication from Mr. Dawson not to proceed with the Reader negotiations, but to deal direct with Washington, and that a special commissioner was leaving Washington within twenty-four hours for Santo Domingo city. President Morales seemed confused and upset and said:

"'What can I do? I am frightened of the "big stick," and I dare not under present circumstances offend President Roosevelt.'

"On Jan. 14 Commander Dillingham arrived at Santo Domingo city with the United States gunboat Castine, and immediately proceeded with his negotiations with President Morales in conjunction with United States Minister Dawson."

LINEVITCH TO CZAR

New Chief Reports Russian Army Concentrating.

THE JAPANESE CAPTURE FAKOMAN

Emperor's Ministers For Peace--Russia Would Renounce Her Entire Manchurian Policy to Satisfy Japan's Demands.

LONDON, March 20. — Dispatches from St. Petersburg say that Commander in Chief Linevitch, in a telegram to the czar, reports as follows:

"In pursuance of the orders of your majesty I have assumed command of all our forces, both military and naval, operating against the Japanese.

"Japanese batteries have bombarded our divisions in the valleys of Tavanpun and Yanpu. The enemy has appeared in force near Kaotaitse, on the railroad about twenty-two miles north of Tie pass, and their cavalry has occupied Fakoman. Our armies continue their concentration."

A dispatch from Gunshu pass, about 165 miles north of Mukden, says: "The first army, which has been covering the retreat of the Russian forces from the south, is withdrawing slowly, checking comparatively light attacks by the Japanese. The Japanese are conducting a flanking operation on the right, and from the Russian column Japanese batteries are visible keeping pace with it."

It is stated on high authority at St. Petersburg that at General Linevitch's request the emperor has appointed General Kuropatkin commander of the first army and that he has assumed command.

While Emperor Nicholas, whose word is final, still declines to abandon the prosecution of the war, and the government maintains its ability to continue the conflict, it is stated on good authority that powerful influences, including several of the emperor's own ministers, are now strongly urging that the time has come to indicate to Japan Russia's desire for peace upon a reasonable basis. One of the emperor's ministers in a conversation said:

"We have suffered bitter defeat on land and sea. We can, however, still continue the war. But both countries have suffered great losses in blood and treasure, and it would only profit the rivals of both were we to fight on until one or the other is exhausted. Russia has a hard task fighting the war against such adversaries, 6,000 miles from home, and I contend she can make a dignified peace without glory, but not without honor. Russia is too big and powerful to retire permanently from the field. The clouds at home will eventually roll away. With the army and navy reorganized, in five, ten or fifteen years there will come inevitably our revenge. No permanent peace is possible now or later unless Japan is reasonable."

To the suggestion of the possibility of an alliance between Russia and Japan, the minister said, "A reasonable peace must first be established."

"What," was asked, "would be reasonable?"

"Broadly speaking, Russia's renunciation of her entire Manchurian policy should satisfy Japan's claims. She could have her protectorate over Korea, such privileges on the Kwantung peninsula and at Port Arthur as the powers would not oppose and the Chinese Eastern railway be placed under international control, Russia maintaining her rights to a railway line through northern Manchuria to Vladivostok."

"What would be Russia's attitude on the subject of indemnity?"

"Russia never yet has paid indemnity and history practically affords no precedent for indemnity when territory is not occupied to insure payment, and Japan holds not a foot of Russian territory. Japan could, however, take the proceeds of the sale of the property and rights of the Chinese Eastern railway, which was built with Russian money."

Dispatches from Japanese headquarters in the field says that General Kuroki's army continues to lead the Japanese forces which have now been engaged for nine days in a hard pursuit, in which they have covered a distance of more than ninety-five miles, with frequent fighting.

A Japanese detachment, continuing its advance north, has pursued the enemy beyond Kaiyuan, which is twenty miles north of Tie pass. Kaiyuan was evacuated by the Russians after they had set fire to the railroad station.

General Kuroki's army captured the colors of the Fifth Russian regiment of rifles. The colors were inscribed as having been presented to the regiment by the emperor in 1834. Most of the captured organizations succeeded in burning their standards before surrendering. A few prisoners are secured daily.

It is reported that during General Kuropatkin's resistance at Tower hill he was slightly wounded by an eleven inch shell which fell near him.

The Russian army continues its northern retreat, the Japanese following. They have occupied Fakoman, to the northwest of Tie pass. Large Russian columns are retreating from the southwest. The retreat will probably be continued to Harbin. The Russians are reported to be badly disorganized.

AGAINST MOBILIZATION.

Russian Workmen In Poland Object to Fight For Czar.

WARSAW, March 20. — Now that most of the strikes are ended the workmen are beginning to carry out the threat of revenge on such of their fellows as refused to quit work with them. A foreman who had refused to join the strikers has been fatally stabbed, and a workman who had refused to walk out was shot and severely wounded. The authorities fear that these incidents are only the beginning of a series of such outrages.

The working classes are greatly excited in anticipation of orders for mobilization. The men are determined to offer violent opposition. Scarcely a day passes without the appearance of seditious pamphlets. One secret publication entitled "The Barricades," which was recently circulated, preached revolutionary doctrines, urging workmen to prepare for the struggle and build barricades in the streets. The mobilization is expected to begin in Lodz today. Workmen in several mills there already are striking as a manifestation of hostility to such measures.

The peasant disorders are growing rapidly in the black soil belt and other districts of southern Russia. Provincial journals have alarming reports, showing that an actual reign of terror already exists in some districts. Not only are estates plundered and buildings burned, but landlords are brutally murdered. In some places bands of armed moujiks have taken to the forests, and actual battles have occurred between them and estate guardians.

Japanese Destroyer Lost.

YOKOHAMA, March 20.—A report here says that during a storm a Japanese torpedo boat destroyer was lost off the Indo-China coast.

AGROUND ON BLOCK ISLAND.

Steamer Spartan Ran on a Reef In the Fog.

BLOCK ISLAND, R. I., March 20.—In rounding the southeast end of Block Island two hours before daylight the steamer Spartan, Captain J. O. Briggs, of the Boston and Philadelphia Steamship company, on her way from Providence to Philadelphia, grounded on the point, sunk until the water was even with her lower deck, with a fifteen foot hole in her bow, and soon began to break up.

The accident occurred almost under the bluff on which is the powerful southeast light, equipped with a fog whistle, which, according to those on shore, had been blowing a half hour before the steamer struck. The weather at the time was foggy.

The Spartan ran squarely on to the reef that makes out from the end of the island for a distance of a few hundred yards. The Spartan after leaving Providence made a slow run down Narragansett bay. She passed out by Beaver Tail light early in the morning and at once headed for Block Island, with the intention of rounding the southeast end and then keeping on down the coast. In going around the end of the island she evidently clung too close to the shore and suddenly brought up on the reef.

The crew of twenty-three men remained on board until the vessel began to break up, then signaled the life savers and were taken ashore.

Colorado Sails South.

NORFOLK, Va., March 20. — The cruiser Colorado has sailed from Hampton Roads, and it is understood she is bound for Venezuelan waters, though reports have her going to join the combined fleet near Pensacola. The Colorado has not completed the crew she is supposed to leave this fleet with despite the fact that men intended for other ships in the Caribbean squadron have been sent to her. Ten expert torpedo men were sent to the cruiser from the League Island navy yard.

Floods at Johnstown, Pa.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., March 20.—The Conemaugh river is at flood stage. Cambria county and Morrellville are cut off from the main portion of the city. Street car travel to the Seventeenth ward is stopped. The river is now ten feet six inches and rising six inches an hour. Weather Forecaster Lorentz predicts a sixteen to eighteen foot stage, which will cause much damage to the central part of the city.

Two Bridges Carried Away.

CORRY, Pa., March 20.—Rain of the past twenty-four hours is causing much damage in this vicinity. At Bear lake a bridge was washed away and trains are being sent by Warren and Irvington. On the Allegheny Valley railroad the bridge at Summerdale is gone and trains are being sent by Erie. At Hydetown near here there is three feet of water on the tracks and cellars here are flooded.

Former Cornell Student Suicides.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., March 20.—Neal M. Hudson of Weedsport, nineteen years old, committed suicide by shooting himself with a revolver. He entered Cornell university in 1902, but had been obliged to give up his studies because of ill health and became melancholy.

HAY SAILS FOR REST

Secretary of State Very Weak as He Says Farewell.

HE IS WORN OUT FROM OVERWORK

Rear Admiral Rixey Says, "Country Does Not Begin to Know of Work Done by the Diplomat"--His Nerve Centers Affected.

WASHINGTON, March 20. — John Hay, secretary of state, sailed on Saturday from New York on the Cretic of the White Star line for a voyage of six weeks in the Mediterranean to recuperate his health. Mr. Hay, who appeared to be in a state of nervous exhaustion, stopped to rest after he had walked halfway down the pier when about to board the steamer and was moved to the boat in a rolling chair. He walked down the gangplank, however, and later a message was signaled at Sandy Hook by the international code of signal flags that the secretary was much better.

With Mr. Hay on his trip were his wife and Henry Adams of Washington, a personal friend. His son, Clarence Hay; his daughter, Mrs. James W. Wadsworth, Jr., and her husband and Henry White, the newly appointed ambassador to Italy, were also at the pier to say farewell.

Mr. Hay's face was pale and drawn, and he seemed to walk with effort. His son in reply to an inquiry said that his father's weakened condition had not been generally known.

"Extreme exhaustion of the nerve centers, brought on by overwork," is the cause assigned by Rear Admiral Rixey, the surgeon general of the navy, who is Secretary Hay's physician, for the secretary's illness, shown only just before boarding the steamer at New York.

"Secretary Hay is worn out from overwork," the surgeon general said, and I have urged him to take this trip in the hope that the sea voyage and complete rest and separation from official business will restore his strength. The country does not begin to know of the work which the secretary has insisted on doing despite several attacks of grip and bronchitis. As a result his nerve centers are well nigh exhausted. I am hopeful that two months of absolute rest will restore him to health and enable him to return to his official duties."

Mrs. Hay also has for some time been urging on the secretary the necessity of a trip. The surgeon general is not of the opinion that Secretary Hay is suffering from any serious organic trouble. Several days ago Dr. Osler of Baltimore, who is acquainted with Secretary Hay, was invited to come to Washington to see him before his departure, but was prevented from accepting by an attack of grip.

ITALY IN IT NOW.

Castro's Troops Take Possession of Italian Company's Mines.

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, March 20.—News has reached here that the governor of Barcelona, Venezuela, received from President Castro orders to take possession at once of the coal mines of Guanta Naricual, situated near Barcelona and leased in 1898 for thirty-three years by the Venezuelan government to an Italian company.

Acting on these orders the Venezuelan troops took possession of the mines by armed force, as in the similar case of the New York and Bermuda company, this notwithstanding the protest of the Italian manager. This action has been taken without a judgment of the court of Carcaras.

The Italian legation has been notified and Baron Aliotti, Italian charge d'affaires, is represented as having entered a protest.

Pope Congratulated on His Name Day

ROME, March 20.—Yesterday being his name day, Pope Pius X. received thousands of congratulations in person and by message and celebrated mass in the presence of a few intimate friends. His holiness lunched with his sister and later received the Sacred college in his library and thanked the cardinals for their good wishes without, however, delivering a formal address, as was the custom of Pope Leo XIII., who chose such occasions for addressing the world through the cardinals.

Willimantic Hotel Destroyed.

WILLIMANTIC, Conn., March 20.—Fire which gutted the European hotel block here and partially burned the Harrington block caused a loss of $25,000 and proved to be one of the most destructive that this city has suffered for years. Twelve boarders were in the European hotel and lost all their belongings. The fire started in the kitchen of the hotel. The cook, Lizzie Stewart, is said to have lost $1,500 in cash.

Dispute War Risk Claim.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 20.—Balfour, Guthrie & Co. have brought suit against the St. Paul Fire and Marine Insurance company here for the recovery of $6,000 insurance money alleged to be due as a result of the seizure of the steamer Arabia by the Russian Vladivostok squadron last July.

Plainfield, N. J., March 20, 1905.

Former President Grover Cleveland was sixty-eight on Saturday. Less than nine years ago his name was jeered by the party in National convention, but he has lived to see the day when he stands as the foremost Democrat of the Nation. May he enjoy many more birthdays.

The Orange Journal announces editorially this week that a subscriber made a duplicate payment last week and the second payment was returned. It asks whether it is honest. For the land of us we can't answer your question, but will leave your reputation for veracity to the people of Orange.

New Brunswick man has made the startling discovery that the Middlesex town once contained beautiful women. He quotes a passage from a book of travel published in the eighteenth century which credits that place as the time with having some of the handsomest women in America. No one should begrudge this proud distinction. Let New Brunswick have all the consolation it can from the fact that once upon a time many, many years ago, there were beautiful women in the place.

The Atlantic City Press finds fault with a contemporary for publishing a dissertation on "Why girls lack lovers" and hastens to inform the world that the story has no application to the city by the sea but concerns New Yerk and other communities. The Press is right and its contemporary deserves the rebuke it receives. It's dead easy to get a girl, in fact any number of girls, at Atlantic City, for as that paper truthfully says: "There is always a lover in the back-ground of every girl, and he is always willing and eager to announce himself provided the girl gives him the nod of her royal favor." Sometimes there are plenty of fish in the water and they are easy to land but some of us like to angle for trout.

OBITUARY.

Peter Bogert.

Peter Bogert, a former resident of this city, and son-in-law of Rev. N. Everett Smith, who many years ago was the pastor of the Congregational church, now Trinity Reformed church in West Second street, fell dead in his room Saturday morning while preparing to start for the Disciplinary School for Boys in Brooklyn of which he was secretary. Mr. Bogert was secretary and treasurer of the Wade's printing ink house in Reade street, New York, for over forty years. Recently he resigned to take the place of secretary to the school. He was an elder in the New Utrecht Reformed church and its choirmaster for fourteen years. He was in his sixty-third year. Mr. Bogert married Rev. Mr. Smith's daughter, Miss Laura Smith.

The Union Bible class taught by Rev. D. M. Stearns will meet at the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow afternoon.

REV. DR. BARBOUR ON THE FAR EAST

PREACHED IN THE FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH YESTERDAY MORNING.

Rev. Dr. Barbour, who occupied the pulpit at the First Baptist church, yesterday, has been connected with the American Baptist Missionary Union for a number of years. It was the first time that he had preached in this church in twenty-six years. In the morning he paid a rich tribute to the memory of Rev. Dr. Yerkes, after which he delivered a strong address on affairs in the Far East, describing the apparent intimate relations now existing between Japan and China and the wonderful results of the conflict between Japan and Russia.

He spoke of the great prestige gained by Japan both in the East and West and of her loyal devotion to her country, which he said explained in a great measure her success in her present war. Dr. Barbour occupied the pulpit in the evening and gave an account of his visit to China on the occasion of his trip around the world in the interest of missions.

P. H. S. PRACTICE.

Baseball Team's First Tryout at Hope Common Saturday Morning —The Probable Players.

The first practice of the season for the Plainfield High School baseball team was held Saturday on Hope Common, and was decidedly encouraging. A large crowd was out, and the nucleus of the team may now be surmised with little difficulty. The practice was in charge of Temporary Captain H. G. Thompson. There is a rumor that Craig, the snappy short-stop, will be the final choice of the team for captain, but for the present Thompson will engineer matters.

From the candidates who turned out Saturday, the team will probably be composed of the following: Pitchers, Smith and Burt; catcher, Davis; first base, Thompson; second base, Rockwell; third base, Conway; short-stop, Craig; fielders, Banks, Palmer and Freeman. Among the other candidates are Russell, Bogart, Gavett, Collier, Douglass and Doane. The latter is a possible man for first base.

Church's Annual Meeting.

The annual church business meeting of the Park Avenue Baptist church will be held Wednesday night when reports from the different branches of the work, and from the committees of the church will be heard. Three deacons will be elected, each for a term of two years, to succeed William M. Tallman, I. R. Giles and T. H. Cumming, whose terms will expire; also a church clerk for one year to succeed Charles F. Dayton, and treasurer of benevolent funds for one year to succeed E. Frank Vail.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Plans for the first baseball practice of the season were made at a meeting of the baseball candidates Friday night at the home of the manager, Fred Vail. The first practice will take place Saturday afternoon at the regular grounds if the weather is pleasant. The team will be chosen about two weeks later, and the first three or four practices will be in the nature of a try-out of the material. The team will begin its schedule about the middle of April or the first of May. Further plans concerning the league of teams will be formulated at a meeting in the near future.

Largely attended by relatives and friends, the funeral services of Mrs. Sarah E. Eganey, who died at her home on Friday, were held Saturday morning from her late residence at 8:30 o'clock, and from St John's R. C. church at 9 o'clock. Father Dumphy, of St. John's church, officiated. Interment was at St. Mary's cemetery, Plainfield, this morning at 9 o'clock.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The annual school meeting will be held tonight in the assembly room of the school, the Duffield law, which was passed last week by the Legislature, not affecting the smaller townships. Three trustees are to be elected and the amount of the school appropriation named. As this is always recommended by the Board of Education, which is in a position to know the needs of the school better than the taxpayers in general, there is no doubt but what the amount asked will be named.

The storm of yesterday made the attendance at the church services very small. At the Baptist church, Rev. T. Moore-Smith continued his special sermons upon special topics, the morning topic being, "Promoting a Revival;" the evening, "What is Regeneration?"

The case of Clark vs. France, in Judge Clark's court, in which execution had been levied and sale advertised to be held today, was settled Saturday by the defendant paying the claim in full.

"Glorifying God in Our Daily Work," was the topic discussed by the B. Y. P. U. members at the weekly meeting held last night in the church parlors. Miss Bettman led the meeting.

Rev. David B. Livingston, of Grove City, Pa., a classmate of Rev. Warren P. Coons at Drew Seminary, occupied Mr. Coons' pulpit at the Methodist church yesterday.

The cantata, "Belshazzar," rendered at the Westfield clubhouse, Saturday night, was attended by a number of the lovers of music from here.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Grant, of West Front street, spent Sunday with Mrs. Grant's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Paff.

Mrs. Emma Darby, who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. John R. Marsh, has returned to her home in Plainfield.

Miss Minnie Meyers led an interesting meeting of the Epworth League, held last night at the Methodist church.

A number of the young people of the borough enjoyed a straw ride to Garwood, Saturday night.

The success of the shoot will lead to another being held in the near future.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

A party of young people gathered on Saturday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Brantingham and went to the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Blackford to wish Mrs. Blackford "many happy returns of the day." After enjoying games, an elaborate dinner was served, when another surprise awaited Mrs. Blackford. It was a handsome gift in silver. The table was decorated in green and pink with a pyramid of candles in the centre, denoting the number of years. After dinner the party repaired to the parlor, where recitations, music and games were indulged in, after which Mr. Blackford surprised the party by giving them a straw ride to their several homes.

George A. Ryne, aged forty-three years, and a life-long resident of South Plainfield, died yesterday morning about 5 o'clock, after a long illness caused by a complication of diseases. Mr. Ryne leaves a wife and daughter, a brother, Embley Ryne, who resided with his brother George; also a sister, Mrs. Henry Drake, of Plainfield. Mr. Ryne's father was a soldier in the Civil War, and died from a wound received in battle. The funeral services will be held at the home in this village on Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, and will be conducted by Rev. J. A. Cubberley.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Tappen and daughter spent yesterday with Mr. and Mrs. William Faulks.

Mrs. O. E. Thorne and Mrs. Anna Ward attended the funeral of an uncle yesterday at Flemington.

Miss Luella Derby, of Perth Amboy, spent Saturday and yesterday with Miss Mabelle Cubberley.

Miss May Ayers, of Plainfield, was entertained yesterday by Miss Nellie Manning.

CITY LIFE AND DEATH

NEW YORK NOT A SALUBRIOUS PLACE OF RESIDENCE.

CORRUPT POLITICS A CAUSE

Last Year's Death Rate Higher Than in Any City in the World—Moneyed Masons — Land Values.

NEW YORK.—Metropolitan indeed is New York! A reluctant health commissioner has figured out that it had more deaths last year than any other city in the world! That statement requires a definition. There are three Londons, the old "city" of 35,000 inhabitants and a lord mayor; the metropolitan district of six millions and a half; the "county" of London, with over 4,000,000 inhabitants, leading New York by but a few hundred thousands. The latter London, of course, is meant.

Anyone would suppose that London with its perpetual rain would be a deadly town, but the climate is milder than ours in winter, cooler in summer. It is the extremes that kill people in New York; these and one other thing which I shall come to. Double the amount of snow has fallen the past winter than we usually see; and while it was fresh upon the ground disease was slight. Now that it has melted into unfathomable oceans of mud, neglected by the city, disease is common.

The lowest death rate New York ever had came in the last year of the best government it ever had, that of Mayor Low and the fusionists. Then it was 18 and a fraction, nearly down to the London level. The coming into power of Tammany Hall was signalled by an immediate rise in the number of people dead. Politics instead of business in the health, the street cleaning, the tenement departments, had something to do with it. And the people are paying pretty dearly for their political whistle. The addition of a "point" and a half to the death rate under Tammany means an additional death list of 6,000 souls, a small city in itself. Put that number of unnecessary dead in a procession, fours front and the usual spaces, and it would reach a mile; a pathetic column, men, women and children. Just the additional "point" and a half alone means that!

Victims of Worry.

YET it may not be all the fault of bad government; and when all is said, New York is a healthy city compared with many of our own that have hotter climates, or with Berlin or Vienna or St. Petersburg. And then there are Bright's disease and heart disease, the specialty of the "man about town." Consumption kills fewer people now in New York than pneumonia. People have learned to sleep with their windows open; they haven't learned to avoid the pace that kills. And the "pace" causes heart disease and "Bright's." It makes pneumonia more apt to hit a man and more apt to kill when it does hit.

Partly the pace and partly climate kills about 25,000 more in a year than would die in St. Paul. And partly it is that "bad risks," morally and physically, gravitate to the city. The folly that one sees in the all night resorts; the messes swallowed in restaurants; the anxious faces in Wall street; the unsmiling mien of the Broadway throng; the meaningless gayety of the theaters! It is a fact, perhaps not strange, that in some of the poorest parts of the town the tenement dwellers, especially the Jews, protected by their dietary rules, and those of the Lent-keeping churches, have a lower death rate than in the "brown stone wards." Because in these wards much red liquor is swallowed, much gormandizing indulged in, much gambling done. I have seen a man and a woman, both fat, pasty and unwholesome in complexion, sit over a long course dinner, during which they consumed four quarts of wine. Rude of me to notice it, perhaps, but—Pitt drank two quarts of wine every night, and he died at 46—"of overwork!"

The Fortunate Bricklayers.

IF YOU want an example of New Yorkers at their best, look at the bricklayers, who work out of doors and get plenty of exercise. They are pretty happy now, besides. They have just made their spring contract for the season's work at 70 cents an hour. This result is complicated by some considerations as to fireproofing that are a concession to employers. Nine thousand men will profit by this record rate of $5.60 for an eight hour day, $3.50 for the nominal "half-day" on Saturday, and extra for overtime. These are not New York rates in general. They are the rates for Manhattan alone. Just across the river in Brooklyn or Queens or Jersey wages are slightly lower, and rightly so. It costs less to live in these quarters, and if a man from Brooklyn works in Manhattan there is the carfare.

My favorite story to astonish visiting foreigners is of the mason who earned $75 a week. It is perfectly straight. There was the regular rate. There was the extra rate for going 30 miles out of town (he was at work upon a great country house in Greenwich). There was extra for overtime, for the man who wanted the house was in a great hurry—as every New Yorker who wants anything is apt to be; and that is one reason why the death rate runs up.

I suppose that there will be the usual struggles between the building trade laborers and employers this spring. But if there is any trouble with bricklayers it will be the first time in many years.

A Five-Mile Newspaper Row.

THE Evening Post has bought three lots downtown for a new building, thus further complicating the problem where "Newspaper Row" is in the end to be. At present it is five miles long and only hits the ground in the high places. Hearst has bought, but not built upon, a fine plot at the lower end of Central park, just five miles from the Journal of Commerce. That is Fifty-ninth street. At Forty-second is the new building of the Times, or what has been renamed "Times Square." Facing this square was the boarding house I used when I came to the city to live. Now it is the center of Broadway's "Great White Way" of electric lights. At Thirty-fourth street is the Herald; and then a long jump down to the other daily papers about old Printing House square—the World, Sun and Tribune all in a row, the Journal as a tenant of the Tribune, the Press in a beautiful new building just around the corner.

The Evening Post in 104 years has moved uptown just 1,560 feet, or say 15 feet a year. Its present building on the corner of Fulton street and Broadway is now the center of the real estate quarter. The Post goes across Broadway to the Astor house side, where land is much cheaper, and no doubt makes enough money by the move to erect its new building, for the old site is just right for a great new sky-scraper. Yet the old building is not old; and it is eight stories tall; and William Cullen Bryant in his later years, when his beard and hair were white as snow, used to climb every one of the stairs by way of exercise, scorning the elevator; and used to offer to beat the young editors at gymnastic "stunts" when he got to the top.

The Great Land Prizes.

HOW much is such a site as that the Post is abandoning worth? The question can only be answered by comparatives. Such plots do not often come upon the market. It is five blocks above Wall street, which makes a difference. The record price on Wall street itself—that is to say, for the world—was set years ago, at the corner of Wall and Broad—the office of J. P. Morgan, in fact—at $16,297,500 an acre. But that corner is worth much more now; perhaps twice as much. A short block away, at the corner of Broadway and Wall street, is a tiny drug store. The old man who owned it, and who recently died, was once offered $450 per square foot for it, $3.12 per square inch, $19,592,000 per acre. He refused. "You'll have to cover that plot with gold dollars if you want it," he said to the broker. The broker went away and figured a while; he thought he had caught the old man. Then he came back. "I'll cover that plot with gold dollars," he said, laying down a handful of them to illustrate.

"Nonsense," said the old man testily. "Put your gold dollars on edge, man!" There was no sale.

All this question of the value of Wall street land is going to become a political issue. The old custom house on Wall street covers 31,000 feet of land. Seven years ago it was sold (if it was really sold; that is disputed) by the government to the Standard Oil National bank for something over $3,000,000; the government has paid rent on it ever since, and the bank has dodged taxes by not taking title. Congressman Sulzer says the plot is worth $10,000,000, and judged by values in the neighborhood this seems likely; only it isn't everybody who can use so large a piece of $16,000,000-an-acre land. The bargain was made by Secretary Gage and Assistant Secretary Vanderlip in Mr. McKinley's time. Vanderlip is now an officer of the bank and Gage the president of a Standard Oil trust company.

There doesn't seem to be any necessity of dragging Mr. McKinley's name into the row, either. He wasn't an expert upon land values in New York, and he had other things to attend to. But if New York had had congressmen who were worth their salt the scandal could never have arisen. For congress had to pass upon the sale.

Why New York doesn't have a congressmen is an old puzzle. Can you guess the answer?

FRENZIED WEDLOCK GAVE HIM MONEY.

How a New York Man Worked Numerous Wives for Their Hard-Earned Savings.

New York City.—"But I only married three wives," said Adam Czupak, of No. 326 East Seventeenth street, when he pleaded guilty to the charge of bigamy in the Harlem court before Magistrate Baker.

The police say that Czupak gave each of his wives to understand that he was searching for work in the country. He would visit each wife for a day or two every week and get from her what money he could. The three in this manner kept him in good clothes and spending money.

Wife No. 1 was Katie Smalce. She was married to Czupak January 17, 1902.

CZUPAK WAS RESCUED WITH DIFFICULTY.

She now lives at No. 103 North Seventh street, Brooklyn, and has one child. Wife No. 2 was Maria Obuszkiewicz. She was married to the prisoner September 18, 1903. She now lives in Jersey City. The third wife was Antonia Pruslowsky, 18 years old, of No. 326 East Seventeenth street. Like the other two she works for a living.

Czupak's system worked smoothly until a few days ago, when wife No. 3 became suspicious and enlisted the services of Leo Schack, a notary public, of No. 359 East Sixty-eighth street. Schack located wife No. 1 in Brooklyn. Magistrate Baker issued a warrant.

Policeman Levy learned that Friday was Czupak's day "at home" with No. 3, so he found wife No. 1 and with her surprised her husband at dinner with No. 3 at the house on Seventieth street. A general scrimmage followed, according to Policeman Levy. Chairs and stools were seized by the enraged women, and it was with difficulty that Czupak was rescued.

In court Czupak was surrounded by the trio. He glanced about nervously while the women alternately cried and denounced him.

Levy said that traces have been discovered of a fourth wife in Connecticut and a fifth in Staten Island.

The prisoner was held in $2,000 bail for trial.

USED MOTOR CAR FOR ELOPEMENT.

Medical Student Runs Away with Beautiful Young Girl of Sixteen.

London.—A daring elopement by motor-car was successfully carried out in Paris the other afternoon, when a medical student named Alexandre Henry, aged 22, ran away with Marguerite Boissonneau, aged 16, under the very eyes of her chaperone.

The young couple fell in love with each other at the house of a musical professor, who was giving them pianoforte lessons.

When M. Henry asked M. Boissonneau for his daughter's hand in marriage he met with a prompt refusal, and not only was the young lady's musical instructor changed, but she was placed in charge of a matronly Breton woman, who was instructed not to allow Mlle. Boissonneau out of her sight.

The other afternoon, however, the chaperone was thrown off her guard by her charge asking her to go into a pastry cook's show they were passing in the Faubourg montmartre, and buy some cakes.

While the good woman was so engaged Mlle. Boissonneau, who is still dressed in short skirts, ran across the road and jumped into a motor-car in which were two men disguised in fur coats and wearing goggles.

They drove off quickly and disappeared, and nothing was heard of the pair until M. Boissonneau received the following telegram: "To commit suicide is cowardly, and we prefer life to death. Your daughter will thus live for you to forgive some day.—Alexandre and Marguerite."

The police are now engaged in tracing the runaways.

Life Saved by Panther.

Berlin.—Theodore Fischer, the well-known animal tamer, had occasion recently to enter a cage in which two newly acquired bears had been confined, when the animals sprang on him and injured him severely. He would have been killed if the attendants, rushing to his help, had not opened the gate of communication between the bears' cage and the one in which a well-trained panther was enclosed. The panther lost no time in throwing itself upon the bears, and thus freed its master, who was immediately removed to a hospital. After the panther had finished its work one of the bears was dead and the other dying.

TELLING OUTSIDERS.

How Some Women Let Friends Into Their Family Troubles.

When little Mrs. Jones had finished her tale of woe she took her departure, and we were left discussing her.

"What a perfect idiot she is!" remarked the woman who had been most sympathetic. "It is a thousand shames poor John ever married her. He must have his hands full."

"Isn't it funny? She thinks he is to blame!"

"Those women always do."

After they were all gone the matron of experience turned to the newly engaged girl. "My dear," she remarked, "allow me to use the privilege of an old woman and give you a bit of advice. Whatever happens be loyal to your husband. Don't discuss him with outsiders. It won't do you any good. They will only pretend to sympathize with you and will then criticise you behind your back. More than that, it is a thing your husband would not do to you. He would consider it disloyal and devoid of honor."

I know a woman who used to do this sort of thing. Every time she and her husband had a quarrel she would drag in some outsider. She would either immediately go over to a friend's house and tell her all about it or she would rush to the telephone and call the friend over to console her then and there. Many and many a time that silly woman has driven her husband out in a perfect fury because she was sobbing out all the family secrets on a friend's shoulder, whereas if they had been left to themselves these two foolish young married people would easily have made up. What the husband could not forgive was having his household affairs made common property, as he knew they would be.

Oh, no, my dear, take my word for it and keep your quarrels to yourself. Then when you decide to make peace you will not have any explanations to give to people, or, worse still, any false reports to silence.

LOUIS XV. DECORATIONS.

A Fashion That Will Never Be Out of Date For Reception Rooms.

The most dressy, if one may use the term, of all interior decoration schemes is without doubt the Louis XV. The picture shows a perfect example of this. The room in question is the work of a celebrated interior decorator.

To begin with, the carpet is a soft old rose and white, which harmonizes beautifully with the gold tapestry covered furniture. The latter is light and graceful to a degree, and the different pieces of upholstery combine the tints of old rose, pale green and a delicate yellow. Notice the highly wrought mantel and fanciful mirror. The walls are hung with panels of tapestry on the shepherdess order. The gilt bric-a-brac closet is a work of art and contains bits of china. The center table is of gold and veneer and is half covered with a bit of brocade. The ceiling partakes of the highly ornamental character of the room, and so do the fancifully worked panels over the doorways.

I must not forget to say that the woodwork where it is not relieved by gilt is of a delicate shade of rose.

KATE BONNET

By FRANK R. STOCKTON

Copyright, 1902, by D. Appleton & Co., New York.

"Then stop your ears with your thumbs," she exclaimed, "and you will not hear it."

Then turning to Dickory: "Now, go you, and tell the young woman who sent you here she must come in sackcloth and ashes, if she can get them, and she must tell me her tale and her father's tale, without a lie mixed up in them; and when she has done this, and has humbly asked my pardon for the foul affront she has put upon me, then it will be time enough to talk of fine clothes and fripperies."

Newcombe now expostulated with much temper, but Dickory gave him little chance to speak.

"I carry no such message as that," he said. "Do you truly mean that you deny the young lady the apparel she needs and that I am to tell her that?"

"Get away from here!" cried Madam Bonnet, with her face in a blaze. "I send her no message at all; and if she comes here on her knees, I shall spurn her, if it suit me."

If Dickory had waited a little he might have heard more, but he did not wait; he quickly turned, and away he went in his boat. And away went Martin Newcombe after him. But as the younger man was barefooted, the other one could not keep up with him, and the canoe was pushed off before he reached the water's edge.

"Stop, you young rascal!" cried Newcombe. "Where is Kate Bonnet? Stop and tell me where she is!"

Troubled as he was at the tale he was going to tell, Dickory laughed aloud, and he paddled down the river as few in that region had ever paddled before.

CHAPTER VI.

DICKORY MAKES A REPORT.

THE tide was running down, and Dickory made a swift passage to the town. Seeing on the pier the man from whom he had borrowed the rope, he stopped to return him his property, and thinking that the good people of the town should know that, no matter what had befallen Maj. Bonnet, his daughter had not gone with him and was safe among friends, he mentioned these facts to the man, but with very few details, being in a hurry to return with his message.

Before he turned into the inlet Dickory was called from the shore, and to his surprise he saw his mother standing on the bank in front of a mass of bushes, which concealed her from her house.

"Come here, Dickory," she said, "and tell me what you have heard?"

Her son told his doleful tale.

"I fear me, mother," he said, "that Maj. Bonnet's ship has gone on some secret and bad business, and that he is mixed up in it. Else why did he desert his daughter? And if he intended to take her with him, that was worse."

"I don't know, Dickory," said good Dame Charter, reflectively; "we must not be too quick to believe harm of our fellow-beings. It does look bad, as the townspeople thought, that Maj. Bonnet should own such a ship with such a strange crew, but he is a man who knows his own business, and may have had good reason for what he has done. He might have been sailing out to some foreign part to bring back a rich cargo, and needed stout men to defend it from the pirates that he might meet with on the seas."

Dickory considered.

"Yes, mother," he said, "it might have been that way, but I don't believe that he went of his own accord, and I don't believe that he would take Ben Greenway with him. I think, mother, that they were both stolen with the ship."

"That might be," said his mother, "but we have no right to take such a view of it, and to impart it to his daughter. If he went away of his own accord, everything will doubtless be made right, and we shall know his reasons for what he has done. It is not for us to make up our minds that Maj. Bonnet and good Ben Greenway have been carried off by wicked men, for this would be sad indeed for that fair girl to believe. So remember, Dickory, that it is our duty always to think the best of everything. And now I will go through the underbrush to the house, and when you get there yourself you must tell your story as if you had not told it to me."

Before Dickory had reached his mother's cottage Mistress Kate Bonnet came running to meet him, and she did not seem to be the same girl he had left that morning. Her clothes had been dried and smoothed; even her hat, which had been found in the boat, had been made shapely and wearable, and its ribbons floated in the breeze. Dickory glanced at her feet and, as he did so, a thrill of strange delight ran through him. He saw his own Sunday shoes, with silver buckles, and he caught a glimpse of a pair of brown stockings, which he knew went always with those shoes.

"I am quite myself again," she said, noticing his wide eyes, "and your mother has been good enough to lend me a pair of your shoes and stockings. Mine are so utterly ruined, and I could not walk barefooted."

Dickory was so filled with pride that this fair being could wear his shoes, and that she was wearing them, that he could only mumble some stupid words about being so glad to serve her. And she, wise girl, said nothing about the quantities of soft cotton-wool which Dame Charter had been obliged to stuff into the toes before they would stay upon the small feet they covered.

"But my father," cried Kate, "what of him? Where is he?"

Now Dame Charter was with them, her eyes hard fixed upon her son.

Dickory, mindful of those eyes, told her what he had to tell, saying as little as possible about Maj. Bonnet—because, of course, all that he knew about him was mere hearsay—but dilating with much vigor upon the shameful conduct of Madam Bonnet; for the young lady ought surely to know what sort of a woman her father's wife really was, and what she might expect if she should return to her house. He could have said even more about the interview with the angry woman, but his mother's eyes were upon him.

Kate heard everything without a word, and then she burst into tears.

"My father," she sobbed, "carried away, or gone away, and one is as bad as the other!"

Dame Charter led the weeping girl to the bench, and they talked together. There was no optimist in all the British colonies, nor for that matter in those belonging to France or Spain, or even to the Dutch, who was a more conscientious follower of her creed than Dame Charter. She sat by Kate and she talked to her until the girl stopped sobbing and began to see for herself that her father knew his own business, and that he had most certainly sent her a message to go on shore, which had not been delivered.

"I don't know where to go or where to send," she said, simply; "I am lost, and that is all of it."

"Oh, no," cried Dame Charter, "not that! You are with good friends, and here you can stay just as long as you like."

"Indeed she can!" said Dickory, as if he were making a response in church.

His mother looked at him and said nothing. And then she took Kate out into a little grove behind the house to see if she could find some ripe oranges.

It was a fair property, although not large, which belonged to the Widow Charter. Her husband had been a thriving man, although a little inclined to speculations in trade which were entirely out of his line, and when he met his death in the sea he left her nothing but her home and some inconsiderable land about it. Dickory had been going to a grammar school in the town, and was considered a fair scholar, but with his father's death all that stopped, and the boy was obliged to work to do what he could for his mother. And ever since he had been doing what he could, without regard to appearances, thinking only of the money.

They were eating dinner when oars were heard on the river, and in a moment a boat swung around into the inlet. In the stern sat Master Martin Newcombe, and two men were rowing.

Now Dickory Charter swore in his heart, although he was not accustomed to any sort of blasphemy; and as Miss Kate gazed eagerly through the open window, our young friend narrowly scrutinized her face to see if she were glad or not. She was glad, that was plain enough, and he went out sullenly to receive the arriving interloper.

When they were all standing on the shore Kate did not think it worth while to ask Master Newcombe how he happened to know where she was. But the young man waited for no questions; he went on to tell his story. When he related that it was a man fishing on a pier who had told him that young Mistress Kate Bonnet was stopping with Dame Charter, Kate wondered greatly, for as Dickory had met Master Newcombe, what need had there been for the latter to ask questions about her of a stranger? But she said nothing. And Dickory growled in his soul that he had ever spoken to the man on the pier, except to thank him for the rope he had borrowed.

Martin Newcombe's story went on, and he told that, having been extremely angered by the conduct and words of Madam Bonnet, he had gone into the town and made inquiries, hoping to hear something of the whereabouts of Mistress Kate. And, having done so, by means of the very obliging person on the pier, he had determined that the daughter of Maj. Bonnet should have her rights; and he had gone to his own lawyer, who assured him that being a person of recognized respectability, possessing property, he was fully authorized, knowing the wishes of Mistress Kate Bonnet, to go to her stepmother and demand that those wishes be complied with; and if this very reasonable request should be denied, then the lawyer would take up the matter himself and would see to it that reasonable raiment and the necessities of a young lady should not be withheld from her.

ADAMS' MANIFESTO.

Former Governor Scores Men Active In His Unseating.

DENVER, March 20.—Former Governor Alva Adams, who was ousted from the governorship by the general assembly here, issued an address to "The People of Colorado." It reviews in scathing terms the various steps in the controversy by which he was unseated. He says:

"Foiled in their attempts to override the constitution and hold Peabody in his seat, a weak contest was inaugurated. This failed of its purpose, as enough Republican members would not forfeit their manhood by voting for a man that the testimony as well as the election returns said was not elected. It was clear that Peabody could not be seated. A new scheme must be devised.

"A man who had held the great office of governor promised to resign at command if they would seat him but for a day. This resignation is a confession that he was not elected, and one that an honest man honestly elected would rather die than give.

"I want to stand an honest man before the people of Colorado. Better, a hundred times, a private citizen than hold the highest office by such a title. A stolen governorship will bring only reproach and disaster to Colorado and Republicanism. The theft is to the thief and comes back most to him."

SPORTING NEWS.

DIAMOND DUST.

"It is not always wise to engage in conversation with the people in the stands," says Lave Cross. "One day a bleacherite at Chicago had been particularly tantalizing in his remarks to me, and I finally called out, 'Oh, shut up you $6 a-week counter-jumper.' 'Yes, Lave,' he called back, 'that's about the size of my salary, but I've got it on you. I earn mine.'"

STRIKES AND SPARES.

The Triangle Bowling Club was defeated in two games out of three by the Suburban bowlers Friday night on the Fanwood alleys. In the second game only the Triangles were superior to their opponents, when they rolled a 788 to the Suburbans 717. 801 was the highest team score, made in the first game. The team results for the three games were as follows: Suburbans—801, 717, 781; Triangles, 778, 788, 666.

DUFFIELD AMENDMENT APPLIES ONLY TO TOWNS

SCHOOL MEETING IN NORTH PLAINFIELD TO BE INTERESTING.

Through the passing of the Duffield bill, abolishing the spring election of school trustees in towns, where the vote is taken by districts or wards, many borough residents have gained the impression that it effects their district. This is not so as boroughs are in no way concerned and the election will be held tomorrow night.

It was announced today that Rev. J. O. McKelvey, who had been mentioned as a candidate, would run on both tickets. R. M. Fountain and A. V. D. Honeyman are candidates to succeed themselves on the anti-administration side and the others for the administration are Allen E. Laing and E. A. Lowe.

600 SPORTS AT THE RINGSIDE

Tony Bender and Kid Beebe, Professional Pugilists, Battle in the Borough.

SIX-ROUND "BOUT"

In Preliminary Match, "Kid" Ferris, of Elizabeth, is Knocked Unconscious by "Kid" Klein, a Newark Featherweight.

With 600 sports from New York, Newark, Jersey City, Elizabeth and Philadelphia cheering and applauding every jab and dodge, "Tony" Bender, the Elizabethport idol, and "Kid" Beebe, Philadelphia's rising young pugilist, fought a six round bout in a ring on the stage of Saengerbund Hall, last night. They are in the featherweight class and put up a lively exhibition, due to the fact that they were in good condition and had met once before in Philadelphia. No decision was given, according to arrangements, and while the match was decidedly even for the first four rounds, the "Kid" had the advantage in the fifth and six, repeatedly forcing his adversary to the ropes and on one occasion knocking him over them.

The bout was given under the auspices of "The Shamrock Social Club," a local organization which had a mushroom growth, but there were very few Plainfielders in the big crowd of spectators. George Carroll, the well known Elizabethan, seemed to have all to do with the managing and besides acting as announcer, and "Jimmy Burke," of Elizabeth, was referee. Beebe and Bender's appearance was preceded by an entertainment and two preliminary bouts of four rounds each. The first was between "Jimmy" Searles, of the Elizabeth Hillside Club, and "Jimmy" Lafferty, of the Physical Culture Club, of Elizabeth, and was almost a school boy affair, Searles hitting Lafferty whenever and wherever he pleased.

The second bout was between "Kid" Klein, of Newark, a member of the Tony Bender Association, of Elizabeth, and "Kid" Ferris, of the Physical Culture Club. The latter was knocked insensible in the second round, a terrific right-hand swing sending his head to the floor with a crash that resounded through the hall and wrung a series of groans from his lips. Before he was knocked down, Klein punished him severely and he was covered with blood from head to foot.

Other numbers on the programme were songs and mandolin selections by the Minion Brothers, of Elizabeth; bag punching by William Dilks, of this city, musical selections on the banjo, autoharp and ocarina by the Earn Brothers, of Newark, and selections by the Black Prince Quarartette, of Newark. An impromptu number was furnished by John Brennan, proprietor of a lunch wagon at Elizabeth, whose enthusiasm so got the better of him that he stood up in the gallery and sang "In the Days of Old," just before the main bout was announced.

Beebe entered the ring at 120 pounds and Bender at 124. Both men are among the best known featherweights in the East and are capable exponents of the "manly" art. They have unlimited science and the bout was a clean-cut affair, although Referee Burke allowed too much clinching. In the second round, Beebe forced the fighting and in the third, he landed numerous telling blows on Bender's head and received as many hard jabs on the wind in return. The fourth was even and the fifth was with Beebe, for although he was struck repeatedly, the blows were glancing and when he landed, Bender was sent backward to the ropes. In the sixth he was again in the lead and tried hard to put Bender out, but the Elizabethan had the agility of a cat and dodged all heavy blows. The men were in good condition when the gong sounded for the finish.

It was declared by one of the Tony Bender Association in the crowd that it was announced in Elizabeth that similar exhibitions would be held in the borough once a month.

An admission fee of a dollar was charged and Bender and Beebe, it is said, according to the terms, were to divide the net proceeds between them Each probably received $150.

SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA PLEASES AUDIENCE

SECOND PERFORMANCE WELL RECEIVED AT PARK AVENUE CHURCH.

Equally as successful as the first concert with respect both to rendition and to reception, the second performance of the Plainfield Symphony Orchestra at the Park Avenue Baptist church last night, was enjoyed by a large audience and in every way a high class entertainment. With the exception of the introduction of a few new numbers, the programme was the same as at the second annual concert, a week ago.

The soloists, Miss Florence Wohlfert, violin, and W. Paulding De Nike, 'cello, were greeted with the usual enthusiastic applause which they deserve, and responded after each of their selections to pleasing encores. As a violinist, there are few better than Miss Wohlfert, whose interpretation of her selections was delightful.

The orchestra was under the direction of Kenneth Shupp, and its numbers were greeted with the most profound approbation. Those who composed the personnel of the orchestra are the following:

O. Kenneth Shupp, conductor; first violins, Arthur Mosher, concert master; Joseph Sattels, Ernest Higham, George Spier, Dyckman Winckler; second violin, Maurice Audsley, Dr. W. F. Gaston, William Gaston: viola, G. W. V. Moy; flutes, Elmer Wheeler, Charles Shupp, Archibald Hallard; clarinet, James Hewitt; cornets, Whitney Frazee, John Emery; trombone, Garret T. Dunham; double bass, Dr. J. H. Buchanan, Jacob Byer; piano, V. G. Sokel; pipe organ, H. J. Harold.

WOOLSTON SELLS OUT

Daab and Groo Now Control Plainfield Baseball Assn.

CONSIDERATION SECRET

Daab to Book Games and Manage Team—Groo to be Treasurer.

Charles S. Woolston, who until Saturday held one-third interest in the Plainfield Baseball Association, and was the manager for the team, has sold his interest to Philip Daab and Lines Groo, the latter of North Plainfield and the former new manager of the Hoboken Club. Originally Mr. Woolston and Mr. Groo purchased the franchise from the Alis Club, afterward changed to the Plainfield Club. They retained the franchise and later Mr. Daab became interested. While Mr. Woolston will still work for the success of the association he will not have a pecuniary interest. Mr. Groo will look after the financial end of the association. Mr. Daab will manage the team and book the games.

The fact that Mr. Daab anticipates making Plainfield his home this summer, he will have more than ordinary interest in the success of the game here. He has his plans well in hand for the season and will place one of the best teams in the semi-professional class here. He is very conservative and one of the rules of his life is to keep promises. For that reason he is not making any wild and hasty statements prior to the opening of the season, preferring to deliver the goods and let the fans judge the results.

Mr. Woolston retires from the association because of other business interests which will occupy his time fully, and not because of any lack of enthusiasm for the National game. He believes that Mr. Daab is just the person to manage the local team, having had a wide experience with ball players and with other teams which he will bring to Plainfield during the season. Mr. Daab is sure to be popular with the local fans for he is a man of his word and does not deal in "pipe dreams."

If the weather is favorable work will be started very soon putting the oval in condition for the opening game and the management will complete details for a gala day in the history of the National game.

TWO BASKET BALL GAMES.

First Team Defeated Parthians, and Leals Beat Seconds.

The Y. M. C. A. basketball team defeated the Parthians, of New York, a fast aggregation, at the Y. M. C. A. last night, in one of the hardest fought games of the season. The score was 19 to 18, one point being made in the last minute of play by a foul throw. Smith was the star of the team, playing a hard, steady game, with remarkable accuracy for goal shooting.

The Leal's School team defeated the second team of the association in a good even game by the score of 21 to 20. It was an interesting contest though not so hard fought as the first game. Jewett and Howard were the winners for Leal's, while Collier had a good eye for baskets.

PARK CLUB SMOKER.

High - Class Vaudeville Pleases Large Audience.

A high class vaudeville entertainment, witnessed by a good audience of Park Club members, made the annual smoker given by that organization on Washington avenue last night, a great success. The talent was from New York, and combined musical features and specialties in mind reading and card manipulating.

At the conclusion of the informal programme, a social hour was enjoyed, cigars and light refreshments making the occasion a pleasant one. The committee on the affair consisted of George H. Rogers, Augustus Van-Deventer and Edward H. Ladd, Jr.

Mrs. Thomas Clacy, of Orchard place, is quite ill with pneumonia.

MAYOR SMALLEY SAYS HE DID HIS DUTY

GRANTED PERMIT AND ORDERED CHIEF WEISS TO ATTEND FIGHT.

Mayor Smalley said in answer to an explanation why a permit was granted for such an exhibition: "Some ten days ago, I was requested to issue a permit for an athletic exhibition to be composed of club swinging, boxing and wrestling, which, as on several occasions before, I granted. Before the entertainment I ordered Chief Weiss, as has been my custom, to attend the show and see that no violations of the ordinance occurred. Not being present, and only wishing to have my position honestly set forth, I make this explanation to show that North Plainfield does not favor prize fights or sanction anything that would have a tendency to degrade its citizens."

Chief Kiely, of the city force, stated this morning, that members of the "Shamrock Social Club" had asked him for a permit but he had refused to give it. They declared they would apply to the Mayor but the Chief informed them that no matter who gave a permit he would stop the bouts and arrest the promoters. The North Plainfield permit was then secured.

FOOLHARDY ACTS NEARLY COSTS LIVES

ENDANGER THEIR LIVES BY JUMPING ABOARD MOVING TRAINS.

Commuters at the North Avenue station upon the arrival of the 8:46 train this morning were greatly frightened by the attempts of an unknown man to jump on the train while it was pulling out of the station. He grasped the car railing in the middle of the train, stumbled and fell and rolled over several times, while the spectators stood breathless expecting to see him crushed to death beneath the train. Fortunately, the man rolled away from the train, and the engineer, who saw the mishap, slowed down. In the meantime the man picked himself up and got aboard. Aside from the damage to his clothes, and a shock he was uninjured.

A young woman made a successful attempt to jump on the 7:55 this morning while the train was in motion, and she narrowly escaped being thrown under the train.

CO. K BOYS PLAN VISIT TO BUNKER HILL

THAT AND A DINNER ARE AMONG ITS SCHEMES.

The members of Co. K, at a regular meeting held last night, decided to give a reception and dance on Thursday night, April 6, to the women and other friends who assisted them in the recent fair, and it was decided to hold the annual dinner at Truell Inn, on Monday, April 10.

A resolution was adopted appointing a committee of seven to arrange for a trip of the company to Boston in June on the occasion of the anniversary of the Battle of Bunker Hill. If the committee reports favorably on the trip, the company may decide to ask the permission of the Military Board to leave the State.

The company will probably be ordered to join in the celebration of the Battle of Elizabeth to be held in Elizabeth on June 8.

COUNCIL AIDS SCHANZ

Instructs Mr. Marsh to Ask Court to Quash Proceedings.

WITHOUT A SALOON

Granted a License But Can Not Do Business Under It—New Application to be Made.

In a petition to the Common Council at the special meeting held last night, Charles Schanz, through his counsel, asked that body to instruct Corporation Counsel Marsh to apply to the Supreme Court for an order revoking the writ of certiorari issued at the request of Mrs. Mary Hetfield, providing for a review of the proceedings to determine the right of the Common Council to grant a license for 136 Park avenue.

After the petition was referred to the police committee, Mr. Bullock asked that City Judge William N. Runyon, of counsel for Mr. Schanz, be permitted to explain the petition made by Mr. Schanz.

Mr. Runyon stated briefly that favorable action on the part of the Common Council would result in placing the matter of Mr. Schanz's application for a liquor license back in its original state just as though no application had been granted and that under rule number sixty such a writ can be vacated on the petition of the Common Council. Mr. Runyon added that by taking this action it would place and application in a position whereby the Common Council can reconsider it.

Mr. Gleak then introduced a resolution which provided that the corporation counsel be instructed to ask the Supreme Court to set aside and vacate the writ issued in the case of Mrs. Mary Hetfield against the city of Plainfield. All the members present, except Mr. Wilson, voted in favor of the resolution.

The application for the setting aside of the writ will probably be made at once and granted so that Mr. Schanz will be able to make a new application for a license at the regular April meeting of the Common Council. Whether he will apply for 136 Park avenue is not known.

MISSING SINCE 1903.

Stouenman is Sought by Aunt Who Lives in Nebraska.

Chief of Police Tenney, of Elizabeth, has received a letter from Mrs. Theodore Kohler, of Milford, Neb., asking him to search for her sister's son, Anders E. Stouenman, single, age twenty-five, a native of Demarest, who has only been a little more than two years in the United States. His parents are alive in Denmark, but do not know he is missing. He disappeared from Elizabeth in October, 1903. While in Elizabeth he boarded with Frederick Wessing at 10 Smith street. He left there to go to New York and said he would write to Mr. Wessing, but the latter has never heard from him since, and it is feared the young man met with foul play.

He had quite some money in his possession when he so mysteriously vanished. His family are well-to-do people in Denmark, while his aunt is in comfortable circumstances at Milford and is willing to pay liberally for any clue to her nephew's whereabouts if he is still alive.

PERKINS FORGOTTEN.

Union's New Assemblyman Not on Legislature's List.

Every week there are printed for the convenience of the members of the Legislature and others copies of the minutes and formal proceedings of both Houses. On the back cover of the weekly pamphlet is supposed to be printed an official list of the members of the House, but up to the present time the name of Randolph Perkins has not been included. Instead are two dashes.

Mr. Perkins was elected in Union County at a special election as member of the Assembly to take the place of George H. Embree, who died before the session began. The error seems to have escaped the attention of both the members of the House and the printers.

Their Tenth Wedding Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. William Brown, of Somerset street, celebrated the tenth anniversary of their wedding last night, by entertaining a large gathering of friends.

Mrs. Hall to Lecture.

Mrs. Florence Howe Hall will speak on "Gothic Cathedrals of France" at the Unitarian church, Park avenue, Thursday afternoon, March 23, at 3 o'clock.

NO LUMBER YARDS IN CERTAIN DISTRICT

ORDINANCE ADOPTED ON SECOND READING.

For the purpose of lessening the fire risk and keeping the insurance rates down, Mr. Bullock, chairman of the fire and building committee, introduced an ordinance at the special meeting of the Common Council, last night, which prohibits the erection of lumber yards or buildings for the storage of any quantity of lumber, within a prescribed district, known as the fire limits. The limits stated in the ordinance include that section of the city lying between Elm place and Grove street and Central avenue, on a line with Green brook, East and West Fourth street, Watchung avenue, Church street, East Front street to the point of beginning, and the ordinance specifies that lumber or storage places for lumber shall not be maintained for a distance of one hundred feet outside of this district. Upon conviction, persons shall be liable to a fine not exceeding $100 for each offense.

The ordinance was adopted on first and second readings and ordered advertised.

Mr. Bullock stated by way of explanation that the erection of these lumber yards within the fire limits is not considered wise as it tends to increase the insurance rates and is a danger to adjoining property. He also stated that the proposed ordinance would not affect the proposed lumber yard which McDonough Brothers intend to erect on West Fourth street near Madison avenue, the plans for which are now in the hands of the committee, but is drafted for the purpose preventing the further erection of such structures in the prescribed limits.

LIQUIFIED AIR AND ITS MANY USES

ANDREW E. KENNEY'S TALK BEFORE CHURCH MEN'S CLUB.

The varied uses of liquified air were ably demonstrated by Andrew E. Kenney, of the borough, before the Men's Club, of the First Baptist church, last night. There were over one hundred members and friends of the club present and all were greatly interested in the experiments, showing the possibilities of liquified air. Mr. Kenney quickly froze flowers, beefsteak and grapes.

In explaining the use of the air, Mr. Kenney said that it had proved to be of great value in surgery, making it possible to perform bloodless operations. He also spoke of its value in the treatment of cancer and other diseases. While he had ridden in an automobile propelled by liquified air, he said that the expense of this motive power prevented its use to any great extent.

W. D. Manning was chairman of the committee on refreshments.

To Raise Funds for Team.

There will be a meeting of the baseball candidates of the Y. M. C. A. at the association Friday evening. The entertainment committee, composed of Edward Overton, Arthur Humble and Fred Armstrong, will report, and it is expected that by Friday they will have selected the dates for the three performances. The committee met with J. H. Manning, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., last night, and were given the refusal of three dates. The talent for these benefit entertainments will be engaged from out-of-town, music and elocution being the probably attractions.

Paulist Fathers' Mission.

Despite the inclemency of the weather large congregations are the order at the mission for men being held this week in St. Mary's church by the Paulist Fathers. The sermon last night was taken from the text, when Jesus addressed Martha saying: "Martha, thou art busy with many things, but only one thing is necessary; Mary hath chosen the better part." The hours of service are 5 and 8 o'clock a. m., mass, followed by a short instruction; 8 p. m., litany, sermon and benediction.

Wants Parishioners to Assemble.

Father Delehanty asks that all members of the parish, men and women, meet in St. Mary's church tonight at 9 o'clock, following the Paulist Fathers' service.

Miss May Drake, of this city, has been visiting her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Staats, of Harlingen.

WATERS STILL MISSING

Traced as Far as Phila. Where Track of Him is Lost.

MUCH A MYSTERY

J. William Waters, Aged Twenty-Seven, Leaves Home, and Wife is in Grief Over His Disappearance.

Despite a diligent search on the part of relatives, the sudden disappearance of J. William Waters from the home of his father-in-law, Herman Klineman, of Harrison avenue, continues to be a mystery. He left the house Saturday evening for the purpose of getting a headache powder but failed to return.

It was learned that he was on North avenue a few hours later and by following up slight clues, Mr. Klineman yesterday traced him as far as Philadelphia. There he lost all track of him but his relatives believe he has gone on to Washington.

Waters is twenty-seven years old and has been employed in New York as a pressman. He returned home after quitting Saturday and to all appearances there was nothing the matter with him beyond the headache.

There was company at Mr. Klineman's home at the time and as he went out he spoke of coming back within a few minutes.

EX-PRISONER OF WAR FOUND DEAD IN BED

NEURALGIA CAUSES SUDDEN END OF ALBERT RUNYON.

Albert Runyon, one of the best known citizens of the borough, and a Civil War veteran, died suddenly at his home on Mountain avenue, at 2 o'clock this morning, from heart failure. Although not detained at home, Mr. Runyon had been troubled with neuralgia of the heart and had been under treatment. When Mrs. Runyon retired about midnight her husband was resting comfortably. At 4 o'clock she found him dead. Mr. Runyon had been dead at least two hours.

Mr. Runyon was sixty-seven years old, and had lived here all his life. He enlisted in Co. E, Fifth N. J. Vols., at the outbreak of the Civil War. He was taken prisoner at Williamsburg in May, 1862, and in the fall of that year was exchanged from Libby Prison. He was a member of the Second New Jersey Brigade Society, and Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R. For several years he was employed as a bookkeeper in the office of Boice, Runyon & Co., the coal and lumber dealers, and of late was employed in a similar capacity for W. O. Kruasse, the plumber. Mr. Runyon was well thought of by a host of friends. He had a genial companionable nature. He was a member of Gazelle Engine Company, and an exempt fireman. He is survived by a wife and one sister, Miss Carrie Runyon, of West Fifth street, who was for many years a teacher in the High School.

The funeral services will be held from the late home on Mountain avenue, Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock. The interment will be in Bound Brook Friday morning.

MR. WILSON'S QUERY.

Street Committee Chairman Wanted Some Information.

Soon after the special meeting of the Common Council was called last night, Mr. Wilson, as chairman of the street committee, wanted to know by whose authority the matter of bringing up the ordinance to widen Park avenue, on its second reading, had been put in the call. He said that the street committee had decided that the regular April meeting would be time enough to call up the ordinance and he could see no reason for action at this time.

Despite his questioning, Mr. Wilson got little satisfaction, aside from the fact that Councilmen Tolles, Gleak and Frank DeW. Randolph signed the call for the special meeting. The ordinance was not called up on second reading.

An Anniversary Event.

Mr. and Mrs. J. V. E. Vanderbeef, of Prospect place, entertained relatives and friends last night, in honor of the twentieth anniversary of their wedding. Mr. Vanderbeef is buyer for Woodhull & Martin's furniture department.

FACTORY IN RUINS

Explosion at Brockton Destroys Scores of Lives.

FORTY-THREE CHARRED BODIES

Boiler, Blown Through Building, Wrecked It.

FIRE ROASTED ENTANGLED VICTIMS

R. B. Glover & Co.'s Shoe Plant Scene of Horror When Fifty to Seventy-five Operatives Perished by Being Crushed or Burned to Death—One Hundred and Fourteen Still Unaccounted For.

BROCKTON, Mass., March 21.—The explosion of a 150 horsepower boiler in the large four story wooden factory at R. B. Grover & Co.'s shoe factory in the Campello district of this city killed scores of employees, injured half a hundred others and destroyed property valued at $250,000.

Last night the charred fragments of forty-three bodies lay in the morgue, and 114 additional operatives have not been accounted for. It is probable that the number of dead will never be known.

Of these missing the police expect that quite a number will report today. The death list is estimated at from fifty to seventy-five.

The entire Grover factory was reduced to ashes within an hour after the explosion, the three story block across the street, owned by Charles H. Dahlburg, and five dwellings were burned and several other small structures damaged. The search of the ruins was in progress the entire afternoon and was continued throughout the night.

While the fire raged many persons rushed into the blazing ruins and pulled out the injured at the imminent danger of their own lives.

Imprisoned operatives, too far away for rescue and who knew that their lives would last but a few moments, spoke words of encouragment to those who seemed nearer escape. Some prayed aloud, others pleaded with the rescuers to say goodby to relatives, and not a few shrieked from pain and fright.

The dreadful spectacle unnerved many who were trying vainly to get to the victims, and some turned away sick and fainting.

Members of the fire department, with ladders, aided greatly in the work of rescue, but their time for work was short, for within a brief interval fire closed over the wreckage, and the cries of the imprisoned were hushed.

In the meantime the fire was spreading from the Grover factory. It leaped across Calmar street to a three story brick block at the corner of Main street, owned by Charles F. Dahlburg and occupied as a hardware store and storehouse, and then to a two story wooden lodging house, owned by William Lawrence; a dwelling house on Calmar street and small buildings, all of which were destroyed.

From the rear of the factory the flames stretched across Denton street to the dwelling house of Mrs. Sophia Peterson and family and to the residence of Charles O'Brien.

By this time the entire fire department and all the police reserves were on the scene, but with the high wind blowing the flames could not be checked and soon reached the homes of Sylvester Rice and John W. Taft. All these buildings were practically ruined, but at this point the fire was stopped.

The house to the north of the factory, through which the exploded boiler crashed, was owned and occupied by David W. Rockwell, the engineer in charge of the boiler and who was among the killed. The house was demolished, the roof being ripped off and two walls torn down. Mrs. Rockwell, who was sitting by the kitchen stove, had a miraculous escape from death, receiving many cuts from flying bits of timber when the boiler speeded through the upper portion of her house. Crawling through the mass, Mrs. Rockwell snatched up her two children, who were uninjured, and started for the home of the nearest neighbor, Mrs. Etta Hood. She found this cottage had been practically rent asunder by the boiler, the head of which was buried in the middle of the structure. Miss Ella Pratt, seventy-eight years of age, a relative of the Hoods, was alone in the house. The cottage was thrown several feet off its foundations, and Miss Pratt was knocked down and stunned, but recovered.

The explosion, which was followed by such a sacrifice of life and entailed appalling instances of human suffering, occurred shortly after the operatives had settled down to the work of the day and without warning. Suddenly the air vibrated with the roar of an explosion. At the same moment the larger wooden frame of the factory, a four story structure, quivered and then the rear portion of it collapsed. In a fraction of a second this section of the great building had been transformed into a mass of iron and wood wreckage, in the midst of which human beings were pinioned. In another moment the fire had broken out in the debris and death by fire and suffocation became the fate of scores of the operatives.

When the boiler exploded it passed upward almost perpendicularly, tearing a passage as it went, killing many on the way. After rising high in the air it descended half the distance and then, swerving northerly, cut its way like some huge projectile through a dwelling house fifty feet away and pierced another dwelling further along, demolishing the latter structure. Here its course was stopped.

Scenes of horror followed the wrenching apart of the factory building. In the rear the three upper floors, weighted as they were with heavy machinery, collapsed with a crash that was heard for blocks. Men and women operatives working in departments of this section, who were busy at their machines, had time but to turn in an attempt to flee after the first dull roar when the flooring sank beneath them and they were carried to the ground floor, crushed and bruised, amid the mass of debris. Many fell into veritable fiery furnaces.

In the sections of the factory which remained standing the operatives were panic stricken as they sought escape. Many fled down the stairways and reached the street, others ran to the windows, the fire escapes in many cases having been torn away by the explosion. In desperation many jumped from the second and third story windows to the ground and were dangerously injured. The crush on the stairway resulted in numerous minor injuries.

Scarcely had the rear portion of the structure collapsed when a tongue of flame started up from the boiler pit and reaching out as it ascended communicated with the splintered wreckage and immediately after with the standing walls. Soon the entire factory was in flames.

Instant death was the fate of many who went down with the floors that collapsed. A large number of men and women who were working near the supports were alive after the floors and walls fell. From these unfortunates thrilling cries of agony and terror went up. Almost all had been caught between broken timbers, lighter wooden wreckage and heavy pieces of machinery. A few persons succeeded in extricating themselves from the wreckage, but more were roasted to death.

By this time nearby citizens had arrived to assist the employees who escaped in the rescue of their fellows. This task became momentarily more difficult and perilous, for the heat from the fire was almost unbearable. By the use of long pieces of timber the rescuers were able to raise parts of the wreckage and thereby release some of the imprisoned men and women and then by rushing into the smoke pull them from the ruins.

Then it was that acts of sacrifice and heroism were seen. One man whose legs were caught under an iron beam cried to the rescuers that they could not extricate him and to help the girls behind him. Stretching out his arms, he lifted several girls, one by one, and passed them to the rescuers. Then the fire reached him, and he died.

A woman who was entangled in a shoe machine cried out that she was dying and commanded the rescuers to attend to others who might live. She begged to be shot. Soon the flames enveloped her. Among the first to arrive on the scene was the Rev. James A. O'Rourke, curate of St. Margaret's Roman Catholic church, near by. At the risk of his life he removed seven persons from the ruins before the fire had reached them and was returning for the eighth time when he fainted from the effects of the smoke and the shock. Father O'Rourke administered the last rites of the church to many Catholics, both to those who were saved and some who later perished.

Not for many hours was it possible to begin a search of the factory ruins. Several charred and headless bodies were recovered near the boiler pit and the bones of others were found. They were placed in pine boxes and removed to a temporary morgue.

Treasurer C. O. Emerson of the Grover company estimated the loss on the factory at $200,000, and the aggregate of loss on the other burned structures was placed at about $50,000.

RUSSIA IN MISERY.

Terrorists at Home, Her Armies In Retreat.

PEASANTS OF THE VOLGA IN REVOLT

Columns of Villagers and Rivermen Marching Against Upper Classes. Japanese Pressing on In Pursuit Near Sunshu Pass.

LONDON, March 21. — Dispatches from St. Petersburg this morning say that upon the quietude of the Manchurian situation there has burst the news of the attempted assassination of another high official in Finland, whose efforts for the Russification of the grand duchy have exposed them to the vengeance of the young Fennomans. The incident indicates that the revolutionists have not abandoned the policy of terrorism, but are determined to have more blood and presages further crimes of a like nature.

The authorities here have been drawing up a programme of administrative reforms for Finland with a view to re-establishing order and diminishing racial antagonisms.

The peasants revolutionary movement is assuming extraordinary and alarming proportions. The dwellers among the forests and the boatmen on the Volga are marching against the bourgeois class and the nobility, laying waste lands and carrying off cattle. In the southern provinces columns of 2,000 or 3,000 peasants, armed with axes, scythes and pitchforks, are marching through districts which hitherto have been calm.

Reports from Sunshu pass say that the Russian rear guard is retreating slowly and engaging in occasional skirmishes. It has now reached a position twenty-seven miles north of Tie pass. The Japanese are slowly advancing without pressing the Russians. In the course of the retreat the Russians are destroying bridges, the railway roadbed and highways and carrying off stores and demolishing buildings and everything not portable.

The troops parted in sadness with General Kuropatkin, whose labors in shaping the army are recognized and who was ever attentive to the wants of the soldiers in the matter of food, clothing and shelter. Regardless of the fact that he had been commander in chief, General Kuropatkin offered to remain here as a subordinate of General Linevitch and as commander of a corps.

General Linevitch also enjoys the respect and confidence of the troops as a fighting man of the first class and not a carpet knight.

A dispatch from Tokyo says that at Hsinmintun the Japanese have captured a Russian officer of the Port Arthur garrison, who repaired there in breach of his parole. As all the Russian officers who were liberated upon the surrender of Port Arthur had each sworn in writing that they would not act contrary to the interests of Japan, it is therefore clear that any Russian officers' arrival at Hsinmintun, lying within the zone of hostilities, committed a breach of their parole and must suffer the consequences.

Court Wants Greene and Gaynor.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—The suit of Greene and Gaynor, who are in Quebec, in the name of the Atlantic Contracting company to recover about $710,000 from the government for work done and breach of contract in connection with their work in improving Cumberland sound, Georgia, was brought to a standstill here by an order of the court of claims directing them to appear here and give testimony in the case and that its prosecution be stayed until the order is complied with.

Dowie's Summer Home.

MUSKEGON, Mich., March 21.—The estate and summer home of John Alexander Dowie at White lake has been increased by the purchase of 200 acres of land, making 265 acres in the complete tract. It is understood that a choir of 350 voices will come to the estate this summer and help conduct revival meetings there. The name of the home has been changed from Ben Mac Dhui to Bethany.

Syrians Must Get Out.

WASHINGTON, March 21. — The state department is informed by Minister Powell at Port au Prince that a proclamation has been issued that all Syrians must leave the republic April 1. These Syrians are extremely obnoxious to the natives, as they have managed to obtain control of most of the retail business of the country and are reputed to be merciless creditors.

Sympathy For Mrs. Travers.

WASHINGTON, March 21. — President Roosevelt sent a telegram of condolence to Mrs. Frank C. Travers at Oyster Bay, whose husband is dead in New York. The president and Secretary Loeb will send flowers. Mr. Travers was chairman of the committee on arrangements for the banquet given in New York by the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick.

Pastor Guilty on Many Charges.

WILMINGTON, Del., March 21.—The committee of the Wilmington Methodist Episcopal conference by which Charles S. Baker was tried on "charges of stock gambling, falsehood, high imprudence and unministerial conduct" reported to the conference a verdict of guilty and recommended his dismissal from the ministery.

His Toes Amputated.

OWEGO, N. Y., March 21.—The condition of F. M. Baker, railroad commissioner, whose toes were amputated a number of days ago, is not satisfactory, and another operation may be deemed advisable.

Plainfield, N. J., March 21, 1905.

NORTH PLAINFIELD DISGRACED.

Without interference last night one of the most disgraceful and brutal types of exhibition known to civilized man was allowed to take place in a public hall in the heart of the borough. Three fights labelled as "bouts" furnished entertainment for 600 spectators, among whom we are reliably informed were very few residents of the city or borough. This exhibition was widely advertised and the authorities of North Plainfield can not enter a plea that they had no knowledge of the affair. In New York, it is said, they were advertised "as fights to a finish," and this proved to be true in one instance. One "boxer" was knocked unconscious by his opponent and carried off the stage in that condition. Where were the police? Two men in uniform were stationed at the door. Whether they were regularly detailed we don't know. If they had authority to act, why did they not stop the dirty exhibition? If they had no authority to pose as policemen, why did not the regular marshals proceed to have action taken against them as well as the "fighters" and all others connected with the exhibition? The majority of the spectators of the "Shamrock Social Club" show was made up, it is reliably reported, of "sports" from Philadelphia, New York, Newark and Elizabeth. Fearing molestation, in any other place, no doubt, the fights were arranged to take place in North Plainfield and they did take place there. "Kid" Beebe, of Philadelphia, one of the "fighters" expressed his surprise to a reporter for this paper after the "bouts" were all over that the authorities allowed them to go on with the "show." It is certainly up to the authorities of North Plainfield to explain to the citizens of that law-abiding community why such a thing was tolerated. It is their duty to take legal action against those responsible for the affair. If they refuse, in behalf of the people of North Plainfield, we will ask the authorities of Somerset County to investigate. We refrain from publishing the names of local people who were among the spectators, but should the disgraceful scene be repeated we will certainly do so.

Just what good reason there is for Assemblyman Matthues' bill for the abolition of the death penalty in cases where women are convicted of murder has not been brought out and there is little danger that one will. There may be some false sentiment aroused in favor of such a measure and there no doubt will be considering that in nearly every case where a woman has been convicted of the high crime, members of the sex from whom something better is expected work themselves up in the belief that a great wrong is going to be done to a sister. At the same time these same women are fighting for "rights." They want to vote and in fact want to have as much say in government as men. All summed up, they want to stand in the same position before the law as their stronger brothers do, except when it comes to the greatest penalty that can be inflicted. What logic there is in Mr. Matthues' bill is hard to discover.

Jersey justice is once more illustrated in that disgusting Cordova case. The scoundrel who soiled the sacred cloth was captured in Washington, D. C., on March 1 and he was lodged in jail at New Brunswick the next day. Five days later the Grand Jury indicted him and the following day his plea was received. Only five days elapsed before his trial and two days later he stood convicted of two charges. Three days later he was given the limit of the law and will spend four years in State's prison for the crime he has committed against society.

—Mr. and Mrs. Pierson, of Dunellen avenue, will soon move to West Front street, near Grant avenue.

—Representing The Smith Premier Typewriter Company, Miss H. M. Knetiling has opened a branch office at Frederick J. Huff's rooms on West Front street. All typewriters supplies will be kept in stock.

O. Stevens, Mrs. A. M. Hannigan, Mrs. Irene Murray, Miss Davis, Mrs. W. M. Downey, Mrs. J. H. Carman and Mrs. F. S. Browne.

Bishop O'Connor has received official notice from Rome that Pope Pius X has renewed for ten years the special dispensation allowing workingmen or those performing manual labor to partake of meat on all fast days during Lent with the exception of Ash Wednesday, Fridays and the closing days of Holy Week. The prohibition as to eating meat on Christmas Eve, which has always been in force, is not removed. The announcement has been sent to the parish priests and will be communicated to their congregations Sunday.

The result of one unresisted temptation, taken from the Biblical story of Jacob and Esau, was the subject of Rev. C. M. Herring's sermon at the First Presbyterian church Sunday night. Rev. Mr. Herring took the part of the story relating to Jacob purchasing his brother's birthright. He told of the characteristics of the two men, tracing their future lives and showing their resemblance to men of the present day. "On one hand," the speaker said, "we find a man, whimsical, impulsive and carefree, looking only to the present, with thought of the future. His brother was just the opposite, a man who in the present day, would make a good business man. He looked ahead, and counted the present only for its value in the future. The Scripture calls Esau a profane man," Rev. Mr. Herring continued, "though in God's interpretation, a profane man is one who despises his religion privileges. When Esau sold his birthright for a small morsel of food, he despised his religious privileges. All the wealth and worldly pleasure for which men seek now, is but a small morsel compared with the happiness of eternity which comes to those whose lives have been lived, not only with a thought to the present but with regard for their religious privileges."

MIASOREDOFF SHOT.

Russian Governor Lies In a Critical State.

THE ASSASSIN FIRED THREE TIMES

Youthful One Armed Terrorist, Matti Hjalmar Reinikke, a Self Confessed Revolutionist, Was Captured by Police.

VIBORG, European Russia, March 21.—Governor Miasoredoff was shot and seriously wounded here by a lad named Matti Hjalmar Reinikke, a self confessed anarchist. The assassin, who is about fifteen years old, obtained an entrance to the governor's office and fired three times at him, one bullet inflicting a serious wound and the others slightly wounding the governor's legs.

The governor's clerks and secretary were unable to stop the would be assassin, who reached the street, where, however, he was arrested without a struggle. The governor's condition is critical.

The youth who shot the governor admitted to the police that he is a revolutionist. He hails from Kurikke parish, in the northwestern part of Finland, but recently has lived in Stockholm to avoid arrest on account of his known revolutionary ideas. He returned four days ago to Finland by way of Tornea and spent three days in Viborg, but declines to reveal his stopping place. Governor Miasoredoff has been most energetic in the Russification of Finland and memorials have been sent to the estates petitioning for his removal on account of his alleged illegal methods and the general conditions in his province, which were pronounced to be intolerable.

At 3 o'clock in the afternoon Reinikke gained access to the governor's cabinet and fired a shot from the threshold. Then, advancing, he fired twice more, after which, jumping behind and under the governor's writing table, with his pistol he held up the clerks who were rushing in and finally managed to reach the street. Secretary Markoff, who followed him, summoned assistance, and the would be assassin was captured.

Reinikke, who had lost one of his arms recently in a railway accident, when asked if his name was Reinikke replied, "The police of Helsingfors know me, my motive and the governor's record."

The crime was committed with an automatic pistol of the same type as the one with which Hohenthal assassinated Soisalon Soininen, the procurator general of Finland, on Feb. 6.

Ice Gorge at Conestoga Creek.

LANCASTER, Pa., March 21.—The Susquehanna river, from Columbia, Pa., down to Port Deposit, Md., is still in a badly gorged and menacing condition, but reports from Safe Harbor and other danger points show an improved state of affairs. At Safe Harbor, at the mouth of the Conestoga creek, where the railroad bridge was swept away, a solid wall of ice has formed, extending 1,200 feet out into the river, but there is still sufficient channel to carry off the water.

Cleveland Off to Florida.

PRINCETON, N. J., March 21.—Ex-President Grover Cleveland, accompanied by Dr. Bryant of New York, his family physician, has left here on his private car for a three weeks' trip to Florida. Mr. Cleveland recently suffered a severe attack of gout and is taking a pleasure trip to recuperate. He will first go to Stuart, Fla., and from that point start his fishing and hunting excursion.

Antigambling Law Passed.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 21.—The Rice-Ligon bill to prohibit gambling on race horses passed the house here by a vote of 56 to 28. The bill passed just as it came from the senate. The bill now only lacks the governor's signature to become a law. Governor Frazier will be elected United States senator today, and he will be succeeded by John I. Cox, who will probably sign the bill.

American Fleet at Havana.

HAVANA, March 21.—The officers of the American ships visiting here received and returned various calls from and to government and city officials. The senior officers last night dined at the home of Minister Squiers. The parks and public buildings were dressed in colored lights. Portions of the crews are permitted on shore, and the public is free to visit the ships.

Warner Selected Van Valkenburg.

KANSAS CITY, March 21.—President Roosevelt having requested United States Senator William Warner to nominate his successor as United States district attorney for western Missouri, Mr. Warner recommended the selection of his assistant, A. S. Van Valkenburg, a native of Syracuse, N. Y.

Ithaca Police After Gamblers.

ITHACA, N. Y., March 21.—As a result of gambling among students in the Cascadilla preparatory school, which was exposed by the expulsion of a student, who was reported to be using "loaded dice," a general crusade against gambling has been started by the local police.

The Dead Alive.

PORTLAND, Me., March 21.—An undertaker while preparing for burial the supposedly dead body of Mrs. Irving Kemp at Casco detected signs of life. Upon application of restoratives Mrs. Kemp rapidly recovered and is expected to regain her usual health.

Weather Probabilities.

Partly cloudy; northeasterly winds.

INAUGURATION TRAIN WRECK.

Verdict Against Seven Railway Men at Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, March 21.—Coroner Joseph G. Armstrong opened here an investigation into the collision on the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago railway near Clifton on the night of March 3, 1905, wherein seven men, members of the batallion of Ohio engineers, national guard, were killed and about thirty injured.

The jury returned a verdict against seven men and recommended that Andrew Long, the engineer of the last train, be held for manslaughter, and that W. C. A. Henry, the master mechanic; Lawrence Reister, the train dispatcher, and John Hazen, the station agent, three Cleveland officials, be censured for failing to see that the train was properly equipped with fire extinguishers in good working order before the train left Cleveland.

A commitment on the charge of murder was made out against Engineer Long and the court will decide today as to his release on bail. The investigation of the wreck was searching and brought out every detail.

NOT CARNEGIE'S DAUGHTER.

Mrs. Chadwick Denies Claiming Ironmaster as Her Father.

CLEVELAND, O., March 21.—"It has been said repeatedly that I have asserted that Andrew Carnegie was my father. I deny that, and I deny it absolutely." The foregoing statement was made in an emphatic manner by Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick to a press representative in the first authorized interview since her trial. Continuing Mrs. Chadwick said:

"It has been reported that I made the statement that Judge Tayler was prejudiced against me. Now, I want that denied. I do not think that Judge Tayler was prejudiced, and I think that in every respect he did what he thought was fair. But I do think that from the beginning of my trouble Prosecuting Attorney Sullivan and Marshal Chandler have been unfair and that they have been bitterly prejudiced."

Conspired to Kill Cockrell.

LEXINGTON, Ky., March 21.—A sensation was caused here at a hearing on an application for bail for State Senator James Hargis, Judge Alexander Hargis, their nephew, Elbert Hargis, and Sheriff Edward Callahan, all charged with complicity in Breathitt county feud murders. Moses Fellner testified that prior to the death of Cockrell, Alexander and James Hargis, Callahan and Fellner had discussed in Hargis' store whether Marcum or Cockrell should be killed first. Witness testified that shortly afterward Cockrell was killed.

Nonunionists Get No Milk.

CHICAGO, March 21.—Delivery of milk to nonunion employees of twenty-four wholesale clothing firms was stopped by a sympathetic strike of milk drivers. The strike of the drivers is the outgrowth of a boycott which went into effect today against factories of firms belonging to the National Wholesale Tailors' association.

I describe the insurance trick of —"new business."

If the American people with this latest insult to their intelligence and with Russell's facts in their hands, don't put another nail in the System's coffin, I miss my guess."

In Mr. Russell's article, in the April number, a picture is given of sixteen great railroad presidents, terrorized by the Beef Trust, sneaking into a New York Club, to rebel in concert against the Trust's gorging methods. "The Experiences of a Nursery Governess," the many stories, and other striking features, will interest every woman.

ADVICE FOR EVERYBODY.

It Is Given Gratuitously by a Young and Handsome English Nobleman.

London.—Though he is only 32 years old, the earl of Beauchamp—pronounced "Beecham," you know—is said to possess the distinction of having made more speeches than any other living Englishman. He takes himself very seriously and believes that it is his chief mission in life to set other people right by bestowing upon them unlimited advice and counsel. He never lacks an opportunity to ventilate his ideas, because lords are always in demand at public functions in England. It has not yet been noted that he has ever accomplishtd anything

EARL OF BEAUCHAMP.
(English Nobleman Who Has Advice for Everybody.)

by his oratory, but he is still young and persevering.

He is very devout, and in his early youth he had decided to enter the ministry. He changed his mind on that point on succeeding to the ancestral acres and titles when only 19. He has, however, always shown keen interest in church matters, and only the other day he berated church choirs and organists for being more devoted to music than to religion and thereby sacrificing piety to art.

When he was 27 a conservative government whipped him off to New South Wales as governor of that colony. The Antipodeans, who have much less respect for hereditary titles than English folk, did not take very kindly to him. His state dances were derisively dubbed "Seidlitz Powder balls," because tickets of admission were blue and white. The holders of the blue pasteboards were entitled to a better feed than those who had been provided only with white ones, and had other exclusive privileges, too. To the democratic colonists distinctions of this sort savored of snobbishness, and they resented it. The earl did not mend matters any by taking them to task for their small families and declining birth rate. That sort of talk comes all very well from President Roosevelt, whose precepts are backed up by the example his own home furnishes of a large and healthy family, but Australian husbands and wives regarded it as sheer impertinence, coming from a young peer who was at that time still a bachelor, although he could well afford a wife.

In 1902 Beauchamp married Lady Lettice Grosvenor, a daughter of the late Earl Grosvenor and a sister of the second duke of Westminster.

The earl is a very good looking man, and he knows it, too. Likewise he is well aware that he has very shapely hands, and they always figure prominently in his photographs. He is considered the best dressed man in the house of lords.

WOMAN OF STRANGE POWER

New Spiritualistic Leader Is Attracting a Large Following in New York.

New York.—The strange mystery of Rev. May S. Pepper and her spiritualistic power is attracting great attention in Brooklyn. Mrs. Pepper does not pretend to read the future; she does not even enact the pretense of going into a "trance" state. Messages purporting to come from the dead are received through her in answer to questions placed in sealed and unopened envelopes. Many strange and unaccountable instances of her power are reported. So strongly has the belief in her advocacy of spiritualism taken hold that a congregation has been formed of which she has been made pastor. Among the members are some of the most prominent business and professional men of Brooklyn. Many of the attendants at meetings conducted by Mrs. Pepper assert that messages she delivers from the dead are correct and they are moved to deep emotion thereby. She has gained a large following of believers in this city.

REV. MAY S. PEPPER.
(A New Spiritualistic Leader in New York City.)

Feminine Snapshots

Prominent Points In the Ever Widening Sphere of Woman

A curious thing happened recently. Under the "hypnotic" spell which comes from a long course of novel reading and a lack of useful and steady employment a girl married hastily a man whom she did not know well. Her family advised against the match, but, as usual, this rather hurried it on. The young woman, after a few months of matrimony, found that novels are not what they seem. Her husband was exactly the opposite of the fiction heroes she had adored. The husband who had seemed a hero became to her a brute and monster. He really treated her very badly, but kept "tab" on her so she could not get away from him. The law declared she was his property, body and bones. At length, in desperation, she ran away and returned to her family while the husband was absent from home. Her family made her welcome, especially two stalwart brothers. A continent now separated her from the ex-hero, but no sooner had he returned to his dismantled home than he loped off hotfoot after the wife who had found his society so undesirable. He drove in a carriage to the door of the lady's brother's home and "demanded"—demanded, mind you—that his wife should be turned over to him like a piece of luggage. For answer the big brothers handcuffed the assumed owner of that woman and took him to the police station. Now, here is the question; here are two questions: Has a man the right to break into his wife's presence whenever and wherever he pleases, whether she wants him or not? Does a wife, simply because she is a wife, lose that sacred right of privacy which belongs alike to all human beings?

When the race is truly civilized, disease and decrepitude will be wiped out. The glad years will come and go and leave no trace upon men and women except that they will become always wiser, stronger, more loving.

One effect of the continually advancing price of meat, poultry and even of eggs since the formation of the hen trust will be to drive housekeepers back upon fruit, nuts and vegetables. They will learn how many delicious and nutritious food preparations can be made without either eggs or meat. Take the single article of the banana. One can buy in the large cities excellent bananas for a cent apiece. They can be sliced with pineapple pulp and eaten raw for dessert, and they can be baked or fried. There is also now a banana flour made, which is useful and most palatable in various dishes. Americans are a nation of excessive meat eaters. If the high price of animal flesh shall turn them from necessity to a less heating diet and one more agreeable to the imagination, then it will be a blessing not at all disguised.

One of the most successful railroad contractors and constructors in the country is Mrs. Theodora Beacham, at present working on a road in Virginia. The railway company not long ago sent Mrs. Beacham a check for $15,000 for services performed to date. Once more, why not?

Do you know how to sign and indorse a check? So many women don't.

An enlarging field for women who can write grammatically and entertainingly is found among the advertising and trade papers. Mrs. Ada Crisp of New York is the editor of an interesting and attractive magazine giving news of the grocery and delicatessen trade. Miss Carmelita Beckwith has been for some years in sole charge of the advertising department of a leading gas and electric company in New York. She issues a handsome monthly bulletin for the company. In the same city Miss Florence Levy successfully established and conducts a periodical devoted to art matters. Many others might be named.

The king of Siam has six grown daughters, and they dress in a handsome uniform of white blouse, black knickerbockers, black stockings and buckled shoes. They are graceful and beautifully formed and look very attractive, with their dark hair and sparkling eyes. Their mother, the queen, dresses in the same way as the girls do. Their attire is the national garb of the Siamese women.

Miss Tremere, eighteen years old, is a girl who, with her mother, conducts a grocery in a certain big city. Not long ago she was robbed of several hundred dollars in property and money. The police were notified. They were supposed to have put their most foxy sleuths on the thief's track. These gentlemen did nothing. The prospect was the girl would never get any of her property back. She determined to hunt the thief herself. She evolved a plan which, perhaps because of its very simplicity, was overlooked by the astute masculine sleuths. She patiently watched and waited and at length ran the thief to cover and got back her money and jewels. Women everywhere are proving that they can attend to their affairs better than anybody else can do it for them.

KATE BONNET

By FRANK R. STOCKTON

Copyright, 1902, by D. Appleton & Co., New York.

With these instructions Newcombe had gone to Madam Bonnet and had found that much disturbed lady in a state of partial collapse, which had followed her passion of the morning, and who had declared that nothing in the world would please her better than to get rid of her husband's daughter and never see her again. And if the creature needed clothes or anything else which belonged to her, a maid should pack them up, and anybody who pleased might take them to any place, provided she heard no more about them or their owner.

It was not long before Newcombe and the lady of his love were walking away through the little plantation, in order that they might speak by themselves.

CHAPTER VII.

KATE PLANS.

It was nearly an hour before Kate and Mr. Newcombe returned, and when they came back they did not look happy. Dickory observed their sad visages, but the sight did not make him sad. Kate took Dame Charter by the hand and led her to the bench.

"You have been so kind to me," she said, "that I have almost come to look upon you as a mother, even though I have known you such a little while, and I want to tell you what I have been talking about, and what I think I am going to do."

Mr. Newcombe now stood by, and Dickory also. His mother was not quite sure that this was the right place for him, but as he had already done so much for the young lady there was, perhaps, no reason why he should be debarred from hearing what she had to say.

"This gentleman," said Kate, indicating Martin Newcombe, "sympathizes with me very greatly in my present unfortunate position—having no home to which I can go, and having no relative belonging to this island but my father, who is sailing upon the seas, I know not where; and therefore, in his great kindness, has offered to marry me and to take me to his home, which thereafter would be my home, and in which I should have all comforts and rights."

Now Dickory's face was like the sky before a shower. His mother saw it out of the corner of her eye, but the others did not look at him.

"This was very kind and very good," continued Kate.

"Not at all, not at all," interrupted Master Newcombe, "except that it was kind and good to myself; for there is nothing in this world which you need and want as much as I need and want you."

At this Dickory's brow grew darker.

"I believe all you say," said Kate, "for I am sure you are an honest and a true man, but, as I told you, I cannot marry you; for, even had I made up my mind on the subject, which I have not, I could not marry anyone at such a time as this, not knowing my father's will upon the subject or where he is."

The sun broke out on Dickory's countenance without a shower; his mother noticed the change.

"But as I must do something," Kate went on, "a plan came to me while Mr. Newcombe was talking to me, and I have been thinking of it ever since, and now, as I speak, I am becoming fully determined in regard to it; that is, if I can carry it out. It often happens," she said, with a faint smile, "that when people ask advice they become more and more strengthened in their own opinion. My opinion, and I may say my plan, is this: When my father told me he was going away in his ship he agreed to take me with him on a little voyage, leaving me with my mother's brother at the island of Jamaica, not far from Spanish Town. In purposing this he thought, no doubt, that it would be far better for me to be with my own blood, if his voyage should be long, rather than to live with one who is no relative of mine and does not wish to act like one. This, then, being my father's intention, which he was prevented, by reasons which I know not of, from carrying out, I shall carry it out myself with all possible dispatch, and go to my uncle in Jamaica by the earliest vessel which sails from this port. Not only as this is my natural refuge in my trouble, but as my father intended to go there when he thought of having me with him, it may be a part of his plan to go there anyway, even though I be not with him; and so I may see him, and all may be well."

Clouds now settled heavily on the faces of each of the young men, and even the ordinarily bright sky of Dame Charter became somewhat overcast; although, in her heart, she did not believe that anybody in this world could have devised a better plan, under the circumstances, than this forsaken Mistress Kate Bonnet.

"Now there is my plan," said Kate, with something of cheerfulness in her voice, "if it so be I can carry it out. Do either of you know," glancing at the young men impartially, but apparently not noticing the bad weather, "if in a reasonable time a vessel will leave here for Jamaica?"

Dickory knew well, but he would not answer; Kate had no right to put such a thing upon him. Newcombe, however, did not hesitate. "It is very hard for me to say," he made reply, "but there is a merchantman, the King and Queen, which sails from here in three days for Jamaica. I know this, for I send some goods; and I wish, Mistress Bonnet, that I could say something against your sailing in her, but I cannot; for, since you will not let me take care of you, your uncle is surely the best one in the world to do it; and as to the vessel, I know she is a safe one."

"But you could not go sailing away in any vessel by yourself," cried Dame Charter, "no matter how safe she may be."

"Oh, no!" cried Kate; "and the more we talk about our plan the more fully it reveals itself to me in all its various parts. I am going to ask you to go with me, my dear Dame Charter," and as she spoke she seized both of the hands of the other. "I have funds of my own which are invested in the town, and I can afford the expense. Surely, my good friend, you will not let me go forth alone, and all unused to travel? Leaving me safely with my uncle you could return when the ship came back to Bridgetown."

Dame Charter turned upon the girl a look of kind compassion, but at the same time she knit her brows.

"Right glad would I be to do that for you," she said, "but I cannot go away and leave my son, who has only me."

"Take him with you," cried Kate. "Two women traveling to unknown shores might readily need a protector, and if not, there are so many things which he might do. Think of it, my dear Dame Charter; to my uncle's home in Jamaica is the only place to which I can go, and if you do not go with me how can I go there?"

Dame Charter now shed tears, but they were the tears of one good woman feeling for the misfortunes of another.

"I will go with you, my dear young lady," she said, "and I will not leave you until you are in your uncle's care."

Kate walked to the boat with Mr. Newcombe, he having offered to undertake her business in town and at her father's house, and to see the owners of the King and Queen in regard to passage.

Dickory stood radiant, speaking to no one. Master Martin Newcombe was the lover of Mistress Kate Bonnet, but he, Dickory, was going with her to Jamaica!

The following days fled rapidly. Long-visaged Martin Newcombe, whose labors in behalf of his lady were truly labors of love, as their object was to help her to go where his eyes could no longer feast upon her, and from which place her voice would no longer reach him, went, with a bitter taste in his mouth, to visit Madam Bonnet, to endeavor to persuade her to deliver to her stepdaughter such further belongings as that young lady was in need of.

That forsaken person was found to be only too glad to comply with this request, hoping earnestly that neither the property nor its owner should ever again be seen by her. She was in high spirits, believing that she was a much better manager of the plantation than her eccentric husband had ever been, and she had already engaged a man to take the place of Ben Greenway, who had been a sore trouble to her these many years. She was buoyed up and cheered by the belief that the changes she was making would be permanent, and that she would live and die the owner of the plantation.

So Kate's baggage was put on board the King and Queen, a very humble vessel considering her sounding name, and Dame Charter's few belongings were conveyed to the vessel in Dickory's canoe, the cottage being left in charge of a poor and well-pleased neighbor.

The King and Queen dropped down the stream, and Master Newcombe stood sadly on the pier, while Kate Bonnet waved her handkerchief to him and to her friends. Dame Charter sat and smiled at the town she was leaving and at the long stretches of the river before her. She knew not to what future she was going, but her heart was uplifted at the thought that a new life was opening before her son. In her little cottage and in her little fields there was no future for him, and now to what future might he not be sailing!

An Ideal Location
Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE
LINDEN, N. J.
Beautiful and Accessible
2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad
Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors
BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.
BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.
LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW
BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.
BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.
LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT
BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.
BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.
FOR INFORMATION concerning lots in these beautiful Park Cemeteries, and FREE transportation to prospective lot buyers, apply at once to any LEADING UNDERTAKER or offices of the Associations:

DIXIE LAD.

Favorite Lasted Long Enough to Win by a Neck.

NEW ORLEANS, March 21.—Jack Kerchville, which outran his field, and Dixie Lad, which lasted through a driving finish just long enough to win by a neck, were the winning favorites at the Crescent City track. The heavy rain made the track a sea of mud. The fifth race was a two horse contest between Safeguard and Dr. Stephens, the former winning by a neck in a hard drive. Summaries:

First Race.—Daisy Green, first; The Bobby, second; Nan Dora, third.

Second Race.—Jack Kerchville, first; McDougle, second; Markie Mayer, third.

Third Race.—Dixie Lad, first; Mr. Jack, second; Mainspring, third.

Fourth Race.—Floral Wreath, first; Glen Gallant, second; Belle of Portland, third.

Fifth Race.—Safeguard III., first; Dr. Stephens, second; Pompey, third.

Sixth Race.—Duncan, first; Sir Carter, second; Miss Creek, third.

Seventh Race.—Ponca, first; Flying Charcoal, second; Censor, third.

Books Took Everything in Sight.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 21.—The books took everything in sight at Ascot, not a single favorite winning. Mai Lowery, winner of the first race, might be called a favorite, as she closed at equal prices with Mammon. Orchan, Potrero Grande and King Thorpe were the long priced winners.

Delagoa Won by a Nose.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 21.—Jockey Michaels kept Collector Jessup, favorite, in the lead in the third race at Oakland until the last leap, then became careless, and Delagoa won by a nose. The judges suspended Michaels indefinitely.

Checker Tournament at Boston.

BOSTON, March 21.—In the international checker tournament here the fifth day's score was: British, 4; Americans, 3; drawn, 33, and the total score: British, 40; Americans, 19; drawn, 141.

Pretty Nellie at Oaklawn.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 21.—Pretty Nellie, which won the Capitol Hotel stake at Oaklawn, was the only winning favorite.

Hawley's Body Lies In State.

HARTFORD, Conn., March 21.—Accompanied by his widow and daughters the body of General Joseph R. Hawley arrived here last night and was met at the station by a large gathering. Acting as an official escort to the former soldier and statesman were Robert O. Tyler post, G. A. R., and several men prominent in public and military life, among whom were Mayor Henney, Adjutant General Cole and Governor Roberts, who accompanied the body of General Hawley to the capitol. The body lies in state here and has been viewed by an immense crowd.

Dixon Turns Over a New Leaf.

STERLING, Ill., March 21.—As a result of a great religious revival which has just closed in Dixon five dancing clubs have disbanded and several thousand people have taken an oath not to frequent barrooms and not to have anything to do with dancing parties or card tables. The famous Kendal club, a charitable organization, which raised several thousand dollars a year for charity, voted not to hold any more dances.

A Strike at Fall River.

FALL RIVER, Mass., March 21.—Weavers at the Troy and Richard-Borden No. 1 mills have struck. They claim that they were forced to run ten looms when they wanted to run only eight. They said that they understood that it was optional with them whether they should run eight or ten looms. In the Troy mill all the weavers quit work, but in the other mill only those who were forced to take ten looms went out.

Reports on Canal Zone Conditions.

WASHINGTON, March 21.—Secretary Taft has transmitted to the president, with comment of his own, the report of Dr. Reed, recently published, criticising severely the management of affairs in the canal zone by the Panama commission. The president has returned them to the war department with an indorsement, and they will be made public in a day or two.

Wilson Confessed to Murder.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., March 21.—James Wilson, aged twenty-two years, was arrested here on suspicion of having shot and killed John P. Ebert in the yard of the latter's home on the night of Feb. 23. Wilson later made a full confession to Mayor Lewis. He gave as his motive robbery and the settlement of an old grudge.

Berry's Affairs in Tangled Shape.

BOSTON, March 21.—James D. Colt, an attorney, has been appointed by the supreme court receiver and conservator for the property of Charles F. Berry of this city, who, it is alleged, has disappeared leaving his accounts in tangled shape. Several large estates, valued at $500,000, are said to be involved.

Death of Assemblyman Perham.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 21.—The death of Assemblyman Perham was announced last night by Speaker Nixon, who seemed greatly moved. Mr. Agnew of New York moved at once that the assembly adjourn out of respect for the memory of his friend and colleague.

Murder at Harrisburg.

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 21.—Patrick J. McGovern, an attendant at the Dauphin county almshouse, has been arrested here charged with the murder of Fred F. Engle, aged sixty-eight years, of Harrisburg.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

The membership increase at the Y. M. C. A., which has been steadily growing since the first of the year, has now reached the 120 mark. The four committees at work bringing in new members are doing creditably and the decrease in membership for 1904, eighteen per cent., which was recorded last year, promises to be reversed by the next annual meeting.

The selection of the team which will represent Plainfield in the coming inter-association gymnastic meet which will be held here in April will be made about a week before the event. The date of the contest is April 13, but the costume exhibition at the gymnasium takes place on April 5 so that the try out will be between these two dates. Among the candidates for this team which will be composed of five men, are Walter McNaughton, Ray Smith, Edward Neal, and Walter Cahoone, all of whom are good gymnasts. Plainfield won the contest last year and the supporters of the local team, hope to retain the banner for another year.

THE FORUM.

Help the Good Work Along.

Editor, The Daily Press:

The robins are singing, the hand-organ reminds us the winter is past, and spring is here. Anticipations of a Dreamland Fair, for that glorious cause, our hospital, should be uppermost in our minds. May great success attend it. Then too, the horse show is coming, with its "don't you know" and "Chappie old boy."

It is very exhilerating to feel that one is riding behind his beautiful high acting horses, with so much pace, good manners and that they are the admiration of all. Then one dreams of grand-stand applause, blue ribbons, which inspires one as it does to read the wonderful description of Ben-Hur's ride. Some of our best citizens are organizing a Gentleman's Driving Club, to hold matinees, having formulated rules that prohibit all objectionable features. These being adopted by driving clubs all over the country. Our suburban towns, who have driving clubs, are well supported by all fair minded people. If asked to join this club, do not say, "My position in life is such I do not consider it wise to do so." Kindly tell the world the difference, whether you support a horse show, exhibit a high acting horse whose action may be natural or artificial or you contribute to a half-mile running race, or a jumping contest? Or whether you support and go see a road horse perform whose action is the "poetry of motion," at a gentleman's driving matinee?

Many good railroad men have been retired for being color blind. They cannot see things as they are. This reminds the writer of an incident which occurred some years ago at a county fair. The great horse, George M. Patchen, was advertised to give an exhibition, ridden by Buckey. Crowds poured in to see this trial of speed, people rushed in the enclosure to see the great horse's efforts. In those days they tied the tallest corn to the posts which stood near the pumpkins, potatoes, etc. Here behind the corn I saw two noted clergymen, beloved by everyone, holding their silver watches, endeavoring to time the great horse. They enjoyed it, exclaimed with enthusiasm, "a wonderful performance by a wonderful horse." Had they stood by the rail with their people they might have been criticised, yet they loved and owned good horses. Ere long the trolley will be completed to the Driving Park, and Country Club. There will be many amusements to be enjoyed and attract people to our beautiful city. Stand by those who are progressive, let it be Dreamland Fair, horse show, driving club, shooting club, golf, baseball, or tennis. All of these recreations, when properly conducted, permit our families to enjoy life's pleasures with us.

Mr. Drake and Lincoln.

Editor, The Daily Press:

Much has been said and written about the town of Lincoln, N. J. The lamented Gen. Sherman once said, "War was Hell." I doubt whether Gen. Sherman's heart and soul was ever tried any more in his full army career than mine has been in my trials and struggles, in founding and building the town of Lincoln. Eight years ago on April 1st next, I purchased 200 acres of land where Lincoln now stands, and managed it successfully for three years. In an hour I was deposed from its management by parties who were jealous of my success. Under the new management deeds for some building lots were given and a mortgage was still on such lots. This management was short lived. I purchased the property and tried to get things straightened out of chaos. And I was hampered in my efforts by an eager, grasping stockholders, whom I had given one quarter of the stock in new company that I controlled. As the company was again on the high road to success, this good friend of mine, the grasping stockholder, demanded that I give him all the stock in the company that I owned. One year ago I delivered all the stock he demanded, and at the same time told him, the Bible said that even that that he had given him should be taken from him, he said he did not understand me. I told him to be patient and it would "work while he slept." I called a meeting of the directors of the company; had him make a motion for a receiver of company and it was carried, and the court granted the request. As soon as that was done, I requested the Trust Company, who held a mortgage on the property, to foreclose its mortgage and it was done and the property is to be sold at Sheriff's sale on April 19, 1905. By this action it makes perfect the titles to every building lot that was ever sold at Lincoln, N. J., provided the party has a deed for a lot there. It makes no difference by what company the deed is signed by. I feel that I should make this statement in justice to myself and to those interested. I have the documents at my office to prove the above statement, and any one interested can call and be made fully satisfied. While I have been engaged in many mighty enterprises in the past fifteen years, Lincoln is the pride of my heart, and I propose to stay on the "burning deck" until I have subdued those who seek my downfall, and in this work I shall redeem my name by exposing some of those who would check me in my efforts of progress.

Yours truly,
Silas Dewey Drake.

RETIRE HONEYMAN FROM BOARD

He and Mr. Fountain Defeated for Re-Election as School Trustees in the Borough.

WAS A HOT CONTEST

Victory for Mayor Smalley and D. J. Carney and Their Friends—Allen B. Laing, E. A. Lowe and Rev. Jos. McKelvey Elected.

For the first time in many months, A. V. D. Honeyman's friends were defeated at an election in the borough last night, when their two candidates for school trustee, R. M. Fountain and A. V. D. Honeyman, were overwhelmed by administration votes. A big delegation from the Park section cast many of the latter and aided in placing Allen B. Laing and Ernest A. Lowe in the Board of Education by comfortable majorities. The third member elected was Rev. Joseph O. McKelvey, who ran on both tickets and received everyone of the 471 votes cast.

In the count of ballots, the others received the following: Lowe, 286; Laing, 291; Fountain, 185; Honeyman, 176. Fountain and Honeyman were candidates to succeed themselves, the other retiring member being President Edward A. Overton. The appropriations designated and voted for were $17,800 for current expenses and $2,040 for manual training. There were 208 votes for both and nineteen against.

The election marked the annual school meeting and it was called to order by President Overton. He embodied an address in his annual report to be found in another column and a second report was given by Deputy Clerk Fountain. It showed that the balance to the credit of the Board on March 21, 1904, was $12,984.54 and that the total receipts for the year had been $76,735.86. The disbursements were $57,799.16, leaving a balance at the present time of $31,921.24. The largeness of the balance is due to the fact that it includes the appropriations for the new school building which have not been paid out but will be as soon as certain parts are completed. Deducting these it leaves a balance practically equal to the previous year.

This led up to the election and at the time, the assembly room, where the gathering took place, was filled to overflowing. J. O. Osgood was made chairman, J. Herbert Case, secretary, and W. W. Rowley, J. W. A. Bauersachs, William McLaughlin and W. A. Demarest, tellers. When nominations were called for the names of E. A. Lowe, Allen B. Laing, A. V. D. Honeyman, R. M. Fountain, Rev. J. O McKelvey and David J. Carney were presented. Mr. Carney declined to run.

The polls were kept open until 10 o'clock and the electioneering was unusually warm. Both sides were out to win but only a comparatively few votes had been cast when it was seen that the administration had the better of it. The total number of ballots cast was much in excess of previous years and taken all in all it was the liveliest school meeting the borough has had in several years.

As the Board now stands it will be made up of six members favorable to the present administration and two against it, the remaining member standing neither for or against.

School Trustee Townsend said last night to a reporter: "Among the present members of the Board of Education who favored the election of the incoming members as well as those just chosen I know of no one who aspires to be a "Boss" either politically or in school affairs. Therefore, there should be a disposition on the part of every member of the Board to take up school questions and decide them on their merits only. There will be no more voting as in the past of five members in solid column on nearly every question arising where it was reasonable to expect that there should have sometimes been differences in views. I hope and believe that this will be of benefit to the school and that in the future our citizens also will attend school meetings in the same spirit prepared to discuss and act on questions whether of new school houses or school administration solely on their merits."

MR. OVERTON'S ADDRESS

Retiring President of Borough School Board's Annual Paper.

ENCOURAGING VIEWS

To Occupy New School Building by Fall—Larger Attendance in High School.

Retiring President E. A. Overton, of the North Plainfield Board of Education, delivered the following address at the annual school meeting last night:

"Fellow Citizens: Public school education is one of the greatest problems of the day. It is so in Greater New York, with its over three millions of inhabitants, as well as in the smallest hamlet of our State. As President Roosevelt has said: 'There is nothing dearer to our hearts than our public school system, by which free education is obtained for everyone.' Progress is the order of the day. We see it on every hand. Let us not go backward. Let us see that our schools are well equipped, and that our standard is of the highest. It requires no word of mine to say, be as careful in the selection of those who should have the management of your schools as you would be of the most important trust in State or Nation.

"I quote from the report of the Supervising Principal. He says: 'What profession is so noble and so sacred as the teacher's? The teachers are the bulwarks of our Nation. There is no man or woman of any account in this country, who is not the product of the teacher.' Such being the case, how careful should we be in our selection! Not only should they be able to train the young minds in scholarship, but their influence in moral training should be of the highest. We cannot expect good results without good teachers, and they cannot be had without adequate remuneration. The influence of the teacher is next to that of the parent; in fact, in many cases it is more so. Let us look well to our schools, and see that our children's interests are fully guarded.

"This has been an eventful year with us. Several times have our citizens been called together to decide upon a school site. It is not necessary for me to go into details, as you well know the result. During the past year we gave up our classes in Spencer Hall, in the store opposite, and in the basement of the Watchung avenue school, and have had part classes in our Somerset street school. In the fall this will all be changed. Our new school will be finished, and every child in the borough will have a full day's schooling. Our new school speaks for itself. We expect to have it finished when school opens in September. In matters of school expenses it is always a question as to what they ought to be, and, as it is the largest item on your tax bill, I know you are interested. We have asked for an increase, and it is only natural that you should ask the question 'why.'

"A recent ruling of the State Board requires us to remove our laboratory from the manual training building to our new school, also our kindergarten class. This of itself will be a slight additional expense. Then we have the fitting up of the new school, additional supplies, extra fuel, and a small proper increase in the salaries of our teachers. We are still paying on the average about $8 per month less than is paid in Plainfield, according to the last published report of the State Superintendent. We cannot avoid some additional increase, if we wish to keep up with a good corps of well-trained teachers.

"The Board has studied this over very carefully, and has come to a unanimous conclusion, and you have to rely on their judgment, as you have elected them for that purpose. Then we have the natural increase to be provided for with books, seats, etc. The total enrollment will be about fifty more than last year. The enrollment in the kindergarten, primary and grammar departments remains practically the same as last year. The increase has been principally in the High School. The following will show the growth in High School attendance:

1901-2	93	pupils
1905-up to the present time.	160	"

TALENT FOR DREAMLAND

Excelsior Carnival Company Engaged by Oshkosh Club.

OPENS ON MAY 13

Site to be Selected by Messrs. Fisk and Shellabarger—Meeting Last Night.

A meeting of members of the Oshkosh Club who are interested in the "Dreamland County Fair," as proposed by Charles J. Fisk, was held at the Casino, last night, and considerable progress was made in the preliminary arrangements. W. S. Miller, manager for the Excelsior Carnival Company, of New York, who has conducted a great many similar affairs throughout this part of the State as well as New York, gave the club a general idea of the plans adopted in other places.

The Excelsior Carnival Company has taken charge of such affairs in Passaic six times, Southport, Conn., five times; Hackensack, Rutherford, Tarrytown, N. Y., Stamford, Conn., Mt. Vernon, N. Y., in each place twice; also at Larchmont, Port Chester, N. Y., New Rochelle and Nyack, and every time there has been great success. It has been arranged for Mr. Miller to take entire charge of Plainfield's fair, assisted by members of the Oshkosh Club. While local people will be asked to join in and look after the various details, the entertainments will be given entirely by professional talent.

It was decided to open the fair on Saturday, May 13 and continue it every day and night for one week, including the following Saturday. Inasmuch as the plans have outgrown the Casino surroundings, Mr. Miller, Charles J. Fisk and Joseph M. Shellabarger will, in a few days, look over the available sites in the city and select one suitable for the great show.

The merchants will be invited to take part and it is desired that all trades and every business in the city be represented and no doubt the booth idea, as suggested by Mr. Fisk, will be one of the features. There is likely to be some changes in the plans prepared by Mr. Fisk to harmonize with those of Mr. Miller, however, the show will be one of the biggest the town has ever seen, and inasmuch as Barnum & Bailey will not come here this season, it should be an unqualified success. From now on the details will be followed up toward completion. Within a week or just as soon as definite plans and the location is decided upon, the various committees will be appointed. The only subcommittee appointed last night was that of Publicity, which consists of Wm. N. Runyon, chairman; Evarts Tracy, Ralph L. Morrow and W. W. St. John.

No action was taken yesterday at the annual school meeting of the Piscataway Township, held at New Market, it being decided to let the matter wait until after the new board organizes.

In the election of trustees these were chosen for three year terms: A. A. Parker, Abram G. Nelson, Sylvester Randolph; for two year term: George W. Harris. The vote was as follows: A. A. Parker, 67; Abram G. Nelson, 62; Sylvester Randolph, 65; Harris, 60. Although John Morris declined to serve he received 40 votes.

The appropriations and the votes cast for each were as follows: Current expenses, $5,400, 70 votes; transportation, $1,500, 40 votes, 33 against and 7 for $1,000; books and supplies, $400, 76 votes; repairs, $500, 77 votes; furniture and supplies for South Plainfield school, $300, 77 votes. In all but the appropriation for transportation, the votes were unanimously in favor.

William Dayton presided at the meeting and William D. Nichols was the secretary.

William Jeffery, the real estate agent, announces today that Belton Hall, the well-known sociologist and New York lawyer, son of the late Rev. Dr. John Hall, of New York, has offered the township of Piscataway a plot of land nearly one-half an acre on the corner of Rushmore avenue and West Fourth street, near the city, for a public school without any restrictions whatever.

The Hoboken Club will open the season on Sunday, April 2, playing the Cedar A. C.

A. G. NELSON GETS CHADWICK

New Market Man Engaged Husband of Bank Swindler.

TO PLAY ORGAN

Dr. Chadwick to Perform on Big Organ Which Fair Heir Purchased at Cleveland, O.

Abram G. Nelson, of New Market, a half-brother of the late Mrs. Charles L. Fair, who recently purchased the bulk of the personal effects of Mrs. Cassie Chadwick, the notorious woman swindler, left last night for Cleveland, O., where he will make a thorough inspection of all the articles before commencing their removal. They will be first exhibited to the curious populace of Mrs. Chadwick's home city in what was formerly her handsome residence on Euclid avenue and if not re-sold, will be brought on to New York and placed on exhibition for one week in the Knickerbocker Art Galleries on West Twenty-ninth street in which Mr. Nelson has a half interest and where they will be disposed of.

The goods were bid in by Mr. Nelson's partner, C. A. Smith, and were secured by him for $35,000. There were twenty-nine bidders, the majority of whom stopped when $35,000 was reached. One Philadelphia firm was particularly anxious to get the entire lot and yesterday as Mr. Nelson was leaving this city, he received an offer from them to take his purchase at $3,500 over the amount he paid. It was quickly refused as being entirely out of reason.

One of the articles included in the purchase was Mrs. Chadwick's magnificent organ for which she paid $9,000 and which will be the means of showing to the world how complete has been the "come down" of herself and family. While in Cleveland last week, Mr. Nelson made a bargain with Dr. Chadwick, her husband, in which he is to play the instrument for $100 a week while the goods are on exhibition. The agreement has a good no matter to what point the organ may be removed before it is disposed of. The doctor is a splendid instrumentalist and the fact that the former "millionaire" is to receive a salary for acting as organist is counted upon to draw large audiences.

Municipal Insurance.

Plainfield will be interested in a bill introduced in the Legislature by Assemblyman Layden, of Passaic, which provides for the establishment of a municipal insurance fund in cities other than those of the first-class. This measure enables the Mayor, with the consent of the Common Council, to appoint a commission of three, which shall have charge of this fund, the nucleus of which may be formed by appropriations from the Common Council, or other governing body of such municipality.

Miss Ruth Wheeler.

Miss Ruth Gladys Wheeler, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel B. Wheeler, formerly of this city, but now of Bridgeport, Conn., died yesterday morning at the home of her parents, from heart trouble. She was born in this city and was fifteen years old. She was popular among the younger members of the Olivet Congregational church and an active member of its Sunday-school. Besides her parents she leaves one sister, Miss Bertha Wheeler, and one younger brother, Frederick Wheeler.

Dr. Glenton's Address.

Dr. Mary Glenton, of Wushang, China, gave an interesting address yesterday afternoon in the parish house of the Church of the Holy Cross, under the auspices of the Women's Auxiliary of the church.

Mr. Arnold on Road to Recovery.

The encouraging news that City Treasurer W. F. Arnold is gradually improving, was announced today by the family physician, Dr. B. VanD. Hedges Defeat License Measure.

The Duffield bill giving village trustees the power to grant liquor licenses was lost in the Legislature yesterday.

George Greder, of Somerville, a brother-in-law of O. M. Meeker, of this city, who was recently operated upon at Muhlenberg Hospital, was removed to his home yesterday.

GIFT FOR THE RETIRING PASTOR

CHURCH 25 YEARS OLD

Story of the Origin of What is Now St. Stephen's.

A UNION CHAPEL

Came Under Control of the Episcopal Diocese in 1887.—Three Rectors in Brief History.

Twenty-five years ago Monday there was organized what is today St. Stephen's church, and it is with some pride that the members look back over the history of this house of worship. On March 20, 1880, in response to an invitation sent out by Henry M. Bowen, they who assembled at the home of Walter S. Graham decided to erect without delay an "Union chapel and Sunday-school." Soon afterward the Union chapel and Sunday-school Association was incorporated and on May 10, 1880, ground was broken for the chapel, the lot being the gift of W. S. Pomeroy and J. F. Plummer.

The present choir room was opened for a day school on January 3, 1881, and on January 22, a Sunday-school was organized. It was conducted in succession by A. G. Conant, S. A. Gunn and T. A. Belknap. On July 3, 1881, the first sermon in the new edifice was preached by Rev. F. Remington and the following October saw the Rev. N. B. Thompson, a Baptist minister, installed as the first pastor. After his resignation in 1882, Union services were held, ministers of different denominations officiating—among whom was Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, editor of the Sabbath Recorder.

In the spring of 1886 the trustees offered the use of the chapel to Grace church, Plainfield, on the sole condition "that religious services should be regularly maintained." So church services were read for the first time, the first Sunday in June, 1886, by the Rev. Clayton Eddy. The favor of Grace church, however, did not extend over five months' time.

Through W. P. Smith and J. J. H. Poillon, the Bishop became interested and sent a lay reader, Mr. Leonard. He having ministered so acceptably, after morning service, August 18, 1887, the Bishop gave his permission for the establishment of a permanent congregation, to be known as "The Mission Church of Our Saviour." The calling of a resident minister was deferred until July, 1888, when the Rev. S. P. Simpson was asked to come. His first sermon as priest-in-charge was preached from the text: "Let not him that girdeth on his armor boast as he that taketh it off," Kings 20:11.

In December, 1894, the 'Church of Our Saviour" was given a charter, with the standing of an independent, fully organized parish in the diocese, and to be known as "St. Stephen's church in the City of Plainfield."

The present rector, Rev. Arthur S. Peck, is the third that the parish has had. His predecessors being the Rev. W. V. Dawson and the Rev. S. P. Simpson.

Bowen Shows "Big Stick."

It was learned yesterday at the State Department in Washington that about ten days ago Minister Herbert W. Bowen, a brother of H. M. Bowen, of this city, was instructed by this government to demand formally of President Castro, of Venezuela, that the questions at issue between his country and the United States be submitted to arbitration. His instructions were also to the effect that in case of refusal he was to inform President Castro that the United States would then pursue its course.

Parents Not Alarmed.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Erwin Waters, of East Third street, wish to state through The Daily Press, that they do not feel alarmed over the absence of their son, J. William Waters, who left his home Saturday night. He is not demented, they say, and it is domestic troubles that causes his absence and he will return when he sees fit to come. He was employed by his cousin in a commission house in New York.

St. Mary's Church Congregation Shows Its High Esteem of Father Egan.

A CHECK FOR $800

Beloved Priest Thanks the People in a Brief Response to Father Delehanty's Congratulatory Address.

In order to more fully and formally express their regret at his being taken from them and to evince their appreciation of his work in Plainfield, the parishoners of St. Mary's church tendered a reception to their former pastor, Rev. Andrew M. Egan, last night. The affair was held in the school hall at the conclusion of the Paulist Fathers' service in the church and was a complete surprise to Father Egan, who had been invited to this city from Bayonne, where he is now stationed, to "meet a few friends." He soon regained his composure in this instance only to be twice as much taken back with a check for $800, the only intention of the donors being to make plain to the recipient that his efforts in building up St. Mary's had not been forgotten.

The hall was filled to overflowing when Dr. W. O. Boone, acting as chairman, called the parishoners to order and made a short address of welcome to Father Egan. He was followed by Miss Anna Daly and Albert Matthews, of the church choir, who rendered two solos, with Miss Mary Smith acting as accompanist. In a brief but pointed address, Father Delehanty, now acting pastor of the church, informed Father Egan the purpose of the gathering, laying stress on the fact that his removal by the bishop had caused extreme regret and that though he labored in another field, he would always be held in high esteem by his Plainfield parish. He then extended to him the check, the united contribution of the church membership.

Father Egan was nonplussed for a few seconds but soon responded and heartily thanked every one for their kind expressions. The removal from St. Mary's, he said, was not of his own volition and had affected him deeply. He spoke of the cordial relations that had always existed between him and the members of the parish and expressed the wish that they should continue without end. Another solo was given by Miss Daly as he concluded and in closing the parishoners arose and sang "Auld Lang Syne."

Beside Father Delehanty and Dr. Boone, those who occupied seats on the stage were J. W. Graham, treasurer of the gift committee; Peter Flynn, church trustee; Father Westman, of Cranford; Father Frederici, of Bloomfield, and Fathers O'Keefe and Conway, of the Paulist Fathers.

J., in 1665, and in New York in 1679, because he had offended Governor Carteret in the following manner: Meeting him on a bridge over a creek, words passed between them that ended by Shotwell pitching the Governor into the water. In punishment for this the Governor confiscated his property and it was sold at auction and Carteret bought it. After his death Shotwell's estate was restored to his son John (2) Shotwell above said. This John Shotwell was on Staten Island and later in Woodbridge, N. J., where he died in 1719. His children lived at Shotwell's Landing, now Rahway, N. J. In the will of John (2) Shotwell he left five pounds to the Monthly Meeting at Woodbridge, N. J.

DEMAND ON CASTRO

Minister at Caracas Presents an Ultimatum.

WILL INSIST ON ARBITRATION.

United States Will Take Means to Gain Its Desires if South American Republic Refuses to Be Reasonable.

WASHINGTON, March 22. — The United States government has shown its policy toward Venezuela in the instructions lately sent to Minister Bowen at Caracas and which have just become known here. They plainly inform President Castro that this government insists upon an arbitration of the asphalt and other controversies. Mr. Bowen has served this notice on Castro. Minister Bowen's instructions say that he shall inform Castro of this government's demand for arbitration and also that if the South American executive refuses to consider arbitration, as he has done thus far, Minister Bowen shall inform him that the United States government will take its own course in gaining its desires in Venezuelan matters. What this course will be has not been decided, or, at least, not made public, but it will undoubtedly be necessary to make a display of force if Castro cannot be made to come to terms otherwise.

The United States government has always asked for an arbitration of the asphalt question. President Castro at first entered into negotiations to this end with Minister Bowen. A month or so ago, however, he broke off with all of the foreign ministers in Caracas by leaving the capital for nearly three weeks. During that time the asphalt question, with all others, was at a standstill. The patience of this government was severely taxed at the time, and the sending of instructions to Minister Bowen to serve on Castro what practically amounts to an ultimatum is the result of Castro's attitude.

In the opinion of many government officers the only thing that can be done to make Castro come to terms is to send warships to Venezuela. In case this plan is adopted it will take but a few hours to get all the ships necessary to Venezuelan ports. Most of the north Atlantic fleet is at Guantanamo, and a number of vessels could be sent from there to La Guayra within thirty-six hours.

Minister Bowen has cabled the state department that President Castro has held imprisoned at Caracas for seven months five Dutch sailors. It is presumed that it is considered a serious matter in Caracas and likely to involve Castro in trouble with Holland.

KUROPATKIN'S TEARS

Czar's Former Chief Will Fight Under Linevitch.

SOLDIERS GAVE HIM AN OVATION.

Civilians Flee From Harbin—Rennenkampf Reported Surrounded at Tie Pass—Revolt In Caucasus Increasing.

LONDON, March 22.—St. Petersburg dispatches this morning say that the Russian army in Manchuria is still to have the services of General Kuropatkin, who is considered by many, in spite of his series of reverses, the best general and foremost strategist of the Russian army. Sinking all feeling of personal bitterness because of his supersession and all the old time enmity between himself and General Linevitch in a patriotic desire to be of service to the fatherland, the former commander in chief volunteered to remain in any capacity with the army which he had so long commanded. The tender has been accepted by Emperor Nicholas and gratefully received by the new leader of the grand army.

General Kuropatkin has been appointed commander of the First Manchurian army. The appointment is gazetted in the Official Messenger.

The change exactly reverses the old order of affairs, when Kuropatkin was the supreme leader and Linevitch directed the First army.

Authoritative news of this remarkable step was known in Manchuria much earlier than in St. Petersburg, General Kuropatkin having paused on his homeward journey at Harbin and started southward amidst a most remarkable farewell from residents of Harbin and soldiers who are on their way to strengthen the shattered army of the czar.

At the departure of General Kuropatkin thousands of civilians and soldiers gathered at the station and gave him a great ovation. Above thundering hurrahs were heard cries of "God send you happiness!" "Goodby, brother!" "Goodby, father!" As the train started soldiers rushed forward in a surging crowd and grasped the hand rail of the general's car, throwing their fur caps in the air and running some distance with the car. The scene made a deep impression on General Kuropatkin, down whose face tears streamed. Removing his cap, he saluted again and again and stood bareheaded on the platform of the car as long as the train was in sight.

Residents of Harbin are uneasy and many of them are departing.

Recurrences and extensions of agrarian troubles are taking place, and near Libau the workmen and peasants are making common cause. The Caucasus is already the scene of armed resistance to the forces of civil authority, and in the region around Kiev, where the peasants are increasingly bold, there have been many cases of violence. The labor leaders of the social revolutionistic persuasion in the great industrial centers are plainly planning to synchronize a general renewal of the strike with the climax of the peasant disorders and, with the action of the troops in mind, have been serving notice by anonymous letters and other warnings on guard officers and officials in others cities that if another "Red Sunday" comes and they order the troops to fire they will be held responsible therefor and their lives be made the forfeit.

A dispatch from Harbin says that from the heavy firing at Tieling it is supposed that General Rennenkampf's division has arrived at Tieling only to find it occupied by the Japanese. Consequently it is feared that Rennenkampf's army corps has been surrounded and made prisoners.

Several correspondents at the front have mentioned the orderly retreat of General Linevitch's army and asserted that it effected a concentration at Tie pass, with scarcely a straggler missing, but made no mention of Rennenkampf. M. Toluzakoff, who was with Rennenkampf's command during the battle, has arrived at general headquarters slightly wounded.

A St. Petersburg dispatch says that the situation of the Russian army in Manchuria is deplorable. In the rear of the retreating force follows a horde of 10,000 stragglers half mad with starvation and fatigue, who rob all alike in their eagerness for food.

Bad Mixup at New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, March 22.—As the result of a bad mixup just after the start in the last race at the new Louisiana Jockey club grounds Jockey Aubuchon is in the hospital with a broken collarbone. Avoid was the only winning favorite.

With Letola out of the way Mistys Pride took the lead and won with ease.

March, a contractor and Republican leader, $151,000 in railroad bonds, $10,000 in cash and $10,000 worth of jewels. While Mr. March was reading in his office a man who had entered by a back door tiptoed to the safe, which was open, and was proceeding to help himself to the valuables when noticed by the contractor. A short chase and sharp tussel and Mr. March had overpowered the man and handed him over to the police.

BROCKTON DISASTER.

Work of Rescue Ceased—Fifty-five Dead and Forty-eight Missing.

BROCKTON, Mass., March 22.—Satisfied that there was no chance of recovering additional bodies from the ruins of the R. B. Grover company's shoe factory, search was abandoned at 11 o'clock last night and the small army of volunteers ceased work after thirty-seven hours of constant toil.

Although the police and Medical Examiner Paine feel sure that they have removed from the debris all remains which were not reduced to ashes, a second search will be instituted in a day or two to satisfy relatives and friends of the victims.

The little band of people who have besieged the morgue since the first body was taken from the ruins have reluctantly turned their steps homeward, satisfied that all that remained of missing ones occupied pine boxes inscribed "Unknown." At midnight for the first time Dr. Paine and his assistants remained alone with the unidentified dead.

The revised list as given out by the police is as follows: Bodies recovered, 55; identified, 14; missing, 45; reported as escaped, 283.

It now seems probable that but fourteen bodies will go to their graves with their identity positively established.

For the first time since the fatal explosion razed the plant of R. B. Grover & Co. the city seems to fully realize the enormity of the calamity. This has been brought about by the positive identification by bits of clothing or otherwise of several bodies and the failure to return home of those who had they survived must have before now sought their friends.

At the ruins of the factory a hundred men drenched to the skin toiled unceasingly amid the half burned timbers for fragments of flesh and bone, which, when found, were hurried to the morgue to be scanned by those waiting there.

That the fifty-five dead represent the total number of victims no one familiar with the disaster believes. It is extremely doubtful, however, that more than fragmentary pieces of other bodies will ever be found. Medical Examiner Paine said tonight that he believed other bodies had been reduced to ashes and that the number of victims might never be positively known. He did not believe that further identifications of the charred remains at the morgue were probable. Every body which had on it any trinket or piece of clothing has been more or less positively identified. Remains which have been placed in boxes and marked "unknown" are in such a state that there is no possibility of their being recognized.

WORST FLOOD IN YEARS.

Allegheny River Continues to Rise, Damaging Pittsburg Suburbs.

PITTSBURG, March 22.—Pittsburg is threatened with one of the worst floods in years. During the early hours the water began to recede from the rise in the Allegheny, but a fresh impetus was given to the rushing torrents by a rainfall of nearly two inches over the entire watershed of the Monongahela river. Last night about fifty miles above Pittsburg the Monongahela was rising eight inches an hour, and at the harbor here the gauges showed a rise of nearly three inches per hour.

Should the river continue to rise street car traffic between this city and surrounding towns will be almost suspended, while the railroads up the Monongahela valley will have to suspend traffic. Already a number of mills have shut down as a result of the water putting out the fires. From three to five feet more of water is expected up the valley, and a total of 20,000 men are likely to be idle.

Hundreds of houses in Allegheny, on the south side and in McKeesport and other suburbs are surrounded by from two to eight feet of water, the occupants living in the second stories. In some places the water has entered the upper rooms, and homes are being abandoned for the time being.

The Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke company and independent river coal interests had large forces of men at work last night stretching extra lines to floats of coal boats in the Monongahela. No shipment will be made for at least two days. Scores of business houses have their basements flooded, and the loss will be heavy. The crest of the flood is expected today. It is threatening rain again.

A CANAL SHAKEUP.

Secretary Taft Reports on Panama Zone Affairs.

PRESIDENT TO CHANGE PERSONNEL

Horace G. Burt Reported as Likely to Be New Chairman of Commission—Magoon to Succeed Davis as Governor.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—Secretary of War Taft, addressing the president in a letter, recommands a complete rearrangement of the duties of the isthmian canal commission and a change in the personnel of the commission.

Secretary Taft has informed the president of his intention to submit later a definite plan of organization of the commission. Secretary Taft said:

"I herewith transmit the answer of the commission to the charges contained in the report of Dr. C. A. L. Reed to me as to the sanitary provisions made by the isthmian canal commission on the isthmus.

"I think that a reading of the two documents will show what indeed was apparent on the face of Dr. Reed's statement—that his charges against the commission were biased and controversial and not written in the judicial spirit that inspires confidence in their justice and accuracy.

"Dr. Reed visited the isthmus at my request to act as an assessor of land upon a commission provided by the treaty between Panama and the United States, but as he was the head of the American Medical association it seemed to me an opportunity on his return to secure information from one skilled in his profession as to the existing conditions upon the isthmus. In response to my queries he was so emphatic and so detailed in his charges that I asked him to make his statement in writing, which he did upon the same day by the use of a stenographer. It is probable that had he taken more time he would have been more measured in his criticisms, less extreme in his statements and less flippant in his references to the action of the commission. The report of Dr. Reed was published without my knowledge or consent.

"The reply of the commission seems to show that a large part of the plans and the action of the commission which Dr. Reed criticises was fully concurred in and agreed to by Colonel Gorgas and the other medical officers in the employ of the commission.

"There must be some restraint for purposes of economy upon expenditures by an executive who has in mind the total expenditures and obligations being incurred.

"With your permission I will submit in a day or two a plan for the better carrying on of the work of the commission which may be embodied in a new series of instructions."

The president in reply said:

"I have received your report of March 17, together with the report of Dr. Reed and the answer thereto made by the commission. It appears from this that Dr. Reed's report (which, of course, should under no circumstances have been given to the public until you chose so to give it and until the answer thereto had been made by the commission) was without your knowledge printed in the Medical Journal.

"It further appears that the statements which he thus published were in many instances unwarranted by the facts and has accusations in many instances unsupported by proof.

"Dr. Reed has not displayed in this report the qualities of temperament or the power of accurate judicial observation needed to make a report valuable to the government. It is true that he was not charged with the duty of making such a report and that he was appointed to be a commissioner to assess value of real estate. Nevertheless when he assumed to make a report on sanitary conditions at your request as secretary of war he was under obligation to speak with care and justice on so important a subject and to observe the proprieties as to its publication.

"Judging from your report, it appears that the chief difficulties that have arisen have come from the inherent faultiness of the law under which the commission was appointed. It further appears, however, that in view of our experience with the workings of the commission a rearrangement of duties and a change of personnel in view of this rearrangement should be made. I am glad that you are shortly to submit to me a plan with these objects in view."

It is said that Horace G. Burt, former president of the Union Pacific railroad, will be made chairman of the Panama Canal commission, but Secretary Taft, under whose department the commission is immediately responsible, declines to make any comment on the report. The general understanding has been that John F. Wallace, the present chief engineer of the canal, would be placed at the head of the commission to succeed Rear Admiral John G. Walker and that Charles E. Magoon, the present legal adviser of the canal commission, would be appointed governor of the canal zone to succeed Major General George W. Davis and minister to Panama to succeed John Barrett, who suggested to the state department that the offices of governor and minister should be merged. Mr. Barrett, in making the suggestion, expressly indicated that he did not want the amalgamated office.

Ever since the discouraging reports about the present commission made it plain to the president that there must be a shakeup he has been looking around for some competent man. Mr. Burt was highly recommended from several quarters.

Mr. Burt is fifty-six years old. He has been engaged in civil engineering and railroad work for thirty-five years.

THE FORUM.

"Boute" in Borough.

Editor, The Daily Press:

Sincere congratulation on the stand taken in your editorial last evening entitled "North Plainfield disgraced." The fact that three bloody prize-fights, for they can be called by no other name, were allowed to go on "without interference" before a supposedly intelligent audience, consisting in part at least of officials and politicians both of the city and borough, is sufficiently surprising. But when we read in your report of the affair that one of the fighters "was knocked insensible * * * sending his head to the floor with a crash that resounded through the hall * * * he was covered with blood from head to foot," we cannot help but wonder what manner of men these were who permitted such things to go on and yet uttered no protest.

As to the strangers who came here to witness these fights, for they were openly advertised in other cities as such, I have nothing whatever to say. There has always been, and perhaps always will be a class of men who take pleasure in any kind of brutality. But when the names of city officials, at least one of whom was elected to high office by the votes of the people at the last election, are freely mentioned on our streets as having been present on the stage while this disgraceful affair was going on, it would seem to be high time that names were mentioned in the public prints.

The people of Plainfield, as of any law-abiding community, have a right to know the officials who care so little for the good name of the city as to countenance any such brutal exhibition by their presence. They cannot hide behind the excuse that they were there as private citizens, and not in an official capacity. They know the law, and knew that it was being violated. It is not remarked that any one protested, but rather that all were willing to have the "fun" go on.

When it comes to the Plainfield "politicians" who are reported to have been present, that is another story. Your professional politician is seldom a man of high ideals or keen sensibilities. Our city is not without certain individuals of this stamp, and it is not so much to be wondered at that some of these men were proud of an opportunity to be present at the beastly "show" on Monday evening in North Plainfield. As a self-respecting citizen I heartily agree with you that "It is certainly up to the authorities of North Plainfield to explain," and I trust, in case they should not do so satisfactorily, you will take the matter "higher up" in the interests of decency and the public welfare.

In the meantime, in view of the undoubted fact that some of the high-minded officials and politicians of this city are suffering a grave injustice by having their names mentioned on the street as being present at this disgraceful fight when they were not there, it would seem only fair to all concerned to mention names.

"The attendance this year to date is considerably larger than last year for the corresponding months. Our schools at the present time show progress in every respect. Our teachers are doing good work, and our scholars show it. Those of who have children in our schools can verify this statement.

"In concluding this report I should like to add a personal word. Eleven years ago I entered the Board of Education and have been three times re-elected. Tonight my fourth term ends, and I have decided not to be a candidate for re-election. My sole reason is that the length of my term of service justifies me in asking for relief from a task, which, as it is every year growing wider and more difficult, has become onerous. Since entering the Board, we have doubled our number of pupils, doubled the teaching force, made the High School, added the kindergarten, added the manual training school, built the Watchung building, and are now completing the fine structure beside where we now are. Such progress makes me content to surrender my trust to other hands. We are carrying on the largest, most important, most influential enterprise in this borough. I hope you will realize it, and that in electing membes to the Board tonight and hereafter, you will be governed by one motive only, to secure men of experience, school knowledge, and financial and moral integrity, such as will continue to keep this school system as the borough's chief joy and pride."

Sagamore Club's Concert.

The first annual concert will be given by the Sagamore Musical club, of this city, assisted by the Van Eps brothers, at the Y. M. C. A. hall on April 18. The club is composed of three violins, three banjos and four mandolins. Chester A. Briggs is the leader and is arranging a good programme of popular music. The Van Eps brothers will appear in solos and duets. Miss Cooper, of Westfield, an elocutionist will also be an attraction. At present the club is composed of Chester H. Briggs, leader; Monroe Long, Theodore Gavett, and S. B. Howe, Jr., mandolins; William Gaston, Charles Reff, Herbert Smith, violins: Gurth Williams and Willians and William Briggs, banjos, and Irving Martin, piano.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

About the first of next week the old baseball field on Lincoln avenue will be put in repair, that is the work of marking out and levelling the diamond will begin. The managers have decided to leave the grandstand as it is, and not to construct another one on the side toward first base, as was originally suggested. The stand is in good condition and is already the property of the team, so that in this respect a considerable expense will be saved. As for the other expenses of getting the season under way, a few advance subscriptions will cover all. Manager Dunphy has already been soliciting money for the support of the baseball team, and a good sum has been promised.

Having installed new machinery at their new quarry, Garretson & Gray have announced that the works will be opened about April 1. The necessary machinery from the old quarry has been carted up the mountain to the location of the stone works, and it is expected a large business will be carried on during the spring and summer. An extra force of men will be employed, and the works will be enlarged generally.

Rev. W. W. Casselberry, of the Presbyterian church, is expected to return today. He will take charge of the funeral of Mrs. Sutphen, who died Monday. Rev. Mr. Casselberry is at present away on a two weeks' vacation. It is expected that he will have charge of this evening's prayer meeting.

Rev. William E. Davis, who on account of ill health was kept from filling the pulpit of the Presbyterian church Sunday, in the absence of the regular pastor, Rev. W. W. Casselberry, is expected to preach at the morning and evening service next Sunday.

Lester Messroll, of the local school, expects to return to his duties by the first of next week. He has been confined to his home by illness for the last two weeks.

The Afternoon Card Club met yesterday afternoon at the home of Miss Jessie Haynes.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

But little interest was manifested in the school meeting held last night in the assembly room of the school. This was partly due to the weather, but more so to the confidence of the taxpayers in the present Board of Education, which has brought the school up to its present high standing, ranking in its grade, with the best schools in the State. When the taxpayers have had an axe to grind in the past, school meetings were an interesting as well as exciting annual event here, but of late years the recommendations of the Board of Education have met with the approval of the voters and the school shows the result of this harmonious feeling. No special recommendations for the year were made by the Board, the appropriation asked was $4,800. This was raised. Three trustees were elected. The retiring members, who were S. G. VanHoesen, Edward L. Hand and Charles Hadley, were all elected to succeed themselves. District Clerk Thomas J. Nicholl's annual report showed the school to be in excellent condition. During the year, the new school had been erected at Willow Grove, giving the scholars at this end of the district a comfortable and commodious home, filling a long-felt want and one that would be of great benefit to the scholars in that neighborhood. Being more centrally located than the old building, it enabled the scholars to all attend the one school instead of some going to the Mt. Pleasant, others to the school here and still some to Westfield. The building, together with the handsome Colonial structure here, gives the township school accommodations that are second to none; something the residents point with pride to.

The storm of last night interferred somewhat with the success of the social held by the members of the Baptist Sunday-school in the parlors of the church. Those who did brave the elements had the pleasure of enjoying a fine musical programme as well as a social hour with the teachers and scholars. During the evening refreshments were served. The social was given under the auspices of Benjamin Allen's class.

John Wade, who has been detained at home for several days, suffering from a severe cold, is able to be around again.

George Ogden, the contractor, has completed the work on the new house of John Ross on South avenue.

The contract case of Sheelen-Goodwin will be heard in Justice Clark's court tomorrow.

Mrs. Arthur Kyte and family will remove April 1st to their new house in Westfield.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The funeral service of George Ryde was held this afternoon at his late residence at 2:30 o'clock, conducted by Rev. J. A. Unberley. The pall bearers were four of the brother-in-laws of the deceased, viz.: Melvin Fritts, George W. Blair, William Lant, George L. Harris.

Quite a number of voters from here attended the school meeting at New Market yesterday. Others were prevented by the storm.

Adelbert B. Tappen is still confined at his home by blood poisoning caused by a slight injury to his hand.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, who has been spending several days at Lakewood, is expected to occupy his pulpit next Sunday.

The statistical report issued in connection with the twenty-fourth annual report of the Union County Sunday-school Association, shows that there are twenty-four schools in this city represented, with 295 officers and teachers, 2,322 pupils, 2,617 officers, teachers and pupils and an average attendance of 1,417.

The oldest Christian church in the world is at Rome. Not far from the great church of St. Maria Maggiore, in a street bearing the same name, is the much smaller church of St. Puentiana, which tradition as well as the opinion of archaeological experts declares to be the most ancient of the Christian edifices of Rome.

The bronze statue of the late Rev. Dr. E. H. Stokes, first president of the Ocean Grove Camp Meeting Association, which the association has ordered placed there in honor of the beloved leader's memory, is nearing completion. It is now at the works in Connecticut, in preparation for casting. It is expected that the work will be unveiled early next season.

Arthur Smith, of Grandview avenue, is spending some time at Indiana, Pa.

THE NEWSBOY BABIES

SMALL LADS THAT BUY AND SELL AT A TENDER AGE.

PLACE IS HOME WITH A NURSE

Those of Chicago Mostly Italians and Jews—Work Long and Hard—Keen After Business—Do Not Lack Courtesy.

CHICAGO.—Such little midgets some of them are, the burden of damp papers bigger than the bearer. But such plucky, ambitious babies. They seem keenly to enjoy their place in the work-a-day world, there seems none of the "creeping like snail unwillingly" of the schoolboy; each little competitor in "Noos Alley" evinces personal interest in the strife of commerce.

There is one baby I am sure is not more than five, and many a six-year-old is numbered among the vendors that have not yet reached the dignity of a corner, the stand appearing to be on a high plane in this business. The small fry rightly begin at the bottom, serve an apprenticeship of wandering peddler and jumper on cars. By and by, when the boy sells 100 papers a day, his newspaper gives him a stand; and he is established, begins to dress like an aristocrat.

The babies dress in rags and sweaters, the sweater the backbone of the costume, the rags hanging on for decency's sake. Another distinguishing feature of the baby newsboy is a wool cap pulled down so only a fringe of hair shows at the back, the front almost covering the forehead. The youngsters, Italians or Jews, look out under the overhanging caps with eyes big and dark, and often very beautiful, childish, pathetic eyes, rather than the sharp ferret sort one would naturally expect in humanity so early sent out to struggle for existence.

In every case it is the babyishness that strikes the passer-by, the pale faces have such rounded contour, the small voices can scarce pronounce the words they try for so bravely. The puny legs, the elfin hands, betray the fledgeling, in spite of fledgeling's assertion that he is truly aged. One wishes one could sweep the whole bunch of them off the stony streets, send them all away where there is green grass and fresh air and rich milk and dogs to play with.

All in the Day's Work.

THE smaller ones do not get up so early as the larger fellows, whoever it is that send such wee creatures out allows them a morning nap. They don't try to sell the morning papers that are distributed at two and three and four o'clock; it is the late-appearing "Murikin" and issues put forth at intervals during the day that the babies handle. About seven they make their appearance on the street, and from that hour on till six they buy and sell. Every one I talked with was hoarse as a crow, from "hollerin' too much," this hoarseness and the foreign accent making it difficult for one to understand them.

That was in ordinary conversation. Their cries were audible enough, and distinct enough: "Twelve 'clock papy yeah. Twelve 'clock." "One 'clock. One 'clock." "Three 'clock Noos. Three 'clock." "Sportin' extry." "Evening papy yere."

About ten o'clock "Noos Alley" is filled with boys lounging in all sorts of attitudes against the brick walls; resting from the early onslaughts and waiting for fresh ammunition. They are not particularly talkative; perhaps, like prima donnas, saving their voices, and look as leisurely and unconcerned as though they had nothing to do, no bread to earn. But notice the miraculous change when the papers are at last handed out; what a scramble and hustle for first place, what a mad run to market the wares.

In the afternoon competition is fiercer in "Noos Alley," for what reason I am unable to say; then, indeed, one must have push and sturdiness to get hold of the coveted wares. No fighter cares to be late on the field. When we think of the coddling and protection the child in fair circumstances is surrounded with, what a contrast to the small, ill-fed waif that jostles and is jostled in the alley.

"Sangwiches and Pie."

I BOUGHT up one small boy's wares at a quarter, and got his reluctant consent to accompany me to my office and talk. He was Italian, spoke English with no great fluency, and for some moments regarded me with diffidence, not to say suspicion. But pretty soon he gave me a bit of glimpse into the life of his fellows, whom, truly, he referred to as guys—the first time I had heard this word in its native heath.

I asked him where he got his lunch, and he replied: "I pay 'bout a nickel. Get in Noos alley."

"What do you have?" I inquisitively asked.

"Two sangwiches and two pieces of pie, and a napple."

"Goodness," say I, "all that for five cents? Where do you get it?"

"In Noos alley. All they don't sells of the dime boxes they sells to the newsooys for five cents."

"What do you drink?" I asked.

"Water."

"Where do you get it?"

"Murikin."

"What do you eat at night? Do you get supper at home or down town?"

"I spend five cents. Two sangwiches and two pieces of pie and a napple."

I wondered what he had for breakfast. I wondered what Tony would be like after ten years more of such a rigorous diet of pie. At present he was chalk-faced, his big head rested on a neck too small for it. his wrists were thin, his ankles matched them.

Late Hours.

...t night went to the theater to see Mrs. Patrick Campbell in barbarously splendid gowns in a barbarously splendid setting. On my way, just this side the theater, my attention was attracted by two small urchins, two of the newspaper babies that ever appeal to me, no matter how hurried I am. They were so wee, and so hungry; they sat on the steps of a brilliantly lighted restaurant and with appetite ate baker's cookies, those wan, substanceless things that are not even "filling." But they seemed satisfied with the world, and appeared to be enjoying themselves quite as much as though they were a couple of men dining at a social club.

It wasn't even a dinner of herbs, but there seemed not a little fellowship there, social exchange and courtesy of a kind.

When we got out there were the kiddies again, no longer inactive; all alert now the theater crowd was filing out and a few chance persons willing to pay a coin to see what had been happening in the couple of unrecorded hours. "Aixtry! Aixtry!" they yelled. And one of the mature age of 14 or so informed us "The czar yields!" But we had heard that sort of thing so often before we had grown hardened to all sensational reports, and scarce would have heeded an announcement that Chicago was burning.

Still, the buying of the papers might mean that the tired, sleepy sellers could get to bed all the sooner. I am sorry I didn't buy.

The newsboy that granted me the interview told me his sister sells papers, that many girls do. "They can't jump cars; they sell round saloons. Sometimes they get pinched, if they stay out too late. Stay till show's out. One time whole bunch went to station. They sell many papers. Sometimes mens give money."

Manners and Customs.

WHILST I was pondering over the information gathered from the newsboy I quite forgot the passage of time, and was quite startled to hear the words: "Give my quarter; must go 10 'clock." I came out of my absent-mindedness and said I would go a ways with him, would like him to point out "Noos" alley to me. My companion made no reply, but watched me closely as we traveled down in the elevator. When we reached the street he turned his head aside and drew his hand across his eyes. I investigated, and saw tears welling up in the black eyes, tears the lad endeavored to hide. What was wrong? Did he think he had lost the quarter? Did he fear he was going to be late at the alley? Quickly I handed him the quarter and bade him hurry on, assuring him I could find the place myself. He started ahead rapidly as soon as permission was granted, but second thought must have convinced him he was owing me guidance, for presently he slowed up and for blocks kept just a little ahead, turning constantly to see that I was not going astray. When we reached the alley, he jerked his elbow in its direction and called a hoarse: "Here." He evidently did not try to get something for nothing.

It seems to me, according to their light they are both honest and mannerly. Many a time have I seen a very busy newsboy patiently stop to give a street direction to a bewildered stranger, taking the chances of losing a sale.

The urchin with whom I held the long conversation told me "some guys got a home, but don't want to go there; stay out, sleep 'round the 'Murikin.'" I wondered if this was excess of business zeal, desire to be early on the spot, or if the welcome at home was of such a character one would prefer the uncertain shelter of the street.

A pleasanter piece of knowledge learned was concerning the Christmas harvest. My small friend remarked that Christmas day he made three dollars. "One mans give one dollar, one mans a quarter, in one day, three dollars." The newsboy babies must wish it were Christmas every day in the year.

KATE THAYER.

Force of Habit.

"Give me a two-cent stamp, please," said the young lady to the drug clerk.

"We are just out," replied the druggist absently, "but here is something just as good."

And he handed her a couple of cigars.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

BOY WONDER VIOLINIST.

Eleven-Year-Old Lad Whom Daniel Frohman Pays $1,500 Each Time He Plays.

New York.—Franz von Vecsey, the little Hungarian violinist whose performances have been the talk of musical circles of Europe, and who is to give a series of 30 concerts in this country under the management of Daniel Frohman, arrived a few days ago on the Lucania of the Cunard line, accompanied by his father and mother and by Herr Zilcher, a Berlin pianist, who is his accompanist.

Wrapped in a gray fur lined ulster and wearing a small fur cap young Von Vecsey looked as bright and wide-awake as any ordinary 11-year old boy who doesn't know one note from another and thinks more of skating at this time of year than anything else, says the Herald. In fact, his chief concern seemed to be for a small camera which he carried with him. He is of good height and frame. He has large black eyes and a pronounced frontal development. The forehead is high and broad. In complexion the boy is dark. He is said to be of Magyar descent.

FRANZ VON VECSEY.
(A Boy Wonder Violinist from Hungary.)

Franz was very hungry when the liner arrived, and when soon after he landed he started with his parents to leave the dock to get something to eat, a customs official "spotted" the camera and insisted on taking charge of it until an inspector had seen it.

"No, no!" cried the boy. "You must not take this. See, it is an American camera," and he showed the manufacturer's stamp to the customs man, who thereupon let him pass.

The youngster speaks English very well.

"I want to see Chicago and San Francisco," he said to Daniel Frohman, his American manager. "When are we going to those places? I have heard so much about them. I saw the Statue of Liberty and I know I got a good picture of it. No, I was not ill at all crossing. Mamma was, though, all the time."

The boy was delighted to learn that Wassily Safonoff, who conducted when he played in Moscow, was here. Franz has played at Buckingham palace before King Edward, as well as before the kaiser and the czar and czarina of Russia.

When he played a month ago at Berlin Joachim led the orchestra for him. His first recital was given in Carnegie hall the other evening. The 30 concerts for which Mr. Frohman has engaged the boy embrace Philadelphia, Baltimore, Brooklyn and Washington.

minister of finance, receiving much praise for his work in converting government rentes from a 3½ to the present 3 per cent. basis. The celebrated Mme. Rouvier shortly after the death of the famous Abbe Constant, whose marriage to her had caused his expulsion from the church.

Foreign Labels for Sale.

Many have looked with awe upon suit cases and steamer trunks covered with labels of every size and color, and thought enviously of the advantages the traveled owners of such baggage had over the poor stay-at-homes. The baggage proclaimed that its owners had been from Sydney to San Francisco, from Copenhagen to Colombo, to say nothing of visiting half the capitals and health resorts of the continent. But the iconoclast has found shops where such baggage is sold, all shattered and battered and labeled with a score of foreign towns, although it may never have traveled two miles from the Grand Central station

WASHINGTON SOCIETY.

Gay and Brilliant Seasons at the National Capital.

Almost every American girl looks longingly forward to spending a winter in Washington. Her imagination paints its balls, its dinners, receptions and afternoon teas as scenes of enchantment in which she hopes sooner or later to appear.

The American girl's imagination does not lead her wrong. In no capital of Europe is the best social circle so democratic, therefore so attractive, as that of Washington.

Mrs. Roosevelt and her aids as well as certain ladies of the diplomatic corps are interested in giving a dignified, somewhat conventional tone to Washington society. On the other hand, however, there is a dashing young set that wishes society to be gay and jolly, dignity or no dignity. Thus far probably the lively young set has the best of it, especially as one of its leaders is Alice, Mrs. Roosevelt's own stepdaughter.

Miss Alice Roosevelt.

More like the president than any of his sons appear to be is Alice, his eldest daughter, now twenty years of age. She is the first young lady since the beloved Nellie Grant to make her debut in the White House. Alice Roosevelt has her father's facile way of skipping from place to place. If he can attend two dinners and make three speeches in one evening, in like manner can Miss Alice go to three parties in one evening and then take a train for New York or California or the end of the earth.

She has a will as strong as her father's and is original in thought and action. A sufficient income, which she inherited in her own right, enables her to do in a great measure as she pleases. Being so like her father in will and courage, she naturally is little afraid of his "big stick."

On both sides of the Atlantic matchmakers have been busying themselves for two or three years to find a husband for Miss Roosevelt. Last summer during her visit to the St. Louis exposition Hon. Nicholas Longworth, the gallant bachelor member of congress from Cincinnati, made things specially pleasant for her by his courteous attentions, and at once there was forecast a wedding—which did not come off. Paris gossips have amused themselves by selecting for her any one of a dozen royal princes. But probably the president's spirited daughter will settle the matter for herself.

Mrs. Charles Warren Fairbanks.

A more important personage than ever in Washington society is Mrs. Fairbanks, wife of the vice president. She is more highly and solidly educated than almost any other woman in the capital's social circle. She is a college graduate and also studied law with her husband, in due time receiving a diploma as bachelor of laws. She has had a course in international and parliamentary law, the latter fitting her especially to fill the post of president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, to which she was elected. When her children, four sons and a daughter, were little, she studied medicine that she might know better how to take care of them.

Vice President and Mrs. Fairbanks will continue to live in the house they occupied when Mr. Fairbanks was senator from Indiana. It is adapted to large entertainments, and that commends it to Mrs. Fairbanks, one of the most hospitable hostesses of Washington. In the selection of her guests she is entirely independent, governed by no official precedent.

Young Members of Society.

Seldom has the national capital's social set contained so many beautiful and accomplished girls as have graced it the past two seasons. Two of the latest comers are Miss Pauline Morton, daughter of the secretary of the navy, and Miss Katherine Elkins, daughter of Senator Elkins of West Virginia. Both these young ladies have mothers who, if possible, are even handsomer than their daughters. Miss Elkins is devoted to outdoor life and to horses, having three hunters of her own that nobody but herself ever rides. Many of the Washington society girls are of the athletic type.

Among scores of charming young American ladies in the capital set may be named the Misses McKenna, daughters of Justice McKenna; Miss Converse, Miss Mathilde Townsend and Miss Warren.

KATE BONNET

THE ROMANCE OF A PIRATE'S DAUGHTER

By FRANK R. STOCKTON

Copyright, 1902, by D. Appleton & Co., New York.

CHAPTER VIII.

BEN GREENWAY IS CONVINCED THAT BONNET IS A PIRATE.

"BUT how in the name o' common sense did ye ever think o' becomin' a pirate, Master Bonnet?" said Ben Greenway as they stood together. "Ye're so little fitted for a wicked life."

"Out upon you, Ben Greenway!" exclaimed the captain, beginning to stride up and down the little quarter-deck. "I will let you know that when the time comes for it. I can be as wicked as anybody."

"I doubt that," said Ben, sturdily. "Would ye cut down an' murder the innocent? Would ye drive them upon an unsteady plank an' make them walk into the sea? Could ye raise thy great sword upon the widow an' the orphan?"

"No more of this disloyal speech," shouted Bonnet, "or I will put you upon a wavering plank and make you walk into the sea."

Now Greenway laughed.

"An' if ye did," he said, "ye would next jump upon the plank yoursel' an' slide swiftly into the waves, that ye might save your old friend an' servant, knowin' he canna swim."

"Ben Greenway," said Bonnet, folding his arms and knitting his brows, "I will not suffer such speech from you. I would sooner have on board a Presbyterian parson."

"An' a happier fate couldna befall ye," said Ben, "for ye need a parson mair than ony mon I know."

Bonnet looked at him for a moment.

"You think so?" said he.

"Indeed I do," said Ben, with unction.

"There now," cried Bonnet, "I told you, Ben, that I could be wicked upon occasion, and now you have acknowledged it. Upon my word, I can be wickeder than common, as you shall see when good fortune helps us to overhaul a prize."

The Revenge had been at sea for about a week and all had gone well, except she had taken no prizes. The crew had been obedient and fairly orderly, and, if they made fun of their farmer-captain behind his back, they showed no disrespect when his eyes were upon them. The fact was that the most of them had a very great respect for him as the capitalist of the ship's company.

Big Sam had early begun to sound the temper of the men, but they had not cared to listen to him. Good fare they had and generous treatment, and the less they thought of Bonnet as a navigator and commander, the more they thought of his promises of rich spoils to be fairly divided with them when they should capture a Spanish galleon or any well-laden merchantman bound for the marts of Europe. In fact, when such good luck should befall them, they would greatly prefer to find themselves serving under Bonnet than under Big Sam. The latter was known as a greedy scoundrel, who would take much and give little, being inclined, moreover, to cheat his shipmates out of even that little if the chance came to him.

Thus Big Sam found that his time had not arrived, and he swore in his soul that his old shipmate would some day rue that he had not earlier stood by him in his treacherous schemes.

One morning they sighted a brig sailing southward, but as she was of no great size and not going in the right direction to make it probable that she carried a cargo worth their while, they turned westward and ran towards Cuba. Had Capt. Bonnet known that his daughter was on the brig which he thus disdained, his mind would have been far different; but as it was, not knowing anything more than he could see, and not understanding much of that, he kept his westerly course, and on the next day the lookout sighted a good-sized merchantman bearing eastward.

Now bounded every heart upon the swiftly coursing vessel of the planter-pirate. There were men there who had shared in the taking of many a prize; who had shared in the blood and the cruelty and the booty; and their brawny forms trembled with the old excitement of the sea-chase; but no man's blood ran more swiftly, no man's eyes glared more fiercely, than those of Capt. Bonnet as he strapped on his pistols and felt of his sword-hilt.

"Ah, ye needna glare so!" said Ben Greenway, close at his side. "Ye are no pirate, an' ye canna make yoursel' believe ye are ane, an' that ye shall see when the guns begin to roar an' the sword-blades flash. Better get below an' let ane o' these hairy scoundrels descend into hell in your place."

Capt. Bonnet turned with rage upon Ben Greenway, but the latter, having spoken his mind and given his advice, had retired.

"Fire some guns at her," he shouted to Big Sam, "and run up the Jolly Roger; let the rascals see what we are."

The rascals saw. Down came their flag, and presently their vessel was steered into the wind and lay to.

"Shall we board her?" cried Big Sam.

"Ay, board her!" shouted back the infuriated Bonnet. "Run the Revenge alongside, get out your grappling-irons, and let every man with sword and pistols bound upon her deck."

At the very head of the long line of ruffians upon the deck of the Revenge stood Ben Greenway; and, although he held no sword and wore no pistol, his eyes flashed as brightly as any glimmering blade in the whole ship's company.

The two vessels were now drawing very near to each other. Men with grappling-irons stood ready to throw them, and the bow of the well-steered pirate had almost touched the side of the merchantman, when, with a bound of which no one would have considered him capable, the good Ben Greenway jumped upon the rail and sprang down upon the deck of the other vessel. This was a hazardous feat, and if the Scotchman had known more about nautical matters he would not have essayed it before the two vessels had been fastened together. Ignorance made him fearless, and he alighted in safety on the deck of the merchantman at the very instant when the two vessels, having touched, separated themselves from each other for the space of a yard or two.

There was a general shout from the deck of the pirate at this performance of Ben Greenway. Nobody could understand it. Capt. Bonnet stood and yelled:

"What are you about, Ben Greenway? Have you gone mad? Without sword or pistol, you'll be—"

The astonished Bonnet did not finish his sentence, for his power of speech left him when he saw Ben Greenway hurry up to the captain of the merchantman, who was standing unarmed, with his crew about him, and warmly shake that dumfounded skipper by the hand. In their surprise at what they beheld the pirates had not thrown their grapnels at the proper moment, and now the two vessels had drifted still farther apart.

Presently Ben Greenway came hurrying to the side of the merchantman, dragging its captain by the hand.

"Master Bonnet! Master Bonnet!" he cried; "this is your old friend, Abner Marchand, o' our town; an' this is his good ship the Amanda. I knew her when I first caught sight o' her figure-head, havin' seen it so often at her pier at Bridgetown. An' so, now that ye know wha it is that ye hae inadvertently captured, ye may ca' off your men an' bid them sheathe their frightful cutlasses."

At this, a roar arose from the pirates, who, having thrown some of their grappling-irons over the gunwale of the merchantman, were now pulling hard upon them to bring the two vessels together, and Capt. Bonnet shouted back at Ben: "What are you talking about, you driveling idiot; haven't you told Mr. Marchand that I am a pirate?"

"Indeed I hae no'," cried Ben, "for I don't believe ye are ane; at least, no' to your friends an' neebours."

To this Bonnet made a violent reply, but it was not heard. The two vessels had now touched and the crowd of yelling pirates had leaped upon the deck of the Amanda. Bonnet was not far behind his men, and, sword in hand, he rushed towards the spot where stood the merchant captain with his crew hustling together behind him. As there was no resistance, there was so far no fighting, and the pirates were tumbling over each other in their haste to get below and find out what sort of a cargo was carried by this easy prize.

Capt. Marchand held out his hand. "Good-day to you, friend Bonnet," he said. "I had hoped that you would be one of the first friends I should meet when I reached port at Bridgetown, but I little thought to meet you before I got there."

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors
BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.
BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.
LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW
BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.
BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.
LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

A SUICIDE AT SEA.

Missing Philadelphian Jumps Overboard From Ocean Liner.

NEW YORK, March 22.—After reading Tolstoi's "Resurrection," in which he was greatly absorbed for most of the voyage, Andrew M. Griscom of Philadelphia, who mysteriously disappeared from his home in Bryn Mawr on Feb. 9, suddenly leaped from the deck of the steamship Minnetonka of the Atlantic Transport line, in mid-ocean, about 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon and disappeared. His body was not recovered.

When the Minnetonka arrived in this port from London, William M. Griscom of Philadelphia, the young man's father, and two sisters were waiting at the pier. They had come to meet the youth, and when the sad news of his suicide was broken to them the young women became hysterical. Their father was stunned by the news of his son's death.

The suicide of the young man caused the greatest excitement on board. The day had been ideal and thirty-three passengers were promenading the decks enjoying the balmy air. They had just entered the gulf stream, where the water was about 56 degrees in temperature. Griscom was seen near the bow of the boat reading and none paid particular attention to him. Suddenly he jumped from the vessel, and although a boat was lowered and search made for some time he did not reappear.

He had been noncommunicative most of the voyage and seemed greatly fascinated with his book. It was remarked by those who had engaged the young man in conversation that the book was Tolstoi's "Resurrection," in the reading of which he almost constantly applied himself after the vessel left London.

DAMAGE BY ICE GORGES.

Susquehanna Is Held Up by Ice at Great Bend, Pa.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., March 22.—The rivers are comparatively low at this place, although reports of ice gorges and floods come from all directions in this vicinity.

At Port Crane the Chenango is full of gorged ice, and the water is running over the lowlands, the highest it has been since 1865. At Upper Lisle a gorge in the Otselic threatens the new bridge, and last night men were stationed there with dynamite ready to try to blow up the jam if necessary.

The Susquehanna is gorged ten miles east of this city, throwing the water back over the low parts of Great Bend and Hallstead, Pa.

Another gorge at Owego threatened trouble, but went out before much damage was done.

The gorge in the Susquehanna at Vestal, which threatened to wipe out the hamlet of Hooper, six miles west of here, went out before daylight before serious damage had been done.

Third Brother to Commit Suicide.

CINCINNATI, O., March 22.—Stanley Heaton of Latonia, Ky., two of whose brothers committed suicide during the past few years, has killed himself by shooting. His body has been found on an abandoned road in the rear of the Covington branch hospital.

SPORTING NEWS.

DIAMOND DUST.

Saturday was the first real warm day of the season and it made the fans anxious for a game of baseball.

"Jack" Dunn, the popular member of the New York Giants, last year, will manage the Providence, Eastern League team, this season.

Ramsey, formerly pitcher for the High Bridge team, has signed to occupy the box for Summit, in the Lackawanna League, this season.

Mal Eason, the former crack twirler of the Jersey City Club, has signed a contract with the Brooklyns and will join that team for practice at once.

A baseball team to represent Cranford is being organized. A subscription list will be circulated and if the necessary funds cannot be raised the team will play all games out of town.

The fans are assured that "Dick" Watt will not umpire at Westfield this year. This is refreshing, and it is to be hoped that a good man will be secured for the position, one above suspicion.

"Christy" Mathewson pitched his first game of the season for the New York Giants at Birmingham, Ala., on Friday, and the reports say that he showed much of his old-time form. George Wiltse also pitched a portion of the game, and he, too, showed up well.

The Westfield Standard denies that either Linderman or "Pete" Oregan have been trying to secure positions on the Westfield team, also that George Johnston has been a member of the Westfield Baseball Association two years.

The Cranford baseball team has organized and is ready to book games with all first-class aggregations, Plainfield, Westfield, Scotch Plains and Somerville preferred. Address Edward McMahon, 8 Union avenue, Cranford, N. J.

The new suits for the Westfield team this season will be of blue grey, with dark blue trimmings, stockings and caps and a Roman W on the shirt pocket. There is a prophetic significance in the selection of the color blue for the uniforms.

The famous Pearsall Athletic Club has been reorganized for the season by Manager Keller and will open with the Ridgewood team. Griffin, formerly of the Alis Club, will do part of the pitching. A game has been scheduled with Trenton Y. M. C. A.

There is a possibility that "Dave" Driscoll may decide to make Plainfield his home. He is a great admirer of the town and being especially interested in baseball matters here he will probably come here and live. He is expected to be the guest of Lines Greo, of Somerset street, on Sunday.

"Mike" Leonard, who will play third base for Plainfield this season, is a fighter as well as baseball player. During the Spanish-American War he was sergeant of the First Regiment, N. J. Vols., infantry. He now holds an excellent position with the Merchants Rubber Company, of New York. The season cannot open too soon for this king of third basemen.

Among those signed by Manager William Murray for this season's Jersey City Eastern League team, are Captain Joe Bean, short-stop; Walter Woods, Jocko Halligan, centre field; Billy Keister, right field; Peter Cassidy, first base; George Pfannmiller, Eugene McCann, Jack Barnett, Harry Theilman and William Foxen, pitchers; Jack Dillon, Vandergrift and Pat. McAuley, catchers. All are reported to be in the best of condition.

"Pete" Oregan received $13 per game playing for the Alis Club last season, and it is understood that he wants a raise to be a member of this year's team. There are too many good players willing to play for less money to meet the demand. Oregan was a strong player, both in the field and at the bat and he was a favorite here, but there are others just as good and in the opinion of excellent judges the management would be justified in declining to meet Oregan's figures.

ROD AND GUN.

The Plainfield Gun Club will hold a meeting tonight at the store of Harry Dreier on West Front street.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

There will be baptism at the First Baptist church on Sunday night.

The Congregational people will spend an hour in Labrador tonight with the two new books, Dr. Luke of the Labrador and Dr. Grenfill's parish.

The annual meeting of the Park Avenue Baptist church for the presentation of reports and election of officers will be held tonight. A similar meeting will be held at the First Baptist church.

The meeting of the Women's Association of the Congregational church which was to have been held yesterday afternoon, was postponed on account of the weather. It will be held on Tuesday of next next week.

After Lent it is expected that Rev. Henry Mottet, rector of the Church of the Holy Communion, New York, and Rev. Otis A. Glazebrook, rector of St. John's church, Elizabeth, will be among the special preachers at St. Stephen's church.

"In and Out of Libby Prison," will be the subject of a lecture unusul interest to be delivered by Col. Still in Vincent chapel Friday night, under the auspices of the Brotherhood. The members of Wanfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., and their wives will attend in a body.

The annual reception to Rev. Herbert F. Randolph, pastor of St. James M. E. church, Elizabeth, will take place in the chapel on Friday evening from 8 until 10 o'clock. The committee of arrangements has prepared an interesting programme of exercises, and a cordial invitation is extended to friends of the pastor to be present. At the close of the musical and literary exercises refreshments will be served.

P. S. C. GETS CONSENTS FOR NEW TROLLEY LINE

ALL READY TO BEGIN WORK ON SOUTH PLAINFIELD ROUTE.

Having secured the necessary consents from property-owners between this city and the Birdsell estate on Park avenue, below the Plainfield Driving Park, the Public Service Corporation is now practically ready to begin the work of extending the Arlington avenue line to South Plainfield, and in fact it hopes to have the line in operation by June 1. Owing to the opposition against operating a trolley through Oak Tree, that route has been abandoned for the present. In constructing the new line, the work will be done by sections and will be started as soon as the weather will permit.

The members of the Plainfield Country Club and the Plainfield Horse Show Association have been using their influence toward having the trolley extended to their respective grounds and every effort will be made to have the line run out as far as the Plainfield Driving Park by May 13, when the Watchung Hunt Club will hold a steeplechase and later on the Plainfield Horse Show Association will hold its second annual exhibition at the park.

Continuing from the present terminus of the Arlington avenue line, the tracks will be run through Woodland avenue to the junction of the Birdsell estate and Judge Steele's property, over private property, through which a roadway will be cut, to a point nearly opposite the Steele property and from there the tracks will be laid in a straight line to South Plainfield.

Col. E. W. Hine, of the Public Service Corporation, accompanied by A. W. Carver, H. C. VanEmburgh, the local engineer and H. C. Runyon, Esq., who has been representing the company in securing consents, have just made an inspection of the proposed route.

HEAD-ON COLLISION BETWEEN TWO TEMPERAMENTS!

Every hour, all over the city—in homes, in factories, in stores, in offices—collisions are occurring between incompatible human temperaments. The housewife is conservative, likes to keep her china and furniture intact; the servant is iconoclastic—a "collision between temperament" occurs, and a "want ad." tells those girls who can read that a servant is wanted at a certain home.

The factory-foreman, always opposed to square pegs in round holes, finds that one of his workmen is a misfit. Again a temperamental collision. And a workman who is a "round peg" finds a want ad. that offers a better job for him than his present one; and the other man advertises for a job where square pegs are needed.

A store-manager finds that a certain clerk has not an ounce of salesmanship in his make-up. Collision again.

A want ad. brings another clerk to the store; and finds a job for the ex-clerk where salesmanship is not a requisite.

In the office the stenographer got to "running the business."

Boss was a "brute," and believed he could manage things himself.

Simply another Collision Between Temperaments. Want ad. found a "boss" for the young lady who rather liked to be managed; and found a stenographer for the old "boss" who didn't "grate on his nerves."

This is the man who caters to the 'inner man'

GEORGE WOOD PUZZLES ALIENISTS

Insists That He Was a Different Person When Grocer Williams Was Slain.

HAS HE TWO BRAINS?

Some Peculiar Facts That Will Have to be Considered by the Somerset County Grand Jury.

As the time approaches for the Somerset County Grand Jury to consider the case of George Wood, now held in the Somerville jail on a charge of murdering George Williams, the Watchung grocer, the remarkable points in the crime are attracting wide attention and experts in many cities are analyzing the facts. The accused man has been examined by several alienists and he has exhibited different stages of asphasia that have left them as much in the dark when they went away as when they came.

Unless Wood is an astoundingly skillful liar, as well as an impossibly accomplished acter, the problem will never reach a satisfying solution, for the key to it lies hidden in the mysterious mechanism of his brain, beyond the reach of any psychological probe the alienist has at his command.

In the face of a case against him such as would convict a saint, the man insists that he knows absolutely nothing of his actions during the space of nearly a week—that the machinery of his brain slipped a cog and left idle the faculty of memory, which, however, resumed its functions at the end of that time, and is now working normally and without a hitch.

To the medical profession this phenomenon is known as aphasia, and is not uncommon. Somewhere in the convolutions of the brain a cell becomes disturbed. The mind continues to work. The actions of the victim appear to others to be normal. His goings out and comings in are ordered much as usual, yet he is guided by impulses and motives entirely foreign to his nature, and, when reason resumes its seat it is discovered that memory has been off duty all the while.

The victims of this unhappy malady are likely at any time to commit crimes such as they would never dream of in their sane hours—crimes with neither sense nor motive beyond the pleasure of doing them.

This, it is held by his friends, was the case of Wood.

Monday, January 30, he left his home in New York, avowing his intention of going to Scarsdale, Pa., in quest of money to carry on his business, that of an ironwork contractor.

Friday he returned to New York city, but instead of going to his own home went to that of a relative, where, to his avowed astonishment, he was arrested for murder.

And he protests that it was not until he found himself locked up in a cell in the Tombs that his memory returned to him—that is, all of his memory save that which should have recalled the events of the past five days.

The State of New Jersey is ready to take care of those five days pretty fully. The Somerset County authorities will summon witnesses to show that Wood came to Plainfield Monday, visited his grandmother and George Whitten, his father-in-law, at Mount Horeb Tuesday, remained about Plainfield Wednesday, and Thursday went to Watchung, where he engaged Williams, a small grocer, to drive him to Mount Horeb.

On the road between Watchung and Mt. Horeb the sleigh he had chartered was found that morning. In it was the limp body of Williams, shot dead. Tracks led away through the snow over the fields, and they were followed to Millington, a station on the D., L. and W.

Detectives busied themselves with the mystery and traced Wood from Plainfield, where he had registered at the Farmers' Hotel under his own name, giving New York as his address. In his room was found a box of cartridges like that with which Williams was killed. In casting about for a motive, the police said it was robbery, but they were wrong as after events proved Williams had only a

STUDYING OUR SCHOOLS

British Educational Commissioner Visits Schools Here.

HE MAKES A SPEECH

W. V. Pearson, a Sheffield Head Master, Escorted About the City by Dr. H. M. Maxson.

W. V. Pearson, of Sheffield, England, head master of one of the largest boys' schools in that country, who is on a visit to the United States as special commissioner of the British Government's Educational Department to study school questions in this country, made an address at the Plainfield High School this morning. He said incidently: "When commissioned to this country, I stated to the educational department that I went not to make a report, but for enlightment. And since my visit, one of the last and best memories of which will be my delightful reception to this school, I have been greatly enlightened."

Mr. Pearson did not dwell at great length upon the differences in methods in this country and England, but illustrated the value of sports. The speaker said that he always pitied one who was content to be a spectator. On the other hand, he admired the player who can find his place in the game and play that position, whether it be on a baseball team or in the world of business, with all his might, doing his part to help the whole team, but not trying to be the whole team. He emphasized the importance of finding the particular position to which one is qualified, and to study that position and work in that position thoroughly. Mr. Pearson said that the American scholastic games are of great value because of the fact that they teach a thorough and hard persistence in the right direction.

Referring only briefly to his work in the English schools, Mr. Pearson said that the great contention of the masters there is to convince parents of the importance of school education. "Higher education in England," Mr. Pearson said, "is not only slighted; it is despised."

Upon his return to England, Mr. Pearson will establish a normal school with model schools in Sheffield. After an inspection of the High School, he visited the grammar and primary grades under the guidance of Dr. Maxson, looking into the written work, drawing and other manual work of the Plainfield school system.

DR. FINK'S LECTURE.

Under Auspices of Missionary Society at Crescent Avenue Church.

"Strange People in Our Own Country," was the subject of a lecture held under the auspices of the Home Missionary Society, at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church last night by Rev. Delos Fink, a representative of the Women's Board of Home Missions and for thirteen years a worker in the Rocky mountains. The first picture which Rev. Mr. Fink threw on the screen showed a map of the United States, marking the vastness of the U. S. compared with the rest of the world. The views which Rev. Mr. Fink displayed, were from his own photographs and were exceptionally well tinted. They were complete and varied, showing the best scenery of the West, and the typical characters which go to make up the scenery.

In his arraignment of the Mormons, Rev. Mr. Fink was particularly strong, and stated that the Mormons are a menace to this country. He showed pictures of the Mormons and of the temples in which they invest millions of dollars. He dwelt at some length upon the customs of the sect, which is gradually becoming stronger throughout the country.

MISSION NOW A BRANCH

First Baptist Church Grants Request of Rev. Mr. Musson

THE PROVISIONS MADE

History of the East Third Street Congregation Which Has Reached a Turning Point in Its Growth.

In response to a request from Rev. John W. Musson, pastor of the East Third Street Mission, in behalf of the congregation under his charge worshipping in Faith chapel, the First Baptist church at a regular business meeting, last night, the members of that mission were constituted a branch of the First Baptist church, bearing the title of Faith chapel, under the pastoral care of Rev. John W. Musson. Charles W. McCutchen, chairman of committee appointed to effect a reorganization, presented the communication from Mr. Musson, and then followed with a presentation of the committee's report, which was adopted.

The resolutions effecting this change provide that the members of the First Baptist church now engaged in religious work in connection with the mission, known as the East Third Street Mission, be and are now constituted a branch of the church. That the members so constituted are authorized to select from the membership of the church three deacons to serve five years, who, as well as their successors, shall be elected at a regular or special meeting of the church, and who shall, together with the pastor, Rev. John W. Musson, or his successors, have charge of the religious work in connection with the said branch. That the pastor and deacons of Faith chapel are hereby authorized to administer the ordinances customary in Baptist churches, namely the ordinances of baptism and the Lord's Supper. That this branch is authorized in the manner customary in Baptist churches, to receive and enroll into the membership of the chapel, who by virtue of such enrollment, shall become de facto members of the First Baptist church; and it is also authorized to dismiss members from said enrollment of the chapel.

The branch is further authorized to call and appoint a pastor at any time when there shall be a vacancy in the pastorate, provided that there shall be first secured the approval and consent of the First Baptist church at a regular meeting called for the purpose. The salary of the paster shall be fixed only by and with the consent of the Board of Trustees of the East Third Street Baptist Society. The finances of this branch, including all receipts and disbursements of monies, shall continue to be administered by the Board of Trustees of the society, who shall be, or originally provided, nominated by the First Baptist church, and elected in due form.

The report received the hearty endorsement of the church as well as the pastor, Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss.

The East Third Street Mission was started in the summer of 1891, under the auspices of the Young People's League, of the First Baptist church, services being held in a tent on East Third street. In September, 1891, the work was recognized by action of the church and the deacons comprised a committee to make arrangements for carrying on the same. A dwelling in the vicinity was leased and in January, 1892, it was decided to continue the work and lease the dwelling for a year, and subsequently the lease was renewed for the years 1893, 1894 and 1895. On March 27, 1895, the committee recommended that the mission should be in a chapel building owned by the church. This recommendation was followed and the chapel now used for religious worship was erected within the succeeding two year, after which trustees were chosen and articles of incorporation filed on February 27, 1897.

The mission has continued to prosper and much good has been accomplished under the faithful services of Superintendent L. W. Randolph, Messrs. Conger, Crane, Stewart and other members who have devoted their time and means to the work. It was finally decided that the work was growing to such proportions that a permanent pastor was needed and Rev. John W. Musson was called as minister in charge of the chapel work. Since his coming he has administered the affairs of the chapel with marked success. The plan of re-organization will take effect Sunday, April 2, when the first communion service will be held.

CREMATORY ACT PASSES

Measure Allows Plainfield to Operate Garbage Disposal Plant.

ITS PROVISIONS

Bill Introduced by Assemblyman Coyne at Request of Common Council's Committee.

Plainfield's garbage crematory bill has been passed by the Legislature and only awaits Governor Stokes' signature to become a law. This measure was introduced by Assemblyman Coyne at the request of the Common Council's public affairs' committee and was speedily passed by the House. Since then it has been in the Senate and was finally considered yesterday.

As soon as it is a statute, Plainfield can go ahead and operate the garbage disposal plant which it purchased some months ago.

The proposed law, known as House Bill, No. 50, permits cities to make assessments of taxes toward the annual expense of collecting and cremating garbage and other refuse. This act also permits the use of taxes to pay interest and installments of principal of bonds issued for the erection of crematories without regard to any limitations upon the same heretofore fixed by any act of the Legislature.

It was found necessary to have this measure passed by the Legislature, inasmuch as there was no law which permitted Plainfield to operate a crematory although it had power to establish one.

GIRL LEAVES HOME; MARRIED MAN GONE

POLICE BELIEVE THAT THE COUPLE HAS ELOPED.

Reported by her father to have been missing since Monday, the police believe that Miss Kate Hepner, of West Fourth street, and Charles Hagerty, a local ne'er-do-well, have eloped. The latter is a young married man who is well known about town and he was seen in the girl's company Monday afternoon. The police learned several facts which indicate that they are together but their exact whereabouts is not known.

Charles Hepner, the father of the girl, declared to Chief Kiely that she has never remained away from home before and he was much puzzled over her protracted absence until he searched her room. He found a package of effusive love letters from Hagerty, says Chief Kiely, that breathed all manner of tender sentiments and indicated that they contemplated flight.

Hagerty's married life, it is said, has not been of the happiest and of late he has not been living with his wife.

EX-JUDGE JAMESON DEAD.

Somerset Jurist Was at One Time a New York Pastor, Later an Editor.

Former Judge Charles M. Jameson, eighty-four years of age, died Tuesday in his home at Somerville from old age. He was born at Carlisle, Pa., and was for many years pastor of an influential Reformed Dutch church in New York city. He went to Somerville thirty-five years ago and preached as supply in various pulpits in Somerset County.

In 1876 he bought the Somerset Messenger and was editor for six years. He was secretary of the New Jersey State Senate in 1877 and 1878 He was lay judge of the Somerset County Court for two terms. Four children survive him, one of them being Edwin Jameson, an insurance broker in New York.

There was no opposition to the candidates for the first time in several years.

FUND FOR BAND MUSIC

Common Council May Be Able to Appropriate $2,000.

BILL IN LEGISLATURE

Assemblyman Coyne's Measure Will Remove An Obstacle Encountered by City Fathers.

Through a bill introduced in the House by Assemblyman Coyne, of Union County, yesterday, the Plainfield Common Council will be empowered to appropriate funds for band concerts when it becomes a law.

The bill declares that "second class cities shall be authorized to appropriate not exceeding $2,000 to provide music in the public parks during July and August of each year."

Plainfield people have always enjoyed band concerts but there has been great difficulty from year to year in securing the necessary funds. They have been secured as a rule by the solicitation of subscriptions and only by the hardest kind of work has the needed amount been obtained.

For the past two or three seasons, Ben LaVere, the local band leader, has undertaken the task and last year he applied to the Common Council for help but his petition was refused on the ground that that body had no authority under the city charter to make the appropriation asked.

With the passing of the bill, the Council will have the privilege and should Mr. LaVere again apply it will have to be some other reason that will lead to a refusal in case the City Fathers do not see fit to aid the cause.

HECKMAM IN ALASKA; GOODS HERE ATTACHED

BROTHER, WHO LOANED MONEY FOR TRIP, SEEKS TO RECOVER IT.

Through the sheriff of Monmouth county, Gustav Heckman, of Freehold, yesterday legally attached the personal effects of his brother, Emile Heckman, who left Plainfield four years ago to seek his fortune in the Alaskan gold fields. Before starting out he borrowed $2,000, with the promise that the first yellow nuggets he picked up in the Klondike should be sent back in payment. Gold couldn't have been plentiful as the lender waited in vain for some to come although Emile sent letters from time to time telling him to be on the look-out as there were prospects of "something doing" around Great Bear Pass or some other place up in the frozen regions.

Anxiety over his $2,000 continued to grow and believing four years a little too long to keep silent, he took steps to secure himself. He secured the advice of Lawyer William Newcorn in this city and the levy on the goods was made yesterday. In the meantime, Emile will be informed of what has happened in order that he may refrain from sending on the gold.

GRAND JURY WILL INVESTIGATE

SCHANZ LIGENSE VOID

Supreme Court Sets Aside Writ of Certiorari.

COUNCIL'S BLUNDER

City Fathers Had No Right to Attach Conditions to License and City Bears Brunt of Costs.

Justice Gummere, of the Supreme Court, has granted the request of the Common Council, made through Corporation Counsel Marsh, setting aside the writ of certiorari, obtained by Mrs. Mary Hetfield, through her counsel, Walter L. Hetfield, Sr., for the purpose of holding up the action of that body in granting a license to Charles Schanz for 136 Park avenue.

It was the contention of the prosecution that the Common Council had no legal right under the city charter or any of its ordinances to grant a liquor license on such conditions mentioned in the resolution adopted when Mr. Schanz received his license. This resolution provided that Mr. Schanz have an iron gate with a lock and key placed at the entrance to the driveway adjoining 136 Park avenue, as well as the property of Mrs. Hetfield. This was in the nature of special legislation and on this ground Mr. Hetfield attacked the validity of the action of the Common Council.

The Common Council admitted its error in granting a license under the conditions mentioned, and upon the request of Mr. Schanz through his counsel, City Judge W. N. Runyon and Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., asked the Supreme Court to set aside the writ, and by so doing the whole transaction is nullified and the matter is now in its original state, just as though no license had been granted.

Now if Mr. Schanz desires to continue his business he will have to make a new application. The city is obliged to stand the cost of the recent action in the writ of certiorari proceedings.

COL. SILL'S RECORD.

Interesting Facts About Veteran Who Will Speak in First M. E. Church Tomorrow Night.

Col. Sill, a Civil War veteran, who will give his celebrated lecture in the First M. E. church tomorrow night, under the auspices of the Brotherhood, has an excellent record. His subject will be "In and Out of Rebel Prison." Women as well as men are invited to attend the lecture.

Col. Sill was captured at the battle of Dallas Woods, Georgia, May 25, 1864. On November 29, following his escape from the Confederate prison at Columbia, S. C., and on December 29 was recaptured. He soon escaped again. On February 7, 1865, he reached the Union lines at London, Tenn. He had wandered in mid-winter through the mountains of North and South Carolina and Tennessee. Most of the time he suffered for lack of food. Seldom did he see fire. Sometimes he was compelled to wade icy streams and lie down in frozen clothing and on one occasion he lost his shoes. Col. Sill tells his story in a graphic manner and cannot fail to interest all who have planned to hear him.

Somerset County Authorities Looking Into North Plainfield "Boxing Bouts."

DETECTIVE AT WORK

Obtains Names of All Who Were Present at Ringside When the Fighter Was Knocked Unconscious.

Acting under instructions from a superior official, County Detective George D. Totten, of Somerville, came to this city yesterday and made a preliminary investigation of the "Shamrock Social Club's" carnival of music and "boxing" in Saengerbund Hall, Monday night. He confined his work to securing the names of Plainfield and North Plainfield people who attended the affair, especially those who were present when "Kid" Ferris, of Elizabeth, was knocked unconscious by "Kid" Klein, of Newark.

The list he obtained includes the Judge Lewis H. Schenck, who is expected to instruct Grand Jury to investigate North Plainfield fight.

names of local officials and prominent residents, most of whom were at the ringside. To a Daily Press reporter he declared that the names and the evidence he is to obtain later will be presented to the Somerset County Grand Jury at the next session.

In view of another affair which occurred in the borough a few months ago and which has just been disposed of by the Somerset County courts, over which Judge Schenck presides, this latest incident will certainly prove interesting to residents of both the city and borough. North Plainfield gained considerable notoriety through the cutting affray in which several colored men and borough marshals were engaged, and the affair of Monday night has been almost as widely spread throughout the country. If the evidence is strong enough to warrant action it is quite likely that Judge Schenck will charge the Grand Jury very strongly when the matter comes up.

A county official in speaking of the affair says that the laws are very explicit regarding such exhibitions as that given Monday night and if they were violated a heavy fine can be imposed on those responsible for it. He cited an instance where a fine of $150 was imposed on several men engaged in a similar affair, although that one was tame in comparison to the one in North Plainfield, added the official, if what he heard was true.

Mr. Totten will make a thorough investigation into the affair and will learn who was responsible for it. He will also inquire into the "Shamrock Social Club," and ascertain the names of those forming the membership.

When questioned as to whether similar affairs would be allowed in the borough, according to the boast of one of the Tony Bender Association, of Elizabeth, Mr. Totten said that he did not believe that Monday night's exhibition would be repeated either in the borough or any part of Somerset county. He expressed considerable surprise over what had occurred and intimated that he could not understand why such an exhibition was allowed.

Most merchants make it a practice to charge high prices for seasonable goods but at Boehm's West Front street, the plan always followed out is different. At all times of the year the cost of all dry goods, millinery and furnishings is gauged according to the market and not by the demand. Drop in any day and see the advance display of millinery.

Shoes that wear well frequently look shabby before they are a week or two old. It shows there is something lacking in their make-up and that is why all intelligent buyers ask for the celebrated "Soresis" shoe which represents the highest state of perfection in the manufacture of footgear. A. E. & A. L. Giddes at Madison avenue and Front street are the sole local sellers.

—Charles Garfinkle, a small boy, was caught by Patrolman O'Keefe stealing chewing gum from a West Front street confectionery store Tuesday night. The proprietor would not prefer complaint and he was released yesterday.

—In the city court yesterday morning, George Moncton, of Cottage place, was sent to jail for twenty days, for assaulting his wife. In the borough court, Tuesday night, Joseph Donnelly, of Manson place, took seven days in jail in preference to paying $5 for drunkenness.

While There is Life There is Hope.

I was afflicted with catarrh; could neither taste nor smell and could hear but little. Ely's Cream Balm cured it.—Marcus G. Schantz, Rahway, N. J.

Cream Balm reached me safely and the effect is surprising. My son says the first application gave decided relief. Respectfully, Mrs. Franklin Freeman, Dover, N. H.

The Balm does not irritate or cause sneezing. Sold by druggists at 50 cts. or mailed by Ely Brothers, 56 Warren street, New York.

Frank Swackhamer, of this city, who has been spending several days at Whitehouse, has returned home.

The condition of former Patrolman George Langer, who has been very ill at his home in Whitehouse, continues to remain unchanged.

JERSEY CITY EASTERN LEAGUE TEAM.

Weather permitting the local baseball season will open on Saturday, April 15, just a month off, when the Plainfield Baseball Association will have for its opponents the strong Jersey City Eastern League team. The Plainfield management could not have secured a better attraction and a more worthy foe for its opening attraction. The Jersey boys are a fast lot of ball players and despite the fact that they did not win the pennant last season, it was demonstrated that they were almost as strong as the Buffalo aggregation, which finished in first place. Manager Murray has always had the reputation for securing players of ability both in batting and fielding and his team this year is no exception.

The Jersey City team will play a number of exhibition games prior to opening the Eastern League season the latter part of April and Philip was fortunate in being able to schedule the team for one of these contests. Manager Murray will present his regular lineup with one of his best batteries, and considering the rivalry in the past between the players who will represent Plainfield and the Jersey City team, the contest should be one of the best on the schedule. Every arrangement will be perfected to make the opening a gala affair and it is expected that a record-breaking crowd will be at Crescent Oval. Within two or three weeks, provided the weather is favorable, the work of putting the oval in condition for the opening will be commenced so that everything will be in readiness.

HONOR QUAY'S NAME

Pennsylvania's Senate and House In Special Session.

GOVERNOR PENNYPACKER ELOQUENT

"His Final Reliance Was Ever Upon the Confidence of the People and His Personal Efforts Seated Two Presidents."

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 23.—The senate and house of representatives of Pennsylvania met in joint special session last night to do honor to the memory of the late United States Senator Matthew Stanley Quay. The memorial services were held in the hall of the house and were presided over by Lieutenant Governor Brown. Governor Pennypacker delivered the eulogy. In addition to the members of the legislature nearly all the prominent state officials were in attendance.

In his eulogy of the late senator Governor Pennypacker among other things said:

"In the capacity for the building up and the maintenance of political forces and for their application to the accomplishment of public ends it may well be doubted whether the country ever before produced the equal of Mr. Quay. From the time of his election to the office of state treasurer in 1885 down until his death on the 28th of May, 1904, public and political results in this state may be said to have rested upon his decision. During this long period every means which human ingenuity could devise and unlimited resources could bring to bear was used to overthrow his influence.

"His final reliance was ever upon the confidence of the people. When in 1885 the political powers then in control decreed his retirement he announced instead his candidacy for a high state office, and he won. Ten years later seemingly overwhelming forces united to wrest from him the control of the organization of his party. They included the governor, the mayor of Pittsburg, the party organizations in Philadelphia and Pittsburg and the strongest corporate influences in the state. But, to use his own metaphor, he carried the 'fiery cross' from Philadelphia to Erie. The very audacity of the movement brought the people to his support, and again he won.

"The time came when the personal influence of Mr. Quay, apart from that of the state in whose councils he was so potent, was exerted in national affairs. In 1887 he took his seat in the United States senate. To an extent equaled by few other American statesmen he permanently affected the development of our national life. For a quarter of a century no Republican could have been elected president of the United States and no national policy have succeeded without his consent. Two of the presidents were placed in that high office because of his personal efforts. The manufacturers of the country made their contracts for the erection of mills and the employment of workmen with a sense of entire security that so long as he remained in the senate the doctrine of protection, so important to them, would be maintained as the national policy."

Killed His Half Brother.

DES MOINES, Ia., March 23.—As a result of a quarrel over land James Blee shot and instantly killed his half brother, Isaac Sailer, near here. Blee drove to the home of his brother and was talking about the land when, he claims, Sailer reached for a gun. Blee warned him not to use it. At the same time Blee seized his own Winchester and fired point blank. The entire top of the man's head was blown off. Blee is under arrest.

Twenty Russian Families Astray.

YANKTON, S. D., March 23.—Twenty Russian families bound for Yankton have seemingly gone astray somewhere between Odessa, Russia, and South Dakota. The party left Russia over two months ago. A letter announcing their departure has been in Yankton nearly six weeks. One report says the twenty Russian families by a misunderstanding have been sent to Guiana, South America.

Ex-Secretary Gage at the Capital.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—Lyman J. Gage, ex-secretary of the treasury, has been spending the past few days here visiting old friends and official associates. He stopped off on his way north from Palm Beach, Fla., where he has spent the past few months, and has now returned to New York, where he will resume his duties as president of the United States Trust company.

A Record Ship Launched.

ROCKLAND, Me., March 23.—The schooner Governor Powers, named in honor of Congressman Llewellyn Powers, the largest four masted schooner in existence and the largest with one exception ever built, has been launched here. She was christened with roses and pinks by Miss Grace Crowell, daughter of Captain Peter H. Crowell of Boston.

Camden Car Barns Burned.

CAMDEN, N. J., March 23.—Fire last night destroyed the car barn of the Camden and Suburban Railway company. The loss is $75,000, covered by insurance. Spontaneous combustion is believed to be the origin. Ten cars were burned.

For a Greater Pittsburg.

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 23.—The senate committee on municipal affairs has decided to report favorably to the senate the bill providing for the annexation of Allegheny City to Pittsburg.

Weather Probabilities.

Cloudy; southeast winds.

REVOLUTION, WAR

Russian Nobility at Moscow Would End Strife.

COMBINED FLEETS TO ATTACK TOGO

General Linevitch Reports Japanese In Front of His Advance Posts—Russian Chief May Hold Kuanchangtse-Kirin Line.

LONDON, March 23.—At a conference summoned by the Moscow nobility, meeting there today, the representative of the Bessarabian nobility presented resolutions adopted by that association urging that the conference declare itself:

First.—For speedy termination of the war.

Second.—For the right of the nobility, zemstvos and other local organizations to a voice in measures for local safety and for the quieting of the peasant and other disorders.

A Warsaw report says that serious agrarian disturbances occurred yesterday at Kutno. The military fired on peasant rioters, and several of the latter were killed or wounded. There have been similar riots at Ostrov, in the same district. The governor of Warsaw, with the public prosecutor, has gone to investigate the affairs.

It is said that the admiralty at St. Petersburg strongly intimates that Admiral Rojestvensky will effect a juncture with Admiral Nebogatoff within ten days and then proceed to try conclusions with Admiral Togo.

Dispatches from General Linevitch say that Japanese cavalry detachments have appeared in front of the Russian advance posts. Behind the cavalry were infantry, who halted at the village of Machantzy.

The retreat of the Russian army is being conducted in good fashion. In four days' actual marching from Tie pass the rear guard has fallen back seventy miles and the heads of the columns are already entering Gunshu pass, forty miles farther north, keeping up with the Japanese column marching over the grand trade route.

With the bridges and railroad destroyed behind the Russians the Japanese are unable to press the rear, and it is believed that the bulk of Field Marshal Oyama's army is still at Tie pass, the flanking column being comparatively weak.

This belief may, however, prove mistaken. For two days there has been some skirmishing, accompanied by artillery exchanges, between the Japanese on the grand trade route and the Russians screening the retreat, showing that they are in constant contact.

With the crossing of the Sungari river at Chantchiatu protected many military men here believe that General Linevitch, while prepared to withdraw to Harbin, will attempt to hold the line from Kuanchangtse to Kirin so as to control the rich Sungari valley as a source of supply for the army. A Japanese advance to Kirin would be equivalent to the isolation of Vladivostok.

The Russian war office points to the fact that Linevitch was able to give his troops a day of rest as the best evidence that complete order has been restored and that the stories of demoralized flight are untrue.

More Trouble For Russia.

TIFLIS, March 23.—Disorders are reported among the Abhazians (denizens of the Alps of Abhazia), who are driving a large number of Russians from their properties. Several serious collisions between police and Abhazians are reported to have occurred.

Hooker Inquiry at Albany.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 23.—At the Hooker inquiry here Maurice Hooker was recalled and said that instead of doing the work in the postoffice himself he arranged with the postmaster to hire it done, the expense coming out of his salary. Miss Katherine K. Clark testified that while documents were introduced showing that Justice Hooker had corresponded with Beavers in relation to her increase in salary, transfer and other matters she did not think that Judge Hooker had done anything for her.

An Outlaw For Many Years.

BANGOR, Me., March 23.—Game Wardens Lowell and Carr arrived here with Peter Lafontaine, otherwise Fountain, alleged to be the most noted game poacher in the Maine woods. The officers announced that they arrested Lafontaine in Little Eight township, northwest of Moosehead lake. The wardens claim that Lafontaine has been an outlaw for many years.

Three Ohio Priests Dead.

CLEVELAND, O., March 23.—Three priests of the Cleveland diocese have died within four days. Rev. Andrew Magenhann, pastor of St. Peter's church, Mansfield, died last night of nervous prostration. Rev. Henry Kaempker, pastor of St. Mary's church, Massillon, died last night of typhoid fever, and Rev. J. D. Heiland is dead at North Ridge, O.

Merchant Killed by Robbers.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 23.—J. T. Schumate, a dry goods merchant, was shot and killed in his store at Colton by robbers. Schumate had been sleeping in the store, which had been recently burglarized. Apparently he was aroused from sleep by robbers again plundering the place and exchanged shots with them.

Palisades Park on the Hudson.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 23. — The Hurd bill giving power to the Palisades commission to acquire the Palisades for a public park will be reported to the assembly today by the committee on ways and means.

STORY OF A GAINSBOROUGH.

Picture Bought Thirty Years Ago From an Old French Immigrant.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., March 23.—A picture pronounced by a New York connoisseur to be a genuine Gainsborough is in possession of a Milwaukeean. If it is an original the picture for which J. Pierpont Morgan paid a fancy price must be a duplicate.

The old canvas has a history. It is a portrait of King Louis XIV. of France, which may turn out a second Duchess of Devonshire sensation. Evidently it was painted about the same period in which the famous picture bought by Mr. Morgan. The artist's name was worn away by time. The canvas was bought by a Milwaukeean thirty-three years ago for a small price from an old French immigrant.

According to his story, the picture was cut from its frame during the French revolution and passed from hand to hand through the Canadian provinces until the owner found himself in Milwaukee and ready to sell the well worn canvas.

EASY FOR FAVORITES.

Edith May, Evelyn Kipsey and Subtle Won at New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, March 23.—Edith May, Evelyn Kinsey and Subtle were the winning favorites at the fair grounds. Each scored an easy victory. Dr. Leggo at Oakland.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 23.—The handicap resulted in a spectacular finish between Dr. Leggo and Judge at Oakland. Dr. Leggo was heavily played and had to be hurried all the way to beat the pacemaker, Judge. Nigrette did not like the weight and swerved badly near the finish, but held on long enough to get third place. Stillicho, lightly weighted, was expected to make a good showing, but failed.

Sorreltop at Oaklawn.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 23.—The books were given a hard drubbing at Oaklawn track. The second race was the only one in which a popular choice failed to win. Even in this event the winner, Sorreltop, received some support as a second choice. Crown Prince, at a short price, had little trouble defeating Otto Stifel and Oudon, the only other starters in the six furlong handicap.

Oleson High Man at Traps.

OMAHA, Neb., March 23. — The scores at the interstate shoot at the Omaha Gun club's grounds were good, considering the heavy wind that blew across the bottoms. Oleson was high man with forty-five clean breaks in the first three events, Taylor, Gilbert and Burke being tied with forty-four.

Twemlow's Win a Surprise.

NEW ORLEANS, March 23.—Only two favorites finished in front at City park track. Twemlow furnished the surprise of the day by winning the third race at 30 to 1. He was practically neglected in the betting.

Boston Checker Tournament.

BOSTON, March 23.—In the checker tournament here the day's score was: British, 5; Americans, 2; drawn, 13; total score: British 50; Americans, 26; drawn, 184.

Doctor Died In His Dark Room.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., March 23.—Dr. W. P. Spring, a prominent physician of Minneapolis, is dead here sixty hours after being overcome by gas. He never regained consciousness. Dr. Spring was developing photographic negatives in a dark room in his office. He was overcome by fumes from a defective connection on a gas heater and was not found by the family until several hours had elapsed.

Schoolboy Sweetheart Shot Her.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 23.—Ruth Campbell, aged ten years, the daughter of a Kansas City attorney, is dead here as the result of a bullet wound received in August last, when Walter Ralston, her schoolboy sweetheart at Sheridan, Ia., is alleged to have shot her as the result of jealousy. At the time the girl apparently recovered, and the case against Ralston was dropped.

Irving's Tour Postponed.

LONDON, March 23.—Sir Henry Irving's United States and Canadian tour has been postponed for a year by the advice of his doctors that he should not undertake so great a strain in the near future. The health of Sir Henry is improving, and all preparations are making for his appearance at Drury Lane theater.

Saxe-Stanley Bill Passed.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 23. — The Saxe-Stanley bill, making it a misdemeanor to bribe a servant or agent in respect to his master's business, has been passed. There was great difference of opinion as to whether the bill would penalize the tipping of waiters Pullman porters and domestic servants.

ALEXANDRA AT LISBON.

Welcome to English Queen Was Great Floral Demonstration.

LISBON, March 23.—Queen Alexandra of Great Britain and her daughters were given a most hearty welcome to Portugal. The harbor was crowded with gayly decorated steamers and yachts, and the British royal yacht ascended the river amid a deafening volley of salutes.

Gayly painted galleys pulled by eighty boatmen in mediaeval costumes of scarlet and gold took out King Charles, his suit and ministers to meet the royal guests. A beautiful pavilion had been erected on the quay for the reception formalities.

After the queen dowager of Portugal had met Queen Alexandra at the steps of the quay an imposing procession of state carriages and officials took the guest and her suit to the palace amid rousing cheers by the populace, which had gathered everywhere in dense masses.

The whole route of the procession was elaborately decorated with flags and streamers, and a special feature was many thousands of camelias and other flowers which had been distributed to residents to be thrown to Queen Alexandra as the procession passed, while hundreds of pigeons, with ribbons of the British colors tied to their necks, were liberated and mingled in the shower of flowers, making the prettiest effect. In fact, the scheme of decorations made the reception a great floral demonstration.

After a state banquet at the palace, where 200 covers were laid, and a grand state concert by opera artists the streets were illuminated and crowded till a late hour.

KASHIMA LAUNCHED.

All European Nations Might Learn a Lesson From Japan.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE, England, March 23.—At the launching of the Japanese warship Kashima here Mme. Arakawa, wife of the Japanese consul general at London, touched the button which released the ship from the stocks.

At the luncheon after the launching Sir Andrew Noble proposed the toast "The Japanese Empire." He said all the European nations, including Great Britain, might learn a lesson from Japan. Their course prior to the outbreak of the war and their splendid strategy and bravery when compelled to strike, together with the consistently dignified attitude of the government, made them an example for all nations.

Minister Hayashi, who responded, said the Japanese successes on the sea were largely due to the fact that more than a dozen of their great warships were built in England. He was sorry the Kashima could not participate in the war, but the war must end some time, and thereafter the powerful vessel would be used to maintain peace in the far east.

Cleveland to Head List.

NORFOLK, Va., March 23. — The board of directors of the Jamestown Exposition company will name an advisory board of 100 at its meeting on April 25, and ex-President Grover Cleveland will head the list, he having indorsed the exposition and offered his services in any capacity in which he may benefit the movement. Among those invited to serve on the board are Woodrow Wilson, president of Princeton university; President Eliot of Harvard university, Cardinal Gibbons, Admiral Dewey, General Chaffee and Thomas A. Edison.

Six Miners Killed.

PRINCETON, Ind., March 23.—As a result of an explosion in the Princeton coal mines, near here, six miners have been taken out dead and five badly injured. The bodies were rescued two hours after the explosion, the delay being caused by the inability of the rescuers to combat afterdamp. The five injured were brought to the surface thirty minutes after the explosion. They were found heaped together in an unconscious state.

Would Renew Subway Strike.

NEW YORK, March 23.—About 200 former employees of the Interborough Rapid Transit company met here and had a stormy meeting, in which there were many protestations of loyalty to the union and assertions that the strike is still on. A committee of five from the former employees was appointed to wait on those who have returned to work with the hope of inducing them to again quit.

Stole a Thousand Dollars.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 23.—William T. Brisbin, a painter, thirty-five years old, has surrendered himself to the police of this city, stating that he is wanted at Waverly, Mass., to answer a charge of stealing $1,000. He says he took the money from a trunk in a room in which he was working at his trade. Brisbin says he has a wife and family at West Medford, Mass.

War on Poolroom Gambling.

CINCINNATI, O., March 23.—Charges made by clergymen that certain officials in Covington, Ky., had been bribed by the operators of various poolrooms in that city so that poolrooms would not be molested in receiving bets on horse races are to be investigated by a special grand jury which has been ordered by Circuit Judge Shaw.

Morton's Cuban Trip.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—Secretary Morton just before leaving Charleston on the Dolphin made a change in his itinerary. Instead of going first to Havana he went to San Juan, which place was not included in the original plans for the trip. The return will be made by way of Guantanamo and Havana.

MORALES HAS FEARS

Failure of Domingo Treaty Will Lead to Grab Game.

FOREIGN POWERS MAY SEIZE PORTS

President of Santo Domingo, Interviewed, Says He Can Crush a Revolt, but Has No Army to Resist European Warships.

SANTO DOMINGO, March 23.—The news of the postponement by the United States senate of action on the treaty with Santo Domingo makes the situation here acute, and an internal uprising seems to be imminent, based on the cry that President Morales has been discredited in the United States. President Morales states that he is prepared to put down any revolution, but that a more serious matter in his mind is foreign complications growing out of Belgium's demand presented on March 21.

Belgium wants the customs receipts of a port of Santo Domingo to the extent of $25,833 a month, according to a former agreement, on which no payment has been made for three years. This first demand is construed as a direct result of the failure of the treaty between the United States and Santo Domingo. President Morales anticipates similar demands by other foreign powers, which he will be helpless to resist. He says he wants to pay all the republic's debts, but sees the ruin of the country with every port in the hands of a different power and no revenue for the government. While he sees no light ahead, he has blind faith that "right will triumph."

In the course of an interview President Morales last night said:

"It is entirely possible that the United States may have to send an ultimatum here on account of the Dominican government being unable though not unwilling to meet its obligations. It is utterly impossible for the government to pay the sums due foreign nations unless the United States can procure from foreign powers a postponement of their demands. Otherwise these demands will be pressed. I have no physical or moral force to resist them. With the custom houses in the control of the United States the resources of the island will develop speedily, and all demands will be paid, with the result that the country will be educated to peace and permanent prosperity."

With two Dominican ports now in the hands of the United States and the failure of the treaty Dominicans believe that a grab game by foreign powers will begin at once. An Italian cruiser was here a few days ago, but withdrew to Kingston. The American gunboat Castine is here with 150 men, the cruiser Chattanooga is at Samana bay, the Detroit is at Puerto Plata and the Dixie is at Monte Christi. Rear Admiral Sigsbee has gone to Guantanamo for a consultation with Rear Admiral Barker.

With the seizure of Dominican ports by foreign powers it is argued here that the Monroe doctrine will be nullified as regards this republic. With the United States in the possession of two ports it would not be logical, it is argued, to oppose the seizure of other ports by foreign powers. At the same time the only hope of President Morales is that in some way the United States can secure a postponement of seizure by European powers. No steps to this end have been initiated here.

No reply has yet been made to the Belgian demand.

President Morales has about 1,200 men under arms ready to crush the first internal uprising, but should the custom houses be seized he would speedily be without funds with which to pay his army, which would immediately desert.

READERS GIVE PROOF.

Two Letters Written by President Morales Produced In New York.

NEW YORK, March 23.—A sensational turn was given to the Reader-Santo Domingo negotiations here when Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Reader made public two letters written by President Morales, one to Mr. Reader and the other to Perez, the secret agent, inviting both to the palace for a conference.

The Readers took this drastic step to correct the story of Senor Emilio C. Joubert, charge d'affaires of the Dominican government at Washington, that Mr. Reader was denied an audience on the ground that he was a free lance diplomatist.

According to Mr. Reader, Morales invited him to a conference both at his home and the palace and met him at the steamer in his official uniform. The terms of the treaty impressed him.

For the first time since the remarkable story of the Santo Domingo negotiations became public property Mr. Reader made public his relations with Morales and William Nelson Cromwell, the lawyer who denies that he had anything to do with the plan of betterment for the island republic.

He told how the treaty had just been submitted to Cromwell and the latter had said that Washington would accept it and how on the day before the steamer sailed Cromwell had cautioned him not to admit under any circumstances that he was a representative of the United States government. Cromwell stated further, Mr. Reader asserts, that Morales would understand how beneficial the treaty would be for him, as President Amador of Panama had once been in a similar position.

Prince Ferdinand at Kingston.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, March 23.—The Italian cruiser Calabria, with Prince Ferdinand, son of the Duke of Genoa, aboard, arrived last night from Santo Domingo. The prince is on a voyage around the world.

WOOD PUZZLES THE ALIENISTS

small sum of money and Wood did not get it.

When they got their man housed in the Somerville jail and found that no amount of "third degree" could get anything out of him beyond the statement that his mind had been a blank for five days they began to realize that they were groping in the dark and that here was a case which no amount of evidence could make convincing.

That is where the affair stands today. The evidence has accumulated, and it would look black for Wood were it not for his extraordinary assertion, which he reiterates today as insistently as on the day of his arrest.

His conduct all along bears him out with remarkable force. When arrested he exhibited a mild curiosity as to what he had done; that was all. During his sojourn in New Jersey he appeared rational enough, although a comparison of his stories shows that he was either rambling or reckless in his statements.

To some people he said that he had come to visit his grandmother. To others he said he had come to see his father-in-law, Whitten. Both of these people he actually visited, assigning to each a different reason for his doing so.

For a time the visit to Whitten was believed to have much to do with the mystery, for the old gentleman told Wood he had made a will in which neither Wood nor his wife was remembered.

But as he offered no violence to Whitten, and as Williams, the slain man, could not possibly have been connected with the will, this matter, viewed in the light of a motive, faded into irrevalency.

The day of the murder Wood assumed a new character—that of a man out of a job. He told Williams and others in the grocery where he hired the sleigh that he was going out to Mrs. Pollock's to get a job, working with her on shares. He said he was a poor man, and beat down the grocer's price for the drive.

He had the day before told his grandmother that he was exceedingly prosperous.

This is where the matter will stand when the April Grand Jury takes it up and it promises to be one of the most intricate problems twelve men have sought to solve.

AMUSEMENTS.

"Buster Brown" continues to break records at the Majestic Theatre. The very first Saturday matinee this Lilliputian champion in the juvenile theatrical lists proceeded to beat the best record for afternoon receipts left on the books of this theatre during the long and phenomenally successful run of "The Wizard of Oz" and "Babes in Toyland." The second Saturday he broke his own record, and lastly achieved the apparently impossible by exceeding even this high-water mark. In this connection it is pleasing to note that merit is rewarded in the dramatic world, regardless of size; for Manager Raymond announces that, in consequence of his two season's success in the title role of "Buster Brown," of which role he was the originator on the stage, Master Gabriel, the "toy comedian," will next season be promoted to stellar rank in a new production designed especially to display his talents, musical and mimic.

The new comedy, "The Education of Mr. Pipp," at the Liberty Theatre, has entered upon the fourth week of its metropolitan run with every guarantee of popularity established. To the high class intellectual audiences which were attracted to the Liberty Theatre by the recent performances of Madame Rejane and Ada Rehan, the Thomas-Gibson comedy has added the distinctly fashionable element of New York society, until the nightly audiences comprise almost as representative a list of the Four Hundred as those of the grand tier at the Metropolitan Opera House. "The Education of Mr. Pipp" is, as the New York Herald succinctly phrased it, "a great, big, laughing hit," which verdict is given fresh endorsement every night by the prolonged outbursts of laughter and applause which punctuate frequently each of the three acts. Digby Bell, Kate Denin Wilson, Jennie Eustace, W. S. St. Clair, Robert Warwick, Fred Courtenay, Marion Draughn and Janet Beecher are among the clever people who "materialize" the personal essences of Mr. Gibson's delightful satire in black and white.

Miss Edna Kennedy, of Madison avenue, was the guest yesterday of friends in New York.

Mrs G. W. F. Randolph, of East Front street, has returned from Washington, where she has been visiting since the inauguration of President Roosevelt.

—Boice, Runyon & Co., of Park avenue, has plans for the erection of a one-story brick building in the rear of the its property on West Second street. It will be used for the storage of materials.

G. D. Hallock's Good Showing on Park Club Alleys.

The cooked hat bowling tournament which opened at the Park Club Tuesday night resulted in George D. Hallock winning three points with an average score of 24; J. L. Watson two points with an average score of 23 2-3 and F. H. Ball one point with an average score of 21 2-3. Mr. Watson also won the knock-out tournament.

The handicap ten-pin tournament opened last night. F. O. Ball won three points with an average score of 197; Walter Long two points with an average score of 191 1-3 and C. W. McGee one point with an average score of 190 1-3. There was a good attendance and both matches afforded plenty of excitement for all.

Missionary to Speak.

Rev. Arthur M Sherman, of Hankow, China, who will speak at the Church of the Holy Cross Sunday morning, is a Jerseyman by birth and training. His home is in Long Branch where his family is prominently identified with St. James' church. He was graduated from Princeton University and the General Theological Seminary. In 1899 he went to China and has since been stationed in the station of Hankow on the Yangtse River. Mr. Sherman's time has been divided between the work of the Chinese, he being the rector of St. James' church, the largest of the native congregations, and among the English-speaking residents, of whom there are five or six hundred near Hankow. Mr. Sherman is the minister in charge of the foreign or "Concession" church as it is called, and in this capacity ministers to the spiritual needs of the American and English residents. He is an excellent speaker, and during his year on furlough in this country will probably speak in many of the large city churches.

SPORTS AND ATHLETICS

Chicago bowlers captured a considerable share of the honors at the fifth annual bowling tournament just closed at Milwaukee. It was anticipated that several records would be broken, and although conditions were favorable the anticipations were not realized. To the Gunthers, No. 2, of Chicago, went the five men championship with a count of 2,795, which is second to the 2,819 made by the O'Leary's at Indianapolis three tournaments back; Rolfe and Stretch of Chicago won the doubles with 1,213, which is third on the list, the 1,227 of Steers and McClean at Buffalo in 1902 being high; while individual honors went to C. M. Anderson, of St. Paul, with 651. The last named mark is a creditable one, but Daniel Jones put up 683 at Indianapolis. One record, that for high game, was tied by Williams of San Francisco, who scored 269, a total made at Indianapolis by Ketenacher of Cincinnati. While the winning of any championship is to some extent a matter of luck, it was in general results that the great strength of the representatives from Chicago were seen. Landing no less than 16 prizes in the five men event, they took away $1,747.50, nearly 40 per cent. of the whole amount. In doubles they annexed 34 of the awards and a total of $1,595.83, or 43 per cent. of the total. In the individuals 45 prizes were won, amounting to $1,211, or 35 per cent. of the total. Chicago's nearest competitor was Cleveland, which carried away $975.75. Detroit won $685, Milwaukee $440, Philadelphia $387.50 each, Toledo $380, Cincinnati $387 and Louisville $344.25. Plans were laid at the tournament that will undoubtedly bring back New York city into the congress next year, and the next tournament should be larger than ever. New Yorkers were granted the terms they asked in nearly every respect, only the rule providing against loading balls being denied them. As a result, beginning next September, square gutters from the head pin back will be regulation. Balls must weigh not more than 16 pounds, but may be composed of any substance. New York gets home rule and Louisville was awarded the 1906 tuornament after it had been granted to Philadelphia, while New York has been indorsed for 1907.

C. M. Anderson.

The University of Michigan has a student from the far distant orient who ranks with the best in class work, oratory and athletics. He is K. S. Inui of Japan, at present a junior "Lit." Inui is candidate for pitcher on the 'varsity team, and twice each day he reports to Coach McAllister, and under the leader's instructions he has developed more speed than any other twirler in the squad. Inui has also acquired some curves and shoots that are likely to prove puzzling to opposing batsmen. His great difficulty, however, is lack of control. Owing to his wildness few of the 'varsity players care to attempt to receive his delivery, as the ball he throws is too speedy to handle with safety when the catcher doesn't know just where it is going. Inui is also versed in the science of jiu-jitsu. Several of the students here have taken lessons from him in the Japanese system of physical culture, and as interest in it is growing among the students it is likely that regular classes will be formed soon. Not only as an athlete, however, is Inui gaining a reputation. He is also an orator of no mean ability. Last year he was second in his class contest, and this winter he took first honors in it. This achievement puts him in the finals from which the representative of the University of Michigan in the Northern Oratorical league is to be selected. He has delivered over 100 lectures in various parts of the state on the causes of the Japanese-Russian war. The young foreigner has also mixed up in student politics at the university. He has taken a lively part in several of the elections recently, and is now a candidate for the office of president of the Students' Lecture association next year. This place is considered one of the "fat" ones of college life. The young Japanese is thoroughly Americanized except that he still prefers the flowing robes of his native land to the close fitting garments of occidental civilization, and wears them whenever opportunity offers.

K. S. Inui.

The California assembly, by a vote of 43 to 20, has passed Espy's bill prohibiting pool selling or wagering on a horse race and providing a fine. The Ralston anti-prize fight bill has been passed by the senate, on reconsideration, by a vote of 23 to 11.

Albert Herrnstein, of Chillicothe, O., former halfback of the Michigan football team, has been elected as coach of the Purdue university team for the coming season. He has been coaching the Haskell Indians for the last two years.

James Smith, known widely to Yale graduates and followers of Yale sports as "Pop," died suddenly at his home at New Haven, Conn., of heart disease. He was 87 years old. For a quarter of a century or more he figured as a mascot at various Yale athletic contests, traveling extensively with the football and baseball teams especially.

March 26: "The Missionary Call." Matt. xxviii, 19; Acts i, 8; 1 Cor. xvi, 9.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, Ph. D.

"Ye shall be my witnesses unto the uttermost part of the earth."

Every Christian is a missionary. When the soul from its inmost depths truly knows God and in glad recognition of its relation to Him cries "Father!" then it also begins to see, what was not before clear, that other men are also children of God and need to know the fact and to have the spirit within them that cries "My Father!"

It begins to dawn on the soul as well as on the mind that they are also brothers if they are God's children. It must, then, be duty to tell them who they are and try to awaken them to their rights and the privileges of their inheritance in God. Once thought, the idea gives the thinker no rest until it is acted upon. Peace can be had henceforth only in telling how the soul came to find out its relation to God and the satisfaction of all needs in Him. Every one who knows God thus becomes a witness for Him to all who will hear. It is natural; it is inevitable. What the eyes see and the heart feels the tongue must speak out. It cannot be hushed.

This may appear singular to one who has never felt his soul cry up to God as Father and never heard the answering voice speak to him, but to one who has felt and heard all this it is the most natural thing in all the world. It is blood answering to blood. We be of kin, and, though we may long be strangers to our own and know them not, yet when we come to know that one is brother the brother heart in us cries out to him. We want his brotherhood. We crave his companionship. We must share with him. We want to give out of ours to him and get from him for ourselves. We are men, and blood is thicker than water.

Selfishness is not the strongest power in the world. The Levite and the priest may pass by on the other side, but so surely as a man falls among thieves who strip and wound him and leave him half dead some man will be journeying that same way soon. He will discover a brother where other passers saw nothing, and he will show brotherhood because he is a man.

That is about all there is to it.

When we get awake to what we are we start out to get the rest of the family together. We want them to know us, and we want to know them, and we want most of all that we shall all know the Father.

There is going to be a great home coming by and by. We have been sent to call the boys and girls in. We cannot rest until we have done it. This is with us, waking and sleeping. No one must be left out. What planning, what skill, it all needs! What other work so important as this? What other pleasure so satisfying?

Do you not look at it in that way? And are you really a Christian? Have you been with the Christ, and has he never said to you, "Go and make disciples and teach them all that I have taught you?" There must be some mistake somewhere then. Better ask Him about it and see if He has really excused you or if you have been deaf to what He said.

The business of the church is to save men and build them up in holy life. We grow best and fastest when helping others. The church which is most alert on missionary lines is usually most progressive and successful in its home affairs. Wesley's statement, "The world is my parish," is something more than sentimentality; it is a very practical and momentous truth to which we do well to give close attention.

Paul found a great and effectual door opened to him in Ephesus. He also found at the same time "many adversaries." He naively remarks, "I will stay at Ephesus until Pentecost." That is the best plan for us now. Everywhere doors are opened to us as never before. And everywhere are adversaries as persistent as ever they were. We would best decide to tarry until Pentecost comes in every place.

The Way to the Father.

Hast thou a sense of the way to the Father? Then be careful that thy spirit daily bow before Him, that He would continue His mercy to thee, making the way more and more clear before thee every day—yea, and bearing thee up in all the exercises and trials which may befall thee in every kind, that by His secret working in thy spirit and helping thee with a little help from time to time thou mayest still be advancing nearer and nearer toward the kingdom, until thou find the Lord God administer an entrance unto thee thereinto, and give thee an inheritance of life, joy, righteousness and peace therein, which is strength unto the soul against sin and death.—Isaac Penington.

Great and Little Acts.

The one who will be found in trial capable of great acts of love is ever the one who is always doing considerable small ones.—F. W. Robertson.

Thy Need.

More light upon the way?
Not that, my friend, thy need,
For round thee is the golden day,
And God the path doth lead.

More flowers in their bloom?
In every breeze they bow
And richly all thy life perfume
And garland, too, thy brow.

A staff within thy hand?
'Tis there in strength divine,
And foes before it cannot stand
Arrayed in battle line.

Thou highly favored art,
With many of thy kind,
Thou needst within thy failing heart
The words of God to bind.

He's promised good to thee;
That's light and flowers and staff.
Let faith in Him be winnowed free
From all distrustful chaff.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning March 26.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Christian Endeavor comradeship with other churches, at home and with distant lands.—Acts xvii, 24-28; John xvii, 20, 21.

Comradeship is one of the cardinal principles of Christian Endeavor and has always been so. Fellowship in spirit and in labor has ever characterized this great movement among Christian young people. Nor has it been a limited comradeship, but rather the broadest possible, for here Christians of all denominations and of all lands have been associated in Christian fellowship and service.

Christian Endeavor is intersectional. In our own land Christian Endeavor knows no north, no east, no south, no west. Unfortunately some of our Christian denominations are divided sectionally. But Christian Endeavor has always stood for national comradeship, and the sons and daughters of all sections march side by side under the banner of the cross. This is as it should be. We have one nation and one flag, and beneath this flag there should be no sectional lines of division in the church of Christ. One in heart and in hand, we should be able truthfully to sing:

We are not divided;
All one body we—
One in hope and doctrine,
One in charity.

Christian Endeavor is interdenominational. Denominational loyalty has ever been emphasized and never ignored or belittled; yet it has also been recognized that it is possible for members of a particular denomination both to be loyal to it and at the same time to have the truest fellowship and comradeship with those who are enrolled in other denominations. The practicability of such a position has been fully demonstrated by an experience of over a quarter of a century.

At first many feared that an interdenominational organization would undermine denominational fealty, but quite the contrary has been proved. By the mingling together of the young people of many of our denominations denominational loyalty has been stimulated instead of weakened, and at the same time incalculable advantage has accrued to the church of Christ in the world by the fellowship and comradeship of Christians of various denominational affiliations. Moreover, this position is that of the Master Himself. He certainly contemplated a large amount of unity in spirit and co-operation in service when He prayed for them which believed on Him, "That they may be one, as Thou, Father, art in Me and I in Thee; that they also may be one in us."

Christian Endeavor is international. In this movement all nations and peoples and kindreds and tongues have mingled together. Patriotism has not been discarded, but with it has been found a place for world citizenship. This, too, is in accordance with the will of God, for He "hath made of one blood all nations of men, for to dwell on all the face of the earth, and hath determined the times before appointed and the bonds of their habitation, that they should seek the Lord if haply they might feel after Him and find Him." Because God placed one race in Africa, another in Europe or one in Asia and another in America why should there be a lack of Christian fellowship and comradeship? There is no reason, and it should not be. Our Christian love and sympathy should be worldwide in their character, and thus we should be benefited and the cause of Christ more rapidly advanced among men.

A Novel Badge.

Rev. George W. Hinman, general secretary of the United Society of Christian Endeavor for China, recently sent to this country a Chinese Christian Endeavor badge, a picture of which is reproduced herewith. The society is gaining a strong foothold in the Celestial empire. Fuchau is the largest and most aggressive center of Christian Endeavor in China, there being over a hundred societies in the Fukien province. In the Peking station of the American board there are ten societies.

CHINESE CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR BADGE.

Strenuous Endeavor.

President Clark and Treasurer Shaw in four weeks visited twenty-two cities between St. Louis and Springfield, Mass., on a money raising tour for the work of the World's Union "in lands afar." Something more than $7,000 was raised. In speaking of the tour Dr. Clark said: "All the money thus raised goes directly to the foreign fields, not so much as a two cent postage stamp being kept at home for expenses. Mr. Shaw and I have paid our own car fares on this journey." This shows the beautiful, self sacrificing spirit of the leaders of the great Christian Endeavor movement and puts to shame the carping criticism of its critics.—J. R. C.

In Oklahoma.

The Christian Endeavor society of Darlington, Okla., is composed of Indians, Cheyennes, with the three government teachers. Peace petitions are sent to the United society by vote of the society, the motion being made by an Indian girl and seconded by an Indian boy.—Richard H. Harper.

Notable Women

Tsi An, Wonderful Old Dowager Empress of the Chinese Empire

From having been called for years the "terrible old woman of China" the dowager empress of that land may now well be named "the wonderful old woman of China." It has certainly come about that, with the exception of the empress of Japan, Tsi An, seventy years old last November, is the newest new woman of the far orient. It is coming to be understood that the best thing which can be for China is to have this iron old woman live long; that probably nobody but she would have been able to preserve the integrity of that empire.

Tsi An has abolished foot binding among the girls of her country. She has established schools and from her own private purse has contributed funds to build sixteen colleges in Chinese cities. She has given audiences face to face with foreigners, which no empress of China ever did before. She has even permitted her portrait to be painted by Miss Carl, an American. One of the notable sights of the St. Louis exposition was this picture of the wonderful old woman of China, with her gorgeous robes and distinguished finger nails three inches long.

Two persons are chiefly to be credited with the remarkable change for the better in dowager Empress Tsi An. One of them is her former adviser, brave old Li Hung Chang, General Grant's friend, and the other is a noble American woman, Mrs. Sarn J. Conger, wife of the former United States minister to China.

The Gunmaker's Daughter.

At the death of her mother, Mme. Krupp, the richest woman in the world will undoubtedly be Fraulein Bertha Krupp, daughter of the great cannon builder of Essen, Germany. When her father died two years ago he left to Bertha, his eldest daughter, aged nineteen, property worth $75,000,000 and the responsibility for the conduct of his immense interests, gunmaking, shipbuilding, iron and coal mining, stone quarrying, miscellaneous iron and steel works and a line of ocean steamers. The executive business of these vast enterprises is superintended by Miss Krupp, with the aid of experienced advisers.

The young lady is a solid business woman, in her ability to manage large interests somewhat resembling the American Helen Gould. By the time she is as old as some of her counselers Miss Krupp says she hopes she will know as much as they do about business. On the death of her mother the fortune of the gunmaker's daughter will be greatly increased.

DOWAGER EMPRESS TSI AN.

Mrs. Bandelier, Peruvian Explorer.

If for nothing else, Mrs. Fanny Bandelier deserves fame because, as she says, "I do not know what fear is."

When a mere child at school the things ordinary, silly, cowardly little girls scream at and run away from she did not mind in the least. No wonder, then, that when she became a young lady in her native Switzerland and was married to Professor Bandelier, the explorer, she went at once with him to Peru and began to rummage among ruins for relics of the incas. The fruit of the united labors of the pair for eleven years, a rare collection of prehistoric Peruvian and inca relics, has recently been placed on exhibition at the American Museum of Natural History in New York city. Mrs. Bandelier herself packed every article of the lot, besides having dug many of them.

Mrs. Jennie A. Maxim.

A notable practical philanthropist is Mrs. Jennie A. Maxim, art dealer and superintendent of the Union For Home Work of Pittsfield, Mass. One chief object of the union is to free Pittsfield from pauperism. Largely through the energetic and wise direction of Mrs. Maxim this has been well nigh accomplished.

The chief causes of pauperism Mrs. Maxim finds to be drink and laziness.

She has concluded that the whipping post is the best medicine for brutal husbands. Instead of being fed up and fattened in a comfortable jail while their families, deprived even of their miserable support, become public charges, Mrs. Maxim would have wife beaters soundly lashed and sent back to their work.

KATE BONNET

THE ROMANCE OF A PIRATE'S DAUGHTER

By FRANK R. STOCKTON

Copyright, 1902, by D. Appleton & Co., New York.

Bonnet was a little embarrassed by the peculiarity of the situation, but his heart was true to his new career.

"Friend Marchand," he said, "I see that you do not understand the state of affairs, and Ben Greenway there should have told you the moment he met you. I am no longer a planter of Barbadoes; I am a pirate of the sea, and the Jolly Roger floats above my ship. I belong to no nation; my hand is against all the world. You and your ship have been captured by me and my men, and your cargo is my prize. Now, what have you got on board, where do you hail from, and whither are you bound?"

Capt. Marchand looked at him fixedly.

"I sailed from London with a cargo of domestic goods for Kingston; thence, having disposed of most of my cargo, I am on my way to Bridgetown, where I hope to sell the remainder."

"Your goods will never reach Bridgetown," cried Bonnet; "they belong now to my men and me."

"What!" cried Ben Greenway, "ye speak wi'out sense or reason. Hae ye forgotten that this is Mr. Abner Marchand, your fellow-vestryman an' your senior warden? An' to him do ye talk o' takin' awa' his goods an' legal chattels?"

Bonnet looked at Greenway with indignation and contempt.

"Now listen to me," he yelled. "To the devil with the vestry and da—" the Scotchman's eyes and mouth were so rounded with horror that Bonnet stopped and changed his form of expression—"confound the senior warden. I am the pirate Bonnet, and regard not the Church of England."

"Nor your friends?" interpolated Ben.

"Nor friends nor any man," shouted Bonnet.

"Abner Marchand, I am sorry that your vessel should be the first one to fall into my power, but that has happened, and there is no help for it. My men are below ransacking your hold for the goods and treasure it may contain. When your cargo, or what we want of it, is safe upon my ship, I shall burn your vessel, and you and your men must walk the plank."

At this dreadful statement, Ben Greenway staggered backward in speechless dismay.

"Yes," cried Bonnet, "that shall I do, for there is naught else I can do. And then you shall see, you doubting Greenway, whether I am a pirate or no."

To all this Capt. Marchand said not a word. But at this moment a woman's scream was heard from below, and then there was another scream from another woman. Capt. Marchand started.

"Your men have wandered into my cabin," he exclaimed, "and they have frightened my passengers. Shall I go and bring them up, Maj. Bonnet? They will be better here."

"Ay, ay!" cried the pirate captain, surprised that there should be female passengers on board, and Marchand, followed by Ben Greenway, disappeared below.

"Confound women passengers," said Bonnet to himself; "that is truly a bit of bad luck."

In a few minutes Marchand was back, bringing with him a middle-aged and somewhat pudgy woman, very pale; a younger woman of exceeding plainness, and sobbing steadfastly; and also an elderly man, evidently an invalid, and wearing a long dressing-gown.

Ben Greenway now approached the pirate captain and led him aside.

"Let your men make awa' wi' the cargo as they please—I doubt if it be more than odds an' ends, for such are the goods they bring to Bridgetown—an' let them cast off an' go their way, an' ye an' I will return to Bridgetown in the Amanda an' a' may yet be weel, this bit o' folly bein' forgotten."

It might have been supposed that Bonnet would have retaliated upon the Scotchman for thus advising him, in the very moment of triumph, to give up his piratical career and to go home quietly to his plantation, but, instead of that, he paused for a moment's reflection.

"Ben Greenway," said he, "there is good sense in what you say. In truth, I cannot bring myself to put to death my old friend and neighbor and his helpless passengers. As for the ship, it will do me no more good burned than unburned. And there is another thing, Ben Greenway, which I would fain do, and it just came into my mind. I will write a letter to my wife and one to my daughter Kate. There is much which I wish them to know and which I have not yet been able to communicate. I will allow the Amanda to go on her way and I will send these two letters by her captain. They shall be ready presently, and you, Ben, stand by these people and see that no harm comes to them."

At this moment there were loud shouts and laughter from below, and Capt. Marchand came forward.

"Friend Bonnet," he said, "your men have discovered my store of spirits; in a short time they will be drunk, and it will then be unsafe for these, my passengers. Bid them, I pray you, to convey the liquors aboard your ship."

"Well said!" cried Bonnet. "I would not lose those spirits." And, stepping forward, he spoke to Big Sam, who had just appeared on deck, and ordered the casks to be conveyed on board the Revenge.

The latter laughed, but said: "Ay, ay, sir!"

Returning to Capt. Marchand, Bonnet said: "I will now step on board my ship and write some letters, which I shall ask you to take to Bridgetown with you. I shall be ready by the time the rest of your cargo is removed."

The captain of the pirates sat down in his well-furnished little room to write his letters, and the noise and confusion on deck, the swearing and the singing and the shouting to be heard everywhere, did not seem to disturb him in the least. He was a man whose mind could thoroughly engage itself with but one thing at a time, and the fact that his men were at work sacking the merchantman did not in the least divert his thoughts from his pen and paper.

So he quietly wrote to his wife that he had embraced a pirate's life, that he never expected to become a planter again, and that he left to her the enjoyment and management of his estate in Barbadoes. He hoped that, his absence having now relieved her of her principal reason for discontent with her lot, she would become happy and satisfied, and would allow those about her to be the same. He expected to send Ben Greenway back to her to help take care of her affairs, but if she should need further advice he advised her to speak to Master Newcombe.

The letter to his daughter was different; it was very affectionate. He assured her of his sorrow at not being able to take her with him and to leave her at Jamaica, and he urged her at the earliest possible moment to go to her uncle and to remain there until she heard from him or saw him—the latter being probable, as he intended to visit Jamaica as soon as he could, even in disguise if this method were necessary. He alluded to the glorious career upon which he was entering, and in which he expected some day to make a great name for himself, of which he hoped she would be proud.

When these letters were finished Bonnet hurried to the side of the vessel and looked upon the deck of the Amanda.

Capt. Marchand and Greenway had been waiting in anxious expectation for the return of Bonnet, and wondering how in the world a man could bring his mind to write letters at such a time as this.

"Take these letters, Ben," he said, leaning over the rail, "and give them to Capt. Marchand."

Ben Grenway at first declined to take the letters which Bonnet held out to him, but the latter now threw them at his feet on the deck, and, running forward, he soon found himself in a violent and disorderly crowd, who did not seem to regard him at all; booty and drink were all they cared for. Presently came Big Sam, giving orders and thrusting the men before him. He had not been drinking, and was in full possession of his crafty senses.

"Throw off the grapnels," exclaimed Big Sam, "and get up the foresel!" And then he perceived Bonnet. With a scowl upon his face Big Sam muttered: "I thought you were on the merchantman, but no matter. Shove her off, I say, or I'll break your heads."

The grapnels were loosened; the few men who were on duty shoved desperately; the foresail went up, and the two vessels began to separate. But they were not a foot apart when, with a great rush and scramble, Ben Greenway left the merchantman and tumbled himself on board the Revenge.

Bonnet rushed up to him. "You scoundrel! You rascal, Ben Greenway, what do you mean? I intended you to go back to Bridgetown on that brig. Can I never get rid of you?"

"No' till ye give up piratin'," said Ben with a grin. "Ye may split open my head, an' throw overboard my corpse, but my live body stays here as long as ye do."

With a savage growl Bonnet turned away from his faithful adherent. Things were getting very serious now and he could waste no time on personal quarrels. Great holes and splits had been discovered in the heads of the barrels of spirits, and the precious liquor was running over the decks. This was the work of the sagacious Big Sam, who had the strongest desire to get away from the Amanda before the pirate crew became so drunk that they could not manage the vessel. He was a deep man, that Big Sam, and at this moment, although he said nothing about it, he considered himself the captain of the pirate ship which he sailed.

"I told ye," said Ben, "ye had better stayed on board that merchantman an' gone back like a Christian to your ain hame an' family. It will be no safe place for ye, or for me neither, when that black-hearted scoundrel o' a Big Sam gets time to attend to ye."

"Black-hearted?" inquired Bonnet, but without any surprise in his voice.

An Ideal Location

Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE

LINDEN, N. J.

Beautiful and Accessible

2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,

14 MILES FROM NEW YORK

On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER, AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL, or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL, IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

FOR INFORMATION concerning lots in these beautiful Park Cemeteries, and FREE transportation to prospective lot buyers, apply at once to any LEADING UNDERTAKER or offices of the Associations:

LOWER TOWN SUBMERGED.

Parkersburg Threatened With Much Damage From High Water.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., March 22.—The river is 40.7 here, and the crest of the flood is expected today, when, it is feared, a depth of forty-three feet will have been reached.

The lower parts of the town are pretty well submerged, and nearly 200 families living in the lower sections have had to leave their homes, while many of the factories have closed down because of the water. Ample warning of the flood having been given, preparations were made so that the loss will be inconsiderable.

Nearly all of the town is above the highest water and is not affected by the flood as yet.

Heavy Floods Out West.

EL PASO, Tex., March 23.—Through traffic on the Southern Pacific is at a standstill. No trains have arrived from the west for two days. Bridges are cut near Yuma, Ariz., and several places farther west. The Colorado river is said to have carried away one or more bridges of the Southern Pacific. The bridge at Tempe has gone out, and the Phenix and Eastern is tied up in consequence.

Flood at Pomeroy.

POMEROY, O., March 23.—The flood is breaking over Front street here. A few of the business houses will be flooded, but no great damage is expected.

FLEET AT HAVANA.

Five Hundred American Tars Entertained by Cubans.

HAVANA, March 23. — The great event of the visit of the United States warships to Havana has just closed. Five hundred sailors and marines who were given shore liberty in the city enjoyed an elaborate luncheon as the guests of several prominent Cubans. The luncheon was served in the National theater, the tables being arranged elliptically. The jolly scene was further enlivened by plenty of American music, cake walking, etc. The only speaker was Mayor O'Farrill, who welcomed the Americans and reiterated the appreciation of Cubans for all that America has done for Cuba.

At boat races in the harbor crews from the battleship Kentucky easily carried off the honors of the occasion, winning one prize of $200 and another of $100. The battleship Missouri's men won the prize for the small boat race. The Cuban crews joined with the spectators in applauding the victors.

President Palma gave an elegant dinner to seventy persons at the palace last night in honor of the American naval officers. Others present included Minister Squiers, the American legation secretaries, members of the Cuban cabinet, judges of the supreme court, the governor of the province and the mayor of Havana.

SPORTING NEWS.

DIAMOND DUST.

The Boys' Department, of the Y. M. C. A., will be represented on the diamond this year by a baseball team. Kenneth Robbie will supervise the organization of the team. Among those who will probably play are Woodhull, Loughlin, Fountain, Briggs, Caldwell, Line, Doeringer, Stern, Robins and Morris.

Confirmation of the statement that Ernest Linderman would pitch for the Plainfield Baseball Association1 was received yesterday in an announcement made in the New York Evening World. It says: "Ernest Linderman, one of the best semi-professional baseball pitchers in this country, will not play with Johnny McGraw's champion Giants the coming season. Linderman was offered a contract by McGraw to play with the Giants this year, but the salary offered was not large enough to suit him, so he decided to stick to semi-professional ball this season. He has returned McGraw his contract with thanks. Linderman at present holds a very responsible position with a big life insurance company in New York. He has a chance during the season to play with semi-professional teams on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays, so he came to the conclusion that he could fare better by playing that way than he could by joining the professional ranks. Linderman will not pitch for the Hoboken nine this year. Instead he will twirl for the Plainfield team on Saturdays and the Perth Amboy team on Sundays."

VARIOUS SPORTS.

Final arrangements for the dual meet between the Boys' Departments of Rahway and this city at the former's gymnasium have been completed and the event will take place on Saturday morning, April 1. About twelve members of the local department will go to Rahway, the representatives to be selected by Physical Director Henckel. The events will include running high jump, running broad jump, fence vault, and eight potato race. The probable team which will compete in these events will be Roy Woodhull, Loughlin and Manning. A basketball game will conclude the morning's sport, and the afternoon will be spent socially. Dinner will be served at the Rahway association.

ROD AND GUN.

One hundred and twenty-five thousand specimens of black bass and about five million specimens of brook trout are to be distributed throughout the State of New Jersey by the United States fish commission within the next few weeks. This is the annual distribution season of the fish commission and New Jersey is not going to fare so well this year, for the reason that the demand is far in excess of the supply.

GUN CLUB SHOOT.

A Five-Months' Tournament to Begin in April—A Prize of a Silver Cup is Offered.

The Plainfield Gun Club met last night at the store of Harry Dreier on West Front street, and completed arrangements for a five months' tournament to start in April. Shoots will be held on the second and fourth Saturdays in each month for a handsome silver cup offered by J. Wesley Johnson. The shoot will be on the point system and each member will be handicapped. Only membes of the club will be allowed to compete.

Philip Jahn, George Scribner and Harry Dreier were appointed official scorers and Henry P. Vesseller the official handicapper. William A. Coddington was elected to membership. The club decided to hold a practice shoot on its grounds this afternoon.

J. Stanley Mosher, of West Fifth street, who has been in Panama for the past year, sailed for home yesterday.

Atlantic City's Marvelous Spring Season.

Atlantic City is the famous spring resort as is attested by the great throng which is now at this widely known Seaside City. Its great boardwalk is as busy as on a summer day and the weather, well it can't be beat. Not even the Metropolitan Centres have as many fine hotels as Atlantic and few have any larger. Every hotel contains every comfort which the most exacting guest might demand and the service is ever par excellence. The board-walk is of course the most attractive feature, but boating, fishing, gunning, golf and every outdoor sport is provided and the visitor who does not have a good time at Atlantic City is few and far between. The New Jersey Central is the natural route to Atlantic City and its fast three-hour trains are as widely known as Atlantic City itself. The trains are vestibuled, have buffet Pullmans and are exceptionally fast. They leave New York at 9:40 a. m., and 3:40 p. m., and 9:40 a. m. Sundays. Write for detailed folder to C. M. Burt, G. P. A., New Jersey Central, New York City.

The Best Furniture Guide.

A complete directory to a five acre establishment. Since 1860, the progressive furniture and carpet house of Amos H. VanHorn, 73 Market street, Newark, have been putting out catalogues of their immense establishment, but this season they have outstepped all past records and have issued for free distribution the handsomest booklet ever put out by any one house. It is well named "The Five Acre Store" catalogue, for it makes an excellent guide book to this immense establishment, giving people a good idea of what the various goods in all the different departments cost as well as what they look like, for the illustrations are an important part of the work.

Latest Spring Styles.

The colored fashion supplement presented with every copy of next Sunday's World will be unusually attractive. The fashions are secured by special arrangement with The Delineator, the celebrated woman's magazine. The issue of April 9 will be even more attractive, as it will be an Easter number of great merit. Order from newsdealer in advance, as supply will be limited.

CHURCHES REVIEW WORK

Annual Sessions Held by First and Park Ave. Baptists.

REPORTS EXCELLENT

Officers Are Chosen and Plans for Ensuing Year's Work Are Discussed.

Dr. J. B. Probasco, H. E. Needham and Frank W. Jones, whose terms as deacons expired, were re-elected for five years at the business meeting of the First Baptist church, last night. Dr. Probasco expressed a desire to retire from the board of deacons, but he was persuaded to continue. Mrs. John D. Runyon declining to continue as a member of the Board of Managers for the Old Folks' Home in Roseville, her place was filled by the election of Mrs. J. A. Chamblies for a term of three years.

Dr. Probasco presented the report for the deacons. This showed receipts of $1,150.49 and a balance of $128.49.

O. B. Leonard, clerk of the church, presented an impressive tribute to the memory of Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, which will be spread on the minutes. He referred to his godly life and devotion to his work while pastor of the church for thirty-nine years. During this time 1,651 persons were received into the membership of the church, and of this number 977 were converted through his instrumentality and were baptized by him.

It was stated by Rev. Dr. J. A. Chamblies, who presided at the meeting, that there would be baptism on Sunday night, there being several candidates received during the past few weeks and now await baptism.

Several members were received by letter from other Baptist churches, including Mrs. Capron, daughter of Rev. Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Chamblies, who resides in the south.

Encouraging reports from the various societies of the Park Avenue Baptist church made the annual meeting of that church last night a decidedly gratifying one. Rev. A. E. Finn, astor of the church, presided and Charles Dayton acted as clerk.

The first report was read by Harry Cumming as secretary of the Sunday-school. The membership at the present time is 185, an increase of 19 over last year. Of this number the average attendance during the past year has been 100. The receipts of the Sunday-school for the last year have amounted to $461.05, while the disbursements for missions and for general expenses were $63.25 and $386.63 respectively. A general outline of the work was given showing what has been accomplished in a routine way.

The Ladies' Aid Society report showed a membership of 20 with an average attendance of 12 at the monthly meetings. There is a balance of $35 in the treasury at present. During the past season, the Women's Foreign Missionary Circle took in $114.48, from which $97.80 was expended in current expenses. The balance on hand is $16.68. Mrs. Nelson Runyon read the report for the Women's Home Missionary Society, telling briefly of the work of that organization, emphasizing the fact that $130 has been raised during 1904-05 for the support of the work.

One of the most interesting reports was that of Miss Florence Hawkins for the Y. P. S. C. E. The membership of the society is 58, a gain of 7 over last year. The total receipts were $122.87, of which $105.41 was spent in carrying on the work. The meetings have been held weekly and have been largely attended. Under the auspices of the senior society, a junior organization with 13 members is in operation. The King's Daughters have a membership of 18, and have donated $35 toward the support of Home and Italian missions and the local baby camp.

Following the reports of the various societies, the pastor read a general announcement of the work of the year, in which he described in brief the different organizations and their work in the church. In his report, Rev. Mr. Finn expressed the thanks of the church to the Plainfield Symphony Orchestra for the concert rendered Monday night. He announced that a series of evangelistic meetings will be held at the church beginning April 24, to last for one week.

Charles Dayton declined to serve as clerk of the church for another year and in his place was elected Harry C. Runyon. The treasurer was elected in the person of B. F. Vail. The deacons all received re-election as follows: William F. Talliman, J. R. Giles and T. H. Cuming.

Complying with the request of the entertainment committee, James E. Martine, whose experiences as a Democratic campaign orator covers a period of forty years, has consented to deliver a speech before the Men's Club, of Trinity Reformed church, next Thursday night. His subject will be "The Ins and Outs of Politics."

Principal Travell's Advice.

Principal Travell spoke yesterday morning at the chapel exercises at the Plainfield High School about the importance of doing everything thoroughly. He told of a number of instances where things have been done a trifle carelessly by workmen and then in after years the defect showed itself in loss of life and money. He tried to instill upon the students the thought that they should try and begin even early at this stage in life to do everything right and then in the future they would be bound to do everything in the correct manner.

Quietly Married.

Miss Sarah Stites, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morgan Stites, of Steiner place, and Fred Winn, of Linden avenue, were married by Rev. J. O. McKelvey, of Warren chapel, at his home in Grandview avenue, last night at 8 o'clock. Miss Jessie Stites, a sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and Ray Winn, a brother of the groom, best man. The couple will reside in Linden avenue.

Studying Labrador.

At the regular prayer meeting of the Congregational church last night, an interesting hour was spent with the works of Dr. Duke and Dr. Grenfill on the subject "Labrador." Dr. Grenfill recently lectured on Labrador at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church. The books were read in part by Rev. C. L. Goodrich, pastor of the church.

Montclair Team Won.

By a score of 28 to 5, the business men's basketball team from the Montclair, Y. M. C. A., defeated a similar team from the local association, in this city last night. During the evening there was an exhibition of tumbling and apparatus work.

JAP WROTE POEM IN BLOOD

Handkerchief Found on Person of Dead Islander Contains Verse Telling Loyalty.

On my way to the rear, after the battle of Nanshan, writes a Japanese officer, in Leslie's Monthly, I came suddenly upon a couple of soldiers with a lantern. They were about to take the lifeless body of one of our officers from the hostile trench. The uncertain light of the lantern fell upon the pallid face of the lifeless officer covered with blood; in the dead man I recognized one of my own friends. Thrusting my arm under his head, I took him in my arms. Tied around his brow was a piece of cloth, a towel, perhaps a handkerchief. It was stained with blood from the fountain that a Russian bullet had opened at his temple. I untied the piece of cloth around his head. In the light of the lantern which the soldier held always beside me I saw the round sun of our imperial standard. It was not a towel, then, not a handkerchief. Beside the sun of our national flag, in spite of blood stains, I saw something on this flag that made me frown. I made out two lines of writing upon it, evidently a classic couplet. The rusty red of the letters told me that it was written in blood. In spite of the blood-stains I managed to make out the following couplet:

"Forever shall we guard the august standard of our sovereign prince,
Even though these, our lives of earth, should vanish with the dews of the morrow."

NO BOUNDS TO HIS LOYALTY

Balloon Vender Celebrates Recognition by Duchess by Throwing Wares Away.

A pretty little incident was recently witnessed in Moscow in connection with the imperial children of Russia. While driving in the fair ground with her sisters Grand Duchess Olga espied a peasant offering colored balloons for sale. Giving an order to stop the carriage, she called the man to her side and selected several balloons for herself and her sisters, for which she rewarded the astonished peasant with a ten-ruble piece. The gratified moujik in vain endeavored to stammer out his thanks to the little princess and at the same time, in the characteristic Slavonic manner, he crossed himself and called on all the saints to witness his good fortune. Then, in a sudden excess of loyalty and abandonment, he cut the string which held the remaining balloons together, and allowed all his stock in trade to float away together.

Wooden Russia.

Few people who have not traveled about the Russian empire can imagine how boundless is its wealth in timber. "Wooden Russia" is the name applied to the vast forest areas of Russia in Europe, which cover nearly 500,000,000 acres, or 36 per cent. of the entire area of the country. In Russia houses built of any other material than wood are almost unknown outside the cities, and wood constitutes the principal fuel. The forest belt called the "Taiga," in Siberia, stretches in a direct line from the Urals to the Pacific for 4,000 miles, and is in many parts 500 miles broad. All this is the property of the czar.

ARRANGE RACE MEETS

Plainfield Driving Association Plans Numerous Events.

PRIZES ARE OFFERED

J. Wesley Johnston Re-Elected President and He Will Appoint Special Committee.

Following a re-organization of the Plainfield Driving Association at a meeting held in the Casino, last night, plans for a busy season at the Driving Park, which it controls, were made by the members. It includes an invitation matinee meeting to be held in June and a professional meet to be held on July 4, similar to the successful affair conducted last year. In addition other events are to be arranged for later so that the association will have one of the busiest summers it has has enjoyed in a long time.

In the re-organization the following officers were elected: President, J. Wesley Johnston; vice president, W. F. Williams; secretary, Adam Blair; treasurer, Harry F. Johnston. To draft a constitution and by-laws this committee was appointed with instructions to report at the next meeting: W. F. Williams, J. H. Green, Jr., and Edward H. VanBuren. The president was also authorized to appoint a committee of fifteen to include prominent horsemen of Plainfield and vicinity, for the purpose of taking all plans for the matinee meeting in hand and carry them out. It was declared that invitations would be extended throughout the surrounding counties and that many valuable prizes would be offered.

The professional meet to be given on the Fourth of July will be conducted on a large scale, the success of previous affairs demonstrating that the Plainfield public is interested in the sport. The plans are as yet immature but they will be carefully worked out by the various committees to be appointed later. The Driving Park and the grandstands are all to be thoroughly overhauled and every convenience provided for crowds, particulary as the coming horse show and Watchung Hunt Club steeple chase races are to be held there.

VISITS LOCAL PLANT TO GAIN INFORMATION

EXPERT SPENDS SOME TIME AT SEWAGE DISPOSAL BEDS.

George W. Fuller, of the partnership of Rudolph Herring, the well known hydraulic and sanitary expert, who was consulting engineer for the city in the building of the Plainfield water works, has been examining the sewage disposal works. Mr. Fuller is conducting experiments on sewage disposal at Columbus, Ohio, that city having appropriated $30,000 for experiments to extend over a year.

The results of the first six months' experiments will be completed early in April, and Mr. Fuller has invited Street Commissioner Gavett to visit his office in New York and look over figures, thus giving Plainfield the benefit of the elaborate tests being carried on at Columbus. Mr. Herring as well is interested in watching the workings of the local plant, which is the largest of its kind in this country.

56 YEARS WED.

Mr. and Mrs. Abner S. Coriell Celebrate Notable Event Tomorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. Abner S. Coriell, of New Market, will celebrate in a quiet way tomorrow the fifty-sixth anniversary of their marriage. This aged couple have lived in that village during their entire married life and have a host of friends who will congratulate them on this occasion.

Mr. Coriell was a conspicuous figure at the school election at New Market on Tuesday and claims the distinction of never having missed a vote upon any public affair since reaching his majority. Considering that this anniversary will be celebrated with his second wife the event is a most unusual one.

In the City Court.

Frank Knauder, who claimed to have a good home in Brooklyn, was arrested on West Front street, yesterday, on a charge of soliciting. To Judge Runyon in the city court this morning, he said that he had been seeking work and that several people had given him money. His story was believed and he was discharged.

Mrs. Morris Tremain, of Buffalo, is visiting her mother, Mrs. James Middleditch, of Truell Court.

FIGHT OVER MILLIONS

Heirs of Wealthy Mr. Weightman Seek to Break His Will.

PLAINFIELDER'S SHARE

Grandson Married to Miss Fannie Cox, of West Seventh Street—Estate of $60,000,000.

Legal steps to break the will of the late William Weightman, the Philadelphia multi-millionaire who left his entire fortune to his daughter, Mrs. R. J. C. Walker, have been taken by his daughter-in-law, Mrs. James Wister. In her suit she will be joined by six grand-children of the dead millionaire, one of whom is Aubrey Weightman who married Miss Fanny Cox, daughter of Mrs. Rowland Cox, of West Seventh street.

Weightman's fortune was appraised at $60,000,000 and the entire amount, together with the control of his immense chemical and drug business, was willed Mrs. Walker. She has since been conducting the latter and has been exploited as one of America's most remarkable women. Mrs. Wister contends that favoritism and testamentary incapacity were responsible for Weightman's action. She and the six grand-children were cut off with the proverbial shilling.

The documents Mrs. Wister has obtained as evidence are said to be sufficient to cause a genuine stir if the case is not settled before they are presented before the Register. Among them are letters seemingly showing that Mr. Weightman intended to remember his other heirs. There is a reference to a codicil to his will.

Some of the letters will be backed by evidence showing that they were written immediately after the millionaire had talked with Mrs. Walker, and their contents will be compared with letters and statements from him immediately before the visit.

READY TO MAKE WAY FOR TRUST CO. BUILDING

DEMOLITION OF OLD STRUCTURES BEGINS NEXT WEEK.

Commencing April 1, Alex Kane, who has purchased the old buildings on Park avenue owned by The Plainfield Trust Company, will begin to tear down the old structures. He will remove the building extending from Park avenue and West Second street to the brick building formerly occupied by Charles Schanz as a saloon. Mefford Giles, the butcher; William Randolph, the barber, and A. H. Enander and Andrew W. Johnson, plumber and tinsmith, are now the only ones occupying these stores and they will have to move before April 1.

Mr. Giles will move to a new store built for him on West Second street by W. R. Codington. William Randolph has leased one of Charles H. Hand's stores on Watchung avenue, near the trolley stand, while Mr. Enander and Mr. Johnson will move to Watchung avenue, near the borough line.

Mr. Kane has been given twenty days from April 1 in which to remove the old buildings and he promises to fulfill his contract with the Plainfield Trust Company. If the weather will permit, the trust company will begin operations on its new structure as soon as the old buildings are off the property. The architect engaged to draw plans has completed the same and they have been approved by the company.

With favorable weather the work of digging a cellar will require but a short time and then will follow the construction. In the meantime the company will complete the details of awarding contracts for the different branches of work so that there may be no further delay.

Toll for Autos.

The House of Assembly has passed the bill introduced by Assemblyman Hunt, of Salem County, to compel automobiles to pay toll on turn-pikes of the State. The rate established is one cent a mile for machines with two persons, and two cents a mile for machines carrying more than two persons. A bill is pending which prohibits the running of automobiles by children less than sixteen years old.

Engagement Announced.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Julia B. Olson, of West Seventh street, and Charles Jonson, of Hoboken. The wedding is to take place this spring.

FR. BOGAN COMING HERE

Writes Himself That He is to Take Charge at St. Mary's.

NOW AT PALM BEACH

The Daily Press' Announcement Also Confirmed by Rev. T. A. Wallace, Chancellor of Diocese.

Confirmation of The Daily Press' story given exclusively a week ago, that Father Bernard M. Bogan, of St. Mary's church, Rahway, would be the successor of Father Andew M. Egan as pastor of St. Mary's church, this city, was made yesterday when the former wrote his parishoners to that effect. In addition, Rev. Thomas A. Wallace, chancellor of the diocese, declared the truth of the statement although he said formal announcement will not be made until Father Bogan returns from the South. At present he is at Palm Beach, Florida, having gone there to recuperate after an illness that compelled him to give up work for the time being.

In his letter to the Rahway parish, Father Bogan states that Bishop John J. O'Connor assigned him to Plainfield and that as he is greatly improved he would enter upon his new duties within a few weeks. He expressed regret at having to make the change at this time, mainly for the reason that his members had subscribed $400 that he might go South and return to them refreshed in mind and body. It was the will of the bishop, he said, and accordingly he would become Father Egan's successor.

Father Bogan is a native of Newark and for the last three years has been president of the Catholic Young Men's National Association. He has been prominently identified with the Catholic Young Men's Diocesan Union and is its present chaplain. He is a graduate of Seton Hall College, has been in orders about fifteen years and is one of the most popular rectors in the diocese.

At the present time, Rev. Father J. W. Delehanty is acting pastor of St. Mary's church, this city, and he is being assisted by Father Smith, of Newark, who will relinquish the office when Father Bogan takes charge. As yet no one has been determined upon as Father Bogan's successor at Rahway.

WESTFIELDER'S BODY FOUND AT BOTTOM OF ECHO LAKE

DISCOVERY CLEARS UP MYSTERY OF JULIUS MASON'S DISAPPEARANCE.

The mystery surrounding the disappearance of Julius Mason, a contractor's helper, from his home in Westfield last November, was cleared up yesterday when his body was discovered at the bottom of Echo lake, a small sheet of water just outside the town. Workmen employed by an ice company were clearing debris away from the banks when one of them noticed a form in the water and soon brought it to the surface. It was removed to an undertaker's office and though badly decomposed was quickly recognized as that of Mason. The police believe he committed suicide and County Physician Westcott granted a burial permit.

Mason was thirty-five years old and resided with his father, Frederick Mason. He was employed by Contractor Fink and was well known throughout the town. He disappeared on November 4 last and there was nothing to indicate where he had gone or what caused him to drop out of sight. The police found $80 in his room at home which they held until yesterday when it was given to his two sisters who reside at Cranford. The father refused to allow the body to be brought home and the sisters arranged for the funeral.

Voting Machines.

The voting machine bill passed the Senate yesterday. The bill provides for the purchase of voting machines and the regulation of their use of elections. The machines may be used at all elections, and a voting machine commission is provided for. The boards of freeholders may purchase and provide the machines for each election district.

Funeral of William J. Rowlett.

The funeral of William J. Rowlett was held in the Mount Olive Baptist church, yesterday afternoon, Rev. E. E. Jackson officiating. The gathering of relatives and friends was large and included a delegation of the Hod Carriers' Union, six of whom acted as pall bearers. Interment was made in the Methodist cemetery.

GAVE AWAY FRANCHISE

Piscataway Township Com.'s Action Arouses the Public.

WATER CO. SCHEME

Even the Alleged Agent of New Concern Professes Ignorance of It.

The residents of Piscataway Township are indignant over the recent action of the Township Committee in granting a franchise to the Piscataway Water Company to establish a plant and lay water mains throughout the township, and they are beginning to realize what a franchise has been given away for a mere nothing. Attention was called to the matter by the publication of an article recently in The Daily Press. An investigation was made and no one could be found who had any knowledge concerning the newly-organized company. Even David Lawson, in whose place of business at New Market, the company had established an office, was unable to give any information about the company or what it proposed to do, and as for the incorporators of the company practically nothing was known.

According to the terms of the franchise the company is given the right to lay water mains throughout the township and not a single provision is made that it shall put the roads in as good condition as found, neither does it specify when the work shall begin or end or where the water plant is to be located. All of these things are not agitating the minds of the taxpayers of the township and they want to know by what right the committee gave such a franchise without making a full investigation into the standing of the company.

In speaking of the matter yesterday a leading citizen of New Market said that he believed that the company was organized to secure such a franchise as it obtained and would then sell out at a good price to the Middlesex Water Company or some other company for a good sum. He believed that the Township Committee had been hoodwinked into giving valuable rights for practically nothing.

Those who are interesting themselves in the matter are still unable to ascertain where the company proposes to get its water and locate its pumping station. The franchise practically gives the company every good road throughout the township and it is at liberty to tear them up and leave them in that condition. A majority of the residents in Piscataway township would like to secure such a water supply, and it was understood that the Watchung Water Company, now serving Dunellen, intended to extend its mains to New Market and surrounding territory, but nothing has been heard of that proposition lately. However, the residents want to know something about any company that plans to operate a water plant within their territory and it is quite likely that when the Township Committee meets again they may demand an investigation by those officials.

Several members of the committee, when question about the matter have expressed entire ignorance and this has made the people curious to know more about the Piscataway Water Company.

DENIES HOME TROUBLE.

Mrs. J. W. Waters Makes Statement Regarding Husband's Disappearance.

In connection with the disappearance of J. William Waters from his home on Harrison avenue, Saturday night, The Daily Press is in receipt of the following communication:

Editor, The Daily Press:

Owing to the fact that a report has recently been circulated to the effect that J. William Waters, my husband, left home on account of domestic troubles, I take this opportunity of stating through the columns of your valuable paper that we have never had the slightest difference up to the time of his departure; that when he left the house Saturday evening he was evidently in good spirits. I furthermore state that all rumors to the contrary are absolutely false and unfounded.

Mrs. J. W. Waters.
Frederick J. Huff, Attorney.

March 24, 1905.

The Daily Press at the request of Mrs. J. E. Waters, published the statement that domestic trouble was responsible for her son's action.

Peter Flynn, for several years engaged in the retail shoe business on West Front street, has decided to secure a position in some other line. The store he now occupies has been leased by another party who will take possession about April 1.

EXAMINED IN TRANCE

Alienist Place Wood Under Hypnotic Influence.

STICKS TO HIS STORY

Corroborates Tale He Told When Arrested for Killing Watchung Grocer.

In the presence of his counsel, Messrs. Swackhamer and Bird, of this city, and Prosecutor James L. Griggs, George H. Wood, the alleged murderer of Grocer Williams, was again put through a thorough mental test, yesterday, by expert alienists and physicians employed by the Somerset County authorities, among them being Dr. Pierce Bally, of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, of New York; Dr. Frederick Pearson, medical director of the Craig Epileptic Colony, of Sonyea, N. Y., and Dr. A. L. Stillwell, of Somerville. It differed from all other examinations in that Wood at the close was placed in a hypnotic spell by a New York medium and asked all manner of questions in connection with the tragedy.

Wood was first brought into the court house and divested of all clothing. The physicians pricked his body with needles and found him sensitive to pain. Then he was examined for more than an hour by the alienists, and the questions and answers were taken down by a stenographer. At the end of this examination Wood was placed in the trance and while apparently under hypnotic influence he told of his movements with his friend "Mack" on the day he left New York for Pennsylvania. He went to the Cortland street ferry and took a boat for New Jersey, after which he got on a train and travelled to a railroad junction about thirty miles from the city, where he took another train, after which his memory became a blank. He revealed nothing of his actions on the day he killed Williams in the Watchung Mountains.

The story Wood told in the trance corroborated the story he told when he was first arrested, but the Somerset County authorities say now they have positive proof that Wood was in Plainfield at the time he says he embarked at the Cortland street ferry. They are not satisfied that Wood's trance was the real thing. Wood's counsel are highly pleased with the hypnotic part of the examination. Drs. Bally and Peterson will render an opinion as to Wood's sanity in two or three weeks.

NEWARK PASTOR'S TALK TO HOPE CHAPEL AUDIENCE

TALKS INTERESTINGLY ON THE "A B C OF MANHOOD."

Before a good sized audience in Hope Memorial chapel last night, Rev. Theodore M. Shipherd, pastor of the Belleville Avenue Congregational church, Newark, delivered the third of special sermon subjects. It was a strong address and was as fully enjoyed as was that of Dr. Richards last week.

The clergyman's theme was, "The A B C of Manhood" and in this connection he placed all men in three classes corresponding to the kindergarten, grammar and high school grades of the American educational system. The first, he said, never got beyond the "curious" stage, and remained at a standstill; the second were beginning to think and the third were those who were reaching out and attaining full beliefs. Man is not full grown, he asserted, until he has attained some belief. In this trend of thought, he said there were three essential points that man must realize: First, the absolute love of God; second, the necessity of seeking brotherly love and third, that God is related to him.

The fourth address in the series will be given on Friday night of next week by Major-General O. O. Howard, U. S. A. retired, of Burlington, Vt., an uncle of Rev. L. R. Howard. His subject will be "Lincoln and the Mountaineers."

KEELY GOT CONTRACT

Street Committee Renewed Agreement for Sprinkling.

Only Competitor in Bidding Was Mrs. K. Burke, Who Failed on Conditions.

There were two bids received for street sprinkling at the meeting of the Councilmanic street committee, held last night. One was from John E. Keely, who has held the contract, and the other was from Mrs. K. Burke, who bid on the work for two teams, furnishing drivers, horses and harness. Her bid was $175 a month, but was not accompanied by the necessary $500 check.

Mr. Keely's bid for the entire contract was $667, which includes eight wagons, horses, drivers, harness, etc. Mr. Keely's bid was subdivided as follows: Two, four and six wagons, $90 per month for each wagon; eight wagons, $83 3-8 per month for each wagon, or a total of $667. The committee will report on this matter at the April meeting and undoubtedly Mr. Keely will get the contract.

The committee also received bids for the furnishing of roushed stone for the coming year. There were two bidders, J. H. Wilson & Co., and Mobus & Schoeller, the latter firm being the lowest. It offered to furnish slabs, 2½ and 1½ inches for $1 a ton and all smaller sizes for $1.10 a ton, delivered. J. H. Wilson & Co.'s bid was $1.20 a ton for dust and one inch, and $1.10 for 1½ and 2½ inch size.

Andrew Beach submitted the only bid for culverts, curbing and crosswalks, as follows: Culverts not larger than 4x8 and not less than 3½ inches thick, 30 cents a square foot; crosswalks of regulation size, 64 cents a lineal foot, with Belgian edge, 82 cents a lineal foot; curbing 49 and 57 cents a lineal foot. The committee will also report on these bids at the April meeting when the contracts will be awarded.

NO $20,000 SCHOOL FOR PISCATAWAY

TAXPAYERS OPPOSE SCHOOL BOAAD'S PLAN.

Although the residents of New Market will undoubtedly make another effort to secure a $30,000 high school building in that village, there is every indication that the proposition will be voted down as in the first instance. This statement was made by a prominent resident of New Market today. He said that if the voters of New Market had asked for $10,000 or $15,000 they would have voted that sum, but the taxpayers generally throughout the township are against spending $30,000 for one school.

It is now definitely settled that when the taxpayers meet to vote appropriations for new buildings, they will be asked to erect a school in the vicinity of Lincoln and another one between Plainfield and New Market. The residents of South Plainfield have solved the problem as far as they are concerned. They have an extra room in their school and they want to establish the ninth and tenth grades there. If they are allowed to establish the higher grades, it will do away with the present plan of sending the South Plainfield children to New Market.

Other districts in the township are also anxious to do away with the expense of transportation as far as possible and the taxpayers will endeavor to have schools placed at more convenient points. These propositions are sure to cause a lively discussion at the approaching school meeting and it now looks as though the New Market contingent will be defeated if it attempts to secure an adoption of its plan for the $30,000 building. It is expected that a call for the meeting will be issued soon by the school board.

Defeat Hoagland's Bill.

The bill in the Senate, which permits boards empowered to grant licenses for the sale of liquor in townships and villages to fix the hours within which liquor may be sold in the territory or portion thereof, was criticised on third reading yesterday, on the ground that too much power would be given to the licensing body, which could discriminate, if it saw fit, in fixing a certain closing hour for one portion of a community and another for another part thereof. It was lost.

MRS. HALL'S LECTURE

She Talks on Gothic Architecture in France.

DESCRIBED CATHEDRALS

Daughter of Mrs. Julia Ward Howe Delivers Third in Series of Lenten Addresses.

"Gothic Architecture in France," was the subject of a lecture given at All Souls' church, yesterday afternoon, by Mrs. Florence Howe Hall. The lecture was illustrated with fine views and was of special interest as Mrs. Hall, accompanied by her husband, visited the world-famed cathedrals about which she talked, during the summer of 1902, and she was thoroughly conversant with every phase of her subject. She is an entertaining lecturer and held the closest attention of her large audience from beginning to end.

Among the cathedrals and churches described were The Abbey Church of St. Denis, Cathedrals of Notre Dam, Chartres, Amiens, Beauvais, Reuin, Rheims and the Church of Saint Ouen at Rouen. Mrs. Hall said that on the best of authority the French Gothic architecture is considered to be the most original and the finest in the world. It has been imitated extensively in England, Germany and other countries. The cathedrals about which she spoke were built between the twelfth and fourteenth centuries, and were largely the work of the people as they gave freely of their times and means. Some of the pictures displayed rich works of art, various parts of the Bible being illustrated with handsome figures and sacred vessels.

Mrs. Hall said that the Gothic architecture was despised for a time but that in the nineteenth century there was a revival of interest in it and lovers of this art devoted a great deal of time to a study of it. During the thirteenth century there was a most wonderful revival of this work and a great many cathedrals were built.

The devotion to the work was shown in the way the people carted stone for the construction of the cathedrals, and while they were largely the property of the clergy, the common people had more than usual interest in them and they learned to look upon them as their own. This architecture has been considered the most beautiful since the time of Greek art and that was pronounced to be the most wonderful in history.

Several views shown by Mrs. Hall gave those present an idea of the difficult work in executing this style of architecture. Various figures were used in interpreting scenes and incidents in the Bible and in some cases the figures were so small that they could scarcely be seen.

Considerable interest was shown in the views of the interiors of some of the largest cathedrals. The massive and stately columns, spacious auditoriums and entrances were much admired. In her description of stained glass windows and other ornaments, a clearer conception of the grandeur of these structures was obtained. Mrs. Hall also read extracts from Lowell's poems describing eloquently this style of architecture.

At the close of the lecture many of the women remained and examined more closely some of the pictures of these cathedrals. The next lecture in this course will be given at All Souls' church on Thursday afternoon, March 30, at 3 o'clock, by Miss Katherine Johnston on "Antony and Cleopatra."

She also had an incised wound of the forehead and general contusions.

CODY LOST HIS SUIT

"Buffalo Bill's" Partner a Good Mother and True Wife.

HIS TROUBLE LIQUOR, NOT POISON

The Unhappiness Was Caused by Actions of Ex-hunter and Scout, as Shown by Letter From Daughter Arta Before Her Death.

SHERIDAN, Wyo., March 24.—"Buffalo Bill" (Colonel William F. Cody) has lost his suit here for divorce from Louisa Cody, Judge R. H. Scott of the district court deciding that charges of attempts on the part of Mrs. Cody to poison her husband and other allegations had not been proved.

Judge Scott asserted that the testimony showed that Mrs. Cody had always been a good mother and a fond and indulgent wife.

Judge Scott asked the attorneys for the defendant, Wilcox and Halligan of North Platte, Neb., to amend their answer in the case by striking out those sections which dealt with charges relating to Bessie Isbell, to Cody's conduct in Chicago and to his early actions at Fort McPherson. When this was done the court found entirely in favor of the defendant, Mrs. Cody.

Judge Scott in his opinion said:

"The law of the state does not make incompatibility a ground for divorce, but it does read that extreme cruelty rendering the condition of either party to the marriage contract intolerable is sufficient grounds to allow the granting of a decree.

"The first cause of action in this case is the charge of poisoning on Dec. 26, 1900, or some time prior thereto. The evidence wholly fails to support this issue, but shows the defendant was trying to rescue the plaintiff from a state of intoxication and administered not poison, but remedies which she deemed beneficial to him. His inability to speak on this occasion did not come from these remedies, but came from his extensive use of intoxicants at the banquet board and was as humiliating to the defendant as to the plaintiff.

"The unhappiness caused by the actions of the plaintiff is shown by the letter of their daughter, Arta Thorpe, whose beautiful character shone out from her unhappy home in the words of her letter written just before her death:

"'Oh, papa, why did he do it? My heart is just broken over it. Oh, why did he do it?'"

Judge Scott also found that the charge of unbecoming actions on the part of the defendant toward the colonel's guests was not proved, that there was no evidence that she had even threatened her husband's life and that when attending the funeral of her daughter, Arta, at Rochester, N. Y., in February, 1904, she offered a premanent reconciliation and no answer ever came to this.

"She was an overindulgent mother and wife, who always took pride in his success and always looked forward to his home coming and made great preparations to receive him," said Judge Scott. "She entertained his guests with cordiality. She did not use profane language. The poisoning of his pet dog was accidental. She never spoke disrespectfully of him to his friends or guests. She always accompanied him to the depot on his departure and was there to receive him on his return. In her home she has a large statue of him in the hall; in her bedroom she has his portrait, done by a famous painter; on her stand she has his photograph, and the dishes she used were souvenir ones stamped or etched with his portrait. Such, in brief, is the character and conduct of Mrs. Cody extending over a long period of her married life.

"In return for this wifely devotion the plaintiff has been cruel to her and heaped indignities upon her. Even if it were true that the defendant had at times been impatient with him and such impatience has been considered an indignity, it is also true that she has had much to contend with.

"There are some allegations in the answer that are not sustained by the evidence. From the evidence it does not appear that the plaintiff was so addicted to gambling as to impair his business abilities or trustworthiness. He did not use intoxicating liquor in such quantities as to interfere with the transaction of his business."

Boy Accidentally Shot Himself.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 24.—Iris Wilson, aged fifteen years, of Port Republic accidentally killed himself last night. The boy had been out muskrat hunting during the day, and when he returned he stood the gun in the corner of a room. When he went to get out his schoolbooks to study the edge of one of the books hit the trigger, the gun went off, and the load struck Wilson in the breast.

SPORTING NEWS.

DIAMOND DUST.

Malay, formerly a Scotch Plains player, will be found with the Brooklyn Nationals this year.

"Chick" Fraser, who pitched one game for Plainfield against Westfield last season, has signed a contract this year with the Boston Nationals.

Jim Bradley, who played third base for the Alis Club in a few games last season, is a possibility for the same position on the Winnipeg Club, where he played in 1903.

An excellent photo of "Christy" Mathewson, accompanied by an interesting article from the pen of M. J. Sullivan, appears in the current number of Pearson's Magazine.

Hildebrand, who will play with Pittsburg, this season, is not the player of Princeton fame, but his brother. He is said to have all the ear-marks of a great player.

Pitcher Elmer Bliss, formerly of the New York Americans, and later with Rochester, of the Eastern League, has secured his release and is free to sign with any team. He is now at Richburg, Allegany county, New York.

John E. Madden, the well-known turfman, has made it possible for Bethlehem, Pa., to have a strong team during the coming season. He has just sent the manager a check of sufficient size to finance the team for the season.

Manager Hugh Duffy, of the Philadelphia Nationals, has announced that Harry McCormick, of last year's Pittsburg team, will not be on his team this season, all of which confirms the statement that he will play in the field for Plainfield.

The man behind the pipe with his bunch of "Mallen misfits" seems to be cutting considerable ice in this early spring schedule. Just wait, however, until we "get them alone," on Crescent Oval, where hot air counts for naught. It will be "just like taking candy from the baby."

Plainfield, N. J., March 24, 1905.

No one can accuse Bryan of conceit or egotism. Only a few days ago he admited that "whatever the people want is right."

Ida Tarbell and Tom Lawson are both gunning for John D. Rockefeller but he would be perfectly safe from harm back of any telegraph pole.

When The Daily Press announced exclusively Father Began's selection as rector of St. Mary's church, other papers attempted to make the public believe that it was not true. Now that the Railway priest confirms the story, our contemporaries will be forced to record it although they can not be expected to admit that it was but a sample of that bad habit The Daily Press has of publishing exclusive local news.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

Henry J. Cochran, of Hillside avenue, has been made superintendant of the Crescent Avenue Sunday school to succeed George A. Strong.

At the annual meeting of the Park Avenue Baptist church congregation Wednesday night, the right hand of fellowship was withdrawn from Frank Clarkson, the letter carrier who confessed to abstracting money from letters entrusted to him.

The Young Women's Missionary Society, of the First Baptist church, has been invited to meet with the Women's Home Missionary Society at its meeting to be held on Friday afternoon, March 31. The women's society will have charge of the programme.

The annual meeting of the Seventh-Day Baptist church will be held on Sunday, April 2. On Sunday night the Sabbath-school will hold its annual meeting, when reports will be presented and officers elected.

A. O. U. W. PROCEEDINGS RELATED BY DELEGATES

WM. NEWCORN AND OTHERS MADE ADDRESSES.

Grand Lodge Representative William Newcorn made a detailed report of the recent session of the Grand Lodge, at Camden, at the meeting of Central Lodge, No. 48, A. O. U. W., last night. He was one of the representatives who fought in opposition to the proposed assessment amendment. Past Master Workmen John A. Wilson and Walter Bradford, both of whom were among those who attended the Camden convention, also spoke.

Julius Bauersachs, of Columbia Lodge, made an entertaining address descriptive of the work of the Grand Lodge officers. Both local lodges were largely represented at the meeting last night, as well as Raritan Lodge, of New Brunswick.

No Judge-Made Laws.

A message has been submitted to the Legislature by the Governor, in which he said: "My attention has been called to the condition of the laws affecting master and servant. The present law on the subject is largely judge-made and has come to be a mass of legal subtleties fruitful of controversy. * * * In view of the importance of the subject and the conditions of the law thereon, I suggest for legislative consideration and wisdom of appointing a commission to investigate this subject and to recommend such enactment as in the judgment of the commission will relieve such a situation." The message was referred to the judiciary committee.

—William McCullough, of Steiner place, has been temporarily deprived of the use of one hand because of it's coming in contact with a buzz saw. Two fingers were torn and part of the thumb may have to be amputated.

POWERS WISH PEACE

British Cabinet Discusses Russo-Japanese Intervention.

ROOSEVELT THE MOVING SPIRIT.

Czar's Fleet Sails For Vladivostok, Not For Jibutil, on the Gulf of Aden—Japanese Flanking Linevitch's Army.

LONDON, March 24.—It is stated that at its meeting the British cabinet discussed proposals that have been made for the intervention of the powers in the interest of peace between Russia and Japan.

The identity of the power that has taken the initiative is not disclosed, but it is suggested that the initiative may have come from President Roosevelt, who, it says, is known to be desirous that the slaughter in Manchuria should cease.

A St. Petersburg dispatch says that a state of siege has been proclaimed in the government of Kutais, and General Prince Ordeliani has been invested with full powers as governor general over the towns of Kutais, Poti and Batum.

A dispatch from Port Louis, island of Mauritius, says:

"A steamer from Colombo, Ceylon, just arrived, reports that during the night of March 16 she met a Russian torpedo boat, which was followed by a squadron of warships some distance behind. The steamer was unable to make out the number or character of the ships."

This news is considered very significant, as it indicates that Admiral Rojestvensky is not returning to Jibutil, French Somaliland, at the northeast corner of Africa, on the gulf of Aden, but is steering boldly across the Indian ocean, on the way presumably to Vladivostok.

Rojestvensky left Nossi Be, a small island off the northwest coast of Madagascar, a week or so ago and had he been heading for the gulf of Aden could not possibly have met the Colombo steamer, whose course would lie several hundred miles to the east.

It is possible that Rojestvensky is making for some small island, possibly the Chagos, in the middle of the Indian ocean, where he will wait until he is joined by Admiral Nebogatoff, whose second Pacific squadron is now passing through the Suez canal. The united squadrons may then proceed eastward to meet Admiral Togo and the Japanese fleet, which is believed to be lying in wait somewhere near the strait of Malacca.

Dispatches from Gunshu pass say that General Linevitch, the new commander in chief of the army, has received reports of Japanese turning movements on both flanks of the Russian army. Chinese state that the Japanese have recruited many Chinese bandits and that probably they are now able to count a superiority in cavalry as well as in infantry.

The branch of the Russo-Chinese bank has removed from Kirin to Harbin after an attack on the bank office, in which two of the guards were wounded with cobblestones.

Captured Japanese report that a terrible affray took place in the streets of Mukden when a big detachment of Russians, the last to leave the city, were entrapped by Chinese bandits and a few Japanese soldiers, who closed the city gates and blocked the narrow streets. According to the report, not a Russian escaped.

Field Marshal Oyama has communicated to General Linevitch the news that the entire Russian medical staff which remained in Mukden after the evacuation is uninjured and well.

Setting aside the factors of a temporary nature, a correspondent at Harbin holds that there are four main causes for Russia's misfortunes in the war:

First.—Failure to establish before the war an adequate intelligence department in Manchuria or to make other preparations contrasted with Japanese activity in that direction.

Second.—Russia is dependent upon a single railway, while the Japanese have many bases, with the possibility of establishing new ones at any point on the coast.

Third.—The deficiencies of many officers whose mistakes of execution bring to naught the most carefully thought out plan of the commander or whose technical education has not kept pace with the artillery they are required to handle.

Fourth.—That victory rests not with the army, but with the nation.

The correspondent pictures the patriotism, devotion and passionate longing for victory of the Japanese and, continuing, says, "On the other side is a nation where part of the people misunderstand the meaning of this war or are even inimical, taking advantage of distressing times to revolt against authority."

In concluding the correspondent pleads for a few words of encouragement and acknowledgment that the 90,000 who fell around Mukden are a not unappreciated sacrifice.

A preliminary contract has been signed with a number of St. Petersburg banks for the issue of $75,000,000 of the proposed internal loan of $100,000,000. The bonds bear interest at the rate of 5 per cent per annum and are redeemable in fifty years.

Walked on Track For Exercise.

WESTBORO, Mass., March 24.—James Bodie of Westboro was killed on the Boston and Albany division near Westboro depot by a New York express. He was walking for exercise on the car tracks and stepped out of the way of an approaching freight train in front of the flier. His body was thrown fifty feet and horribly mangled.

An Ideal Location

Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE

LINDEN, N. J.

Beautiful and Accessible

2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,

14 MILES FROM NEW YORK

On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

HOLLANDER MISSION

Special Commissioner Will Probe Domingo Methods.

WARSHIP WILL TAKE HIM TO ISLAND

Reported That Jiminez Party Are Again Preparing For a Struggle For the Presidency—Belgium Files a Protest.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—Professor Jacob H. Hollander of Johns Hopkins university will leave in the course of a week for Santo Domingo, where he goes as a special commissioner from the United States government to make a thorough investigation of the condition of President Morales' government.

Professor Hollander is not on a diplomatic mission, but goes only to investigate the financial condition and the methods of the government. When the Dominican treaty was before the senate many queries which could not be answered were hurled at the administration forces by the opposition.

Professor Hollander will gather information which will strongly fortify the administration when the treaty comes up again at the next session of congress.

The formal announcement of Professor Hollander's appointment has been made by Secretary Taft. He will be sent to Santo Domingo on a warship.

A Santo Domingo city dispatch says that in view of the adjournment of the United States senate and the consequent failure of the treaty under which the United States government was to administer the Santo Domingo customs receipts and pay off this republic's foreign creditors M. Renoz, the Belgian minister, has handed in an energetic protest against any further delay in the payment of the Belgium claims. It is asserted that the French, German and Italian representatives will follow his example.

The United States transport Sumner, with the congressional committee on rivers and harbors on board, visited this port yesterday en route to Cuba via Jamaica.

It is rumored that at a meeting of the Jiminez party it was resolved to telegraph to the followers of the former aspirant to the presidency at Monte Cristi to prepare for a struggle. The government is taking precautions to meet coming events. The situation, although at present quiet, is very critical.

The Belgian minister leaves here today for Havana.

Whiteman Acquitted at Buffalo.

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 24.—Alonzo J. Whiteman of Dansville, N. Y., and former member of the Minnesota legislature, was last night acquitted on a charge of grand larceny. The jury returned the verdict of "not guilty" after spending twenty-eight hours considering the evidence and balloting. There are still five indictments against Whiteman, and he was remanded to jail.

Engine Plunged Into Kootenain.

The baggage and mail cars were smashed and caught fire. The passengers were badly shaken up, but none seriously injured.

Gates Out of Stock Deals.

JACKSON, Miss., March 24.—John W. Gates, the well known millionaire, in passing through Jackson stated that he is not now interested in deals of any character. He stated further that he is engaged in no active business enterprises and is paying no attention to the stock market.

Kidnaped Freshmen's Toastmaster.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., March 24.—Edward Croul of Detroit, the freshman literary class toastmaster at the University of Michigan, has been kidnaped by sophomores and carried away in a closed carriage, to be held a prisoner until after the freshman class banquet tonight.

Unknown Contributes $25,000.

CINCINNATI, O., March 24.—A contribution of $25,000 from an unknown philanthropist toward the expense of a new building for the German Theological seminary at Bloomfield, N. J., was announced here by the Rev. A. W. Fismer.

Subways to Cost $230,000,000.

SPORTING NEWS.

DIAMOND DUST.

Nat. Strong, manager of Murray Hills, has returned from Boston, where he arranged with Jake Morse, of the Lynn Club, for a game on Fast Day, as planned. Morse now admits that in doing so the Murray Hills cannot be barred by the National Association from playing with minor league clubs.

It is now "Professor" William Lauder. The baseball manager of the Columbia 'Varsity team has endowed a new chair at the Morningside institution, which, for novelty, at least, can hold its own with any of the historic foundations of the university. It is to be known as the chair of the theory and practice of baseball, and Prof. Lauder the coach at the university is first incumbent.

The Cedarcroft Athletic Association has reorganized for the season. It was decided to have a baseball team and efforts will be made to secure suitable grounds. A captain for the team will not be selected until outdoor practice begins. A schedule will be arranged including a series for the interscholastic championship of the city. The association also decided to hold a vaudeville entertainment at the Casino during April. Elbert, catcher, and Fawcett, second base, are the only two members of last year's team left.

GOLF.

The Cranford Golf Club, which last year won the team championship of the Central Jersey League, will enter a team in the team championship of the East Jersey Golf Association this season, playing at home on May 13, 20 and 27, June 24 and September 16. The regular competitions will include a members' team match on May 30 for the Governor's Cup; handicaps for the President's and Vice President's cups on Saturdays in June and July; a match for a cup presented by L. M. Lyon on July 4; competitions for prizes presented by T. A. Serry and J. B. Marston in August; the championship cup in September and special tournaments in October. The officers for 1905 are Silas P. Wood, president; William M. Sperry, vice president; Stephen J. Cox, secretary, and G. M. Hendricks, treasurer. The chairman of the greens committee is J. B. Marston.

(Additional Sporting News on Page 8.)

Farmer-Orator Spoke.

James E. Martine was one of the three speakers at the dedication of the East Orange Democratic Clubhouse, last night, the affair being held at the Hollywood Club. President Murphy presided and the other speakers were Senator Minturn, of Hudson county; James R. Nugent, chairman of the Democratic County Committee, of Essex county, and Mr. Martine. The last named spoke on the needs and value of organization and depicted the condition of the State in the hands of the corporate powers. He also referred at some length to the advantages of municipal ownership. After the speeches there was a banquet.

HORSE SHOW TO BE INCORPORATED

Organization to be Known As the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club.

A STOCK CONCERN

All Committees for the Coming Annual Exhibition Are Appointed by President L. E. Waring—Judges for Events.

The appointment of the various committees and consideration of further details regarding the second annual horse show to be held at the Plainfield Driving Park on Friday and Saturday, June 9 and 10, occupied the attention of the promoters of the affair at a meeting held in the Casino last night. There was a very large attendance of members and considerable enthusiasm was shown in the plans for what it believed will be the best and most successful horse show ever held in New Jersey.

One of the important matters was the report from a committee on incorporation, comprising Charles J. Fisk, W. J. Buttfield and J. Wesley Johnson. The club decided to incorporate and the committee was authorized to get subscriptions to stock and proceed to that end. It was decided to name the organization "The Plainfield Riding and Driving Club, of Plainfield, N. J."

The club received letters from Dr. Grenside and Louis Height, of New York, and James Marshall, of Philadelphia, last year's judges, stating that if agreeable they are willing to serve in that capacity at this year's show. There were also letters from those who exhibited horses last year, saying that they would be represented again and that they would bring their friends. The show will follow the one to be held in Philadelphia and many horses to be exhibited there will be at the Plainfield affair.

These committees were appointed by President Lewis E. Waring: General committee—George A. Beaton, J. Herbert Case, W. J. Buttfield, R. A. Fairbairn, J. Wesley Johnson, Harry F. Johnson, Charles W. McCutchen, Ralph T. Willis, R. A. Shebbeare, Harry L. Hall, William N. Runyon, George T. VanBoskerck, E. H. Ladd, Jr., O. T. Waring, Charles D. Freeman, George S. Ring, Simeon A. Cruikshank, L. G. Timpson, Thomas R. VanBoskerck, Evarts Tracy, Augustus R. Fisk, Harry B. Lovell, Joseph M. Shellabarger, Dr. B. VanD. Hedges, Percy H. Stewart, Abram G. Heeley, W. F. Williams, O. G. Waring, George P. Mellick.

Executive committee — Lewis E. Waring, chairman; Dr. M. O'M. Knott, Paul T. Brown, George P. Mellick, Charles J. Fisk. Finance committee—Paul T. Brown, chairman; J. Herbert Case, George S. Ring, Thomas R. VanBoskerck, O. G. Waring, Harry B. Lovell. Grounds and stable—Dr. M. O'M. Knott, chairman; W. J. Buttfield, J. Wesley Johnson, Harry F. Johnson, Ralph T. Willis, R. A. Shebbeare, Augustus R. Fisk, George T. VanBoskerck, Simeon A. Cruikshank. Publicity and advertising—George P. Mellick, chairman; Lewis G. Timpson, Evarts Tracy, Harry L. Hall. Entertainment—Charles J. Fisk, chairman; William N. Runyon, Joseph M. Shellabarger, Dr. B. VanD. Hedges.

The officers of the club are: President, Lewis E. Waring; secretary, Dr. M. O'M. Knott; assistant secretary, W. S. Mills; treasurer, J. Herbert Case.

The meeting adjourned subject to the call of the president.

COL. E. F. SILL'S ESCAPE

Civil War Veteran Tells of His Thrilling Experiences.

ILL AND STARVING

Address Delivered Before Large Audience at the First M. E. Church Last Night.

Col. E. F. Sill, a Civil War veteran who suffered everything but death during the four years' struggle, gave his celebrated lecture, "In and Out of a Rebel Prison," before an audience which filled the First M. E. church to the doors, last night. Commanding a ready flow of language and having his terrible experiences indelibly imprinted upon his memory, he held the tense interest of the gathering for two hours while he graphically related his escape from prison and his flight through North and South Carolina and Tennessee for 600 miles to the lines of the Union army.

As a member of Major-General Butterfield's staff during the Atlanta campaign, Col. Sill had been directed to deliver dispatches some miles out of camp one stormy night in May, 1864, following the battle of Dallas Woods, Ga., and was returning when Rebel scouts felled him with a sword and made him prisoner. The force of the blow fractured his skull and he was otherwise injured but he was dragged to his feet and made to walk his way to their camp. From there he was transferred to Marietta, Ga., and thence to Atlanta, where with 1,500 other Northerners he was pent up in what was known as the "Bull's Pen." He was there a month, suffering terribly from illness, starvation and the blistering sun and was then transferred to Charleston and kept in the top of an old building for five months. In November he was taken to Macon with the intention of being exchanged but only to be placed in a stockade at Columbia.

In this place he saw many hundreds of fellow Northerners die from disease and starvation and was about to succumb himself, when by cleverly hoodwinking a sentry with a forged pass, he and two companions made their escape. They travelled by night, crossing ice-laden rivers and over mountains, dodging Rebels and savage bloodhounds and subsisting on tree bark and berries until they were reaching friends when on December 29 they were again captured and lodged in jail at Pollytown, N. C. A second time they escaped and then without shoes or clothing they continued the flight, their torn and bleeding feet leaving a trail of blood behind which aided the enemy in following them. On many occasions they had to lie down in frozen clothing, but not to sleep, as it meant sure death, and they would spend an hour or more in rolling over the snow just to relieve their aching limbs. Rebel scouts continued to harass them and bloodhounds were placed on the scent time and again but they threw them off by rubbing their feet with turpentine, a trick taught they by slaves. Finally on February 7, 1865, the colonel and his friends reached the Union lines at London, Tenn., where they fell senseless from joy. Because of their wild, haggard appearance and the almost unbelieveable story they told it was at first thought their reason had fled and they were sent to the guard house. In the end, however, they recovered fully and were sent to their homes.

Col. Sill has a way of interpersing dry humor in his narrative and there were times when he had his hearers laughing at some funny incident in connection with their meeting with negroes who were taught that Yankees were horns.

At the close of the lecture, Miss Etta Raybert sang the "Battle Hymn of the Republic," with the gathering joining in the last chorus. The Young Men's Brotherhood of the church had charge of the affair and Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass introduced the speaker.

A Birthday Party.

William and Artie Woodruff, the young sons of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Abiff Woodruff, of Westervelt avenue, gave a birthday party last night in which a number of their playmates joined them in passing a pleasant time. Games were the event of the evening, the prize winners being Helen Edgar and Louis VanZandt, the consolations going to Jennie Peacock and James Peacock. A bountiful collation was enjoyed.

TWO BIG REALTY DEALS

Kenney Pays $25,000 in One; Syndicate $32,500 in Other.

IN BUSINESS SECTION

Cutter Business House in West Front St., and MacDonald Homestead in East Front St. Are Sold.

David T. Kenney, of North Plainfield, has purchased the Cutter property on West Front street, now occupied by J. A. Smith & Brother, grocers, and Frank Krewson, the deal, which was made by Charles H. Lyman, being closed last night. The purchase price was $25,000. The owners of the property were Fred S. Cutter, of Sandford avenue, and his sisters, Mrs. Frank Pearson, of East Fifth street, and Mrs. Oliver Barbour Hill, of the New Madison.

This is the second important real estate deal in city business property during the past two days, the other being the sale of the Thomas E. MacDonald property on East Front street, opposite Woodhull & Martin's store. Mr. Kenney purchased the Cutter property as an investment. J. A. Smith & Brother still have a lease on it for eight years.

The sale of the Thomas E. MacDonald property yesterday was effected by Albert Lederer. Dr. Pittis secure the house and a frontage of fifty feet, and F. A. Pope and W. R. Codington gets the balance, a frontage of seventy-five feet. The property is 200 feet deep. As Dr. Pittis will move the house to another point in the rear of the property the present tenants will vacate within the next three months. It is the intention of Dr. Pittis to build a handsome business and residence property on the front of the lot and he will occupy a portion of it. Dr. Pittis sold his property at Somerset street and Craig place yesterday, to Dr. Fred Hughes, who will move there.

The consideration for the MacDonald property was about $32,250, and in that of the sale of the borough property to Dr. Hughes about $10,000.

THROWN UNDER CAR WHEELS AND DRAGGED TO HIS DEATH

MATTIO BOMBANO GIVES HIS LIFE IN EFFORT TO STEAL A RIDE HOME.

While fully a score of his fellow-workmen looked on, helpless to aid him, Mattio Bombano, an Italian helper in the Pond foundry, was thrown beneath a New Jersey Central coal train at Grant avenue, shortly before 6 o'clock last evening, and was dragged to death. He was on his way from the factory and had attempted to catch hold of a car for a ride to his home in Netherwood, when his feet slipped and went under the wheels. Both legs were cut off and the body was then rolled over and over as far as the Grant avenue bridge where it was cast aside. Friends who were with him and who cautioned him against catching the train, saw the whole affair and were almost in a state of collapse when it was over.

Bombano was 30 years old and had lived in this city for about a year. Of late he has been boarding with James Brown on upper North avenue, as were his wife and five children. He had been in the Pond shop for six months and only recently returned to work after spending several weeks in Muhlenberg Hospital with a fractured leg. The remains will be buried from Coles undertaking parlors this afternoon.

Approaching Nuptial Event.

Miss Kate Graves, daughter of Mrs. Charles Graves, and Mortimer Givens, of Westfield, will be married at the home of the bride's mother, 208 Liberty street, Wednesday night, April 5, at 8 o'clock. Rev. Robert Walker, rector of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, will officiate. Mr. Givens will soon engage in the grocery business in the West End.

Mrs. Graves to Build.

Mrs. Charles Graves, of Liberty street, has decided to build a handsome residence for her own occupancy at Liberty and South Second streets, where the business property formerly used by her husband is now located. The improvement will greatly enhance the value of property in the neighborhood.

Distinguished Guest.

W. V. Pearson, Commissioner of the British Educational department, of Sheffield, England, is spending a few days with Dr. Leonard Waldo, of West Eighth street.

MR. HONEYMAN'S LAMENT

Post-Mortem "Interview" of a Defeated Candidate.

HOW IT ALL HAPPENED

Extracts From His Lengthy Statement in a Weekly Paper Published on Somerset Street.

A weekly paper printed in Somerset street, North Plainfield, published today the post-mortem political statement of A. V. D. Honeyman, who was defeated by the people of that borough on Tuesday for re-election to its school board. The interview in Mr. Honeyman's characteristic style is mainly an attack on Mayor Newton B. Smalley and his friends, both Republicans and Democrats. According to the paper in question Mr. Honeyman answered certain questions propounded to him and among them were the following:

How do you account for the victory of the Smalley crowd?

"Easy enough. In the first place 471 out of about 1,250 voters of the borough were present, and, as 290 votes were cast for the Smalley ticket, and every vote the could possibly get out was cut, it only shows at best about 190 strictly Smalley votes; and that is the number I have long ago fixed as approximately the borough voters who will support whatever the Mayor proposes, through thick and thin. There are just about 200 followers of Smalley on all issues, counting Democrats and Republicans, and I suppose every one of these would endorse him in establishing prize fights in the borough if there was a vote upon that. The canvass often made by the 'Antis' shows more Annexationist voters than that number, of course, but I am speaking only of the personal followers of all the sorts of tyranny and humbuggery and devilry that the Mayor likes to stir up. The other hundred voters of the Smalley ticket did not vote to please him, but for various reasons: objections to the new school building, to its site, to its maintenance, to manual training, to the Supervising Principal, to the teaching of certain studies, to the discipline which the Board has sustained in the school, etc. You can always get a lot of well-meaning men to vote against the school board when they do not like every single thing that has occurred in school matters. If, however, all the borough voters had been out, the Smalley ticket would have lost by from two hundred to three hundred. Had there been a spring borough election and he had run for Mayor, 'Smalleyism' and all it stands for, would have been buried so deeply it would have never seen a resurrection."

How will the schools be affected by the election?

"Smalleyism will be in the saddle in the Board, and what he wants will be done. The supervising principal, the school, physician, the janitors, are all marked by him for dismissal. And I presume the movement will be started again to abolish the High School, and compel the 160 pupils in it to go to Arlington avenue in Plainfield. That will incommode the children beyond all computation, but it is supposed to help along ultimate consolidation, and so will again be advocated."

Do you mean to say so efficient a school superintendent as Mr. Wightman will be dismissed without a better reason than that he did not support Smalley?

"I do. He was invited by me to go to Trenton three years ago at a hearing on the annexation measures and he consented, because he had never seen the Legislature in session. He went, and was merely a spectator. On his return Smalley told him he had no business at Trenton and laid down the law to him not to exercise the right of every ordinary citizen, and from that day to this the Czar has plotted to have him removed."

But are there not some good men in the Board to protest against such injustice?

"Yes, but there will be just five votes against him. Mr. Smalley will not be able to secure the votes of either Mr. Joy or Mr. Valiant against Mr. Wightman.

In Justice Smalley's Court.

Charged by Mrs. Lizzie Thomas, of Somerset street, with striking her so hard with a poker that she is still under a physician's care, Miss Alice McDonough was arraigned before Justice Smalley last night. The women resided in a double house near Grandview avenue and the trouble occurred last Tuesday, when Mrs. Thomas remonstrated with Miss McDonough for beating her dog.

GRIGGS RETAINS JOB

Somerset's Present Prosecutor to Retain Office for a Year.

SETTLES A FIGHT.

Governor Decides Upon the Course After Conference With Opposing Candidates' Friends.

James L. Griggs will hold over the next session of the Legislature in his present capacity as prosecutor of Somerset County according to a well founded report. Governor Stokes has decided upon this course as a means of temporarily settling the political squabble in that troublesome county and therefore the Legislature will not be called upon during its present session to confirm any appointment.

John F. Reger was in the fight for Prosecutor Griggs' berth and he developed into a formidable candidate for the place. Leaders from various sections of the county called upon the Governor. L. A. Thompson, the Republican leader, stood firm for Griggs, but Col. Frelinghuysen, the Republican county chairman, shoved Reger to the front. North Plainfield leaders kept hands off, but it is understood that they were mostly for the present incumbent.

Chairman Frelinghuysen concluded that it would show better political discretion not to make himself personally antagonistic to the leaders in the various districts of the county.

Borough Street Work.

The borough street committee intends relieving the corner of Duer street and Park place of the large pond of water that stands there all winter, on account of the small iron culvers pipe freezing up. The committee is now putting in a large stone culvert, covered with flag stones, which will serve as a crosswalk for pedestrians. The borough pays half and the freeholders half. Freeholder Emmons and chairman of the street committee, James K. Arnold, are superintending the work.

Fined for Indecency.

Through complaints preferred to Chief Kiely by the mothers of several West End girls that a man apparently thirty years old made it a practice of acting in an indecent manner on Grant avenue, Boundsman John Flynn was detailed yesterday to investigate. At noon time he detected Charles Clark, an employe of the Potter shop, committing exactly what was described and placed under arrest. In the city court this morning he was scathingly rebuked by Judge Runyon and fined $10 or twenty days.

Mrs. Phebe Baily Ames Buried.

The funeral services of Mrs. Phebe Baily Ames, widow of Charles I. Ames, and daughter of the late John W. Baily, were held yesterday afternoon at Grace church, Rev. E. V. Stevenson, rector, assisted by Rev. E. M. Rodman, rector-emeritus, officiated. The pall-bearers were John H. Dumont, Dr. G. W. Endicott, W. T. Kaufman, Harry G. Runkle, DeWitt C. Ivins, E. H. Booth, Charles J. Fisk and J. Kirtland Myers. Interment was in Hillside cemetery.

Prisoner is a Fugitive.

Through Chief Kiely, of the local force, the Somerset County authorities have just learned that John Martin, committed by Judge Runyon last week to serve twenty days for drunkenness, escaped from the Somerville jail several weeks ago. He was given sixty days by Recorder Doud and managed to slip away. He will be taken to Somerville as soon as his term in this county is completed.

Giddes' Cargo Makes Trouble.

Unable to naigate because of a shifting of a liquid cargo to the head, Garfield Giddes, of Coontown, anchored at Somerset street and Lincoln place, last night. His distress signal was seen by Marshal Emmons, who buoyed him over to Port Weiss and made him fast. A friend bailed him out and if Judge Doud sees fit he may be able to resume his trip tonight by paying salvage.

Special Council Meeting.

For the purpose of fully considering the application of McDonough Brothers for a permit to erect lumber storage sheds on West Third street, near Madison avenue, the Common Council will hold a special meeting Monday night. The special meeting was decided upon after a fire and building committee discussion last night.

Adopt Communion Cups.

Woodhull & Martin have received an order to furnish the individual communion outfit for Faith chapel. The service is a duplicate of that used at the First Baptist church and will be used for the first time on Sunday, April 2.

FIGHT FOR SENATORSHIP LIKELY

NEW BRIDGE PROBABLE

Improvements on West End Avenue a Certainty Now.

WIDENING THE STREET

Thoroughfare on City Side to Remain As It Is—Storm Sewer is Needed.

While no official report has as yet been made regarding the proposed new bridge to be erected over Green brook on West End avenue, it is understood that the Somerset County Board of Freeholders has decided favorably in the matter and there seems to be every reason to believe that the Union County members will also agree to the improvement. It was agreed by the Somerset County board that it would vote for the new bridge provided the owners of adjoining land in the borough made the improvements proposed. This has been done, it is said.

The new bridge will be sixty-six feet wide, the same as West End avenue in the city, and will be an iron girder and concrete structure. Many persons have wondered whether the city would widen the avenue to one hundred feet to correspond with the proposed width in the borough. A city official in speaking of the matter says that he can see no necessity for widening the avenue in the city, when that thoroughfare is now of greater width than West Front street. Besides it would cost a large sum to effect such an improvement. It would necessitate the removal of several houses on both sides of the avenue and this would mean the paying of damages to the property-owners.

There is no doubt but that the city should improve West End avenue and provide proper drainage for surface water, and interested persons are hoping that the borough improvement will bring this about. At present during every hard rain, the avenue catches all of the top dressing from adjoining streets until the gutters are filled up to such an extent that they will not properly carry off the water. With the building of the new bridge there will probably follow the laying of a proper sidewalk on the northside of the avenue in the city, between the bridge and the house now occupied by Mrs. Huff.

Before any considerable sum of money is expended in fixing the road bed or gutters the city should build a storm sewer on the southside of West End avenue. This would greatly relieve the present trouble, as the sewer on the opposite side would not be obliged to carry so much surface water from Grant avenue, East and West Front street. The lake proposed to be established in what was known as the Cadmus property will no doubt help to relieve matters in the rainy season, for the course of the brook will be straightened, and a small dam built. The plan is to excavate to the level of the bed of the brook and build a lake fifteen hundred feet long and three hundred feet wide. Provisions will be made to prevent as far as possible the flooding in high water.

At the next meeting of the Somerset County Board of Freeholders action will be taken regarding the bridge and the Union County members will also take similar action. Then bids for the work will be advertised, so that operations can be started early in the summer and completed while West End avenue is being widened in the borough.

Rev. Mr. Atkinson Coming.

Upon the invitation of the Men's Club, of Grace church, Rev. J. R. Atkinson, rector of Trinity church, Elizabeth, will be the special preacher tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock. Mr. Atkinson is a gifted preacher. He is a member of the State Board of Children's Guardians and also one of the managers of the State Charities Aid Association and Prison Reform Association. It will be remembered that Rev. Mr. Atkinson was offered the rectorship of Grace church when Dean Rodman was made rector emeritus.

"Woman and Home."

Mrs. Mineola Graham Sexton, president of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, will give a lecture Monday afternoon at Trueli Inn before the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield. Her subject will be "Woman and Home." Prior to the lecture a political study club will be organized.

Cross' Resignation May Bring on a Lively Contest for the Vacant Seat.

PLAINFIELD WANTS IT

Both E. R. Ackerman and W. N. Runyon Are Prominently Mentioned for the Honor—The Situation.

Joseph Cross' appointment to the second Federal judgship of New Jersey opens up the contest for his seat as State Senator from Union County and the outlook at present promises some lively times before the Republicans hold their county convention next fall. Plainfield wants the nomination and when Plainfield wants anything it makes a go for it, though sometimes to its disappointment.

When Judge William N. Runyon was trotted out to make the race against Judge Cross for the berth, the fight was not over any question of the latter's fitness for the place but because Plainfield believed that it was entitled to the nomination. It is currently reported that friends of Ernest R. Ackerman, once before a candidate for the nomination, will urge his selection. Mr. Ackerman, who is one of Plainfield's most respected citizens, is now travelling in foreign lands and it is impossible to ascertain whether he would allow his name to be used. It is also rumored that Judge Runyon's name will be presented.

Should he become a candidate Mr. Runyon will be backed by the local administration's forces and will make a hard fight. Mr. Ackerman can count on support from friends of Senator Kean not only in this city but throughout the county. It's going to be interesting and as County Chairman Hamilton F. Kean says: "Whoever Plainfield names for office, provided it is reasonable, will likely get it."

PINGRY'S SCHEDULE.

Local School Prominent in Elizabeth—List of Baseball Dates.

Pingry School, the one with which the Plainfield High School played its star game last year, winning in the eighth inning, by the score of 1 to 0, has completed its schedule of dates for the 1905 season. There will be special music and all Sunday-school workers are invited to attend.

While Rev. L. T. Lindholm, pastor of the Swedish Pilgrim church, is visiting in Patton and McKeesport, Pa., next week, his pulpit will be supplied by Rev. Theodore Englund, of Perth Amboy, the pastor-elect, and Rev. J. H. Jacobson, of Hoboken.

Miss Harriet Higgins, of this city, is visiting her grandfather, C. B. Stout, of Centerville.

The City Beautiful.

Every American is proud of the nation's Capitol and in Washington wonderful and beautiful as it is the tourist finds a city than which no other is more interesting or grand. The great public buildings massive in their structure and imposing in appearance are gold mines of interest and curiosity. The city which is now blossoming in its spring garb is most perfect in its arrangement and its finely kept streets, its innumerable parks and pleasure places offer no end of amusement and instruction to the tourist and traveler. Much time can be profitably spent visiting the Treasury Building, the Congressional Library, Washington Monument, the Pension Building, Cochran Art Gallery, Smithsonian Institute, Public Printing Office and the like, while the side trips to Mt. Vernon, Georgetown and the National Cemetery are productive and valuable and interesting sights. Every American should visit the Capitol City and an opportunity to enjoy such a trip is offered by the New Jersey Central's popular spring excursion to Washington on March 30, when the rate including hotel and other expenses is $12. The trip is made on the famous Royal Limited trains and the intervening country traversed is unsurpassed from a scenic standpoint. The tickets include stopover privileges at Baltimore and Philadelphia, both of which places have many historic interests. The New Jersey Central has issued an itinerary of the trip, which is sent free to any applicant by C. M. Burt, G. P. A., New York city. 3 25 4 o

DIAMOND DUST.

The Westfield Baseball Association has decided to lease club rooms near the Westfield railroad station, and they will be fitted up with dressing rooms, lockers and other conveniences such as shower and plunge baths.

The North Plainfield High School baseball team will get out doors for practice as soon as the Myrtle avenue field is in condition. The team has been practicing inside for the last three weeks, and the boys have got their arms in good condition before the season begins.

The Cedarcroft A. A. has decided to abandon the idea of giving a vaudeville show for the support of the baseball team. Though the team will not be graded as a school aggregation, it will be governed by the Cedarcroft Athletic Association. The candidates were out for practice yesterday for the first time.

The P. H. S. baseball candidates will be out for practice regularly three times a week, as long as the weather permits. There is much to be accomplished before the first game of the season which is with Westfield High School on April 5. This game will be in the nature of a try out of all the candidates, and substitutes will be given an opportunity to make good in the contest against Westfield.

BASKET BALL.

A summary of the games played by Leal's School during the basketball season show them to have made 232 points in all against their opponents' 359. Though this would seem like an overwhelming defeat, the Leal's boys have the credit of winning the city scholastic championship, by defeating the Plainfield High School in two out of three games. The highest score against Leal's was made by the Newark High School, which rolled in 85 points. Montclair Military Academy made 58 points against the local players, these two schools being largely responsible for the heavy defeat in aggregate points. Out of eleven games played Leal's won five. Other schools which defeated Leal's during the season were P. H. S., Newark Academy, Hasbrouck Heights and N. Y. Collegiate.

AMUSEMENTS.

May Irwin will begin her fourth engagement in New York this season in "Mrs. Black is Back" at the New York Theatre next Monday evening. This is a record that is held exclusively by this jovial comedienne and is certainly a very strong evidence of the merit of her vehicle. George V. Hobart, the author of the famous "John Henry" stories, is responsible for her play. While the lines and situations are comic and the piece is an exaggerated and absurdly farcical concoction, it has the merit of embodying distinctive dramatic force. The story hinges on a "white lie" told by Mrs. Black to her newly wedded second husband in reference to her age. Why she does it she does not know herself, since the age of her seventeen-year-old son, "Jack," has to be moved back a corresponding number of years to conform to her assumed years. During the performance Miss Irwin will render her usual "coon songs," several of which have not been previously heard in New York. Among the new numbers are "Bible Stories," "Tennessee," "I Love to Two-Step," "Expotentitus," "In the Shadow of the Pyramids," "Guess," "I'm Worried to Death About That" and "Dinner Bells." Miss Irwin will play but one week at the New York Theatre and will be followed on Monday, April 3, by Col. Savage's production of "The Prince of Pilsen." Matinee performances during Miss Irwin's engagement will take place, as usual, on Wednesday and Saturday. Prices will range from 25 cents to $1.

THE CHADWICK DEBTS

Cleveland Woman Financier Under Examination.

TOTAL AMOUNT DUE IS $750,000.

Of Money Borrowed From Various Persons She Received Only $517,000, Leaving $233,000 Paid For Interest and Commissions.

CLEVELAND, O., March 25.—In bankruptcy court here Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick detailed some of her financial transactions in the course of an examination by Attorney Louis J. Grossman, acting for Trustee Nathan Loeser.

Mrs. Chadwick said that she was not able to give as many details of these transactions as she would like to because of the absence of papers which were held in a number of cities. She had sent for the papers and expected to have them when the hearing is continued next Thursday.

Mrs. Chadwick testified that the total indebtedness would not exceed $750,000. Of this sum, borrowed from various persons, she had received only $517,000, leaving $233,000 for commissions to the money lenders. She said she owed certain banks in Cleveland $200,000. The names of these institutions she was willing to give to Mr. Loeser, trustee for the creditors, privately.

Mrs. Chadwick walked from the county jail to the bankruptcy court, a distance of about one block. This is the first time Mrs. Chadwick has appeared outdoors except in a carriage since her arrest. She looked well and appeared cheerful. She expressed her willingness to tell all that she could of her financial affairs. Some of the questions that were put to her were not answered because she did not care to give a reply from memory.

The examination disclosed additional assets of $200,000. Of this amount $58,000 is due from Charles H. Stewart of Cleveland and $150,000 worth of jewelry held by Wolfers Bros. of Brussels, Belgium. Mrs. Chadwick asserted that there are other assets consisting of jewelry and valuable articles held by other persons for her.

The examination was conducted in the presence of Mrs. Chadwick and four attorneys, who at times interposed an objection to the questions of Mr. Grossman and with whom Mrs. Chadwick frequently consulted before she replied to some of the attorney's questions.

Mr. Grossman's opening statement was that he believed Mrs. Chadwick owed debts to the extent of $2,000,000, and of that sum but $100,000 in assets had been located. He asked Mrs. Chadwick to assist the trustees for the creditors in locating all that could be found of her property. This Mrs. Chadwick said she was willing to do, but said that important papers she had sent for would not be in her possession until next week. She said the papers were scattered around in Canton, in Pittsburg, in New York and other places. She said the effect of the papers would be to show where hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of property was and would also make known what sums of money she had borrowed. She denied that her indebtedness would amount to $2,000,000 or any sum near it. She said the sum of $750,000, which she admits she owed, would include the bonuses paid for the loans.

Mrs. Chadwick said she did not care to state how much she owed James A. Friend of Pittsburg, but after several other questions had been asked and answered she said that the actual sum she had received from Mr. Friend was $75,000. For this she said she gave him notes for $150,000. She said that Mr. Friend had assisted her in making her loans to the amount of $150,000. For this she gave jewelry as security. Of the loans for $150,000 she said she received the entire sum. Mrs. Chadwick said $225,000 is the total of her indebtedness in Pittsburg.

Mrs. Chadwick said that besides the jewelry held in Pittsburg Henry Wurst of Elyria and Ludwig Nisson of New York had in their possession at one time jewelry belonging to her given as security for loans. She said she believed that Mr. Nisson had sold a rope of pearls valued at as high as $60,000 given on a loan of $17,000. Mrs. Chadwick also gave her note to Mr. Nisson for the loan; but, the note having been renewed time and again, Mr. Nisson finally sold the rope of pearls.

Must Be Seven Commissioners.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—It has been decided that in the Panama canal commission reorganization the president must appoint a commission consisting of seven members. Mr. Roosevelt considers that such a number makes the commission unwieldy, but as congress failed to provide for a smaller commission it is held by the attorney general that the appointment of a commission of seven members is mandatory on the president.

In Violation of Pure Food Laws.

NEW YORK, March 24.—The first important result in the crusade planned by the state department of agriculture against violations of the pure food laws came when Andrew Walsh of Newark, N. J., in the court of special sessions in Brooklyn was sent to jail for three months for selling oleomargarine for butter.

Marinette Millionaire Dead.

MARINETTE, Wis., March 25.—Andrew C. Merryman of the Hamilton & Merryman Lumber company of this city, is dead at Eureka, Cal. His estate is valued at several millions. Mr. Merryman was seventy-four years old. His funeral will take place in Marinette next Friday.

FATAL RACE AT FAIR GROUNDS

New Orleans Saw One of Worst Accidents In Racing History.

NEW ORLEANS, March 25.—One of the worst accidents that has marred the history of racing in New Orleans occurred in the second race at the fair grounds. The race was a six furlong affair for three-year-old colts and geldings. The field of eleven was about to swing into the stretch when Swedish Lad, running sixth, was jumped on by some one of the horses behind him and his near hind leg broken. Court Crier, following, fell over Swedish Lad. Jockey McCafferty, who rode Court Crier, was thrown directly in the path of the oncoming horses. Hopeless added to the confusion by falling over Swedish Lad and Court Crier. There was instantly a rush of stable hands to the spot. McCafferty, the only one of the jockeys hurt, was carried to a stable and thence sent to a hospital. It was found that his skull was crushed in both front and back, that both his arms were broken and that he had other injuries. The physicians who attended the boy declared the case hopeless. Death is expected at any moment. The lad is a son of A. C. McCafferty and a nephew of J. J. McCafferty, both well known horsemen. Swedish Lad was destroyed.

Opinion, Rachael Ward and McDougle were the beaten favorites. Summaries:

First Race.—Nellie Russell, first; Opinion, second; Jucora, third.

Second Race.—Capitano, first; Mr. Jack, second; Judge Nolan, third.

Third Race.—Gotowin, first; Triple Silver, second; Dalesman, third.

Fourth Race (Handicap).—Escutcheon, first; Matador, second; Fair Calypso, third.

Fifth Race.—The Laurel, first; Rachael Ward, second; Murmur, third.

Sixth Race.—Invasion, first; Charlie Dickson, second; Ed Early, third.

Seventh Race.—Wagstaff, first; Markie Mayer, second; Young Lighter, third.

Jack O'Brien Knocked Out.

BALTIMORE, March 25.—After less than a minute's fighting in the second round Young Peter Jackson knocked out "Philadelphia" Jack O'Brien and lost the decision by doing it by a foul of the most pronounced description. The agreement was that the fighters should break even. The referee, James O'Hara, was between the men, who had clinched, when Jackson's right shot around O'Hara's body and landed full on O'Brien's jaw. The Philadelphia man went down, but made a great effort to rise. He was unable to do so, however, and many of the crowd thought he had lost the fight.

Toscan Has Been Disqualified.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—Toscan, winner of the Bennings handicap, has been disqualified by the stewards. Some time ago Toscan was sold by S. A. Pumphrey to E. A. Whitney, but all the purchase price and other conditions of the sale, it is said, have not been met, so Pumphrey requested the Jockey club to withhold any money that Toscan might win. Acting on rule 55 of the racing code, Toscan was set out of the handicap race and Right and True given first money, Buttons second and Sais third.

Monte Carlo Defeated.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—It was another victory for favorites at Bennings, the only exceptions being in the fourth and fifth races, where horses that were close seconds in the betting took the prize. Monte Carlo was picked to win in the fifth race, but Little Woods took it easily. The favorite came in second. The feature of the day was J. Johnson's ride on Mon Amour in the third race.

Ananias Was Not Excused.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 25.—The handicap at Oakland contained a quartet. Cigar Lighter carried thousands of dollars, but every chance he had was ruined by the weird ride he was given at the hands of Wiley. Princess Titania startled every one by going to the front and not stopping. Johnny Schorr tried to have Ananias excused, but the judges would not allow it.

Huzzah Won Oaklawn Handicap.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., March 24.—With the exception of Hamburger, quoted at 12 to 1, no winner at Oaklawn was at a better price than 3 to 1. Dr. McCarthy, however, was the only true favorite to win. Huzzah, at 2 to 1, was strongly played to win the handicap. He succeeded, but only after a struggle. The track was a trifle slow.

Earl Rogers at 12 to 1.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 25.—Earl Rogers, a two-year-old that had not heretofore shown any class, was the medium of a successful coup at Ascot, winning the first race at 12 to 1.

General Tracy Dead.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 25.—Former Congressman (better known as General) Charles Tracey died at his home here. He had been ill for some months. Pope Pius X. cabled to General Tracey last Monday the papal benediction. General Tracey was born in Albany fifty-seven years ago. While studying in Europe he enlisted in the papal zouaves and served two terms. He was a member of Governor Tilden's staff and also on that of Governor Robinson.

May to Remain In Cabinet.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 25.—Assemblyman J. W. Wadsworth, Jr., of Livingston states that his father-in-law, Secretary of State Hay, will remain at the head of the state department indefinitely and denies flatly that the secretary's health will not permit him to remain in official life. "Secretary Hay," said Mr. Wadsworth, "is not suffering from any disease. He is physically well, except that he is tired out."

Always Liberal to Churches.

Every church will be given a liberal quantity of L. & M. paint. Call for it. 4 gallons Longman & Martinez L. & M. Paint mixed with three gallons linseed oil, will paint a house.

W. B. Barr, Charleston, W. Va., writes, "Painted Frankenburg block with L. & M. Stands out as though varnished."

Wears and covers like gold.

Don't pay $1.50 a gallon for linseed oil, which you do in ready-for-use paint.

CASTRO IS DEFIANT

Venezuela's President Will Not Arbitrate.

HOLLAND TO TAKE VIGOROUS ACTION

"Asphalt Cases Must Be Decided by Our Own Courts," Says Castro. Situation Not Yet Considered to Be Acute.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—President Castro has flatly refused to arbitrate the pending issues between Venezuela and the United States and declares that the asphalt cases must be adjudicated by the Venezuelan courts.

The news of his refusal has been cabled by Minister Castro from Caracas.

The contents of Mr. Bowen's cablegram formed the chief topic at the cabinet meeting. That the situation is not regarded as acute yet was indicated clearly by the determination of the president and his advisers to pay no present heed to President Castro's refusal.

It is the indicated intention of the president and Secretary Taft, who in the absence of Secretary Hay is relied upon for advice in foreign affairs, simply to await further developments in Venezuela.

It is not believed that the situation now is of such a character as to warrant alarm. Indeed the president is proceeding with the arrangements for his southwestern trip without reference to the Venezuelan imbroglio.

After other members of the cabinet had left the White House Secretary Taft and Postmaster General Cortelyou continued with the president the discussion of the Venezuelan and Santo Domingo situations.

A dispatch from The Hague says that the government of the Netherlands intends either alone or in conjunction with other powers having differences with Venezuela to take vigorous measures to secure the release of the five Dutch sailors illegally imprisoned for seven months in that country. It is thought probable that in the event of there being no material change in the far east some of the Netherlands warships maintaining neutrality in the Dutch East Indies can be transferred to La Guayra in May.

Mistrial In Preusser Case.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 25.—After being out forty-four hours the jury in the Preusser murder case came into court and announced that agreement was impossible. Justice Hasbrouck discharged them, and it now remains with District Attorney Addington when and whether the prisoner shall be retried. The jurors are said to have stood ten for conviction of murder, second degree, and two for acquittal and that there had been no change in this condition during the past twenty-four hours. It was charged that he shot Myles B. McDonnell of Boston in the doorway of his room in a local hotel.

Fighting the Standard Oil.

TOPEKA, Kan., March 25.—It developed that the Standard Oil company, against which the attorney general has commenced suit to oust it from the state on the ground that it has no license to do business here, has had such a license since 1893. The license was granted by the state charter board in the regular way to the Standard Oil company of Indiana. The other allegation made by the state is that the company is violating the antitrust law and should be driven from the state on that account.

Elmer Browning Released.

BEDFORD, Ind., March 25.—The grand jury, after an investigation which has continued five weeks, released Elmer Browning, who had been bound over jointly with Frank Evans, following an alleged confession of Browning's divorced wife, charging that her husband had admitted that he, with the help of Edwards, had murdered Sarah Schaefer.

Colony Indorse Bait Act.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., March 25.—A meeting of the principal fishery merchants of the colony, headed by Hon. Edgar Bowring and Sir Robert Thorburn, has unanimously indorsed the government action in enforcing the bait act against Americans.

Plainfield, N. J., March 25, 1905.

Castro is getting himself in shape for a good big licking and Uncle Sammie will not spare the big stick and spoil the child.

There's a great kick being made because Leader Duffield is not fit for the job of assistant attorney general of the State. Since when was merit a test in politics? Just spare a moment to consider how few of the men holding office in the Nation, State, county or city would be there if they had to display some sort of ability, other than that of a ringster, to land a job. Mortifying, but true.

Horrors alive! The New York World says this morning that its bill for a separate reformatory for women is in danger of being lost in the shuffle between now and next Thursday, when the New Jersey Legislature adjourns. Joseph Pulitzer must have what he wants whether it is a snowball to throw at Grover Cleveland, a school for journalism different than his own or an institution in another State.

State Superintendent of Schools C. J. Baxter has requested that the schools throughout the State observe next Friday as the centenary of Hans Christian Andersen. Death of Jules Verne suggests that he is also deserving of recognition and that it would not be a bad idea for the school teachers to tell their pupils something about that great man who has interested so many boys and girls by his fascinating stories.

Forty per cent. of the income of the average wage earner in the United States, says the Philadelphia Record, is spent in satisfying his appetite, and yet a very small percentage of the advertising in the leading newspapers deals with food products. This discrepancy points out a golden opportunity for dealers in the good things of this life; it indicates the existence of a fallow field that needs only to be scientifically cultivated to yield the richest returns. A skilled "ad." writer can make the reader's mouth water by a description of first-class food products—and when his mouth waters he can't help buying it. It's the easiest thing in the world to persuade people to eat.

It would be waste of space to republish the entire interview with A. V. D. Honeyman contained in a borough weekly paper today, but it is so amusing that some reference should be made to it. As might be expected Mr. Honeyman chafes under his turndown by the people of the borough although he professes to be very grateful that they did not endorse his candidacy for re-election to the North Plainfield School Board. The defeated candidate is under a heavy debt of gratitude to the publisher for devoting nearly three columns to the "interview" prepared by himself. In his characteristic way he bitterly attacks Mayor Newton B. Smalley, whom he and his followers love to style the "Czar" of the borough, and says that the result was attained by unfair means. Of course, Mr. Honeyman himself would never think of resorting to unfair tactics politically to attain his ends. As for Mr. Smalley, he would not be human if he did not make some mistakes and he has made some, but on the whole we repeat that he is the best Mayor North Plainfield ever had and the people realize it, and are wont to overlook his little mistakes of judgment. Mr. Honeyman dies hard, but—well, it's amusing.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—The annual meeting of the Plainfield Building and Loan Association will be held Monday night at the office of Leifke & Laing, on Park avenue.

—New cards bearing the list of all the fire alarm boxes in the city together with the new call for the use of the public schools on rainy days, have been distributed and posted in convenient places.

—Additional through line trolley cars between Jersey City and Trenton have been placed on the schedule by the Public Service Corporation. During the spring and summer season these cars are run under one hour headway.

NO DISTRICT COURT FOR U. S. JUDGE CROSS

FEDERAL APPOINTEE WILL NOT PRESIDE OVER NEW DISTRICT.

Senator Joseph Cross will resign as President of the upper body of the Legislature before adjournment at the end of next week He last night said that his successor will likely be Senator William J. Bradley, of Camden. "I have not offered my resignation to the Senate yet," he added, "and, in fact, I am not compelled to do so, because, upon my taking the position as Federal judge for this district, the effect of the State Constitution would be to at once make my present position vacant. But, of course, I will resign as soon as the business of the present session ends. My resignation will be acted upon before the final adjournment.

"The idea has gotten out that I will have a new court and that I have the option of establishing it in a certain locality. This is erroneous. Though the law allows me to hold court in any place I may choose, still, while Judge William M. Lanning has his court in Trenton and I will probably hold mine in Newark, if we so desire Judge Lanning may hold his court in Trenton the next day, or, in fact, he may hold court in one room at Trenton and I mine in the next room in the same building at the same time. I believe the law states that the courts must be held in either Trenton or Newark, but such courts need not be permanently established in either city. It does not permit, however, of the holding of court in Elizabeth."

"The law will not permit you to practise law if you hold the position of judge of the Federal Court in this State, does it?" the reporter asked.

"No, I cannot practise law while I hold that position. My partnership with Louis H. Noe will, therefore, have to be dissolved."

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The choir of the First Baptist church has begun the practice of Easter music. The programme this year will be an elaborate one.

The annual meeting of the First M. E. church for the election of officers and presentation of reports will be held in Vincent chapel Monday night.

Rev. Gilbert Lovell, who recently sailed for China, where he will be engaged in missionary work under the care of the Presbyterian board, has reached his destination.

A "Fanny Crosby Service" will be held at the Monroe Avenue church tomorrow night, when hymns by this famous composer will be sung and addresses relative to her life will be made.

The ordiance of baptism will be administered at the First Baptist church tomorrow night. On the following Sunday morning, April 2, the regular communion will be held and the right-hand-of-fellowship will be given to several new members.

One of the events of the season in music will be the concert to be given at the Swedish Pilgrim church on Monday night by the Y. M. C. A. Orchestra. The affair will be given for the benefit of the church. Besides assisting a worthy cause, the fine musical programme is sure to please all.

Rev. Dr. William H. Nielson, of East Ninth street, formerly rector of St. Michael's church, Trenton, conducted a Lenten service at that church Thursday night. He delivered a sermon, his text being "Behold the Lamb of God, who taketh away the sin of the world"—John 1:29. Dr. Nielson's sermon was a Lenten one and he dwelt upon self denial. During the course of his remarks he said that Christ lived for the world as well as died for the world, and added that the Saviour as He was hanging on the cross suffering He was going to bring the world to God. The speaker said as Christ died He left a power in the world, and added "as Christ surrended His life for us we should surrender our lives for others." In conclusion Dr. Nielson said that the whole life should be sacrificial. A good sized congregation heard Dr. Nielson and many of his auditors were communicants at the church, when Dr. Nielson was rector. Dr. Nielson, after the service, met many of his former parishioners.

Building a Siding.

Employees of the New Jersey Central are engaged in building a switch from the main tracks to the new building being erected on Park avenue by VanZandt & Voorhees, adjoining the railroad. The firm will operate a grain elevator and the arrangements will be such that cars of grain can be unload quickly into the building. In building the switch the the company is obliged to fill in considerably with stone and dirt.

Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, initiated six candidates Thursday night, after which the members enjoyed a social time at the clubrooms in the Babcock building.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The members of the Dunellen Field Club, which will represent in the borough in the junior league, include Arthur Bogardus, Robert Bogardus, William Giddis, M. Huff, Russell Garretson, Albert Conkling and Benjamin Dodwell. The boys have a good schedule under way, Robert Bogardus and William Giddis controlling the managing end of the affair. Games will be arranged with the Underwoods, of Plainfield, the Laurels, of Bound Brook, and the Somerville juniors. Two years ago an interesting league was run between these teams in which the Laurels were superior.

Paul Brakeley is one of the most likely candidates for field on the Plainfield High School baseball team. He played last year on the local junior team, and is a capable man for the position. There is no competition for short-stop, Howard Craig being the only candidate for that position.

The Ladies' Aid Society, of the Methodist church, will hold another dime social next Thursday, at which time the money will be turned in. An interesting entertainment will be arranged, and an enjoyable time is promised. Refreshments will be served.

Rev. Henry N. Jordan, of New Market, will occupy the pulpit at the Presbyterian church tomorrow in the absence of the pastor, who with his wife is spending a few days at Lakewood.

August Sheelen, of the Suburban bowling team, who has been out of the game for several weeks on account of a badly sprained finger, is able to bowl again although the injured finger still gives him trouble. Gus' absence from the Triangles and Suburbans has been felt as he is one of the strongest bowlers in either team, generally rolling between 175 and 200 in each game.

Real estate in town should take a jump this spring. The high rents demanded by landlords in Plainfield makes a steadfy demand here for $10 and $12 per month houses, but no one seems to want to try the investment, although every year there is a real estate boom, but it generally falls flat before assuming definite shape.

JOURNALISTIC OPINION.

Wanted—A Leader.

It is apparent from recent occurrences in the lower branch of the Legislature, that the Republican forces in that body are sadly in need of a leader. Ever since the session opened there has been a notable lack of harmony among the Republican members of the House when it came to considering important measures. Duffield's influence has not been strong enough to keep the Republicans in line and Colby, has run at large like a recently imported Shetland pony in Boston Common. Such pranks as Colby has played during this present session of the Legislature, are neither creditable to that gentleman nor helpful to the Republican party, for whose interests he seems to have no serious consideration. Duffield may be a good lawyer, but he has not the qualification of calmness and diplomacy necessary to the successful direction of the affairs of a legislative body like the one now in session here. It wouldn't be a bad idea for the State leaders to get out the spanking machine and put it in operation.—Trenton State Gazette.

Euchre Club Entertained.

The Friday Night Euchre Club was entertained last night by Mr. and Mrs. William F. Thomas in East Fifth street. First prizes were won by Mrs. Louis M. Hummer and Will Moore and the second prizes by Mrs. H. C. Corsa and Armstrong Mulford.

TWO WARSHIPS SUNK

St. Petersburg Reports Loss of Navarin and Sissoi Veliky.

CZAR ORDERS LINEVITCH TO FIGHT

Russian War Office Determines It Is Necessary to Make a Sacrifice to Hold Back Army of Japan. Fears For Vladivostok.

LONDON, March 25.—A report from St. Petersburg says that the Russian battleships Navarin and Sissoi Veliky have been sunk by Japanese torpedo boats.

Both of the vessels named are in Admiral Rojestvensky's fleet, which on March 16 left Nossi Be, Madagascar, it is said, for the strait of Malacca.

It is also reported that the czar has sent word to General Linevitch to hold the Sungari river line at all hazards.

It is the opinion of the war office that if necessary Linevitch's army should be sacrificed if by so doing the Japanese can be greatly weakened and the Kirin district, which is one of the most fertile in Manchuria, saved.

Dispatches from Gunshu pass say that the Russian retreat has now reached the village of Sipinghai, seventy-four miles north of Tie pass, where it has temporarily halted. The army has been almost for months without rest, and it is natural that fatigue should be evident. The Japanese are reported to be advancing on Sipinghai positions along the railway and on both flanks.

A brisk action occurred at Kaiyuan, the Russian rear guard beating off two heavy attacks which lasted until midnight.

After blowing up railway bridges north of Kaiyuan at five places the Russian retirement was continued with only light rifle firing.

The Mukden branch of the Russo-Chinese bank removed all its money except $150,000.

St. Petersburg dispatches this morning say that the Russian rear guard is now occupying a line of fairly strong natural positions thirty-four miles south of Gunshu pass, the center being the railroad village of Sipinghai, and the flanks covering the roads on either side, which apparently it is the intention to defend long enough to force the Japanese to show their hands. The Russians may, however, have been outflanked and have no intention of making a serious stand, especially as there are continued reports of wide flanking operations.

The receipt of an official dispatch at St. Petersburg saying that the Japanese were approaching Vladivostok is said to have induced the determination to seek peace. On the other hand, it is said that Japanese proximity to Vladivostok promises to be a chief obstacle in the way of peace, as diplomats conversant with the situation say that Japan will seek to avert peace until she possesses Russia's only outlet to the Pacific ocean.

JULES VERNE DEAD.

Author of "Around the World In Eighty Days" No More.

AMIENS, France, March 25.—Jules Verne, a French writer of stories of adventures by sea and land and known in all parts of the civilized world, is dead at his home, aged seventy-seven. He had been ill for some time.

M. Verne in early life studied law and subsequently wrote several successful comic operas. It was by his pseudo scientific novels, however, that M. Verne was best known. Of these there are about 100, the best known of which are probably "Around the World In Eighty Days," "A Trip to the Moon" and "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea." Many of the fanciful inventions of M. Verne, such as the airship and the submarine boat, he lived to see accomplished facts.

M. Verne was a member of the French institute and of the Legion of Honor.

Fleet Will Go to Pensacola.

HAVANA, March 25.—The visit of American warships to Havana ended with a big American concert on the sea front and a carnival ball at the Cuban Athenaeum. The battleship Kentucky's baseball nine defeated the University club by a score of 13 to 8 in a match game. The torpedo boat destroyer Macdonough has arrived here in advance of Rear Admiral Barker's north Atlantic fleet. The latter will appear in front of Havana today and, being rejoined by the visiting squadron, will proceed to Pensacola.

Admiral Folger Resigns Command.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—Rear Admiral William M. Folger has been relieved of command of the Asiatic fleet and Rear Admiral Charles R. Train will succeed him. Rear Admiral Train will be succeeded as the junior flag officer of the station by Rear Admiral George C. Reiter. The relief of Admiral Folger is at his own request on account of ill health.

Thousands of Letters Burned.

SEATTLE, Wash., March 25.—Many thousands of letters, all of second class mail matter and all registered mail matter, were destroyed by fire and water in the Great Northern train wreck in Idaho yesterday. This mail came from St. Paul and the east and was intended for distribution in Spokane, Seattle and points in northwestern Washington.

Negro Killed In Boxing Bout.

PHILADELPHIA, March 25.—John Hill, a negro pugilist, died in a hospital here as the result of a six round bout with "Kid" Dorsey, also colored, at the Broadway Athletic club. In the sixth round of the bout, which had been hotly contested, Hill collapsed.

MEXICAN AMBASSADOR DEAD.

Senor Don Manuel de Azpiroz Succumbs to Gastritis.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—Senor Don Manuel de Azpiroz, Mexico's first ambassador to the United States, died at the Mexican embassy at ten minutes to 5 o'clock last night, surrounded by the members of his family. Although a sick man since last fall, the ambassador's death was due to a relapse caused by exposure on inauguration day. Against the advice of his physicians Mr. Azpiroz left his sickroom on March 4 last and attended the inaugural ceremonies at the capitol, where he came near fainting.

For years the ambassador has suffered from gastritis, and this weakened his heart. His death was unaccompanied by suffering.

The imperial house of Austria has always taken the position that Senor Azpiroz, through his connection with the court martial of Maximilian, was in part responsible for the latter's execution, and during the early days of the service of Mr. Azpiroz here this fact proved of keen embarrassment to himself and the Austrian representative. Finally, however, it was arranged that when brought together at official functions these two diplomats should exchange formal greetings. This, however, was not until an embarrassing incident had occurred at the White House during the administration of President McKinley, when the Mexican ambassador was assigned to escort to the dining room the wife of the Austrian ambassador, and the latter felt compelled to decline. The ambassador is survived by his wife, his daughters, Senora Dona Luz de Azpiroz de Perez Rivera and Senora Belen de Azpiroz, and his son, Senor Don Rodrigo de Azpiroz, second secretary of embassy.

This message was sent to Mexico last night by President Roosevelt: "To President Diaz, City of Mexico:

"For my countrymen and in my name I offer heartfelt condolence upon the death of Ambassador Azpiroz."

CUTTER AFTER BANK ROBBER.

Man Hunt at Tacoma For Albert E. Bell Was Unsuccessful.

TACOMA, Wash., March 25.—The United States revenue cutter Grant, Captain Tosier, took up the man hunt in this harbor for the escaped federal convict, Albert E. Bell, the bank robber, and has thrown out a cordon of small boats on the west side of McNeill island.

Although the posse searching the island for Bell has been increased to fifty men and notwithstanding that orders had been issued to bring him in dead or alive, no trace of the robber has been discovered. The entire island has been searched closely, but there are many dense places where the convict may have found security. The weather is so wet that the bloodhounds cannot pick up the scent.

It is believed that Bell sent word by released convicts to confederates, who made careful arrangements to row away from the island at some stated hour. Bell, who is supposed to have a large sum of money secreted, has in recent months paid the fines of fellow prisoners, thus shortening their terms, and it is the opinion of Marshal Hopkins that they are now paying their debts to the bank robber.

Will Contest Wirth's Election.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., March 25.—It is reported that the so called Rockefeller party intends to contest the election of the citizens' ticket, on which John Wirth, the young butcher, was elected village president last Tuesday. It is declared that boys under age voted, and also that employees of a factory voted who were not entitled to vote.

SPORTS AND ATHLETICS

A. A. Stagg.

In discussing the style and form of foot racers recently, Fred Stone, one of the greatest sprinters in the world in his day, said there was little room for improvement. Stone is probably one of the best-known authorities on running in the world to-day, having competed in all the great races of the '80s in England, France, Germany and America. "Foot racing, either in the form of sprinting or long distance running," he said, "has reached its highest perfection. Not since 1879 has there been a single improvement in form and if any records are lowered in the future, it will be due not to form, but to mere superior ability. Running has reached its zenith. But the field events, such as hurdling, jumping, pole vaulting and throwing the weights, have a brilliant future before them. Form in these events has nowhere reached a perfected state. With the exception of the crouching position at starting, no permanent change has been made since 1879, and even the crouching start is no better way of starting than straight up, knees bent, ready-to-go style. It was introduced solely for the sake of amateur sprinters, and was brought into active use by the colleges because there were so many novices at the game there. The idea in the crouching start is this: It serves only to steady the sprinter. It does not offer him position for a faster start. With amateur sprinters the old method of starting up was a hard one. They were naturally nervous, and it was hard for them to keep balanced. By the crouching start, they are given a better chance to steady themselves. This is the only reason why it is now so popular. Nearly all the shorter distance world's records were made with the standing start. The crouching start is one of the few innovations that have lasted. It has been a benefit in that it helps amateurs and novices and those new to the game. Professional runners, amaturs, trainers and coaches have worked on the stride, starting, finishing sprint ways of touching the ground, etc., but there is nothing new. 'Way back in '79 the sprinting game was perfected. So was it with the long-distance game. What records have been made since that time have been only the fruits of this perfection of form. I do not say that the records are at the lowest now. No; they may even go still lower. But it will be with the same form.

"In these last 20 or so years there has been a very rational change in training methods. A decade ago the sprinter and long-distance runner trained down to muscle and bone. Sometimes it was skin and bone. He believed that it was absolutely essential to train hard in this fashion. Now, however, it is vastly different. It is nearly the opposite. The athlete tries to build himself up—put on as much flesh as he can. I do not mean try to get fat. But he puts on weight, and when he begins training he is in what is commonly termed the 'pink of condition.' I believe in plenty of work for the sprinter. I do not think work will hurt any athlete; but work poorly directed will kill an athlete quicker than any other thing. Time trials every day, such as some coaches in the middle west here practice, is exceedingly bad for an athlete. It will ruin him in time."

In the recent figure-skating championships decided in New York city, Dr. Arthur G. Keane easily carried off the prize and is adjudged fairly entitled to the honor of being called the best figure skater in the country, if indeed not the best in the world. Dr. Keane held the championship in this country from 1898 to and including 1902, when, owing to ill health, he dropped out for two years. Dr. Keane won nearly all the points in the contest. He is one of the exponents of the American style of skating, as opposed to the Swedish style, which is now, according to experts, beginning to fall into disuse. The new American style, or New York style as some call it, consists in the figure skater holding his arms close to his sides and going through the different rolls and curves without any attention being paid to grace or ease. The Swedish movements insist upon the skater making longer and more graceful curves and at the same time keeping his body in graceful attitudes. The arms are continually moved into different positions at every stroke of the skates. Dr. John Sandbloom, of Chicago, who went to New York to take part in the event, says that the New York or American method is prevalent now in the east, and that the Swedish is dropping out of style. "Mr. Keane is one of the best figure skaters I have seen," said Dr. Sandbloom. "He is more graceful than many others who affect the American style, and seems to balance himself more by curving his body than by his arms. Many of the men who won points in the figure-skating contest went through the moves doubled up like jackknives, which, to a westerner, or to one who has been used to the Swedish style, is not very pleasing."

A. G. Keane.

Too True.

"Do you think the blues are catching?"

"Certainly! Lots of people have given me the blues."—Detroit Free Press.

THE NEWEST WAISTS.

All That Is Novel Concerning This Important and Interesting Subject.

We scarcely know "where we are at" in the way of the styles, for in some places we find directoire suits of the most glaring colors, richest of materials and daring of shapes—daring, for in these suits we may find a leg o' mutton sleeve and a first empire waist, with still enough of the directoire form to be a saving grace. A flounce does not by right belong to that, but we may find not one, but two or three and several other caprices which seem to the iconoclast of a dressmaker so pretty that she adds them, and the whole is called directoire. The coat, however, is always in evidence and has something about it reminiscent of directoire days, and so long as the women are satisfied it is all right. Then, just as we begin to get it into our heads that the style mentioned above is to be the vogue, to the exclusion of everything else, we come suddenly upon a lot of costumes and separate articles—hats, gloves, coats and furs or something—which are distinctly of the time of the Louises.

NEW SPRING WAIST.

But nothing has or will have the importance of the shirt waist. This has evidently come to stay, for, no matter whether we are expected to wear directoire or Louis XVI. garments or the style so ingloriously named "shirt waist," we are not to be persuaded to throw aside so useful a thing.

The Paramount Waist.

The waist, then, being paramount, we will say a few words about it. In the first place, it is shown in every possible kind of material and form. Just now the silks and velutinas have it, but there are enough washable ones offered or making to encircle the globe, I verily believe. The best liked style is the plain one with plaits made large or small as the wearer's individual taste may dictate. The inch wide plait extending from shoulder to waist is the neatest and is the easiest to iron, and for that reason the waist made in this way gives the best satisfaction in the long run. Dotted swiss is very pretty and is suitable for the young, and in the picture it will be seen that over the shoulders of the wearer is the revived suspender effect. The suspenders are made of black velvet. Lace forms the cuffs and collar. Another waist shows how several tucks may be laid from shoulder to waist in clusters. The rest is finished in regular shirt waist design. Another one shows an application of white butcher linen over a polka dotted waist. Large white pearl buttons finish it. Still another has a yoke of lace with a tab down the front, to which is shirred pale blue india silk. The sleeves are plain leg o' mutton, with a hanging cuff of the lace. With this is worn a folded belt of pale blue taffeta.

French lingerie waists with the fronts hand embroidered, some with lace as insertion and edging, are especially elegant. Some very desirable ones are made of handkerchief linen, with old fashioned eyelet embroidery. There are many styles in oriental net and other lace waists, some made over colored taffeta and others with white. It would be impossible to do this subject justice, but this much may be said—the white wash waists and the figured percales and batistes and other cottons, madras, ginghams and the thousand and one other pretty and useful fabrics offered are all cheap and pretty as well as fast in color.

Braid as Trimming.

The trimming most often seen where embroidery is not applied directly on the material is braid. There are silk fancies, linen and cotton ones and the beautiful fancy mohairs. There is nothing made for which a suitable trimming cannot be found in these castle braids.

Among the handsome outdoor costumes for spring are the taffeta redingote suits. The finest of these are black, some of them having white satin vests, cuffs and revers. Others have stitched pongee trimmings. These suits are also made in colored silk. Some very neat and fetching suits on this order are made of shepherd checks in silk, mostly with blouse of the same with fancy vest and belt. Tailored suits of broadcloth have blouse waists with snug Eton jackets outside of them. Some have the redingote, which is a handsome and stylish garment and very becoming to nearly all figures. Walking skirts are very smart this season and are of sicilienne, broadcloth, cravenette, tweed, silk, voile, panama, heavy linen, mohair and cheviots.

KATE BONNET

THE ROMANCE OF A PIRATE'S DAUGHTER

By FRANK R. STOCKTON

Copyright, 1902, by D. Appleton & Co., New York.

"Ay," said Ben, "if there's anything blacker than his heart, only Satan himself ever looked at it. It was to be sailin' this ship on his own account that he's had in his villainous soul ever since he came on board; an' I can tell ye, Master Bonnet, that it won't be long now before he's doin' it. I had me eye on him when he was on board the Amanda, an' I saw that the scoundrel was goin' to separate the ships."

"That was my will," said Bonnet, "although I did not order it."

Ben gave a little grunt. "Ay," said he, "hopin' to leave me behind just as he was hopin' to leave ye behind. But neither o' ye got your wills, an' it'll be the de'il that'll have a hand in the next leavin' behind that's likely to be done."

Bonnet made no reply to these remarks, having suddenly spied Black Paul.

"Look here," said he, stepping up to that somber-hued personage, "can you sail a ship?"

The other looked at Bonnet in astonishment. "I should say so," said he.

"LOOK HERE," HE SAID, STEPPING UP TO THAT SOMBER-HUED PERSONAGE, "CAN YOU SAIL A SHIP?"

"I have commanded vessels before now."

"Here then," said Bonnet, "I want a sailing-master. I am not satisfied with this Big Sam. I am no navigator myself, but I want a better man than that fellow to sail my ship for me."

Black Paul looked hard at him, but made no answer.

"He thinks he is sailing the ship for himself," said Bonnet, "and it would be a bad day for you men if he did."

"That indeed would it," said Black Paul; "a close-fisted scoundrel, as I know him to be."

"Quick, then," said Bonnet; "now you're my sailing-master; and after this, when we divide the prizes, you take the same share that I do. As to these goods from the Amanda, I will have no part at all; I give them all to you and the rest, divided according to rule.

"Go you now among the men, and speak first to such as have taken the least liquor; let them know that it was Big Sam that broke in the hogsheads, which, but for that, would have been sold and divided. Go quickly and get about you a half-dozen good fellows."

"Ye're gettin' wickeder and wickeder," said Ben when Black Paul had hurried away; "the de'il himsel' couldna hae taught ye a craftier trick than that. Weel ye kenned that that black fellow would fain serve under a free-handed fool than a stingy knave. Ay, sir, your education's progressin'!"

Bonnet and Ben stood waiting with much impatience and anxiety, but presently came Black Paul with a party of brawny pirates following him.

"Come now," said Bonnet, walking boldly aft towards Big Sam, who was still cursing and swearing right and left. Bonnet stepped up to him and touched him on the arm. "Look ye," said he, "you're no longer sailing-master on this ship; I don't like your ways or your fashions. Step forward, then, and go to the fo'castle where you belong; this good mariner," pointing to Black Paul, "will take your place and sail the Revenge."

Big Sam turned and stood astounded, staring at Bonnet. He spoke no word, but his face grew dark and his great eyebrows were drawn together. His mouth was half open, as if he were about to yell or swear. Then suddenly his right hand fell upon the hilt of his cutlass, and the great blade flashed in the air. He gave one bound towards Bonnet, and in the same second the cutlass came down like a stroke of lightning. But Bonnet had been a soldier and had learned how to use his sword; the cutlass was caught on his quick blade and turned aside. At this moment Black Paul sprung at Big Sam and seized him by the sword arm, while another fellow, taking his cue, grabbed him by the shoulder.

"Now some of you fellows," shouted Bonnet, "seize him by the legs and heave him overboard!"

This order was obeyed almost as soon as it was given; four burly pirates rushed Big Sam to the bulwarks, and with a great heave sent him headlong most over the rail. In the next instant he had disappeared—gone, passed out of human sight or knowledge.

"Now, then, Mr. Paul—not knowing your other name—"

"Which it is Bittern," said the other.

"You are now sailing-master of this ship, and when things are straightened out a bit you can come below and sign articles with me."

"Ay, ay, sir," said Black Paul, and calling to the men he gave orders that they go on with the setting of the main-topsail.

"Now, truly," said Ben, "I believe that ye're a pirate."

Bonnet looked at him much pleased. "I told you so, my good Ben. I knew that the time would come when you would acknowledge that I am a true pirate; after this, you cannot doubt it any more."

"Never again, Master Bonnet," said Ben Greenway, gravely shaking his head, "never again!"

CHAPTER IX.

DICKORY SETS FORTH.

MR. FELIX DELAPLAINE, merchant and planter of Spanish Town, the capital of Jamaica, occupied a commodious house in the suburbs of the town, 12 miles up the river from Kingston, the seaport, which establishment was somewhat remarkable from the fact that there were no women in the family. Madam Delaplaine had been dead for several years, and as her husband's fortune had steadily thriven, he now found himself possessor of a home in which he could be as independent and as comfortable as if he had been the president and sole member of a club.

Into this quiet and self-satisfied life came, one morning, a great surprise in the shape of a beautiful young woman, who entered his office in Spanish Town, and who stated to him that she was the daughter of his only sister, and that she had come to live with him. There was an elderly dame and a young man in company with the beautiful visitor, but Mr. Delaplaine took no note of them. With his niece's hands in his own, gazing into the face so like that young face in whose company he had grown from childhood to manhood, Mr. Delaplaine saw in a flash, that since the death of his wife until that moment he had never had the least reason to be content with the world or to be satisfied with his lot. This was his sister's child come to live with him!

Is It Right?

It is right for you to lose $4.20 that a dealer may make 50 cents more by selling fourteen gallons of ready-for-use paint at $1.50 per gallon, than our agent will make by selling you eight gallons of L. & M., and six gallons of linseed oil, which make fourteen gallons of a better paint, at $1.20 per gallon. Is it right?

The Longman & Martinez L. & M. Paint is sold by Woolston & Buckle, Plainfield, N. J. H. C. Meyer, Scotch Plains, N. J.

An Ideal Location
Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE
LINDEN, N. J.
Beautiful and Accessible
2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad
Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors
BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.
BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.
LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW
BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.
BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.
LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT
BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.
BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.
FOR INFORMATION concerning lots in these beautiful Park Cemeteries, and FREE transportation to prospective lot buyers, apply at once to any LEADING UNDERTAKER or offices of the Associations:

TRADE CONDITIONS.

R. G. Dun & Co.'s Report of Business For Week.

NEW YORK, March 25.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Spring trade responds to seasonable weather, and shipments of merchandise have increased so rapidly that railway facilities are severely taxed. At many points there is complaint of car and motive power shortage, and navigation on lakes and rivers at the north has not opened as promptly as business demands. The customary damage from floods has rendered many mills idle, and several minor events add to the number of unemployed, but these temporary adverse features are more than offset by the resumption of outdoor work, especially in building operations and on the farms.

Buyers are arriving in large numbers at primary markets, warm weather accelerating preparations for Easter trade. Manufacturing activity continues, the best news of the week coming from the iron and steel industry, where new records are constantly established.

Textile plants are also increasingly busy, but there is frequent complaint of small profits because of high costs of production, particularly as to raw material and labor. Railway earnings for the first two weeks of March were 7.9 per cent larger than last year.

Bright crop prospects have tended to weaken the tone of the wheat markets, although the spot situation is strong. During the remainder of the old season there is no prospect of burdensome offerings, receipts at primary markets promising to decrease as farm work becomes general.

Corn prices also declined, arrivals of 5,433,900 bushels largely exceeding the 2,476,920 a year ago, while Atlantic coast exports were 2,245,424 bushels against 1,327,567 last year. After a brief period of strength cotton reacted under a heavy port movement. Expectation of a ginning report next week exceeding 13,000,000 bales also tended to offset the effect of manipulation.

Liabilities of commercial failures thus far reported for March amounted to $6,441,826, of which $2,403,697 were in manufacturing, $3,569,799 in trading and $468,330 in other commercial lines. Failures for the week numbered 255 in the United States against 226 last year and 16 in Canada compared with 15 a year ago.

A PREHISTORIC ANIMAL.

Huge Skeleton Found by Boston Engineer Near Lake Tebo.

ST. LOUIS, March 25.—According to the statement of W. B. S. Whaley, a Boston engineer, who has arrived here after a trip of inspection near Lake Tebo, in Pettis county, ten miles from Sedalia, the incomplete skeleton of a huge prehistoric animal, possibly a Dinosaur, has been discovered by an inspection party.

"We came upon the tail of the skeleton first," said Mr. Whaley, "being attracted by its peculiar formation. Subsequently we found the head, lying about forty feet distant. The entire skeleton is not there.

"Much of it, including the ribs, has been washed away. I am not an archaeologist, but I believe that we found the remains of a prehistoric animal, and I shall tell scientific men about it when I return to Boston."

Small Dinosaur skeletons have been found in Kansas, but none has ever been reported found in Missouri.

"Unce Sam" Averts Railway Strike.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., March 25.—"Uncle Sam" has removed the danger of a threatened strike on the part of the brakemen on the Lackawanna railroad system by the appointment of A. F. Duffy to the position of government inspector of safety appliances. Mr. Duffy, who was a Lackawanna brakeman, was recently suspended by the company. His discharge was taken up by the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, of the grievance committee of which Mr. Duffy was chairman, and for a time it looked as if the brakemen on the entire system would strike. His appointment by the government removes the difficulty.

Mrs. Stanford Buried.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 25.—The body of the late Mrs. Jane L. Stanford, who recently died at Honolulu, now rests in the Stanford mausoleum between the bodies of her husband and son, near the institution of learning that bears their name. Before the final commitment of Mrs. Stanford's body to the stone sarcophagus a simple service was held in the great memorial church erected by her in loving memory of her husband.

Will Accept Rockefeller's $100,000.

BOSTON, March 25.—It is stated that despite the storm of protest from the ministers of the churches of New England and in the face of the dissenting memorial presented and signed by thirty pastors the prudential committee of the American board of foreign missions next Tuesday will vote unanimously to accept the gift of $100,000 from John D. Rockefeller and will use the money for the benefit of the mission schools of the orient.

Ratified Warner's Election.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 25.—Convention hall was packed last night by an audience which met to ratify the election of Major William Warner of this city to the United States senate. The audience was composed not only of Kansas citizens, but of the new senator's admirers from all parts of Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and the Indian Territory.

SPORTING NEWS.

DIAMOND DUST.

Misten M. Leonard has consented to post the score by innings at the games on Crescent Oval, this season. The score will be improved and made larger.

Lines Groo, secretary of the Plainfield Baseball Association, has been conferring with Building Inspector T. O. Doane regarding the grand-stands at Crescent Oval and they will be made perfectly safe by additional supports.

It has been suggested that Manager Daab, of the Plainfield Baseball Association, arrange to have tickets on sale for the games during the season at some convenient place in the city. Many patrons of the games would prefer to get their tickets without being obliged to take their turn in a long line at the grounds.

For the first time this season the Nassau baseball team, composed of the best players on Princeton's scrub, will meet a regular schedule of its own on the days when the varsity is playing other games. It is thus hoped by the coaches that the development of a strong second team will spur the varsity to greater efforts. The following games have been scheduled: April 20, Wilmington Athletic Club, Wilmington, Del.; May 13, Lambertville Athletic Club, at Lambertville; May 20, Englewood Field Club, at Englewood; May 30, Forest Hill Field Club, at Newark.

LITERARY.

Variety and value mark the contents of the April number of The Booklovers Magazine. There are a dozen or more contributions, and each one is strong in descriptive and critical features. Burris Gahan devotes his third article on "The Real Australia" to the labor leaders and their political policies, and graphically describes the rise and fall of the Watson labor cabinet—"seven horny-handed laboring men set in authority over a continent as big as Europe." Portraits and Australian views accompany the article. The paper by Harold Beloe on "Our Foreign Trade Fiasco" calls a halt on the jubilant optimism which has possessed the American mind on the subject of our commercial supremacy in the East, and gives the real facts in the case, compiled from official sources.

—Daniel O. Gaddis and family will remove from Basking Ridge to this city about April 1.

LITERARY.

In the novelette which opens the April Smart Set, Grace MacGowan Cooke has struck an entirely new note in fiction. It is a story of the West, so saturated with the atmosphere of that part of our country and so photographic in its depiction of ranch life that it will take high rank among the best tales of that class; yet it is more as a character study that "The Red-Headed Woman" will win praise. The heroine is the most original, the most human, the most refreshing woman who for a long time has stepped from a printed page. There is no reader who will not be fascinated by her vagaries and interested in her remarkable career.

The April number of Pearson's Magazine contains nine special articles, besides eight short stories, the leading article being a profusely illustrated one, "The Church of the Holy Sepulcher." "Fighting Fog by Electricity" is an account of the latest world-famous invention, which bids fair almost to revolutionize travel at sea. "Vaccinating the Ground" tells of the wonderful innovation by which the United States Agricultural Bureau expects to lessen the need for artificial fertilizers. One of the most stirring accounts of automobile experiences appears in this number, under the title "The Automobile Roughing It." "The Music Master" and David Warfield," "The Self-Supporting Home," the baseball article: "The Men on Whom the Championships Depend," and Augustus Lerrok's final instalment of "How a Big Newspaper is Conducted," complete the list of "specials." The number contains the usual assortment of bright, snappy short stories—love stories, stories of adventure, and detective stories.

ABOUT THE STATE.

Attorney General McCarter has tendered to Assemblyman Edward D. Duffield, of Essex County, Republican leader of the House, the post of Assistant Attorney General made vacant by the resignation of John L. Swayze, who retires April 1. Mr. Duffield has accepted the job. The place pays $5,000 a year.

The Legislature passed the bill providing for a State census this year and every ten years thereafter. The work is to be in charge of the secretary of State, who is authorized to appoint a supervisor for each municipality and enumerators for all the districts. The work is to be started in June and is expected to be completed in about three months. Among other bills passed by the Senate, which now go to the Governor are the Avis bill appropriating $15,000 for a monument to the Revolutionary heroes who fell at Red Bank, Gloucester County, and the Robbins bill, increasing the penalty for assault upon females under the age of 16 years to $5,000 fine and thirty years' imprisonment, or both, at the discretion of the court.

Judgment for Plaintiffs.

Judgment for $176.80 was rendered by Justice John C. Coopeb, of Warren township, today, in the suit brought by the Merton Trust Co., of New York, against The Copper King of Arizona, a corporation, of which Daniel Robert, of Somerville, is treasurer. The company claimed $300 for rent of offices in the Merton building in New York.

TRINITY REFORMED 25 YEARS OLD

Silver Anniversary of the Church Marked by Special Services.

DR. RAYMOND THERE

President of Union College Preaches at Night—The Pastor's Historical Sermon—Sunday-School Observance.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of the organization of Trinity Reformed church was observed yesterday by special services in the morning, afternoon and evening, the edifice being thronged with members and friends throughout the day. The beautiful spring weather added to the great enjoyment of pastor and people in celebrating the happy occasion and it was with peculiar satisfaction that the excellent work performed during the past quarter of century was reviewed in an intensely interesting historical sermon by the pastor, Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck. During its existence the church has accomplished much in Christian effort and enterprise, more in fact than figures can tell. While many things are recalled at this time, a notable fact, one in which all rejoice, is that not one cent of indebtedness rests on the church.

Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck.

Morning Celebration.

The church was appropriately decorated for the silver anniversary, the pulpit platform being banked with flowers, palms and ferns, while occupying a prominent place over the organ was the Scripture text "So Didst Thou Lead Thy People," with the figures "1880-1905," in white. Suspended from each one of the many chandeliers was a small white silvery bell. On the platform was displayed the coat of arms of the church with explanatory notes. Those having charge of the decorations were Mrs. John U. VanDyke, Mrs. George W. Cole, Mrs. Henry O. VanName and Mrs. W. C. Leek.

The morning service opened with an organ prelude, "Offertoire in F," by Batiste; invocation by the pastor, Scripture reading, hymn, "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name;" prayer by Rev. Daniel Rapalje, hymn, "Glorious Things of Thee are Spoken;" offertory, "Te Deum Laudamus," by the choir. Then followed this historical sermon by Dr. Schenck:

Text, Psalm 77: 5: "I have considered the days of old, the years of ancient times."

The Psalmist is looking back in a day of trouble for some proof, some sign, of God's goodness, some reviving incident in either his own life or that of the covenant people, whose light shall project itself into the gloom and dispel the darkness of despair.

To consider the days of old, the years of former times, is a healthful and helpful exercise in any event. It cannot fail to yield lessons of wisdom and encouragement and admonition, which we do well to learn.

The period of twenty-five years is not a long one, and if it were without relations, past and future, it would be unimportant. Time merely considered as continuity is not necessarily significant. But when the character of the present is largely determined by the past, and when to-day holds the key to to-morrow's position, then time assumes commanding value. "That which hath been, is now; and that which is to be, hath already been, and God requireth that which is past," said the Preacher in Eccle. 3: 15.

When the life of the church covering any specified period is under review we are bound to regard its beginnings. The roots of growth strike deep into the past. It is because of this that every church of our Lord believes that it has some vital connection with its head and "is built upon the foundation of the apostles and prophets, Jesus Christ himself being the chief corner-stone." Eph. 2: 20. Not always do those who claim the most strenuously, and as a sort of exclusive right, apostolic relationship, offer the clearest credentials of such connection.

The Reformed Church in America finds its ecclesiastical identity thoroughly established from the days of the great Reformation in the sixteenth century.

THE REFORMED CHURCH IN THE NETHERLANDS.

The Reformed Church in the Netherlands, the mother of the Reformed Church in America, was born amid the storms of political revolution, and was trained in the school of oppression. The contest for civil and religious liberty began with the ascension of Charles V. to the throne in 1516, the hereditary monarch of Spain, Austria, the Sicilies, the Spanish possessions in America and the Netherlands. It continued with varying intensity for nearly one hundred years. The struggle attained its height in the reign of Philip, the son of Charles, who was a proud, gloomy bigot, reserved, cruel, revengeful. It was his settled purpose to extirpate at all hazards the Protestant faith from the Netherlands, being more willing, as he said, to be without subjects than to be a king of heretics. To the famous and infamous Duke of Alva he gave a free hand, and the devoted land was scourged with fire and sword. Every refinement of cruelty was practiced, and Alva boasted that in the space of seven years no less than 18,000 persons had perished by the hands of the executioner, beside those who had fallen in battle.

One hundred thousand houses were deserted, their inmates having fled for refuge to other nations. So calamitous was their condition during the protracted strife, that the Protestants gave themselves the name of the "Church under the Cross" and their symbol was a "Lily Amidst Thorns."

But every night is followed by its day, and every oppressed land has its Moses. The Washington of the Netherlands was William the Silent, Prince of Orange, who became under God the chief agent of their deliverance. One of the many historic reminders of the contest for freedom by brave little Holland, of which the Reformed Church in America is proud, is the coat of arms of William the Silent, the accepted emblem of our church. The mottoes on the shield in Dutch and Latin, "Een draght maakt macht," which means, "Union makes strength;" and "Nisi Dominus Frustra," which signifies, "Without the Lord all is vain," show the spirit of the people. Occasional rest from persecution and the formation of the Dutch Republic gave opportunity for the organization of the church of Holland, which soon became famous for learning, soundness in the faith, practical godliness and Christian charity. The freedom of conscience, for which she had so long struggled, was sacredly guarded. While the Reformed faith was the national religion, by its side every form of doctrine and worship was freely tolerated, and the Romanist and Lutheran were each permitted in his own way to worship God. The Jew, hunted as an outlaw in every other country, was here welcomed, and Holland became the place of refuge for all who in any part of Europe were oppressed on account of their religion. Walloon churches were everywhere established by refugees from Belgium and France, using the French language; Scotch churches by the Presbyterian from Scotland; the Pilgrims of England dwelt in Leyden twelve years before they embarked for America; and the Nonconformists of England found, on the restoration of the Stuarts, a resting place in Holland.

THE REFORMED CHURCH IN AMERICA.

The Reformed Church was planted in this country by traders and settlers from Holland. In 1609, Hendrick Hudson, in the ship Half-Moon, entered New York Bay. He sailed up the river as far as what is now Albany. Later other vessels were sent out from Holland, and trading posts were established at Fort Orange, now Albany, and on the island of Manhattan, now New York, in the year 1614, six years before the landing of the Pilgrims at Plymouth. In 1623, a permanent agricultural settlement was made, and these settlers brought with them the schoolmaster and the Krankbesoecker, or visitor of the sick. These latter met the people on Sundays in a room above a horse mill, and read the Scriptures to them. This mill stood where the Battery is now in Manhattan. In 1628, a church was organized of over fifty communicant members, many of whom had brought their church letters from the fatherland, by the Rev. Jonas Michaelius, a minister commissioned by the classis of Amsterdam, Holland. This church has had a continuous existence since, in what is known as the Collegiate Church of New York, and is with reason supposed to be the oldest Protestant church on the continent.

In the half century following the founding of New Amsterdam, immigration from Holland pushed its way along the Hudson and Mohawk rivers in New York and up the Hackensack and Raritan valleys in New Jersey. After New Amsterdam was surrendered to the British in 1664, it became known as New York. But this did not affect the rights of the church, which under the new government retained all its former privileges. English became the language of the government, and the Episcopal Church was introduced and was known as the English Church. For the sake of convenience, the word "Dutch" was therefore added to the title of the Reformed Church, to distinguish it from the other. In 1867, the word was dropped and the original title resumed—the Reformed Church in America.

Our growth, as a denomination, was for a time retarded by the falling off in the immigration from the mother country; by its dependence upon Holland for ministers till 1772, and by the retention of the mother tongue in public service, when English was generally and increasingly spoken.

Our church has ever been distinguished by a steady adherence to her doctrines and order, by a freedom from the religious vagaries of the day, by the spirit of fellowship with all who hold to Christ, the head, and by her missionary zeal, which enables her to stand next to the Moravians in percentage of her gifts for carrying the Gospel to every creature.

THE REFORMED CHURCH IN PLAINFIELD.

The Reformed were not the first to plant their stakes in Plainfield. They were antedated by the Friends, the Baptists, the Presbyterians, Methodists and Episcopalians. The earliest church of our order was the German Reformed Church, organized in 1858, with Rev. Jacob Neef as pastor, who served until 1864, when he was followed in turn by Revs. Wolff, Schweitzer, Schlieder, Koechli, Hauser, Justin. This congregation worshipped in a little frame structure on East Fifth and Washington streets, until its sale to the Crescent Avenue Church for the use of Bethel Mission. This building was later removed to the West End, and became the nucleus of that expanding growth, known as Hope Chapel. In 1887 the German Reformed congregation erected the neat edifice on Craig Place, during the pastorate of Rev. Frederick Koechli.

The Central Reformed Church was organized by the classis of Raritan in 1863, Oct. 12, and the Rev. John Simonson was pastor from 1864 to 1869. Mr. Simonson continued to reside here until his death in May (11th), 1889. As a preacher he was earnest, evangelical, scriptural. As a Christian, modest, unassuming, sincere. As a man, honest, honorable, high-minded. His character was transparent. He lived and breathed the Spirit of Christ.

The edifice of the Central Reformed Church was originally that of the Union Baptist Church, erected on th sisite in 1861 by the late Morgan S. Bird. The building was purchased by the Central Reformed Church, Oct. 1, 1864.

The Rev. Mr. Simonson was succeeded by Rev. Nicholas E. Smith, D.D., of Brooklyn, in 1870, and for two years he continued to serve as pastor of the Central Reformed Church, when, in 1872, Jan. 17, the church was transferred to the Congregationalists, and was thereafter known as the First Congregational Church of Plainfield, Mr. Smith continuing to act as pastor until 1878. He was followed in 1879 by Rev. William Manchee, who found the burden too heavy to carry, and in the autumn of the same year he and many members withdrew from the First Congregational Church and organized the Congregational Society, which now worships in Seventh street, and of which the Rev. Charles L. Goodrich is the esteemed pastor.

The Rev. Nicholas Smith died in Brooklyn, June 18, 1890. He was a man of brilliant parts, an engaging preacher and was warmly loved and trusted by many people.

TRINITY REFORMED CHURCH.

On the 16th day of March, 1880, at a special meeting of the classis of Newark, a petition was presented by Wm. Swalm, Wm. B. Stewart and Theodore Mace, asking that a Reformed Church be organized in Plainfield, N. J. A committe of classis, of which Rev. W. J. R. Taylor, D.D., of Newark, was chairman, were appointed, and directed to visit Plainfield, and if the way were clear, take the proper steps toward effecting such organization. The committee met in Plainfield March 22, and after careful examination of the field, unanimously agreed that the petition should be granted. Accordingly on the 29th of March, 1880, the church was organized with fifty-five members, under the style and title of "The Trinity Reformed (Dutch) Church of Plainfield, N. J. After twenty-five years it will be interesting to read the list of the charter members:

HONOR FANNY CROSBY

The 85th Birthday of Famous Hymn Writer is Observed.

IN THE CHURCHES

Baptists, Methodists and Presbyterians Among Those Paying Tribute to Her.

Congregations of all denominations throughout the city held special services yesterday, in honor of the eighty-fifth birthday of Fanny Crosby, the blind hymn writer. Hymns that she had composed and which are known the world over were sung and sketches of her life were read.

One of the most elaborate was held at the Monroe Avenue church at night and was attended by a very large congregation. It was in charge of Rev. George Mooney, who made appropriate remarks, as did also Rev. Dr. Whitney, of this city, and Rev. Dr. Herben, assistant editor of the Christian Advocate. In addition to the singing of Fanny Crosby's hymns by the congregation, duetts were given by Mrs. Clarence L. Murphy and John Daub and quartette selections by John Daub, Mrs. Murphy, Walter McGee and Miss Mae Brower. Though the programme was decidedly interesting and was brought to a close by benediction from Dr. Whitney.

A similar service was held at the Park Avenue Baptist church at the Sunday-school session. A sketch of Fanny Crosby's life was read by Miss Anna Clark, a quartette consisting of Mrs. VonBrakle, Miss Florence Hawkins, Nelson Runyon and D. M. Runyon rendered selections, one of them being Fanny Crosby's latest composition, "Thou Didst Love Me, O My Saviour!" and Mrs. VonBrakle sang the composer's favorite hymn, "Saved by Grace." A feature of the service was the reading of two letters received from Miss Crosby, containing a personal message to the school and naming her favorite hymns.

Her hymns were sung at the service in Faith chapel, last night, and the pastor, Rev. J. W. Musson, gave an interesting talk concerning the life and influence of the hymn-writer.

The service at the First Presbyterian church last night was appropriate to Fanny Crosby's birthday. Hymns composed by her were sung by the quartette choir and congregation and Rev. C. E. Herring gave a short talk on the life of the well-known composer. During the service Martin A. Korff rendered a violin solo.

Fanny Crosby VanAlstyne, better known as Fanny Crosby, the blind hymn-writer, of Bridgeport, Conn., was born in Putnam County, N. Y., and has not been sightless from birth. Her blindness is said to be due to the error of a physician, who ordered the application of hot poultices to her inflamed eyes when she was six months old, thereby destroying the optic nerve. The affliction did not, however, prevent her from enjoying the pleasures of childhood, and she says that she could "climb a tree or ride a horse as well as anyone."

The blind hymn writer is the author of thousands of hymns and poems, some of the best known being "Safe in the Arms of Jesus," "Saved by Grace," "Blessed Assurance," "Rescue the Perishing," "I Am Thine, Oh, Lord," "Just a Word for Jesus" and "Jesus, Keep Me Near the Cross." She composes with great rapidity, and always has her verses complete in her mind before committing them to paper.

Several years ago Phillips Brooks gave her seventy-five topics, and asked her to write verses based on them. She composed every one of the hymns before a line of any of them was placed on paper. "Safe in the Arms of Jesus," which is one of her most popular hymns, was written in fifteen minutes.

Mrs. VanAlstyne was educated at the Institute for the Blind, in New York, and taught there for twelve years. She was married in 1858 to Alexander VanAlstyne, a blind teacher in the same school, and they had one child who died at an early age. Mr. VanAlstyne died in 1902.

Fanny Crosby's hymns have been translated into many foreign languages.

Thrown From Horse.

William Kirk, of Central avenue, was thrown from his horse yesterday morning, sustaining a severe wrench of his shoulder. The horse stumbled in sunken ground, turning completely over and throwing its rider several feet.

Cost Giddes a Ten Spot.

Garfield Giddes, of Cowntown, who fell by the wayside on Somerset street, Friday, was fined $10 by Recorder Dood, Saturday night.

PACKER DRANK GIN TO CURE HIS RHEUMATISM

THE PAIN STOPPED ALL RIGHT, BUT HIS BRAIN SLIPPED A COG.

The city court, always the place to hear original excuses from prisoners arraigned on charges of drunkenness as to what caused their condition, produced two new ones this morning. William Packer, the legless wonder, said rheumatism in the shoulder bothered him so much he took three drinks of gin to ease the pain. It stopped it all right but befogged his brain so much that he lost consciousness on East second street. Theodore Zeller, against whom there was a charge of intoxication, was positive that he wasn't drunk and that his wobbly condition was due to his slipping on an icy sidewalk and falling on his head. Question by Judge Runyon brought out the fact that he had had two drinks, only two.

Packer was let go with a suspended sentence of $100 and fifty-nine days if he returns to court within a year and Zeller was fined $3 as a reminder to take to the road when property owners fail to keep their sidewalks free from ice.

THREE NEW BUILDINGS.

Two Dwelling Houses and One Store to be Erected in the Business Section.

F. A. Pope has decided to erect a house on the East corner of Park avenue and Fifth street, and A. L. Q. Marsh, the architect, is now drawing plans for the structure.

Dr. Frank T. Clawson, of West Seventh street, is having plans made for a house on his lot, Park avenue and Sixth street.

A. H. Enander, the plumber, now on Park avenue, will erect a building for business on his property on Watchung avenue, between the residence of John Stevens and the TenEyck property. Andrew W. Johnson, the tinner, will occupy a portion of the shop, when completed.

Dr. Albert Fittis, who has just purchased the dwelling on the Thomas E. MacDonald property on East Front street, has planned to move the dwelling to the corner of the lot adjoining that of Dr. Marcus L. Clawson. The two wings of the MacDonald house will be removed and when the alterations are completed the new owner will occupy the structure.

D. of A. Entertainment.

Under the auspices of Martha Washington Council, No. 23, Daughters of America, an excellent entertainment was held Saturday night, following the business meeting. The programme consisted of music by an orchestra, recitations by Miss Daisy Gilbert and S. H. Allen; piano solos by the Hoffman brothers, Miss Flora Moorehouse and Miss Maude Martin; readings by Mrs. W. B. Grannatt; a dialogue, entitled "Just From Home," by S. H. Allen, Harry Allen, and Miss Florence Welsh, and two tableaux, "Rock of Ages," and "Liberty." After the entertainment refreshments were served.

Pryor's Band Tomorrow Night.

Arthur Pryor, the young American bandmaster, and his forty skilled musicians, will give a concert in Jacob's Theatre, Elizabeth, tomorrow night. It will be attended by several theatre parties from this city, among them being a delegation from Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, B. P. O. E., which will be entertained by Chris Sorensen, Jr., a fellow member and former Plainfield boy. He is now in charge of the managerial end for Mr. Pryor, while George Taggart, another Plainfielder, does the press work.

His Fifth Birthday.

In honor of his fifth birthday, Arthur Seader, of Lincoln place, was tendered a birthday party Saturday afternoon. The time was spent in playing games after which refreshments were served. Among those present were: Blanche and Bertha Martin, Lena Greaves, Marion Welley, Louise and Dorothy Seader, Clara Allen, Anna Bache and Ida Wilson, Willie Watts, Theodore, Johnie and Albert Martin, Raymond and Elmer Wilson and Arthur Seader.

VanAuken Crack Pitcher.

Frederick T. VanAuken, of this city, who began his career as a pitcher on the Plainfield High School baseball team in 1902, was in the box for the Annapolis team Saturday in its game with the Washington University. Annapolis won the game which lasted for ten innings by the score of 6 to 5. VanAuken took the last half of the contest, and it was largely through his work that the Washingtonites were held down.

JUDGE GROSS TO SIT IN EQUITY CASES

NEW UNITED STATES COURT JUDGE TO BEGIN HIS DUTIES TOMORROW.

The March term of the United States Circuit Court will open at Trenton tomorrow with fifty-one law cases, eleven equity suits and seventeen demurrers for argument on the calendar.

The calendar for the first time shows the names of two New Jersey district judges, the Hon. William W. Lanning, of Trenton, and the Hon. Joseph Cross, of Elizabeth.

It is expected that Judge Cross will sit in the equity cases week after next, possibly in Newark, if that suits the convenience of counsel.

Yale Musical Club Coming.

The Yale Glee, Banjo and Mandolin Clubs will give a concert at the Casino on Friday night. These clubs are well known here, but no opportunity to listen to them has been afforded to Plainfield music-lovers for more than six years. During the last Christmas vacation the trip of the clubs included as far as Colorado Springs. Among the forty-one members of the clubs is Donald A. McGee, of North Plainfield. Reserved seats for the concert will be placed on sale at Armstrong's drug store.

Rev. H. G. Miller's Talk.

Life in a typical western mining town, appropriately situated in the wilds of Arizona on a bleak hillside over looking the winding canyon, was graphically described by Rev. H. G. Miller, a former missionary and a member of the Congregational Home Mission Board, at the Congregational church yesterday morning. The speaker told simply but eloquently the story of a missionary's work in the town of Jerome, Arizona, a place at one time termed "the wickedest town in the southwest."

His Sanity Questioned.

William Sutton, of Elm place, who has been acting queerly on the streets for many weeks, was taken in custody by the police this morning, for the purpose of enquiring into his sanity. Physicians will examine him this afternoon and his commitment to the State hospital may follow. The man has believed for weeks that he is a sheriff and his attempts to arrest boys who have followed him has made him a target for vegetables wherever he goes.

Los Angeles Wedding.

A number of friends and relatives in town will be interested in the announcement by Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Drake Stelle, of the marriage of their sister, Miss Edith Augusta Stelle, to George Edmund Warren, on Saturday, March 18, at Los Angeles, California. Mr. and Mrs. Warren will reside at Los Angeles. Mrs. Warren is the sister of the late Mrs. Frank Marsh, of Madison avenue.

Another Lumber Yard.

W. A. Coddington, of the firm of Reed & Coddington, representing McDonough Brothers, will present the claims of the coal and lumber dealers to the Common Council tonight, in its application for permission to erect a building on West Fourth street, near Madison avenue, for the storage of lumber. It is said that the Common Councilmen are disposed to grant the request.

Trolley Car Jumps Track.

One of the large main line trolley cars, west bound, jumped the tracks on East Second street, near Terrill road, Saturday night, about 8 o'clock. Although the car was well filled with passengers no one was injured. The car was slightly damaged. The accident was due to a depression of the tracks made soft by the recent warm rains.

Firemen Visit Headquarters.

Fire headquarters was visited by several out-of-town firemen, yesterday, among them being former Chief Kenny, of Rahway, and Captains Halpin, of No. 1 Engine and Rogers, of No. 3 Engine, Elizabeth. They were the guests of Chief Deane and Assistant Chief Jennings, who showed them about the house.

Good Speaker at Y. M. C. A.

Rev. R. E. Diffendorfer, of Grace M. E. church, addressed the men's meeting at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon, which was largely attended. The talk was an interesting and a practical one. Solos by John Wantworth were greatly enjoyed.

FIGHT FOR A FOAMY BEER

Four Young Men Battle in Somerset Street Alley.

POLICE INTERFERE

All Might Have Gone Well If They Had Organized a Club and Secured a Permit.

Pugilistic talk that has been in the air since the slugging soiree in Saengerbund Hall, last week, led to another in town somewhat similar Saturday night, without gloves, timekeepers or gongs. It differed from the formal affair in that there were four men at it, hammer and tongs at once, and also that the police took a hand and placed the quartette in Chief Kiely's back parlor.

The contestants were Edward Brittin, Clarence Angleman, Otto Reinke and John Young, all young men. Reinke, who claims to be the hero of twenty-six ring encounters, issued the challenge in behalf of himself and Young and it was accepted by Brittin and Angleman. Somebody claims that it wouldn't have been given if Reinke hadn't called Brittin a "cheap sport" while they were playing a game of pool in a Somerset street place, and was told in return by Angleman that he was a "freckle-faced bajanno," the same appellation that has made enemies of Oscar Hammerstein and District Attorney Jerome in the metropolis. At any rate, the match was agreed upon and to make it more interesting a schooner of foamy beer was named as the stake, the two winners to divide it between them.

The alley on Somerset street just off Front was selected as the battle ground to which contestants and spectators adjourned. Angleman asked to take care of Reinke and Brittin decided to look after Young. With this understanding the fight was progressing somewhat after the manner of the Klein-Ferris affair Monday night when a couple of extra heavy thumps which the "hero of twenty-six battles" landed on Angleman's cranium forced him to take to his heels and run into Somerset street. Seeing a possible twenty-seventh victory added to his list, Reinke followed and the two again went at it in the middle of the road.

That led to the cops being let into the game and the street fighters were gently pulled apart with the injunction that they were in the city and not over in the borough. They were led away and time was called on the other two in the alley just as Brittin had placed a fancy tap a la' "Kid" Klein on the end of Young's nose.

In the city court this morning all four acknowledged the whole encounter, only Brittin claimed that Angleman could have "finished" his man if they had been let alone. Judge Runoyn fined all hands $3 as a reminder to organize a club and secure a permit the next time they wanted to pound each other. The fines were paid but all four narrowly escaped being brought back for trial a second time as they started to argue their respective abilities in so loud a tone outside the courtroom that an officer had to be sent out to clear them away.

Candidates From Each Ward.

Former Assemblyman William Newcorn is mentioned as a candidate to succeed Joseph Cross as State Senator from Union County. Judge Runyon, it is understood, has the support of the local administration for the nomination. From Elizabeth comes the tidings that Mayor Buckle is also a candidate. H. B. Ackerman is also talked of in connection with the berth.

Ironing Board Starts a Fire.

In answer to a telephone call received at fire headquarters at 1:35 o'clock this afternoon, two hose wagons and the chemical engine was sent to the home of Albert B. Davis, 778 Belvidere avenue. An ironing stove had set fire to a partition and the family was afraid that the blaze would get beyond control. The damage was about $20.

Education Board's Clerkship.

It is reported that the North Plainfield Board of Education purposes to make a change so far as one of its offices is concerned. This innovation will be to select some one other than a member of the Board for the position of clerk.

Family Dispossessed.

Mr. and Mrs. George Mulholland were dispossessed Saturday from their home, 959 Arlington avenue, which is owned by Hugh McDonnell. The proceedings were in Justice Huff's court. Deputy Sheriff Weaver served the writ.

Of the original fifty-five members, 17 are still connected with the church, 20 have died, and 18 have removed.

The service of organization and ordination was held in the building formerly occupied by the First Congregational Church. Henry Lindsley and George L. Van Emburgh were elected and ordained elders and David O. Kilbourn, deacon. The Rev. Dr. Taylor preached the sermon, the text being 1 Thess. 5: 11-13; and the Rev. Henry Veshlage, D.D., and the Rev. F. V. Van Vranken, participated in the exercises.

The first consistory meeting of the newly elected officers was held at the house of Elder Van Emburgh, 82 East Second street, April 9, 1880. The weight of responsibility that rested upon these brethren made the opening prayer, which was offered by Elder Lindsley, especially earnest and importunate. How much they required that divine wisdom that is profitable to direct, and that divine power which is able to strengthen with might the inner man. There certainly could have been no contest for official honors, as there was an office for each member of the consistory. Elder Lindsley was chosen president, Elder Van Emburgh, clerk, and Deacon Kilbourn, treasurer.

The first Communion Service was held on the first Sabbath in May, when several new members were received. The Rev. Mr. Voorhees conducted the service. The original number of fifty-five was added to from time to time, until, at the close of the calendar year the membership had increased to seventy-nine.

In June (20th), 1880, the place of worship formerly used by the First Congregational Church was purchased at Sheriff's sale for $12,000. That edifice was enlarged to its present dimensions in 1872, by extending the sides and adding about forty feet to the rear.

DR. RAYMOND'S PASTORATE.

After several ineffectual attempts to secure a pastor, a call was made in December, 1880, upon Rev. A. V. V. Raymond, of the First Reformed Church, Paterson, N. J. He accepted and began his labors on the first Sabbath in January, 1881. He continued as pastor until Feb. 1, 1887, when he accepted a call to the Fourth Presbyterian Church of Albany, N. Y. That church he continued to serve until 1894, when he was elected to the presidency of Union College, which office he now holds and adorns.

During the six years of Dr. Raymond's pastorate here, the church was blessed with a remarkable growth in all departments. A large membership was gathered and consolidated. The religious activities of the people were cultivated and developed. Societies for Christian work were organized, and the church was given a standing in the community for consecration and comity. The grace of giving was especially fostered and the benevolent offerings of the people placed it among the first of the churches of the classis of Newark.

Jan. 1, 1882, a chattel mortgage of $2,800, assumed with the purchase of the property, was paid.

What seemed like a severe blow to the enterprise was a fire July 14, 1882, which partly destroyed the house of worship. Fortunately the insurance ($4,490) covered the cost of repair, and services were resumed in the restored building in October, the congregation worshiping meanwhile in the Lecture Room of the church. During Dr. Raymond's pastorate 354 were added to the membership, of whom 148 were received on confession of faith in Christ.

THE PRESENT PASTOR.

On May 13, 1887, a call was extended to the present pastor, who was then pastor of the Fourth Reformed Church of Philadelphia. He accepted and was installed June 30, 1887. The Rev. W. J. R. Taylor, D.D., preached the sermon, Rev. David Waters, D.D., charged the pastor, and Rev. Henry Veshlage, D.D., charged the people.

The present minister has sought to carry the work forward largely along the lines followed by his predecessor. He may be allowed, without assumption, to refer to a few outstanding facts for the sake of "preserving the record." In 1889 the church property was improved at considerable expense. The lecture-room was neatly carpeted, the walls kalsomined, light, comfortable chairs took the place of the heavy benches, and an inside stairway was erected.

A red letter day in the history of our church was Sunday, April 23, 1893, when, all the mortgage obligations having been previously paid, the papers themselves were publicly cremated with much joy and enthusiasm. It was the culmination of a series of assaults upon a Port Arthur which at first seemed invulnerable. In 1882 the chattel indebtedness, assumed with the purchase of the property, was cancelled. In 1887 the attack was renewed upon the balance, $12,000, together with certain outstanding obligations amounting to $1,400; and was kept up almost without intermission until the citadel fell in 1893.

Meanwhile the church and Sunday School continued to grow, and the demands for room became so urgent that in 1897 plans for enlargement were accepted and actual work began Sept. 1. The most notable change was the elevation of the structure several feet higher than it was formerly, so as to provide underneath by slight excavation capacious lecture and Sunday School rooms, ladies' parlor and other desirable conveniences. The rebuilding was so complete and extensive as to almost seem like an entirely new and harmonious edifice. On Sunday, Feb. 27, 1898, the remodeled church, new and attractive without and within, was formally dedicated according to the form and usage of our Liturgy. The Rev. Dr. Raymond preached the sermon from Psalm 27: 4. The entire expense, not including the electric lighting, which was the personal gift of Mr. B. A. Hegeman, was about $9,000, one-half of which was provided for.

One year later, Jan. 18, 1899, through the beneficence of Mr. Hegeman, the balance, $4,500, was paid. The liberality and loyalty of Mr. and Mrs. Hegeman were a constant encouragement to our people, and a stimulus to effort and generous giving.

Marconnier Chapel, at Oak Tree, N. J., came under the care of our church March 25, 1900, and the transfer of property from the trustees of the chapel to the consistory of this church was made on the above date. A good work has been accomplished by those who have labored there in one capacity and another. Carriage sheds have been built, the grounds graded, the property improved, piano procured, and other conveniences have been added as needed. Services have been maintained and the means of grace provided.

The superintendents have been: H. W. Marshall, Steven Stover, Mrs. George Reighton and Mrs. J. W. Schenck, the present incumbent. The officers are: Mrs. Schenck, superintendent; Mrs. J. B. Randolph, secretary; W. E. Van Court, treasurer. The chapel has been supplied by Seymour Purdy and A. P. Tulp of New Brunswick Theological Seminary.

MEMBERS RECEIVED.

In twenty-five years 1,233 persons have been received into the church:

Before the coming of Dr. Raymond.....	79
During Dr. Raymond's pastorate: On confession, 148; by certificate, 206...	354
During Mr. Schenck's pastorate: On confession, 399; by certificate, 401...	800
Entire number received.....	1,233

Losses: By death, 137; dismission, 310; suspension, removal and revision, 186; leaving a present membership of about 600. The number of baptisms: Adults, 212; infants, 351; total, 563.

The growth in the membership of the church has been steady, rather than spasmodic. Additions have been made regularly, although especially large accessions are noticed in March, 1885, when 42 were received on confession, and in December, 1890, when 86 were added on profession of faith.

The spirit of benevolence, which Dr. Raymond so successfully developed, has marked our people through all the years. For foreign missions alone you have raised $9,223.60, and for domestic missions, $7,995.78; a total of $17,219.38 for missions.

ORGANIZATIONS.

The life of a church expresses itself in many ways and forms. It takes to itself or makes for itself a body through which it operates.

CONSISTORY.

The governing body in the Reformed Church is the consistory, composed of elders and deacons elected by the congregation. To them are referred all matters pertaining to the spiritual and temporal welfare of the church. The success of this church is largely due, under God, to the men of character and Christian consecration who, from time to time, have been chosen to the honorable offices of elder and deacon.

ELDERS.

The following persons have served the church as elders: Henry Lindsley, died Oct. 10, 1893; George L. Van Emburgh; Daniel G. Van Winkle, died July 23, 1887; P. P. Van Arsdale, died Sept. 21, 1900; R. Titsworth, M. D., died March 8, 1890; W. D. W. Miller; B. A. Hegeman, Sr., died Nov. 2, 1903; R. R. Field, died March 18, 1892; A. Willett, J. H. Lesh, G. O. Dolliver, O. W. Dunham, John H. Van Winkle, D. Van Winkle, Robert Clark, Jr., J. P. Laire, F. E. Smith, A. L. Force, H. J. Martin, H. E. Gayle.

DEACONS.

The following have served as deacons: D. O. Kilbourn, died Oct. 2, 1892; Joseph Meier, D. Van Winkle, J. R. Glen, died Aug. 4, 1903; C. S. West, died Jan. 23, 1887; Alburtus Swalm, John H. Meeker, C. M. Thorpe, T. R. Van Zandt, A. J. Moore, A. K. Willett, E. F. Sheppard, B. R. Force.

CLERKS.

The clerks of the consistory from the beginning have been: G. L. Van Emburgh, Joseph Meier, C. S. West, John H. Van Winkle, D. Van Winkle, F. E. Smith, E. F. Sheppard.

TREASURERS.

The careful custodians of the funds of the church have been: D. O. Kilbourn, R. Titsworth, M. D., F. W. Morse, D. Van Winkle, P. P. Van Arsdale, B. A. Hegeman, George Gayle, the present faithful treasurer, who has served continuously since Dec. 1, 1888.

SABBATH SCHOOL.

The Sabbath School was organized April 11, 1880, with an enrollment of 64. The officers were: H. L. Lindsley, superintendent; D. O. Kilbourn, assistant superintendent; Alburtus Swalm, secretary and treasurer; F. H. Van Emburgh, librarian; Miss E. Van Duyn, leader of music; Mr. Wintzbach, leader of singing. The school has grown from 64 in 1880 to an enrolled membership in all departments, including 190 in the Home Department, which was formed January, 1900, of 759. It has been remarkable from the beginning for steady growth in number and efficiency. Its leaders have been able, its officers faithful, and its teachers capable and conscientious. It has been a constant feeder to the church and has turned out a host of prepared workers. The present officers are: Superintendent, F. E. Smith; assistant superintendent, H. J. Martin; superintendent primary department, Mrs. J. M. Tier; secretary, E. H. Bird, since 1887; assistant secretary, C. F. Colthar; treasurer, H. E. Gayle; librarian, H. C. Van Emburgh; assistants, J. THE LADIES' CHRISTIAN WORK SOCIETY.

The Ladies' Christian Work Society was organized in April, 1881, and its continued usefulness has shown the wisdom of its founders. It has provided a field for the exercise of the gifts and talents of the women of the church. It has proved to be a most valuable auxiliary in all of the activities of the church. Its presidents have been: Mrs. A. V. V. Raymond, May, 1881-1885; Mrs. Charles D. Wadsworth, May, 1885-1886; Mrs. Craig A. Marsh, May, 1887-1888; Miss Nettie Haviland, May, 1888-1889; Mrs. Charles P. Gillem, second vice-president; Mrs. O. W. Dunham, third vice-president; Mrs. B. D. Newell, secretary; Mrs. Robert Clark, Jr., treasurer.

Y. P. S. C. E.

The Christian Endeavor Society was instituted Oct. 5, 1885, with 29 active and 12 associate members. In the years since it has grown to be one of the largest and most efficient societies, bearing the name of Christian Endeavor in our State. It still believes in the principles of the pledge and in a definite consecration of service to Jesus Christ, and stands, as it has always stood, for loyalty to Christ and the church.

Its presidents have been: H. E. Gayle, 1885-1887; C. D. Wheeler, 1887-1888; Fred Lucas and F. S. Dunn, 1888-1889; Fred S. Dunn, 1889-1890; T. H. Hardy, 1890-1891; Miss E. C. Benedict, 1891-1892; Bergen Carter, 1892-1893; Fred E. Smith, 1893-1894; Fred E. Smith, 1894-1895; W. A. Crawford, 1895-1896; A. K. Willett, 1896-1897; Horace J. Martin, 1897-1898; Horace J. Martin, 1898-1899; Edgar F. Sheppard, 1899-1900; Edgar F. Sheppard, 1900-1901; H. F. Crawford, 1901-1902; Miss Mabel Wilson, 1902-1903; Miss Mabel Wilson, 1903-1904; H. F. Crawford, 1904-1905.

The society now numbers 89 active, 6 associate and 48 honorary members. Its officers are: H. F. Crawford, president; Miss May F. Randolph, first vice-president; William Latourette, second vice-president; Miss Lucie Coriell, recording secretary; Miss Mabel Wilson, corresponding secretary; Miss Anna Searing, treasurer.

KING'S DAUGHTERS.

The Whatsoever Circle of King's Daughters was formed Oct. 4, 1889 with Mrs. Charles P. Leggett as president, which office she still holds. Its work is benevolent and charitable, and with other circles it has joined in the support of the King's Daughters' nurse. It also makes an annual contribution to the board of Foreign and Domestic Missions.

The officers of the Circle are: Mrs. C. P. Leggett, president; Mrs. Leonard Smith, vice-president; Mrs. Will F. Williams, secretary; Mrs. Virginia Chickering, treasurer.

JUNIOR ENDEAVOR SOCIETY.

The Junior Endeavor Society wa sorganized 1890, Miss Alice O. Smith, superintendent. The design of this society was to instruct the members in Bible truth, cultivate an interest in missions and lead them to a public testimony of their love for Christ. The superintendents have been: Miss Alice O. Smith, Mr. Robert A. Meeker, Miss Mary Berg, assistant; Mrs. Cornelius Schenck, Mrs. J. M. Tier, the present incumbent, since 1900; Miss Mary Berkaw, assistant.

The officers are: Edna Dilts, president; Edna Force, vice-president; Harold W. Schenck, treasurer; Helen Smith, recording secretary; Mrs. C. Schenck, corresponding secretary.

The society now numbers 60.

YOUNG WOMEN'S MISSION BAND.

The Young Women's Mission Band was formed February, 1897, and now has a membership of 50. It has raised hundreds of dollars in its short history, and is a most active missionary auxiliary. Its presidents have been: Mrs. C. P. Leggett, 1897; Mrs. F. E. Woodruff, 1898-1899; Miss Lillian A. Force, 1900-1901; Miss Mabel Woodruff, 1902; Mrs. F. E. Woodruff, 1903-1904; Miss Lillian A. Force, 1905.

The present officers are: Miss Lillian A. Force, president; Miss Mabel Wilson, vice-president; Mrs. H. F. Crawford, recording secretary; Mrs. William Olmstead, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Frank Pearson, treasurer.

MEN'S ASSOCIATION.

The Men's Association was organized January, 1904, and has an enrolled membership of 65. Its history, as yet, lies in the future. Its object, which is "the development of the social and fraternal intercourse of men throughout the church and congregation in a manly Christian way," would seem to justify the hope that the association will meet a need for closer contact and sympathy among the men of the church. Mr. H. W. Marshall was the first president.

The present officers are: Frank P. Storr, president; R. Edwin Bohan, vice-president; Charles M. Dolliver, secretary; Manning F. Gano, treasurer.

MUSIC.

An essential part of worship is music. This feature of our service is under the care of the music committee of consistory. The efficient and genial chairman of the committee, Mr. Horace J. Martin, has formed a large chorus from among our own members, chiefly from the Endeavor Society, which is rendering splendid service. In one respect the musical history of our church is unique, in that for 23 years we have had the continuous assistance in this important constituent of public worship, of Mr. Arthur L. Titsworth, the present organist and choir director. The keen sense of fitness of times and seasons, the discriminating interpretation of the sacred sentiment of composers and hymn-writers, of Mr. Titsworth, have contributed largely to a worshipful attitude and action in the House of God.

CONCLUSION.

But we must forbear, lest we exceed the limits of time and patience. We realize that this review of the past is far from complete. The essential facts and figures may be correct as far as they go, but they do not tell of the sacrifice and services, the deeds and doings, many of which have faded from memory, the influence of which, however, still survives. God alone may be able to trace the connection between the prayers and consecration and piety of the fathers and the effects as they exist to-day We do know that no pure word spoken, no humble deed done, is ever lost. After all, it is not the time we live, but how we spend it, that tells. Philip James Bailey, in "Festus," says truly:

"We live in deeds, not years; in thoughts, not breaths;
In feelings, not in figures on a dial.
We should count time by heart-throbs. He most lives
Who thinks most, feels noblest, acts the best."

And now whatever the past may reveal as we consider it; whatever lessons it may teach in the way of inspiration and instruction, our faces must be toward the future. The golden age is not in the past, the best has not yet been. Neither the church nor the world has reached its zenith; and as individuals we have not yet attained "unto the measure of the stature of the fulness of Christ."

How much there is in the glorious yesterday to inspire and hearten us; how much there is in the more glorious to-morrow to invite us forward. The opportunities were never so many, the way never so open, the calls never so imperious, as now.

While we would "consider the days of old, the years of ancient times," "lest we forget," heeding the injunction of Kipling; we would follow the example of a greater than he, the holy apostle Paul, who saith, "Brethren, I count not myself to have apprehended; but this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus."

A feature of the services was the singing by the chorus choir of mixed voices, under the direction of Arthur L. Titsworth, organist and director. The selections were rendered in a praise-worthy manner, largely assisting in making the celebration one long to be remembered. The morning service was concluded with a prayer by the pastor, the singing of a hymn, "I Love Thy Kingdom Lord," the benediction by the pastor, and organ postlude, "Festival March."

Sunday-School Observance.

In the afternoon the members of the Sunday-school, from the youngest to the eldest, joined in the celebration. There was a record attendance of 471. Superintendent F. E Smith was in charged and the opening exercises consisted of Scripture reading, a song by the primary department, prayer by the pastor, Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, a selection by a male quartette, comprising W. G. Tunison, H. J. Martin, W. O. Leek and E. D. Young After the usual time was allotted for the marking of books, Mr. Smith said that it was with pleasure that the former superintendents were present and W. D. W. Miller was the first speaker He completed the term of Charles S. West in 1883, serving three months He spoke briefly, referring to the early days of the Sunday-school, mentioning the names of Thomas Brown and J. Hervey Ackerman as prominent workers. He also spoke of the many changes effected and of the excellent record of the school which must make all feel encouraged to go forward.

The next superintendent, George L. VanEmburgh, now teacher of Class No. 12, contrasted the difference between a superintendent of a mercantile house and a Sunday-school In the case of the latter he said that it was a service of love in a portion of God's vineyard and that a superintendent of a Sunday-school must have a soul of love and desire with no selfishness. He must watch over the teaching of every teacher and see that the pure and simple Word of God is taught rightly. He also referred to the fact that this child of twenty-five had outgrown its quarters and he hoped that more room would be allowed for the rapidly increasing numbers. Although he was superintendent one year, he added that he would rather teach. In closing he referred with pride to the fact that his son, Frederick VanEmburgh, was the first librarian of the school.

After the singing of a hymn, Edward E. Anthony, who served the school as superintendent for nineteen years, 1884-1902, was introduced. He said that he was in South Carolina four weeks ago when he received an invitation from Superintendent F. E. Smith to be present at this time and address the school, and it was with pleasure that he was able to attend. He referred to birthdays as great things, although some people will never tell you how old they are. In answer to a question, Mr. Smith said that he was fourteen years old as a Sunday-school worker, whereupon Mr. Anthony replied: "My, what a man he will be when he grows up." Mr. Anthony attributed the great success of Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school to the words found in Nehemiah 4 6: "For the people had a mind to work," and he did not think that one single person would regret the years of service at Trinity. He spoke of the splendid force of workers in the church and school, graduates from the Christian Endeavor and other societies. He then paid deserving tribute to Mrs. J. M. Tier, Miss Mary Berkaw and other teachers in the school for faithful service. He expressed the thought that all had much to rejoice in at this time, yet the responsibility is greater for the future. He was glad that the school had outgrown its clothes and he hoped the Consistory would get bigger clothes for the healthy growing child.

There was another selection by the male quartette, after which Superintendent Smith presented some interesting facts and figures about the school during the past twenty-five years, showing the steady growth.

School's Work.

The school was organized April 11, 1880, and the attendance the first Sunday was sixty-four. At the close of that year it was 202. Last year the total number in the school was 759. The record attendance the first year was 109 and last year, 488. The offerings the first year were $195 97, and $537 28 last year. The offerings for the school during the twenty-five years amounted to $6,786 92. A total of $3,222 83 was given to missions, $1,584 77 toward a special fund. The grand total raised in the quarter of a century was $12,648 66. There were on an average of thirteen members of the school that joined the church each year. The honors for long service are divided between E. E. Anthony and Secretary E. H. Bird, both having served nearly nineteen years.

The officers the first year were as follows: Superintendent, Henry Lindsley; assistant, D. O. Kilbourn; secretary and treasurer, Alburtis Swalm; librarian, Frederick VanEmburgh; leaders of music, Miss Kitta VanDuyn and Mrs. S. L. Stewart. The succeeding superintendents were Charles S. West, W. D. W. Miller, G. L. Van Emburgh, E. E. Anthony and F. E. Smith. The succeeding secretaries were Alburtis Swalm, S. C. Baker, F. H. Martin, E. E. Anthony, H. E. Scott, P. H. Bennett, E. H. Bird. The treasurers in succession were Alburtis Swalm, S. C. Baker, H. E. Gayle, W. F. Oliver, A. K. Willett, T. H. Van Zandt and H. E. Gayle, and the librarians F. H. VanEmburgh, E. B. Ackerman, J. Fred MacDonald, W. H. Hardy, P. H. Bennett, W. A. Woodruff, H. W. Marshall and H. C. VanEmburgh. The teachers were as follows: John Ulrich, Theodore Mace, W. B. Stewart, D. O. Kilbourn, Miss Vandenberg, Isaac Gaston, Garret T. VanWinkle, Miss Anna Garretson, Mrs. J. M. Tier, Mrs. S. C. Peck, George Gayle, John H. VanWinkle, G. L. VanEmburgh Mrs Insley Gardner, Miss Ella Benedict, Mrs. W. M. Mattison, Joseph Maier, Daniel Van Winkle, T. A. Sofield, Miss Etta Van Duyn, Mrs. Anna C. Crawford, F. H. Martin and W. D. W. Miller, while Mrs. S. L. Stewart and Miss Nettie Mattison were in charge of the "Buds of Promise," the name given the primary department. These now in charge are Mrs. J. M. Tier and Miss Mary Berkaw.

Dr. Raymond's Address.

The interest in the celebration was increased at the evening service, when Rev. Dr. A. V. V. Raymond, pastor of the church from 1881 to 1887, and who is now president of Union College at Schenectady, N. Y., spoke. He was the first pastor of Trinity Reformed church and under his guidance and help it steadily increased in membership and power. After the introductory services, including an organ prelude, invocation and prayer by the pastor, an anthem by the choir and an offertory solo, "Fear Not Ye, O Israel," by Miss Florence Bennett, Dr. Raymond gave a most interesting address.

After expressing great joy and pleasure in being present, and referring to the pleasant memories of former days, he took exception to the mathematics of Dr. Schenck, which made it appear that it was eighteen years ago that he was pastor of the church. He did not want anyone to think that he was so old. He always classed himself as a young man. He suggested that all come to Union College where mathematics are taught correctly. He said that Dr. Schenck's theology was all right, but he is poor in mathematics. He said that one would look long and hard to find anything better than friendship and he always found something drawing him back to Plainfield. He then stated that there were some things in the history of the church, not written in books, and which the pastor would not know unless told him. Dr. Raymond then reviewed some of the inside history of the church, relating many incidents in its formation, when the membership was less than sixty. He said that had he not been a young man the prospects would not have stirred his faith in the future.

Obligations amounting to $4,500 were assumed, while the estimated income that first year was less than $500, causing food for reflection. He was amazed in the large faith of the small consistory of three members, but the purpose was to make this church a true one for Jesus Christ to represent Him in this community and the members were impressed with the idea that the church must live for others and the world, that to seek first the Kingdom of Christ and His rigtheousness and all things would be added. It was decided to set apart a time for foreign mission collection and local charities and Dr. Raymond said that the first collection taken on a rainy Sunday amounted to $115, which surprised all.

Then the church was confronted with the problem of meeting its indebtedness and after receiving many suggestions relative to holding fairs,

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The regular covenant meeting of the First Baptist church will be held Friday night and the observance of the Lord's Supper on Sunday.

The Women's Home Missionary Society, of the First Baptist church, will meet in the lecture room of the church tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Dr. Elmer A. Giddes, Amos E. Giddes, Miss Edith C. Miles and Miss Bertha Miles were received into the First Baptist church last night by baptism.

The annual meeting of Hope chapel church and Sunday-school will be held one week from Thursday night. Officers will be elected and the usual reports presented.

One of the events of the season in music will be the concert to be given at the Y. M. C. A tonight by the Y. M. C. A. Orchestra for the benefit of the Swedish Pilgrim church.

Commencing Sunday, April 2, the Swedish Lutheran services will be held in the German Lutheran church on Grove street, at 8 o'clock in the evening, instead of 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Miss Cornelia Miller, of East Fifth street, has resigned as soprano in the Congregational church quartette to take effect on May 1. Mrs. Thomas McDonald, of East Second street, has been engaged in her place.

The second annual musical will be held in the Congregational church on Thursday night. The church quartette will be assisted by VanKps Brothers, W. E. MacClyment, Willard Wadsworth, H. B. Hubbard and Lennox Barnes.

The Men's Association, of the First Presbyterian church, will entertain the women Thursday night, when a prominent worker engaged in the New York Settlement work will make an address. There will be a special programme of music and refreshments will be served.

The postponed meeting of the Women's Association, of the Congregational church, will be held tomorrow afternoon in the church at 3 o'clock. There will be a paper on current events by Miss Suffern, and the book review, "The Life of Horace Pitkin," by Miss Minnie G. Morse.

The Young Women's Missionary Society, of the First Baptist church, will meet in the church Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and at 3 o'clock will unite with the Women's Foreign Missionary Society in its thirty-second anniversary. Mrs. J. C. Buchanan, formerly of Trenton, will make an address and there will be other special exercises of an interesting character.

Paulist Fathers' Mission.

Father Conway delivered a stirring sermon last night at the mission services in St. Mary's church. His subject was "Why are we Catholics?" and his text: "What shall I render unto God for all that he has rendered unto me." The mission, which proved to be highly successful, closed last night.

Dr. Snodgrass' Farewell Sermon.

Rev. Dr. W. C Snodgrass, who recently accepted a call to the Methodist church at Perth Amboy, will preach his farewell sermon to the First M. E. congregation Sunday. In connection with it, a special programme will be given at the services.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL WORKERS PRESENT YEAR'S REPORTS

OFFICERS ALSO ELECTED AT SEVENTH-DAY BAPTIST ANNUAL MEETING.

Reports of the last year's work were heard and the officers for the coming year elected at the annual Sabbath-school meeting of the Seventh-Day Baptist church last night. Orra S. Rogers was re-elected superintendent of the department, with Henry M. Maxson and Asa F. Randolph assistants. As the secretary of last year, Miss Kizzie Neagle declined a re-nomination, and Mrs. Oscar Ellis was appointed to that position. Miss Ernestine Smith was re-elected treasurer and David E. Titsworth was chosen chairmaster. Miss Mabel Maxson, who has been pianist for several years, declined a re-election, nominating in her place Miss Eva Rogers. Miss Rogers received a unanimous vote. Charles F. Neagle will continue to act as librarian.

The reports which were read before the election of officers show the Sabbath-school work to be progressing financially and in attendance. The secretary's report stated that 51 services of the Sabbath-school have been held, with an average attendance of 76 3-4 per cent. of the full membership, which is 119. Miss Bertha Mitchell's class holds the attendance record for the last year.

The treasurer's report was an exceptionally good one, being complete in every detail. The total receipts amount to $407.39, while the expenses are figured at $279.09. This leaves a balance of cash on hand of $128.30. The report further specified the various beneficiary and general expenses, showing to what charitable institutions the funds had bee appropriated.

The librarian's report stated that there are 1444 books in the library which are used generally by the pupils of the schools. Mr. Rogers' report as superintendent of the school was a decidedly interesting one, each department of the work being treated in a concise though complete manner. The superintendent expressed appreciation of the work of the assistants and teachers and also complimented the scholars upon their faithful attendance and interest in the work. The usual benevolent appropriations were voted for.

P. H. S. Debates.

Considerable enthusiasm has been shown by the pupils of the Plainfield High School in debating this year. In the early part of the term debates were held frequenly between the English pupils of the first and second year classes. The Junior classes are next in line and such a contest will be held in the near future between Miss Ball's and Miss Cuming's classes. The subject for discussion will be: "Shall Examinations be Abolished." The pupils of the former class will take the affirmative while those of the latter class will stand out for the negative side. The committee in charge is a joint one consisting of Gertrude Hunter, Stuart Freeman, Howard Freeman, Arthur Whitney, Martin Stutsman and Emil Jahn. The judges will probably be members of the faculty.

Former Editor to Speak.

Alfred E. Pearsall, of Westfield, will speak at the meeting of Winfield Scott Post, No. 78, G. A. R., tomorrow night. There will also be a musical programme. The meeting will be open to the veterans, their wives and friends.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

A few of the baseball candidates were out Saturday afternoon in spite of the bad weather, warming up and getting their arms into condition for the coming season. The position of pitcher is still a doubtful one. Harvey Moynihan will twirl part of the season, though he expects to be away on a business trip for about two months in the latter part of the baseball year. Since there is some possibility that the Y. M. C. A., of Plainfield, will not have a baseball team, Phil Smith, of the Plainfield High School, may pitch after the school schedule is completed. The last game of the year for P. H. S. occurs in the middle of June, and the local team will continue to play all through the summer. Smith has declared his intention of leaving school this year and it is possible that he will join the professional ranks after the High School is through with him. If the Y. M. C. A. is successful in organizing a squad Smith will pitch with them.

Rev. Henry N. Jordan, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, of New Market, occupied the pulpit at the First Presbyterian church yesterday morning and evening in the absence of the regular pastor, Rev. W. W. Casselberry, who is at Lakewood on a short vacation. Mr. Casselberry intends to return this week.

The round house is now being used as formerly, all the work of repairs on the interior having been completed. The work has been satisfactorily inspected.

Michael Moynihan, formerly of Bound Brook, now of the borough, has taken a position in the employ of Levering & Garrigues'.

Archibald Brakeley, of Front street, is expected home from Princeton University for his spring vacation the latter part of next week.

Miss Florence Summers, of Bound Brook, was the guest of friends in the borough yesterday.

Maxwell Brakeley spent Saturday and Sunday visiting out-of-town friends.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The Public Service Corporation is certainly up against it since Saturday. Saturday afternoon a car jumped the switch at Park avenue. After a long delay the car was finally placed right side up again and the ragtime schedule was beginning to get into shape again. At 7 o'clock another car jumped both trucks from the track at the same place; 7:15 another car "looped the loop" at Leland avenue. This about discouraged the travelling public as cars began to be a very scarce thing, from 10:30 to 11:30 not a car passed through for the west. The trouble is caused by the frost leaving the ground, making the road bed so soft and spongy that the rails spread very easily. A birds-eye view of the track from Park avenue to Terrell road makes one step and ponder as to how the cars remain on the tracks at all, the benders in the rails reminding one of life on the ocean waves.

In the landlord-tenant case of Cook-Snyder, in Justice Clark's court, judgment was rendered for the defendant. The case was one for possession of premises, Snyder being a tenant of Mrs. John G. Cook. Several days before January 1, she claimed notice was served upon her tenant to vacate the premises, as the property had been rented to another party. Snyder denied that this had been done, and as no evidence was produced, judgment was rendered against the plaintiff with costs.

A policeman on duty between 1 and 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the trolley crossing could have enriched the township treasury several dollars. There were all kinds, some wanted to fight, others were satisfied with trying to climb the electric light poles and pull up the trolley track. A car finally came along and the motley gathering left for Plainfield. Scotch Plains has to or at least does stand this thing every Sunday. Why?

On Friday, a workman employed by O. Frank Sykes, of East Front street, began cutting down the handsome shade trees on Hunter avenue. Someone notified Township Committeeman Theodore Bruchmann. In a short time something was doing on Hunter avenue. Two of the large trees were already felled before he arrived, but the work was stopped and the matter may not end there as there is a heavy penalty attached to the offense.

This will be a busy week for local bowlers. Tonight the 'Plains and Saengerbunds roll a match game on Lee's alleys, tomorrow night the 'Plains and Triangles bowl a return game on the same alleys. The Suburbans are scheduled to roll the Elizabeth team on the Suburbans' alleys and on Wednesday night two local teams, the Laurels and Dandy teams, roll at Lee's.

Automobiles made their spring appearance yesterday. The pleasant weather was a temptation the owners of machines could not stand. From now on the "choot choot" will hold sway, until the snows of next winter fall.

"Fatherhood and Brotherhood," was the topic discussed by the B. Y. P. U. members at the weekly meeting held last night, in the parlors of the church.

Mrs. John Miller, of Park avenue, has recovered from an illness of several days, which detained her at home.

Miss Susie Parse returned yesterday from a visit of several days with Mrs. John R. Cochrane, of Vanderbilt avenue, Brooklyn.

Misses Josie and Edith Marsh, who have been spending two weeks at Atlantic City, returned home on Saturday.

Several members of the local gun club attended the shoot of the Bound Brook club held Saturday afternoon.

Miss Minnie Meyers led a well attended Epworth League meeting at the Methodist church last night.

John Falvery, who has been spending the winter at his home at Dover, N. J., has returned here.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Clark and son spent Sunday with relatives and friends in Rahway.

Thomas Farrell, of Garwood, was the guest of Jacob Shackleton, of Park avenue, yesterday.

Miss Cora Miller has been entertaining Trenton friends at her home over Sunday.

Miss Beulah Coles entertained friends from out-of-town yesterday.

Mrs. Charles Meyers and son spent Sunday with relatives in Plainfield.

The Misses Meyers entertained out-of-town friends yesterday.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Thomas Johnson, who has been living with his father on Park avenue, is about to move into one of Mr. Seifield's houses in the village.

Fred Wykoff has resigned his position at the coal sheets and has taken a job at the Pond Tool Works.

The position recently resigned by Mr. Wilson has been accepted by Mr. Riddle, of Pattenburg.

Miss Eleanor Dennis, of Tarrytown, N. Y., is visiting her sister, Mrs. Thomas Brantingham.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Guttshall have been entertaining Mr. Guttshall's mother from Easton.

Mrs. John Cruikshank has returned home after visiting relatives in Easton.

Mrs. T. C. Laing has returned from a visit with relatives in New Market.

James Gage, of Perth Amboy, is visiting his brother, Thomas Gage.

Mr. and Mrs. Kaine are entertaining relatives from out-of-town.

CLOSED PORTALS.

One new candidate was received at the meeting of Miantonomo Tribe of Red Men Friday night at its regular meeting. The good and welfare committee provided a collation, and a social time was enjoyed at the conclusion of the business meeting.

Abraham VanCleef, of Elm place, has been visiting relatives at Royce-field, Somerset county.

Gen. Drake is Sixty-Eight.

Looking as spry and chipper as most men of fifty years and with less than a score of gray hairs among his luxuriant dark auburn locks, General James Madison Drake, of Elizabeth, the commander of Elizabeth's famous Veteran Zouaves, which he organized in 1866, and who is the oldest newspaper publisher in New Jersey, on Saturday celebrated his sixty-eighth birthday. He was born in Washington Valley, Somerset County, March 25, 1837, and comes from a family of printers. His father, James M. Drake, published a weekly newspaper in Elizabeth long before the Civil War. He is a brother of S. D. Drake, of Lincoln.

Mrs. Elliot's Tea.

Mrs. David Prescott Hall, of Madison avenue, was one of the guests Friday afternoon at a tea given by her sister, Mrs. Maude Howe Elliot, at the studio of her husband, John Elliot, 67 Washington Square, New York. The tea was given in honor of Mrs. Hugh Fraser, widow of the former British envoy to the court of Japan, and on this occasion the guest of honor wore the decoration conferred on her by the Mikado. Mrs. Fraser is pleasantly remembered here by her recent lecture on Japan, given at Truell Inn in the Lenten course arranged by Mrs. Hall.

Clothing for the Relief.

Now is the time when the housekeeper is cleaning out closets and garrets, and there need be no question what to do with the garments too worn and out of date for the present owners. Send them to the Relief Association. The stock there at present is very low and a large supply of second-hand clothes of all kinds is needed to meet the demand. Packages can be sent at any time to the rooms, 544 West Front street, or call up telephone 108, and they will be called for.

Inspected Court House.

The new Union County court house in Elizabeth, was thrown open for inspection yesterday by the contractors Perkin & Co., of New York. The Board of Chosen Freeholders and noted architects and builders of New York were present. The structure cost $500,000. The building has taken three years to complete. It is five stories high, and built of marble, granite and iron and brick. It will be turned over to the Freeholders on April 1.

TRINITY 25 YEARS OLD

leasing the church for concerts, etc., the consistory adopted resolutions refusing to resort to such methods and decided to secure its financial aid in other ways. This announcement following a sermon by Dr. Raymond from the text "Grieve Not the Spirit," brought substantial subscriptions to the church at once and in that way it had no trouble in meeting its obligations.

In conclusion Dr. Raymond said that the chief aim of the church is to answer the deep need of the soul, to make it worth while to be alive. A church must be true to its spiritual mission, not only to preach it, but to live it and he felt sure that Trinity church was organized for a large enough work to justify its existence, which he hoped that God would continue to bless.

On Wednesday night there will be a reunion of the members of the congregation, brief reports of the various organizations of the church, and greetings from Rev. Erskine M. Rodman, rector-emeritus of Grace church, and Dean of the Plainfield clergy, followed by a social hour and a reception to the pastor, Dr. Schenck and Mrs. Schenck. Elder Robert Clark, Jr., will preside.

A National Institution.

President Roosevelt, in his message opening Congress in December, pointed out that the business of insurance had attained national proportions, and his words will be remembered by those who read and examine the annual statement for the year 1904 of The Prudential Insurance Company. The company wrote and issued during 1904 over $312,000,000 of paid-for life insurance, increasing the number of policies in force to nearly six millions, and bringing the amount of insurance in force to a sum exceeding one billion dollars. This company, whose agencies extend to every State in the Union, is a truly national institution, not only in size, but in the position which it occupies as the trustee for the funds of the millions in all parts of the country, thus furnishing the means of making provision for the future for themselves and their dependents. That this trust is well placed is shown by the fact that the company has accumulated assets of over $88,000,000, and a suprius exceeding $13,000,000 the liabilities being $75,000,000. The exhibit this year gives a very plain and convincing statement of the character of these assets and of the security which is afforded on its loans, on bonds and mortgages, and collateral securities. One very interesting item of the statement is the amount paid to its policyholders. Over $13,000,000 were paid to policyholders during 1904. The company has paid to policyholders to date a total of over $92,000,000. It is certainly impossible to estimate the amount of good which the distribution of this vast sum of money has accomplished for the American people who have been its recipients. The company has at different times made changes and concessions in its policies, which resulted in giving additional benefits to those insured. Wherever practicable these concessions are made retroactive; and up to the present time the company has distributed in cash dividends and other concessions, not stipulated in original contracts, and voluntarily given to holders of old policies, over five million dollars. The company will furnish any information concerning its policies to those who write to the Home Office, at Newark, N. J.

THE FORUM.

Editor, The Daily Press:

The owners of property in the vicinity of Rock, Rushmore and Kyona avenues and West Fourth street met at Kerwin's hotel Friday evening and were addressed by Thomas Berkeley, a wealthy land owner, of New York. The subject was "Little Children in the Schools." Mr. Berkeley, in a very able address, pointed out the necessity for a school in the vicinity of Rushmore avenue and Fourth street for small children, stating that the land lies so close to the city as to be in active competition with it and would, within a very short period, develope into quite a town. He gathered also from the owners of property present that many of those who have recently brought property in that section will, if the school is voted for, erect dwellings. A vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Berkeley and after a brief resume of the entire situation by William Jeffery, a local real estate agent, who reported that Daniel B. VanOrden, a Plainfield builder, is building a house on Elk street, very near the proposed school site, the new dwelling being a great credit to the neighborhood and has progressed far enough for anyone to get an idea what the structure will look like when completed, a resolution was passed extending the hearty thanks of the property owners and tenants of that section to Belton Hall, of New York, who has generously consented to donate the site for the school. There were about twenty-five people present and after the meeting was closed a banquet was served.

KATE BONNET

THE ROMANCE OF A PIRATE'S DAUGHTER

By FRANK R. STOCKTON

Copyright, 1902, by D. Appleton & Co., New York.

When Mr. Delaplaine sufficiently recovered his ordinary good sense to understand that there were other things in this world besides the lovely niece who had so suddenly appeared before him, he remembered that she had a father, and many questions were asked and answered; and he was told who Dame Charter was, and why her son came with her. Then the uncle and the niece walked into the garden, and there talked of Maj. Bonnet. Little did Kate know upon this subject, and nothing could her uncle tell her; but in many and tender words she was assured that this was her home as long as she chose to live in it, and that it was the most fortunate thing in the world that Dame Charter had come with her and could stay with her. Had this not been so, where could he have found such a guardian angel, such a chaperon, for this tender niece? As for the young man, it was such rare good luck that he had been able to accompany the two ladies and give them his protection. He was just the person, Mr. Delaplaine believed, who would be invaluable to him either on the plantation or in his counting-house. In any case, here was their home; and here, too, was the home of his brother-in-law, Bonnet, whenever he chose to give up his strange fancy for the sea. It was not now to be thought of that Kate or her father, or either one of them, should go back to Barbadoes to live with the impossible Madam Bonnet.

If her father's vessel were in the harbor and he were here with them, or even if she had had good tidings from him, Kate Bonnet would have been a very happy girl, for her present abode was vastly different from any home she had ever known. Her uncle's house on the highlands beyond the town lay in a region of cooler breezes and more bracing air than that of Barbadoes. Books and music and the general air of refinement recalled her early life with her mother, and with the exception of the anxiety about her father, there were no clouds in the bright blue skies of Kate Bonnet. But this anxiety was a cloud, and it was spreading.

When the Amanda moved away from the side of the pirate vessel Revenge she hoisted all sail, and got away over the sea as fast as the prevailing wind could take her. When she passed the bar below Bridgetown and came to anchor, Capt. Marchand immediately lowered a boat and was rowed up the river to the recent residence of Maj. Stede Bonnet, and there he delivered two letters—one to the wife of that gentleman, and the other for his daughter. Then the captain rowed back and went into the town, where he annoyed and nearly distracted the citizens by giving them the most cautious and expurgated account of the considerate and friendly manner in which the Amanda had been relieved of her cargo by his old friend and fellow-vestryman, Maj. Bonnet.

Capt. Marchand had been greatly impressed by the many things which Ben Greenway had said about his master's present most astounding freak, and hoping in his heart that repentance and suitable reparation might soon give this hitherto estimable man an opportunity to return to his former place in society, he said as little as he could against the name and fame of this once respected fellow-citizen. When he communicated with the English owners of his now departed cargo, he would know what to say to them, but here, safe in harbor with his vessel and his passengers, he preferred to wait for a time before entirely blackening the character of the man who had allowed him to come here. Like the faithful Ben Greenway, he did not yet believe in Stede Bonnet's piracy.

Madam Bonnet read her letter and did not like it. In fact, she thought it shameful. Then she opened and read the letter to her step-daughter. This she did not like, either, and she put it away in a drawer; she would have nothing to do with the transmission of such an epistle as this. Most abominable when contrasted with the scurrilous screed he had written her.

Day after day passed on, and Kate Bonnet arose each morning feeling less happy than on the day before. But at last a letter came, brought by a French vessel which had touched at Barbadoes. This letter was to Kate from Martin Newcombe. It was a love letter, a very earnest, ardent love letter, but it did not make the young girl happy, for it told her very little about her father. The heart of the lover was so tender that he would say nothing to his lady which might give her needless pain. He had heard what Capt. Marchand had told and he had not understood it, and could only half believe it. Kate must know far more about all this painful business than he did, for her father's letter would tell her all he wished her to know. Therefore, why should he discuss that most distressing and perplexing subject, which he knew so little about and which she knew all about. So he merely touched upon Maj. Bonnet and his vessel, and hoped that she might soon write to him and tell him what she cared for him to know, what she cared for him to tell the people of Bridgetown, and what she wished to repose confidentially to his honor. But whatever she chose to say to him or not to say to him, he would have her remember that his heart belonged to her, and ever would belong, no matter what might happen or what might be said for good or for bad, on the sea or the land, by friends or enemies.

This was a rarely good love letter, but it plunged Kate into the deepest woe, and Dickory saw this first of all. He had brought the letter, and for the second time he saw tears in her eyes. The absence of news of Maj. Bonnet was soon known to the rest of the family, and then there were other tears. It was perfectly plain, even to Dame Charter, that things had been said in Bridgetown which Mr. Newcombe had not cared to write.

"Dickory," said the girl, "my mind is filled with horrible doubts. I have heard of the talk in Bridgetown before we left, and now here is this letter from Mr. Newcombe from which I cannot fail to see that there must have been other talk that he considerately refrains from telling me."

"He should not have written such a letter," exclaimed Dickory hotly; "he might have known it would have set you to suspecting things."

"You don't know what you are talking about, you foolish boy," she said; "it is a very proper letter about things you don't understand."

She stepped a little closer to him, as if she feared someone might hear her. "Dickory," said she, "he did not put that thing into my mind; it was there already. That was a dreadful ship, Dickory, and it was filled with dreadful men. If he had not intended to go with them he would not have put himself into their power, and if he had not intended to be long away he would not have planned to leave me here with my uncle."

"You ought not to think such a thing as that for one minute," cried Dickory. "I would not think so about my mother, no matter what happened!"

She smiled slightly as she answered: "I would my father were a mother, and then I need not think such things. But, Dickory, if he had but written to me! And in all this time he might have written, knowing how I must feel."

Dickory stood silent, his bosom heaving. Suddenly he turned sharply towards her. "Of course he has written," said he, "but how could his letter come to you? We know not where he has sailed, and besides, who could have told him you had already gone to your uncle? But the people of Bridgetown must know things. I believe that he has written there."

"Dickory," she said, "if he wrote to anybody he also wrote to me, and that letter is still there."

"That is what I believe," said he, "and I have been believing it."

"Then why didn't you say so to me, you wretched boy?" cried Kate. "You ought to have known how that would have comforted me. If I could only think he has surely written, my heart would bound, no matter what his letter told; but to be utterly dropped, that I cannot bear."

An Ideal Location

Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE

LINDEN, N. J.

Beautiful and Accessible

2 Miles from Elizabeth. 7 Miles from Newark.

14 MILES FROM NEW YORK

On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

The City Beautiful.

Every American is proud of the nation's Capitol and in Washington wonderful and beautiful as it is the tourist finds a city than which no other is more interesting or grand. The great public buildings massive in their structure and imposing in appearance are gold mines of interest and curiosity. The city which is now blossoming in its spring garb is most perfect in its arrangement and its finely kept streets, its innumerable parks and pleasure places offer no end of amusement and instruction to the tourist and traveler. Much time can be profitably spent visiting the Treasury Building, the Congressional Library, Washington Monument, the Pension Building, Cochran Art Gallery, Smithsonian Institute, Public Printing Office and the like, while the side trips to Mt. Vernon, Georgetown and the National Cemetery are productive and valuable and interesting sights. Every American should visit the Capitol City and an opportunity to enjoy such a trip is offered by the New Jersey Central's popular spring excursion to Washington on March 30, when the rate including hotel and other expenses is $12. The trip is made on the famous Royal Limited trains and the intervening country traversed is unsurpassed from a scenic standpoint. The tickets include stop-over privileges at Baltimore and Philadelphia, both of which places have many historic interests. The New Jersey Central has issued an itinerary of the trip, which is sent free to any applicant by C. M. Burt, G. P. A., New York city. 3 25-4 c

LUMBER DEALERS IN A COMBINE?

Former Judge Coddington Makes Serious Charge Before Common Council.

M'DONOUGHS' PERMIT

City Fathers Hear Counsel for Petitioner and For Remonstrants—No Decision Rendered.

Not wishing to take the responsibility for granting a permit to McDonough Brothers for the erection of a building on West Third street, near Madison avenue, where they propose to establish a lumber yard, Building Inspector T. O. Doane referred the application to the fire and building committee, who in turn asked that a special meeting of the Common Council be held for a public hearing on the question. This meeting was held last night, when the application was strongly opposed by S. S. Swackhamer, of the firm of Coddington & Swackhamer, who represented a great many of the property-owners living in the vicinity of the proposed building. W. A. Coddington, of the firm of Reed & Coddington, was present to represent McDonough Brothers, and there were many interested spectators present. Though fully considered, the meeting resulted in no decision.

During the hearing there was a lively debate between counsel, Mr. Coddington making some startling statements in presenting the claims of his clients, in which he intimated that there was a monopoly here striving to control the lumber business and keep other people out of it. These assertions were stoutly denied by Mr. Swackhamer, who professed ignorance in these matters and claimed only to represent the property-owners in the vicinity of McDonough Brothers' place.

A communication was received from Building Inspector T. O. Doane, stating that he had received an application on March 20 from McDonough Brothers for a permit to erect a building on West Third street for the storage of lumber, and inasmuch as he believed that such a building would be extra-hazardous he recommended that the same be not granted.

Mr. Swackhamer was then given the privileges of the floor and he read a remonstrance from interested property-owners against the granting of the application. He cited the fact that the section in which the proposed building was to be erected is largely residential and such a structure would be a menace and a danger to other property nearby. The remonstrance was signed by J. A. Smith, F. E. Smith, Mrs. A. H. Manning, Mrs. J. R. Truell, E. B. Ryder, Mr. and Mrs. Eden Boice, C. A. Vincent, Spicer & Hubbard, W. B. Stelle and others.

There being no further remarks in opposition at this time, W. A. Coddington spoke in behalf of his clients. He said that the holding of such a meeting to consider an application for a building permit was unprecedented. Not once since the building ordinance went in effect had the Common Council held such a meeting and he was surprised that it had been found necessary in this case. Turning to a book of the city ordinances, Mr. Coddington remarked that he learned that the building inspector is almost supreme in authority and nowhere was he able to find anything that limited the powers of the inspector.

"What do we pay Mr. Doane $500 a year for if not to consider and act upon such applications," continued Mr. Coddington. "In considering the opposition what do we find? There is the property of J. A. Smith on which stands a brick barn filled with hay and straw. On the east is the Spicer & Hubbard mill, on the south a dwelling and in front a street. McDonough Brothers saw Mr. Doane before they purchased this property and asked his advice. Mr. Doane stated then that he saw no reason why the location was not a good one for the lumber business and largely on his advice they purchased the property. The application for the erection of a building was made in the regular way and plans drawn by Architect E. V. French, approved by Mr. Doane in the presence of the firm, the architect and myself. When Mr. Doane was asked whether they were not all right, he said that he could not pick a flaw

FOILED IN ATTEMPT TO ESCAPE FROM JAIL

TWO PRISONERS TRY TO GET OUT OF SOMERVILLE "HOTEL."

Two desperate characters were foiled yesterday in an attempt to effect their escape from the Somerset County jail at Somerville. The watchfulness of Deputy Sheriff Anderson was the only thing that stood between them and their liberty. When the deputy made his usual morning rounds he noticed that Elmer Sheaff and George Williams were acting in a strange manner and he determined to lay for them and see what they were up to.

Some time later on he saw Williams and Sheaff using a red-hot poker from the stove to burn away the wood around the bolts that held the iron grating of the corridor window in place. Anderson at once locked the men in their cells and they will not be allowed their liberty in the corridor any more. One bolt was burned loose and it would only have been necessary to burn two or three more and the men could have escaped. It is thought they did not intend to leave until night.

Sheaff is confined to jail on a charge of breaking, entering and robbing the home of David Soudder at Harlingen and Williams is in jail for sneak thieving.

FARE TO ELIZABETH IS TWELVE CENTS

TROLLEY COMPANY MAKES A REDUCTION IN RATES.

According to a dispatch sent from Westfield to the Newark News, yesterday, the trolley fare from this city to Elizabeth is to be reduced to twelve cents, beginning May 1. The change, it is said, is due to the time limit placed on the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Company when it secured its franchise through Cranford. It was stipulated at the end of five years that the fare in either direction should be reduced.

The dispatch declares that with the change, passengers will be carried from Cranford to any part of Elizabeth for five cents, and from Cranford to any part of Plainfield for seven cents, thus making the fare twelve cents from Plainfield to Elizabeth, instead of fifteen as now charged.

Superintendent Maguire, of the Westfield-Plainfield division, was asked about the matter this morning, and declared that any reduction of fare was news to him, yet the company may be arranging for it. The local officials also said that they had received no information in regard to a reduction.

ORANGE TOOK GAME.

State Basket Ball Champions Defeat Local Y. M. C. A. in Best Match of the Season.

With the galleries well filled by an enthusiastic and expectant crowd, the fastest game of the basket ball season was played at the Y. M. C. A. last night, when the Orange Y. M. C. A. team, the champions of the State, defeated the local team by the score of 37 to 26. It was an exciting contest, fast, well played and clean.

It was expected that the local team would be defeated, but the surprise came when the Plainfielders put up such a good show against their stronger opponents. In the second half the game was most interesting, the local players pressing the Orangeites hard, Smith and Hand putting up a great exhibition. Scull also played hard, while Letson's guarding was excellent.

The line-up and detailed score of the game was as follows: Plainfield—Smith and Hand, forwards; Scull, center; Ulsinger and Letson, guards. Orange—Shorter and Poeller, forwards; Austin, center; Wright and Pattern, guards. Goals from the field, Shorter 6 8 fouls; Poeller, Austin, Pattern, 6; Smith, 8; Hand, 6; 6 fouls, Scull.

Re-Elected Trustees.

At a meeting of the First M. E. church congregation, last night, James R. Joy, W. R. Codington and George H. Burgess were elected to succeed themselves.

FOR FREE SCHOLARSHIPS

Movement to Interest People in Sunshine Society's Plan.

PLAINFIELD HONORED

First Time the Work Has Been Introduced Outside of New York—What It Costs.

Mrs. Robert A. Macdonald, representing the International Sunshine Society, so well known throughout the world, was in Plainfield yesterday for the purpose of interesting local people in a movement to establish any number of free perpetual scholarships at Alfred University. Plainfield is the first city outside of New York where the movement has been introduced and Mrs. Macdonald feels sure that there are a number of persons here who would like to contribute toward such a scholarship. There is not the least pecuniary benefit to the society through this work, other than that coming to it by its philanthrophy.

Mrs. Macdonald is now arranging to give an entertainment in this city to enthuse and interest Palainfielders and to explain the objects of the society and the scholarships. Well-known artists from New York will give this entertainment, charging nothing for their work. Their car-fare to this city will be provided for by the Board of Directors of the society. It is proposed to have this entertainment at the Casino if arrangements can be made.

There are 350,000 members of the International Sunshine Society, representing every denomination and with branches everywhere throughout the world. There are 300 papers constantly devoting space to the philanthrophic work and it is proposed to establish these perpetual scholarships. During the past eight weeks sixteen such scholarships were secured in New York. It is now planned to carry the work to other cities and villages.

Through the generosity of friends ground has been given at Alfred for a dormitory, the brick for its construction has been given by a resident of Buffalo, and a party in New York has given $2,000 toward the work. The plan is to start these scholarships as memorials and anything at all that a person is able and willing to do toward accomplishing the purpose will be appreciated. The society has just received a check for $100 from J. D. Rockefeller to start a scholarship and there are six millionaires in New York, graduates of Alfred University, who are assisting in the work.

These scholarships cost $1,000, but after $35 is deposited, one can have their name registered and after $100 is paid the student can commence his studies and the balance of the money can be paid at the convenience of the donor, although $35 must be paid each year to keep the scholarship alive.

One hundred perpetual sunshine scholarships will be established at Alfred University, and the $1,000 endows a scholarship and insures free tuition to one student each term forever. While many will not feel like giving money they can assist in other ways to maintain a student in the matter of clothing and other wearing apparel. Those who will give the entertainment here are the very best artists, and while it would be difficult to bring these people here even for money, they are willing to give their services free to help the International Sunshine Society.

Disposed of Proceeds.

A meeting of the Junior Class, of the Plainfield High School, was called yesterday morning to make disposition of the money cleared in their recent success, "The Princess." There were at first two different opinions in regard to the amount to give to the P. H. S. Athletic Association, but it was finally decided to give them $30. It was also moved and passed upon to give $5 to the P. H. S. Mandolin Club for their aid in the entertainment. About $35 was realized after all expenses were paid, and the remaining $35 will be left in the class treasury. The secretary of the class was authorized to send a letter of thanks to Miss Bullock, principal of the Franklin School, thanking her for the use of the Franklin Hall on both nights of the junior play.

C. S. Atkinson for Mayor.

GIRL SEEKS LOST BROTHER

Her Father a Fugitive, Mother Dead, Florence Strauss Is Alone.

BALDWIN, JR., GONE

Pretty Girl Asks the Buffalo Police to Help Find Her Brother Who Disappeared Last August.

A pathetic letter, sent to the Chief of Police of Buffalo for publication, in the hope that her missing brother would see it, by Florence Strauss, nineteen years old, of No. 110 West One Hundred and Twenty-seventh street, New York, recalled today the case of the girl's father, Baldwin F. Strauss, once a prominent lawyer of Brooklyn, and a resident of this city, now a fugitive, charged with being a bigamist and an absconder.

His two children, Florence and Baldwin, the latter now twenty-one years old, both of whom will be remembered by people here, lived with their mother, after the disappearance of Lawyer Strauss. In August, 1904, Baldwin Strauss, Jr., disappeared as mysteriously as his father had done. Worry over the boy hastened the mother's death, and the daughter was left alone. Her letter follows:

My Dear Brother—Should you see this in the papers, do not try and stay away any longer. Come back to me, Baldwin, for I am all alone in New York. Mamma is dead. She died grieving for you, her boy, the idol of her heart, and on her death-bed she made me promise to find you.

Oh, Baldwin, think of the happy times we had together; think now of the misery we are in, motherless, worse than fatherless. Just you and I, dear—come back to me. Let us comfort one another, and do not harden your heart to me. Can you imagine me, a girl, my struggle in New York—how hard it is for me to get along?

Baldwin, as you loved your mother, come back to your heart-broken sister,

Florence.

Miss Strauss is extremely pretty, of the dark-haired, blue-eyed type of beauty. She is self-reliant, has secured employment, and boards at the house in West One Hundred and Twenty-seventh street. She said to an Evening Journal reporter:

"My mother, Baldwin and I lived together very happily after father disappeared in 1903, until August 28, 1904. Mother and I went to Atlantic City for a few days, leaving Baldwin at home. When we returned we could find no trace of him.

"We searched everywhere for him, but without result. We heard that he was in Buffalo working for the Erie Railroad, but when we sent there he had gone. Through the postal authorities we learned that he had left orders to have his mail sent to Dunkirk, N. Y. We wrote, but mail was never called for by him.

"I am all alone now, and I wish my brother would come back to me. I believe he will if he sees the letter I have written him."

Mrs. Strauss died in January last. Her husband disappeared April 26, 1903, and nothing has been heard from him since.

Before his difficulties he was one of the most prominent and prosperous lawyers in Brooklyn. He earned a large income, owned considerable property, including a handsome home, and lavished luxuries on his family. Mrs. Strauss parted with her home and sacrificed thousands of dollars worth of jewelry to help him.

Heptasophs Plan Smoker.

A regular meeting of Protective Conclave, No. 505, Improved Order Heptasophs, was held last evening at their rooms in Exempt Firemen's Hall. The good of the order committee, consisting of Messrs. Spellmeyer, Armstrong and Green, provided an entertainment. For the next regular meeting the committee have arranged to have a smoker, to which all members are requested to be present and bring some friends who are eligible to membership in the order.

Hunt Club Did Not Ride.

On account of the wet condition of the fields Friday's rain the Watchung Hunt Club chase was postponed Saturday afternoon. A few of the members met and a discussion of the season's plans took place. No further arrangements were made, though the dates for next month were considered.

WANTS WOMAN SUFFRAGE

Mrs. Sexton's Plea for Privilege to Vote for Gentler Sex.

DISFRANCHISED IN 1807

Plainfield - North Plainfield Women's Suffrage Association Meeting at Truell Inn.

An audience of some thirty women listened to an address under the auspices of the local Women's Suffrage Association on "Women and the Home," by Mrs. Sexton, at Truell Inn, yesterday afternoon.

"To the glory of New Jersey be it said that on the second day of July, 1776, two days before the Declaration of Independence, she adopted a constitution giving equal suffrage, which held good until 1807, when by a political trick the Democrats got control of both houses and disfranchised women because she had voted on the losing side. We were once equals of ignorant colored men, but no longer so! Cultured American women—graduates of our best colleges—are debarred on account of sex; while illiterate pauper foreigners are hurried by thousands into the ranks of voters by irregular naturalization. The criminal, the imbecile, the insane and women are alike debarred. It sounds well that woman in her purity should occupy a pedestal; safe from defilement in the arena, until we are reminded of the company she has up there, criminals, idiots, insane. What kind of people down in arena? Is it said the ballot will degrade women? Does it degrade men? Such a suggestion is insulting.

"Not only does the ballot make women more self-respecting, but she at once takes on a new dignity in the eyes of men and before the law. Women were the first producers and the first manufacturers. Men hunted and fought. Women skinned, cut up and cured the game laid at her feet; cured the hides; ground the corn and wove and made up the cloth. Men have crowded in and compelled women to accept one half pay for work often better done than his own.

"Formerly she sat in whichever sunny window she chose, in her own time, and the men accepted it with pride. Now her work is passed upon by men who have no personal interest in the worker and frequently the most frivolous girl has her work accepted first. Hard workers need ballots much more than we of sheltered homes. In New Jersey and Massachusetts women teachers are paid one-half as much as men teachers.

"Federal suffrage is as necessary as municipal suffrage. Some say woman should not vote with reference to war because she cannot fight. Yet for every man killed six die in the hospital. Woman takes the burden of restorstion and of loss. The business of office, factory and field falls too often upon her shoulders.

"In England full suffrage is given except for members of Parliament. Likewise Colorado, Wyoming, Idaho and Utah give full ballot. Does the ballot protect? Before Colorado had equal suffrage there were saloonkeepers in the Common Council; but not since."

Mrs. Sexton is State president of the Equal Suffrage Federation. Mrs. David P. Hall, the president of the Plainfield Equal Suffrage League, presided.

J. R. JOY, PRESIDENT

Albert Steiner is Chosen Clerk of the Board—Various Committees Are Appointed.

Not altogether to the surprise of the members and his friends generally, Superintendent Homer J. Wightman, of the North Plainfield schools, informed the Board of Education at its meeting last night that he wished to retire from his office at the close of the present term in June. The notice was given in a formal letter in which it was stated that he did not desire re-appointment and that he would prefer that steps be taken at once to secure his successor. The matter was referred to the new teachers' committee composed of James R. Joy, John Valiant and Rev. J. Q. McKelvey and will be acted upon later.

Supt. H. J. Wightman.

Mr. Wightman has been connected with the borough schools as superintendent for the past eight years. In an interview with a Daily Press reporter this morning, he stated that he had succeeded in his profession as far as was permissible locally and that having received better offers from time to time he had to enter a larger field.

"Only last March," said Mr. Wightman, "I was offered a superintendency at $3,000 a year but was forced to decline owing to the binding contract under which I have served here. This contract terminates this year and after consideration I deemed it best to place myself in a position that would enable me to accept in the future."

When asked if it was true that several teachers in the school had considered resigning for a similar reason, Mr. Wightman said that some of them had been thinking of it but that he induced them to take no action.

Another interesting feature of the meeting was the appointment of Albert Steiner as clerk to the board in the re-organization for the year. He succeeds R. M. Fountain, who was defeated in the election for trustees, and is the first non-member of the board who has ever held the position. James R Joy was made president of the board and he appointed the following committees:

Teachers and text books, Messrs. Joy, Valiant and McKelvey; finance, Messrs. Townsend, Valiant and Laing; supplies, Messrs. Woodruff, Lowe and Needham; grievances and truancy, Messrs. Townsend, Needham and Lowe; building and grounds, Messrs. Cooley, Laing and McKelvey; auditing, Messrs. Laing and Needham; special commencement committee, Messrs. Needham and Woodruff.

Several other matters of a routine nature were transacted and adjournment was taken until April 3. The meeting marked the first attended by the new members elected last week, Rev. Joseph Q. McKelvey, Allen B. Laing and Ernest A. Lowe.

After Borough Delinquents.

Deputy Collector W. W. Bowley, of the borough, today started after delinquent personal and poll taxes. The list has been prepared by Collector George F. Brown and the deputy is authorized to enforce payment.

James Sutton will lead the Christian Endeavor Society meeting at the Park Avenue Baptist church on Friday night.

COMPETITIVE EXAMINATION FOR A NAVAL APPOINTMENT

OPPORTUNITY OPEN TO YOUNG MEN OF PLAINFIELD HIGH SCHOOL.

Advised by the Secretary of the Navy Paul Morton that a vacancy exists in the U. S. Naval Academy for midshipman to be filled from the Fifth Congressional district of New Jersey, Representative Charles N. Fowler announces that a competitive examination of all candidates for such an appointment will be held at the Pingry School building, Elizabeth, Saturday morning, April 29, at 9:30. The nominee and three alternates will be selected from among those securing the highest points. The subjects upon which questions are asked are familiar to High School pupils and they should have no difficulty in meeting them. The opportunity is especially open to Plainfield young men and Mr. Fowler asks that they take the examination.

The last appointment from this district was conferred upon Fred Van-Auken, a Plainfield High School boy, who is now in his second year at the Annapolis Academy. He has proven especially efficient in his studies and in addition has taken a leading part in the academy's athletics.

FIRE COSTS $10,000.

Store at Bound Brook Burned to the Ground Early This Morning.

The large frame building on Main street, Bound Brook, occupied by Voorhees & Son, men's furnishers, was entirly destroyed by fire at 2 o'clock this morning. The fire department, under the direction of Chief Nathan Titsworth, performed excellent work in confining the fire to the one building and not allowing it to spread to the postoffice, adjoining and other nearby structures.

The fire started in a cobbler's shop in the rear of the building, but just how, no one knows. It quickly spread to the large frame structure, gutting it completely. The loss on building and contents is estimated to be $10,000.

F. Morton Lunger's Success.

F. Morton Lunger, who has been in the employ of F. W. Dunn, the grocer, for eighteen years as a clerk, has resigned, the same to take effect April 1, to accept a similar position with A. D. Woodruff, who conducts a large grocery and meat house in Bayonne. Mr. Lunger will have entire charge of the grocery department. For the present he will continue to live here. During his long service with Mr. Dunn Mr. Lunger has made many friends who will wish him success in his new position.

Mrs. George Stewart, of Duer street, has been entertaining relatives from Hunterdon county.

In town, Neuman Brothers always see that their wants are supplied. Their big display is renewed every day.

AMUSEMENTS.

Once upon a time there were two little children, Alan and Jane, who were under the care of a very wicked old uncle who wished to get them out of the way and thereby get the fortune which was rightfully theirs. He sought by various underhand means to accomplish their destruction, but was foiled in the attempt, and came to a sudden and untimely end by drinking a draught of poison intended for Alan. Thus, freed from the persecution of the wicked old man, the children were at liberty to follow their hearts' desires, and they lived happy ever after. This is the basis of the story told in "Babes in Toyland," which will be used for the play, though in all probability the former will be the selection of the committee. Daily rehearsals in the various parts will be held, and it is likely that two performances will be given, as dress rehearsals, shortly before the date of the production.

Burton Holmes, the well known traveller, author and lecturer, is about to give a triple series of finely illustrated Travelogues, or "Travel-talks," in New York, each Travelogue being given three times—the first time at Carnegie Hall on Sunday evening, the second and third times at the New Lyceum Theatre, on Monday and and Tuesday afternoons, respectively. This is Mr. Holmes' eighth season in New York, he having succeeded to the mantle of John L. Stoddard, whose lectures at Daly's Theatre during Lent, were an annual event in the amusement and educational life of the city for nineteen years. For six years, Mr. Holmes annually delivered the Daly Lenten Lecture, but last season, the New Lyceum being built, at the suggestion of Daniel Frohman, moved to that handsome playhouse on Forty-fifth street, this being the second season there. The Sunday night course at Carnegie Hall was inaugurated last season in response to the demand of those who were unable to attend matinees. The three courses, exactly alike, will consist of five subjects, which will be given on five successive Sunday evenings, Monday afternoons and Tuesday afternoons for five weeks, which began March 19, 20 and 21.

Every American should visit the Capital City and an opportunity to enjoy such a trip is offered by the New Jersey Central's popular spring excursion to Washington on March 30, when the rate including hotel and other expenses is $12. The trip is made on the famous Royal Limited trains and the intervening country traversed is unsurpassed from a scenic standpoint. The tickets include stop-over privileges at Baltimore and Philadelphia, both of which places have many historic interests. SPORTING NEWS.

DIAMOND DUST.

Louis Wiltse, of the New Madison, pitched his first game of ball of the season, Sunday, and won. He occupied the box for the Murray Hills against the Metropolitans. The score was 9 to 5 in favor of the Murray Hills.

Starting with a game against the Plainfield High School, on April 12, the Leal's School team has a good schedule to play this season, Manager Chapman having made an extra exertion to provide a good list of games. The following is the schedule: April 12, Plainfield H. S. at Plainfield; April 15, Rutgers Prep. School at New Brunswick, April 19, N. P. H. S. at Plainfield; April 22, Camp Bowser at Plainfield; April 26, South Orange H. S. at South Orange; April 29, Cartaret Academy (league game); May 3, P. H. S. at Plainfield; May 6, Montclair Military Academy (league game); May 10, open date; May 13, Pingry School, of Elizabeth (league game; May 17, Cranford High School at Plainfield; May 20, open date; May 24, Lakewood School at Plainfield; May 27, Newark Academy (league game): May 31, P. H. S. at Plainfield. Two of the league games will be played in Plainfield, but it is not yet known which two they will be. As far as material is concerned, little can be definitely stated at present, the candidates including the following: Daniel, Jewett, Chapman, Manning, Perkins, Wyckoff, Howard, Glenney, Lyman and Endicott. Daniel will captain the aggregation and probably play in the field.

After a successful season in 1904, the members of the various teams representing the Plainfield High School seconds, the Whittier School, and Leal's seconds are considering the reorganization of the junior baseball league. Last year the Y. M. C. A. juniors had a part in the league, but they will not be represented on the diamond this season. The other teams have already begun organization and the nucleus of the league can be seen already. At the High School, George Bentley will head the second team, which will be one of the strongest scrubs which the school has ever had. Other material in P. H. S. for a second team consists of Rockwell, Fountain, Rubenstein, Louisseaux, Strong, and candidates for the first team, who make substitute positions. At Whittier an equally strong team will be organized. The captain has not yet been chosen, though among those who will play are Roy Woodnull, William Briggs, Norman Laughlin, Edward Alpaugh and Guien Fountain, all members of the basketball team. Ed. Harding will pitch for the Whittier's. At Leal's, the substitute nine will have a good chance in the league. Jerry Manning, sub-pitcher for the varsity, will occupy the box, while among other players are Underhill, Endicott, Rowland, Lyman and Smith. In all probability one of the local merchants will be asked to offer a cup or banner for the winning team. The trophy was captured by Whittier last year.

ABOUT THE STATE.

A bill has been introduced in the Legislature, making the open season for catfish and eels in the Delaware river below Trenton falls between September 1 and June 1 and to spear suckers in any stream in February, March, April and May.

Asbury Park, N. J., faces the possibility that there may be no Sunday bathing on the ocean front next summer. The City Council instructed Monday night Solicitor Samuel A. Patterson to draw an ordinance prohibiting all Sunday concerts at which an admission is charged, and this will not only do away with the concerts at which some of the most famous soloists in the world have appeared, but may be so drastic as to shut the bath houses. It will also cause trouble in the way of litigation over broken contracts. The trouble is due to a travelling show which gave a "sacred concert" in the opera-house last Sunday night.

The committee that is arranging the celebration to commemorate the Battle of Elizabethtown has issued a public appeal for funds and changed the date of the proposed celebration from June 7 to June 8. On that date the monument of a minute man six feet high on a pedestal seven feet in height will be unveiled at Union Square by the State Commission, of which Charles H. K. Halsey is chairman. The commission will also place a monument in Springfield, a tribute to the Oak Church at Union, and another tablet on the spot where Mrs. Caldwell is supposed to have fallen when shot by a British soldier at Connecticut Farms.

CHADWICK SENTENCE

Judge Tayler Gives Cleveland Woman Ten Years.

APPEAL TO BE ENTERED AT ONCE.

Convicted on Seven Counts, Sentenced on Six—She Said, "What More Does the World Want to Know of Me Now?"

CLEVELAND, O., March 28.—Judge Tayler in the United States district court late yesterday overruled a motion for a new trial in the case of Cassie L. Chadwick and at once sentenced her to ten years' imprisonment.

So that unless the higher court interferes Mrs. Chadwick will spend the greater part of the next ten years in the Ohio state penitentiary.

The sentence was imposed upon her by Judge Robert W. Tayler in the United States district court at 5 o'clock last evening. The sentence came at the close of a busy day for the court in hearing arguments on a motion for a new trial, which lasted all day. The motion was overruled.

Mrs. Chadwick was convicted on seven counts and sentenced upon six counts. For four of these counts a sentence of two years each was imposed. Upon two counts a sentence of one year each was imposed, making a total sentence of ten years.

As soon as the sentence was pronounced Attorney J. P. Dawley of counsel for Mrs. Chadwick took exceptions to the sentences upon each count except the first count. The defense intends to make the claim that the court cannot impose a separate sentence for each count; that the law applies to the general charge instead of each incident of a general charge. The various counts of the indictment are considered by the defense to refer only to details of the general offense. This point will also be contested in the higher court, as will the other points of the Chadwick trial which resulted in her conviction.

Either Judge Francis J. Wing or Mr. Dawley will go to Cincinnati today to make arrangements for a review of the case by the United States circuit court of appeals.

Mrs. Chadwick said there was nothing she cared to say herself before sentence was pronounced. Her attorneys made no appeal to the court, and the sentence was immediately imposed. Judge Tayler made no remarks except to explain the terms of the sentence. He stated that the sentence of one count should begin at the expiration of the one preceding it.

Mrs. Chadwick was charged with conspiring with bank officials to certify her checks when she had no money in the bank. This is a transaction prohibited by the government for the protection of the depositors and stockholders of a national bank.

By good behavior Mrs. Chadwick can reduce her time of imprisonment to eight years and four months.

When seen immediately after her sentence had been pronounced Mrs. Chadwick, replying to a question, said, "What more can the world want to know about me now?"

Cold Storage For Bait.

GLOUCESTER, March 28.—Plans are on foot for the establishment of a cold storage plant for the preservation of bait, in view of the decision with the Newfoundland government that bait shall not be sold to American fishermen at Newfoundland ports. It is proposed to procure and store bait and to establish a system of distribution between this port and the fishing grounds by means of cold storage vessels. It is claimed that the project will make the American fishermen independent, so far as bait is concerned.

Four Bodies Found In River.

ROCKLEDGE, Fla., March 28.—The bodies of four persons who were drowned last Friday night in the Banana river have been found here. A. A. Baldwin's remains will be buried here. The others will be sent north to the following destinations: W. O. Moore and daughter Edith to Holyoke, Mass.; Mrs. Henry G. Miller to Amawalk, N. Y. Mr. Miller was so seriously injured by his fight for life that he will be unable to accompany the remains of his wife.

Schenectady Fears Big Flood.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., March 28.—This city is threatened with one of the greatest floods in recent years. Already the Mohawk river has broken over into the Erie canal, which has flooded the lower portion of the city, and several canal boats have been lost. There is a twenty foot gorge a few miles west of the city, which threatens to break. Westbound trains are held here.

Unknown Woman's Body Found.

KINGSTON, N. Y., March 28.—The body of an unknown woman was found in Wallkill creek at Tuttletown. She was apparently about twenty-three years old, handsomely dressed and wore a diamond ring. A physician who examined the body says the woman was dead before being placed in the water. Efforts are being made to identify her.

Italian Cruiser For Santo Domingo.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, March 28.—The Italian cruiser Calabria has received instructions by cable to return immediately to Santo Domingo. It is supposed that the order has a bearing on the demand for the payment of claims against the republic of Santo Domingo. The vessel has sailed.

CREGAN'S CLOSE CALL

Workman Blown Through Tunnel Roof and River Bed.

SHOT OUT OF WATER TWENTY FEET

Accident Under East River, New York, One of the Most Remarkable on Record—Victim Injured, but Very Little the Worse.

NEW YORK, March 28.—Blown through the bed of the East river, through twenty-five feet of water and high into the air from an explosion in the subway tunnel, which is to connect Manhattan and Brooklyn, Richard Cregan, a workman of Jersey City, not only lived to tell the tale, but is practically uninjured.

The accident was one of the most remarkable ever recorded, and Cregan's escape is considered little short of miraculous. This is the story he told of it an hour after the accident when he was overcoming the shock he had suffered at his home.

"I have been working in tunnels for the last seven years, and I never heard of any such thing happening to anybody," he said. "I was in the head compartment all by myself, and there was a big air pressure to keep the dirt from falling down from the roof and to keep the river from falling on top of us.

"Suddenly I heard a hiss, and I knew what it meant all right. I shouted to the other compartments, but it wasn't very loud, my heart being in my throat. I don't believe it was much more than a loud whisper, but they heard, I guess. I started to run toward the noise, picking up some bags as I did to stop the leak.

"It was in the up river wall, and I stuck the bags into the hole, but I couldn't do anything with it. I worked hard, but when I saw the hole getting bigger I knew it was hopeless, and I started to run. I thought maybe I could get into another compartment before mine was flooded.

"The next thing I heard was a horrible crash. I looked back, and the whole river was coming in.

"Then I was suddenly caught and lifted straight up to the roof. A big hole was scooped out right in front of my face almost, and then I was going up through seven or eight feet of mud and rock.

"I was perfectly conscious all the time. I remember clawing with my hands in front of my face, trying to keep the rocks away.

"Then I hit water, and I guess there was twenty-five feet of it easy. I shot up through that fast and went up fully twenty feet in the air.

"When I fell back I began swimming around and yelling, and after a few minutes a boat came out and picked me up.

"I had heavy clothes and boots on and a hat, and I had a dollar bill in one pocket. I didn't even lose my hat, and I had it on when I was picked up."

"How about the dollar bill?" he was asked.

"Well, you see," he explained, carefully, "I had a little shock, so as soon as the doctor bandaged me up I got a little drink to strengthen me."

Cregan is a man of thirty, about five feet four inches tall and strongly built. He wore a big bandage around his head and had a cut on the left side of his face. He said that he was bruised about the body, but he did not seem to be materially the worse for his remarkable experience.

"We have to take our lives in our hands in this sort of work," he said. "We expect risks, but this was the funniest thing that I ever heard of."

What happened was this: When Cregan started to run a great mass of earth caved in and tons of water rushed into the compartment. This acted like a great piston, forcing the already compressed air into one end of the compartment. The restraining walls were not sufficiently strong to resist this force and were literally punctured from the inside, the outrush of the air drawing Cregan up through the seething hole as if he were sucked up through an inverted whirlpool.

Part of the tunnel was flooded and and others were injured by the shock. Engineering men say that an accident so remarkable has never happened before. In other instances of a cave-in of a tunnel, even the bodies of the victims have not been recovered.

The explosion occurred at the mid-river end of the Brooklyn section, about fifteen feet beyond the pier line. All that portion of the work will have to be done over again.

Subway System For Berlin.

JOHNSON TROPHY EVENT

Contests to Take Place on Saturday Afternoons.

HANDICAPS FIXED

Rules to Govern in the Tournament —Postponed Shoots—The Committee in Charge.

Under the auspices of the Plainfield Gun Club a handicap shoot for the Johnson trophy will be held on the first and third Saturday of each month beginning April 1. The last Wednesday of each month will be set aside for the purpose of holding postponed shoots. If a members misses a regular shoot, he may shoot his back scores on this day, or some subsequent date satisfactory to the committee. No member will be allowed to shoot more than two back scores on the same day and will not be permitted to shoot a score under any condition.

All shoots will be started promptly at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Ten events of twenty birds each will complete the tournament. All birds are to be thrown at unknown angles, Interstate rules. There will be a competent scorer and referee at each shoot, and all contestants must be governed by their decisions. The member having the highest average for the twenty-five cent targets will become the owner of the trophy. All ties will be shot off under regular conditions. The handicaps are subject to change after each two shoots at the discretion of the committee.

Other rules provide that all scores to be official must be made in the presence of one or more of the committee. All complaints or petitions in regards to the running of this tournament must be presented in writing to the club at a regular meeting. No practice shooting will be allowed after 2 o'clock on the same day will be permitted before shooting the club handicap score. The point system will govern the tournament. The committee in charge comprises Harry Dreier, Phil. Jahn and George W. Scribner.

The point system provides that if a contestant breaks twenty targets he is allowed one point and one point for each target he breaks after that until he scores six points. No member can score over six points on twenty-five targets.

These handicaps have been fixed:

Charles Maltby 20, W. A. Coddington 17, F. S. McCarthy 17, C. E. Kelly 17, Phil. Jahn 15, Elmer D. Cutting 15, Harry Dreier 15, Herbert Overbaugh 15, C. C. Randolph 13, R. E. Sebring 13, H. P. Vosseller 13, George Firstbrook 10, Walter Apgar 10.

Miss Bessie Leighton, of West Second street, who has been ill with appendicitis, went to Muhlenberg Hospital today for an operation.

LUMBER DEALERS IN COMBINE?

in the plans.

"Now McDonough Brothers are confronted with a petition remonstrating against the erecting of the building. It is easy to secure signers to such a paper. What is Mrs. Manning's objection? She has a barn on her property occupied by a carpenter. The firm has gone further than the ordinance requires and agree to erect brick walls, making the building as near fire-proof as possible. Mr. Doane granted a permit to Boice, Runyon & Co. only a week ago to erect a building near their present yards and yet there was no kick.

"Boice, Runyon & Co., and the Loizeaux Company, I am told, quote the same price on lumber and I understand that there is a combination of interests. This I state fearlessly. Are we to submit to a monopoly. De Witt C. Ivins had a lumber yard on Watchung avenue, which he sold to Mr. Loizeaux. The stock was carted away from the yards and the gates closed, and the rental for this year, $1,600 a year, is paid to keep those gates closed. Why is it we can get cheaper lumber in Elizabeth, Westfield, Bound Brook and other places? Simply because there is no combination. McDonough Brothers broke up the ice combination, making it possible for poor people to secure ice. They then engaged in the coal business and have kept the price of coal where it should be. Now they want to engage in the lumber business and sell at a fair profit. Mr. Smith is not back of this protest for he talked differently to McDonough Brothers. The people back of it are not here tonight, namely Boice, Runyon & Co. and Loizeaux & Co. There is no law in the ordinances whereby you have a right to refuse the application, if it conforms to the ordinances."

Mr. Coddington then referred to the new Voorhees & VanZandt building, now in course of construction, and the F. L. C. Martin automobile plant, on Park avenue, as more dangerous than the building proposed by his clients, and in conclusion insisted that Inspector Doane was the only one having a right to act in the matter and as he gets $500 a year for the work he thought he should be allowed to earn his money.

Mr. Swackhamer was quick to reply to Mr. Coddington's remarks. He said that counsel started in by referring to the application and then spent three-quarters of his time attacking a monopoly. He insisted that he represented the property interests and knew of no monopoly or "power behind the throne." He opposed the building because its erection would depreciate property values. He referred to the peculiar mode opposing counsel had, like one standing on narrow ground. According to the opinion of the building inspector the application should not be granted. He felt that it would be an unsafe building and he asks you members of the Common Council to decide the question.

Concluding his remarks, Mr. Swackhamer said:

"The fact that the opposing counsel says that the action of holding a special meeting is unusual, is all the more reason why the application should be refused. It was right for the inspector to seek advice. As to the Boice, Runyon & Co. application, the firm asked for a permit to build an extension to a yard already there."

Mr. Swackhamer then referred to the time twenty years ago when a lumber yard stood where McDonough Brothers want to build and a serious fire threatened adjoining property. That, he said, might occur again. He also said that insurance rates would advance. He disclaimed any knowledge of a monopoly, but argued that persons who put their money in property have a right to protection and he hoped that the application of McDonough Brothers would be denied.

The communications received early in the evening were referred to the fire and building committee, and upon a motion by Mr. Hibbard, of that committee, the Common Council took a fifteen minute recess. At the end of that time the members returned and Mr. Hibbard stated that he had no report to make, and the meeting adjourned.

It was generally understood that the members would not vote on the matter in open meeting, but simply consider it and advise the inspector as to what course to pursue. After the meeting the members held an executive session to further consider the application before instructing him.

It was announced this morning that Building Inspector Doane would give his decision on the application tomorrow. The application was made on March 20 and he is allowed ten days in which to refuse or grant the same. Inquiry among those who are acquainted with the facts, it was stated today that they did not see how Mr. Doane could refuse the permit to McDonough Brothers if they have complied with the provisions of the building ordinance.

A son has arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Ball, of Washington avenue.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

After about two weeks' work, the new compressed air gates at the railroad crossing on Prospect avenue were installed yesterday and the gang went at the Washington avenue crossing immediately afterward. The same kind of gates will be put up at that street. The gates are very simple in operation, being lowered and raised by a compressed air lever. As long as grade crossings must be tolerated, it cannot but be admitted that the new feature is an improvement. However, what the residents of the borough are most looking for is not a compressed air method of raising the gates, but an elevation of the tracks.

The W. U. D. B. E. Tennis Club, composed of young men in the borough, met for reorganization last night, and formulated plans for the coming season. The courts will be put into condition immediately, and playing will begin as soon as possible. There are about ten members in the club, which was originally organized by Archibald Brakeley.

The Methodist Conference will be held within the next two weeks, April 5 being the date of the meeting. At this meeting the new minister of the Dunellen M. E. church will be made known, Alexander Anderson being the likely appointee. Rev. S. K. Doolittle, the retiring minister, will also be assigned to a new pastorate.

The Farther Light Society, of the First Baptist church, will hold its annual meeting Saturday night, at the home of the president, Mrs. W. R. Dayton. The officers will be elected for the coming year and reports of the last season's work will be received. The regular monthly business will be transacted in addition.

A pool tournament among the young men of the borough will be a rival attraction with baseball from the present appearances. John Alberts' establishment is the headquarters of the pool tournament in which there are about twelve entries.

Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Bodine will shortly move to Plainfield, after being residents of this borough for several years. Their house on Prospect avenue has been purchased by J. M. Evans. He will occupy it about April 1.

The Seventh-Day and First Baptist prayer meeting will be held jointly again this week, Friday evening being the date of the occasion. They will be held at the Seventh-Day Baptist church.

The baseball team will be out for brief practice tomorrow afternoon. Those of the team who are not in out-of-town business will be out every afternoon now up to the beginning of the season.

The executive committee of the First Baptist Young People's Society will meet at the home of the president, John Nelson, on Wednesday evening, for the transaction of special business.

The houses of Miss Mary Cornell and Mrs. William Terry, which are being built by Apgar Brothers, are nearly finished, and will be ready for occupancy by the first of the month.

A committee meeting of the Y. P. S. C. E., of the First Presbyterian church, will be held this week to transact routine business.

Rev. and Mrs. W. W. Casselberry have returned to their home after a two weeks' sojourn at Lakewood.

Mr. and Mrs. Vossler are rejoicing over the arrival of a son born Sunday.

Louis Churchill is home after an extended visit with out-of-town friends.

CLOSED PORTALS.

An opinion discharging the rule to show cause why the verdict of the court below should not be set aside in the suit of John G. VanKitten against the Grand Lodge of the A. O. U. W. of this State has been handed down by the Supreme Court. This was an action brought to recover $2,000, the amount of a beneficiary certificate. The Grand Lodge resisted payment on the ground that the payment of an assessment, duly made by it, had been neglected. The plaintiff recovered the amount of the certificate and the judge who tried the case allowed the rule to show cause. The opinion is by Justice Garretson, who holds that the burden of proof, that the notice of the assessment had been sent to the plaintiff, was upon the Grand Lodge and that the evidence in the case was such as to justify the jury that this burden had not been sustained.

Le ture on Charity Machinery.

'PLAINS BOWLERS WON.

Take Two Out of Three Games From Saengerbunds.

Scotch Plains bowlers took two games out of three from the Saengerbunds, of this city, last night, in a match rolled on their own alleys. The scores were for the most part good, 180 being the average. The first game went to the Scotch Plains pin hitters by 20 pins, and the second was won by the margin of 16 pins. In the last game only did the local team prove its superiority and rolled 29 pins more than its opponents.

The high score for the evening was made by Bowker, of Scotch Plains, who made 207. Of the Saengerbunds, Meinzenbach rolled a steady game, though Rummel's 183 was high mark.

Celebrated Tin Wedding.

In the presence of over fifty relatives and intimate friends, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Adams celebrated the tenth anniversary of their wedding last night. NOW VLADIVOSTOK.

Japanese Army's Next Objective Siberian Seaport.

CRIMEA BOILING WITH DISCONTENT

Ambassador McCormick Says Farewell to Czar and Czarina—He Is Leaving For Paris—War Preparations Continue.

LONDON, March 28.—St. Petersburg dispatches this morning say that the Japanese, having removed the possibility of Russia's main army in Manchuria assuming the initiative, will now turn their attention to the next objective of the war, Vladivostok, is strengthened by reports from Gunshu pass announcing the withdrawal of the Japanese from the immediate front of the Russian army for a distance of thirty-five miles south. It is realized, of course, that this may be merely a blind to cover flanking operations, but it is not improbable that the Japanese, having cleared southern Manchuria of Russian troops and secured a position from whence expulsion would be a long and difficult process, may be satisfied to hold the Tie pass line without further extension of communication.

While the voice of the emperor's advisers is for peace if honorable terms are obtainable, the government, as is the part of wisdom, is going forward with all provisions for the continuance of the war. Preparations are reported to be in progress for the mobilization of five more army corps.

The government is advised that Chinese bandits are appearing in great numbers along the Siberian railroad and causing interference with the train service.

The internal situation in Russia is becoming daily more ominous. The Polish situation is causing great anxiety, though it is said that the "intellectuals" and the educated classes generally disapprove of the revolutionary spirit which is permeating the peasantry and laborers in Poland. The Crimea is boiling with discontent, and the strong hand of military force has been invoked to crush it in the bud.

Ambassador McCormick had farewell audiences with the emperor and empress at Tsarskoe-Selo yesterday, special permission having been granted him to make his formal adieu without the presentation of his official letters of recall, which have not arrived. This arrangement was made in deference to the wish of President Roosevelt that Mr. McCormick proceed to Paris without delay.

A Warsaw dispatch says that Baron von Nolken is believed to be out of danger. He is suffering intensely.

Further investigation shows the carefulness with which the plans of the conspirators were laid. A number of persons of the poorer class proceeding on different streets in the direction of the palace just before the bomb was thrown were warned by persons evidently posted for that purpose to go in some other direction.

There have been great demonstrations at Abo (former capital of Finland) and Helsingfors, thousands of workingmen parading with the Finnish national colors, bands playing national airs and the people singing patriotic songs. Speeches were made in the Finnish and Swedish languages and resolutions were adopted favoring opposition to conscription.

The spirit of disorder has spread to Sevastopol. Moderate Liberals in St. Petersburg are becoming alarmed at the situation, reports having been received showing that an actual revolutionary propaganda is being pushed with vigor in many sections of the empire. The authorities of the government of Saratov are closing the schools there on account of peasant disturbances.

Governor Frazier Resigns.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 28.—Governor Frazier has vetoed the bill to increase the salary of the governor of Tennessee from $4,000 to $5,000. He claimed that the bill is in conflict with the state constitution. Later in the day Governor Frazier resigned his office, having been elected United States senator, and John I. Cox, speaker of the state senate, was sworn in as governor.

Burned While Trying to Escape.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 28.—A special from Warrior, Ala., says that Thomas Blackburn, a well known farmer of that place, has been burned to death in a cell in the town lockup, by a fire of his own making, in an attempt to escape from jail. The fire was discovered too late to save the man. He had been arrested for drunkenness.

Stay of Execution For Havenor.

MADISON, Wis., March 28.—The supreme court has granted a stay of execution to Charles S. Havenor, president of the Milwaukee American association baseball team. Havenor as an alderman in Milwaukee was convicted of bribery and sentenced to two years in the House of Correction. He is released on $10,000 bail.

Adrian Iselin Dying.

NEW YORK, March 28.—Adrian Iselin, head of the Iselin family of bankers of this city, is dying at his home here. He is eighty-eight years old. Mr. Iselin is the father of C. Oliver Iselin, the well known yachtsman, and founded the banking firm of A. Iselin & Co. of New York.

Kurds Raiding Armenians.

LONDON, March 28.—Reports received from Van and other parts of Armenia state that the situation there is steadily growing worse. Business is at a standstill, few crops have been sown and Kurds are raiding Armenian villages unrestricted.

LITTLE REPUBLIC TANGLES.

Washington Awaits Castro's Move. A Message From Dawson.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—The president and cabinet have decided to await the reception of the exact text of President Castro's refusal to accept Minister Bowen's arbitration proposition before proceeding further with the negotiations in the Venezuelan tangle.

It is realized that there may be a fair difference of opinion as to whether or not the Venezuelan response was couched in discourteous language, and it may be that at this distance from the seat of negotiations and after the lapse of a few days the words which appeared to Mr. Bowen to be insolent will admit of a different construction.

The disposition is to move circumspectly at least at this end, and unless President Castro chooses to force an issue by another move at Caracas it is believed some time will be consumed in reaching a settlement.

Mr. Dawson, the American minister at Santo Domingo, has cabled the state department to the effect that the Dominican government has about concluded to install foreign agents in the custom houses to collect revenues, 45 per cent. of which is to be applied to the maintenance of the government and the remaining 55 per cent to be placed on deposit subject to disbursement among the foreign creditors in the future after the senate has had an opportunity to again consider the treaty.

The proposition was the subject of a conference at the White House between the president, Secretary Taft, Senator Lodge, Senator Spooner and Acting Secretary Ade, but it was stated that no conclusion has yet been reached.

A note from American Minister Dawson to the Dominican government was published at Santo Domingo city last night which indicates that the pending Dawson-Sanchez convention, subject to favorable report by the committee on foreign affairs, has reasonable prospects of being ratified by the United States senate. The news has created a good impression, re-established confidence, and it may cause the situation to change completely. The proposition of foreign creditors pending decision by the American government and the Santo Domingo Improvement company, it is hoped, will be accepted and prevent difficulties with European governments.

Castro May War on Colombia.

TRINIDAD, March 28.—President Castro has again refused to resume diplomatic relations with Colombia, and in so doing has created a situation which many South American diplomats fear will lead to war between Colombia and Venezuela. Curacao has ceased to be the headquarters for Venezuelan revolutionists and they seem to have centered their activity in this island. It is said that financial assistance has come to the enemies of President Castro and that General Paredes is the leader chosen to head the movement.

IN RECEIVER'S HANDS.

Book Lovers and Tabard Inn Libraries In Trouble.

PHILADELPHIA, March 28.—Five concerns allied with the Book Lovers and Tabard Inn libraries, of which Seymour Eaton is president, were placed in the hands of a receiver here by the United States circuit court.

The establishments affected are the Philadelphia Book Store company, Tabard Inn Press company, Tabard Inn Shops and Studios, Tabard Inn Druggist Specialty company and the Tabard Inn Food company. The liabilities, according to President Eaton's statement, are less than $150,000, and the assets exceed $1,000,000. These assets, Mr. Eaton says, are by the nature of the business scattered from Seattle to Atlanta and from Boston to San Francisco in more than 2,000 cities as well as on scores of trains and ocean steamships.

Virginia Battleflags Restored.

RICHMOND, Va., March 28.—Sixty-two battleflags, captured by the federals from troops of Virginia in the war between the states, were yesterday returned to the governor by the secretary of war. The flags were sent to the governor direct. He received them and had them transferred for the time being to the Confederate museum here, where they will be on exhibition.

Texas Convicts Escaped.

HOUSTON, Tex., March 28.—Twenty-eight Texas convicts on the plantation of J. B. S. House of Houston, in Fort Bend county, have escaped by sawing through the floor of the stockade with case knives. Forty-five convicts refused to accompany the fugitives. Posses are scouring the river bottoms for the runaways.

William Minnigerode Dead.

LYNCHBURG, W. Va., March 28.—William Minnigerode, aged fifty-five years, a prominent iron and steel broker, is dead here. He was a son of the rector of St. Paul's church in Richmond, who was Jefferson Davis' pastor and who was with Davis during his incarceration at Fortress Monroe.

Fishburn Refused a New Trial.

ROANOKE, Va., March 28.—Charles R. Fishburn, the young banker and broker recently sentenced to the penitentiary for five years for killing Dr. Fred Lefew, a young physician, whom he stabbed to the heart with a knife, has been refused a new trial by the state supreme court.

High Water at Fonda.

FONDA, N. Y., March 28.—The Mohawk river is rising very rapidly here and has reached the New York Central tracks at Fort Plain. Ice has impeded traffic on that road at Little Falls, trains east and west being compelled to use eastbound freight tracks.

TRUTH IN ROGERS CASE.

Father of Boy Tells the Story of His Disappearance.

CHICAGO, March 28.—The first apparently adequate explanation of the mysterious disappearance of the boy Frank Ely Rogers and his aunt, Miss Florence Ely, four years ago at Evanston, Ill., was made last night by James C. Rogers, father of the boy. Though simple and straightforward, the truth of the mystery, according to Mr. Rogers, is stranger than the many fanciful stories that have been written about the case, which, in Chicago, has excited as much interest as the celebrated Charlie Ross case in Philadelphia. Replying to questions as to the boy's return Mr. Rogers said:

"At the time of the disappearance my son Frank, like many boys of his age, was fired with a desire to run away from home and see life for himself. His aunt, a sufferer from melancholia, was about to be placed by us in a sanitarium, a procedure to which she strongly objected. As a result of these circumstances the two left home together and went to Buffalo. There they separated, Miss Ely entering a large store apparently to do some shopping and leaving Frank outside. She had previously given him a small sum of money. From that time until now Frank has not seen Miss Ely, and neither he nor we know her whereabouts. Frank, following out his ideas of seeing life, made a living as best he could and has finally returned home after many vicissitudes. This is the explanation of the mystery as learned by me from my son and is apparently the whole truth."

KAISER AT LISBON.

Portuguese King and People Give Him a Royal Reception.

LISBON, March 28.—The steamer Hamburg, with Emperor William on board, anchored here late yesterday afternoon. King Charles, Crown Prince Luiz Philippe, Duke of Braganza and the Duke of Oporto, brother of the king, and their suits, Foreign Minister Villaca and Marine Minister Moreira went on board the vessel and escorted the emperor ashore.

After presentations at the landing stage the royal procession was formed and proceeded through crowded and magnificently decorated streets to the palace at Belem. The cortege included the historic state carriages, the last of which was occupied by King Charles and Emperor William. King Charles was dressed in the uniform of a colonel of German infantry, while the emperor wore the uniform of a colonel of Portuguese infantry. The imposing procession was preceded and followed by cavalry regiments.

The reception all along the route was of the most enthusiastic character. The royal carriage was showered with flowers as it passed under the windows of residences.

Beef Trust Inquiry at Chicago.

VANITY'S VISIONS.

Leather Blouses For Motor Wear. Pretty Evening Skirts.

The manner in which leather is manipulated is truly wonderful. Blouses are made of this material which look as soft and pliable as silk. They are tucked and are quite up to date in every way. Fair chauffeurs find them particularly fetching.

Petticoats for evening get more and more dainty and elaborate. Some of them have masses of shaded chiffon frills, the deep top flounce having an applique of cherries cut out of velvet.

The serious cultivation of the waist has set in, although it is promised, on the word of honor of several great corset authorities, that nothing approaching the ugly hourglass shall be permitted.

Skirts and short bolero jackets of linen worn with lingerie blouses of handkerchief linen will be seen this summer, as they were last, on the majority of smart women. These little jackets are so jaunty and convenient that femininity is loath to give them up.

The linen shirt waist suits have short plaited skirts that just clear the ground. The waists are made either with a few plaits from the shoulders or with a rather deep yoke. In either case the shoulder line is short, and the epaulet effect of last year is seen no more.

Crepe de Paris makes the waist shown in the picture. It is side plaited about a round yoke of lace. A braided band joins the yoke to the full part of the waist. The three-quarter sleeves have ruffles of lace between braided bands. JUDIC CHOLLET.

MODES OF THE MOMENT.

Dainty Lingerie Waists Have Elbow Sleeves—Du Barry Hoods.

Many of the elaborate lingerie waists have elbow sleeves which are also very smart on dressy gowns. The elbow sleeve is not thought consistent or good style on a plain shirt waist.

Such pretty sleeves can be made with delicate materials, such as batiste, mull and nainsook, that it seems a pity not to show as much hand work and lace as a long sleeve will accommodate.

A favorite sleeve for the dressy separate waist is composed of two or three medium width puffs arranged above a deep cuff formed of narrow gathered ruffles of lace on a transparent lining.

Colored silk waist slips matching or toning in with the skirt worn with it is a present fancy. For instance, a deep violet cloth skirt is worn with a lingerie waist over a pale violet silk slip. The girdle is of several shades of mauve ribbon.

Taffeta silk frocks will be very much worn again this spring. They are made in three pieces—skirt, waist and a short coat on the bolero order or with long or short tailor made jackets. The plainer models are trimmed with flat braid of various widths. The more elaborate gowns are stunning with their adornment of shirrings, cordings and puffings.

Shot silks in the new colorings are lovely and drape as gracefully as and muslins.

The attractive gown pictured is of bluet messaline silk. A panel and deep flounce of Irish lace ornament the skirt, which is slightly gathered at the hips. A dainty little bolero over a bloused front of lace and about the neck a lace collar sleeves are short affairs of the mutton variety.

KATE BONNET

THE ROMANCE OF A PIRATE'S DAUGHTER

By FRANK R. STOCKTON

Copyright, 1902, by D. Appleton & Co., New York.

"You have not been dropped," he exclaimed, "and you shall know it. Here, I am going—"

"Nay, nay," she exclaimed, "you must not call me that!"

"But you call me Dickory," he said.

"True, but you are so much younger."

"Younger!" he exclaimed in a tone of contempt, not for the speaker, but for the word she had spoken. "Eleven months!"

She laughed a little laugh; her nature was so full of it that even now she could not keep it back.

"You must have been making careful computation," she said, "but it does not matter; you must not call me Kate, and I shall keep on calling you Dickory; I could not help it. Now, where is it you were about to say you were going?"

"If you think me old enough," said he, "I am going to Barbadoes in the King and Queen. She sails to-morrow. I shall find out about everything, and I shall get your letter, then I shall come back and bring it to you."

"Dickory!" she exclaimed, and her eyes glowed.

Dame Charter had been standing and watching this interview, her foolish motherly heart filled with the brightest, most unreasonable dreams. And why should she not dream, even if she knew her dreams would never come true. In a few short weeks that Dickory boy had grown to be a man, and what should not be dreamed about a man!

As Kate ran by the open door towards her uncle's apartments, Dame Charter rose up, surprised.

"What have you been saying to her, Dickory?" she exclaimed. "Do you know something we have not heard? Have you been giving her news of her father?"

"No," said the son, who had so lately been a boy, "I have no news to give her, "but I am going to get news for her."

She looked at him in amazement; then she exclaimed: "You!"

"Yes," he said, "there is no one else. And besides I would not want anyone else to do it. I am going to Bridgetown in the brig which brought us here; it is a little sail, and when I get there I will find out everything. No matter what has happened, it will break her heart to think her father deserted her without a word. I don't believe he did it, and I shall go and find out."

"But, Dickory," she said, with anxious, upraised face, "how can you get back? Do you know of any vessel that will be sailing this way?"

He laughed.

"Get back? If I go alone, dear mother, you may be sure I shall soon get back. Craft of all kinds sail one way or another, and there are many ways in which I can get back not thought of in ordinary passage. When any kind of a vessel sails from Jamaica, I can get on board of her, whether she takes passengers or not. I can sleep on a bale of goods or on the bare deck; I can work with the crew, if need be. Oh! you need not doubt that I shall speedily come back."

When the King and Queen was nearly ready to sail, Dickory Charter, having been detained by Mr. Delaplaine, who wished the young man to travel as one of importance and plentiful resources, hurried to the house to take his final instructions from Mistress Kate Bonnet, in whose service he was now setting forth. It might have been supposed by some that no further instructions were necessary, but how could Dickory know that? He was right. Kate met him before he reached the house.

"Dickory," said she, and she put out her hand—he had never held that hand before—"you are so true, Dickory, you are so noble; you are going—" it was in her mind to say "you are going as my knight-errant," but she deemed that unsuitable, and she changed it to —"you are going to do so much for me."

She stopped for a moment, and then she said: "You know I told you you should not call me Kate, being so much younger; but, as you are so much younger, you may kiss me if you like."

"Lie!"

CHAPTER X.

BAD WEATHER.

WHEN Dickory Charter sailed away from the island of Jamaica, his reason, had it been called upon, would have told him that he had a good stout brig under him on which there were people and ropes and sails and something to eat and drink. But in those moments of paradise he did not trouble his reason very much, and lived in an atmosphere of joy which he did not attempt to analyze, but was content to breathe as if it had been the common air about him. He was going away from everyone he loved, and yet never before had he been so happy in going to anyone he loved. He cared to talk to no one on board, but in company with his joy he stood and gazed westward out over the sea.

It was on the second day out that the breeze began to be less favoring, and there were signs of a storm; and, in spite of his preoccupied condition, Dickory was obliged to notice the hurried talk of the officers about him, he occupying a point of vantage on the quarter-deck. Presently he turned and asked of someone if there was likelihood of bad weather. The mate, to whom he had spoken, said somewhat unpleasantly: "Bad weather enough, I take it, as we may all soon know; but it is not wind or rain. There is bad weather for you! Do you see that?"

Dick looked, and saw far away, but still distinct, a vessel under full sail, with a little black spot floating high above it.

He turned to the man for explanation. "And what is that?" he said.

"It is a pirate ship," said the other, his face hardening as he spoke, "and it will soon be firing at us to heave to."

At that moment there was a flash at the bow of the approaching vessel, a little smoke, and then the report of a cannon came over the water.

Without further delay, the captain and crew of the King and Queen went to work and hove to their brig.

As the swift-sailing pirate ship sped on, Ben Greenway came aft to Capt. Bonnet, and a grievous grin was on the Scotchman's face.

"Good greetin's to ye, Master Bonnet," said he, "ye're truly good to your old friends an' neebours an' pass them not by, even when your pockets are burstin' wi' Spanish gold."

A minute before this Capt. Stede Bonnet had been in a very pleasant state of mind. It was only two days ago that he had captured a Spanish ship, from which he got great gain, including considerable stores of gold.

"What mean you?" cried Bonnet. "Know you that vessel?"

"Ay, weel," said Ben, "it is the King and Queen, bound, doubtless, for Bridgetown. I tell ye, Master Bonnet, that it was a great deal o' trouble an' expense ye put yersel' to when ye went into your present line o' business on this ship. Ye could have stayed at hame, where she is owned, an' wi' these fine fellows that ye have gathered thegither, ye might have robbed your neebors right an' left wi'out the trouble o' goin' to sea."

"Ben Greenway," roared the captain, "I will have no more of this. Is it not enough for me to be annoyed and worried by these everlasting ships of Bridgetown, which keep sailing across my bows, no matter in what direction I go, without hearing your jeers and sneers regarding the matter? I tell you, Ben Greenway, I will not have it. I will not suffer these paltry vessels, filled, perhaps, with the grocers and cloth dealers from my own town, to interfere thus with the bold career that I have chosen. I tell you, Ben Greenway, I'll make an example of this one. I am a pirate, and I will let them know it—these fellows in their floating shops. It will be a fair and easy thing to sink this tub without more ado. I'd rather meet three Spanish ships, even had they naught aboard, than one of these righteous craft commanded by my most respectable friends and neighbors."

An Ideal Location

Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE

LINDEN, N. J.

Beautiful and Accessible

2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,

14 MILES FROM NEW YORK

On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL, PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL, or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL, IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

FOR INFORMATION concerning lots in these beautiful Park Cemeteries, and FREE transportation to prospective lot buyers, apply at once to any LEADING UNDERTAKER or offices of the Associations:

ROSEBEN AT BENNINGS.

Handicap Favorite Was Right and True, Who Got Third Place.

WASHINGTON, March 28. — Roseben, scratched in two former events in which she entered, came up to expectations by winning the handicap for three-year-olds and up. Right and True was played as the favorite. The greatest interest was in the fifth race, in which twelve horses started. This was won by Bob Murphy, against Toi San as the favorite, Cascine, Colonist and Royal Widow, who were played heavily. There was another big field in the sixth race, which was won by Bobbie Kean. Fritzie Scheff was favorite, but did not get any of the money. Summaries:

First Race. — Roseben, first; Rockland, second; Right and True, third.

Second Race.—Veribest, first; Anodyne, second; Little Rose, third.

Third Race.—Gold Fleur, first; Amberjack, second; Trapper, third.

Fourth Race. — Little Woods, first; Whorler, second; Mon Amour, third.

Fifth Race.—Bob Murphy, first; Cascine, second; Toi San, third.

Sixth Race.—Bobbie Kean, first; Pete Dailey, second; Only One, third.

Ram's Horn Won at Memphis.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 28.—The stables of W. S. Williams & Co. furnished the winner of the Montgomery handicap. Ram's Horn, the three-year-old bay colt by Bute-Aunt Tessa, led a field of eighteen contenders to the wire and finished two lengths ahead of the fast coming King's Trophy of the Bennett Stable. Otto Stifel was third. Jockey Crimmins piloted the winner in masterly manner, getting his mount off to a good start and assuming the lead in the stretch, which Ram's Horn traversed in a burst of speed, finishing with much to spare. Ram's Horn, coupled in the betting with Phil Finch as the Williams entry, went to the post a decided favorite in the betting.

Autolight Bit Cursus.

NEW ORLEANS, March 28.—At the City park races five of the six favorites were beaten and three of the races were won by outsiders. While the horses were at the post for the last race Autolight reached down and grabbed Cursus, the favorite, by the foreleg and bit deeply into the tendon. Cursus faced the barrier, but was pulled up when it was released. Arab was the only winning favorite, and after the race the stewards ordered that his entry be hereafter refused for inconsistent running.

Rothschild Writ For Schwab.

LONDON, March 28. — Charles M. Schwab on his arrival at Plymouth yesterday was served with a high court writ at the instance of David Rothschild of London, claiming damages for breach of contract. The writ was served on board the steamer Kronprinz Wilhelm, and the interesting question arises whether the liner could be regarded as German soil, in which case the service would be illegal. The matter will have to be decided by the courts. Mr. Schwab did not land at Plymouth, but proceeded to Cherbourg. He said he was not going to Russia and that he had not come to Europe about Russian naval contracts.

Alberton was arrested as an accessory.

NO PLACE FOR JAIL IN FANWOOD BOROUGH

AUTHORITIES CAN'T FIND A HOUSE TO LODGE PRISONERS.

The Fanwood borough finds itself in a peculiar predicament over the question of a jail for the borough, the issue being, "Where shall the lockup be placed?" For several years Fanwood has been sadly in need of a place where the disorderly element and others could be placed for safe keeping until they could be disposed of by due process of law. At last the borough Council was prevailed upon to pass a resolution authorizing the purchase of a lockup. Collector Charles Sheelen was appointed a committee to procure estimates and secure a place for the cages to be erected. The estimates were secured without trouble, but when it came to securing house room trouble began. It was thought the Central New Jersey Land Improvement Company would be glad of an opportunity to rent one of the rooms in the clubhouse now occupied by the Suburban A. C., at a fair rental.

When the proposition was made them they agreed that the borough could have space in the building, but the rent demanded was so high that it was considered extortion. Then they were asked to rent part of a stable near the depot, which is owned by them, they agreed to do this, but the question of rent brought up the same old figures as was demanded for space in the clubhouse. By this time the residents began to think the Improvement Company was either not in favor of the jail or were getting even for the sidewalk and other improvement taxes put upon the company in the past. The fire house was then suggested, but the fire laddies objected as the place, they claimed, was far too small to sublet, and as it was a favorite place for the borough society to hold its social functions, it would hardly be proper to have the building dubbed a "jail" or to find a refractory prisoner occupying a cell some night when a social affair was on. This leaves the borough in the predicament of practically having a "homeless jail" and as the matter has been standing this way for some time now, the jail question will remain unsettled unless the borough erects its own building for the purpose, as no one else seems to want it.

COMPREHENSIVE PAPER ON "THE BASIS OF SCHOOL TAX"

State Superintendent of Public Instruction C. J. Baxter, formerly of Plainfield, has submitted to Governor Stokes as a supplement to his annual report, an exhaustive and comprehensive paper on "The Basis of School Tax." By means of comparative tables it presents an excellent comparison of the ratables and taxation of the State for the past twenty-five years, shows the varying results under the old system of raising the school tax on a populati n basis, compared with the new plan of raising the tax by a 2¾ mills levy on each dollar of valuation of the taxable real and personal property of the State. In his introduction Professor Baxter says: "Though sufficient time has not elapsed to furnish an extended comparison of the two methods, we believe the following tables conclusively prove the superiority of the 3¾ mills tax as a reliable source of income for the support of our public schools." Professor Baxter closed by saying: "After much experiment we have discovered the basis of State school taxation which is best, and to it, with such modifications as circumstances may demand, we should adhere. We cannot imagine conditions within the realm of probability that would make it so unsatisfactory and so unreliable a dependence as an annual school census."

FRIGHTFUL BURNS PROVE FATAL

Three-Year-Old Theodore Cornwell Unable to Survive After Bon-Fire Accident.

HIS CLOTHES A TORCH

Boy's Father in the West on a Business Trip Receives the Sad News by Telegram.

After extensive preparations had been completed to begin a severe operation of skin grafting, Theodore Martin Cornwell, the three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Cornwell, of Clinton avenue, died early this morning, the result of terrible burns received last week. Assisting his mother to burn old papers in the yard preparatory to moving, he stood too near the fire and the flames communicated to his clothing.

Mrs. Cornwell had just entered the house and was recalled by hearing his shrieks. She found him rushing about, fanning the blaze to greater fury and when she finally caught him and rolled him on the ground, his body was deeply burned from the waist down.

Dr. Endicott was called and after administering the usual remedies, saw that the child had a chance to live but that skin grafting would have to be resorted to. He was gradually restoring his strength in order that this might be done when death came suddenly at 4 o'clock today.

The burns were unusually deep and ordinarily would have caused death within a few hours. The little fellow retained consciousness all along and Dr. Endicott declares he exhibited wonderful vitality in remaining so.

The fatality is made doubly sad because of the absence of the boy's father. He is employed by a New York cotton thread firm and for the past two months has been in Ohio on business. Efforts have been made to reach him but it was only today that he received a telegram announcing the accident and death. No arrangements for the funeral will be made until his return.

Mr. and Mrs. Cornwell were formerly residents of the borough, having lived on Watchung avenue, near Codington avenue.

TAX LAW PASSES.

Measure Injurious to Plainfield Now Up to Governor.

Senator Hillery's bill limiting the tax rate in municipalities passed the upper house yesterday by a vote of 11 to 8 It makes several provisions, one of which is that in cities of less than 50,000 population the tax rate shall be $1 50 a hundred. This applies to Plainfield and will have material effect in making up the year's budget.

The local tax rate has always hovered about $2 50 for each $100 and it will mean a curtailing in every department. The bill is now up to Governor Stokes and if he signs it, will become a law at once.

Speakers at Memorial Service.

Services in memory of Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes will be held at the First Baptist church Sunday night. It is expected that several of the local ministers will speak, also Rev. Dr. W. H. Richards, formerly of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, and others from New York. Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, the pastor, will be in charge of the service and there will be appropriate music by the choir.

Burning Grass Threatens Houses.

Burning grass in the meadows at Park and Woodbine avenues resulted in the fire department being called at 2:30 yesterday afternoon. The flames ran so high and dangerously near the residences that a line of hose had to be laid to put them out. Chief Doane has instructed the property owners to cut what grass remains as this made the third time that houses have been threatened in this manner.

Coal Stealer Fined.

Caught by Patrolman Higgins in the act of stealing coal from Jersey Central trains at Netherwood today, Joseph Domingo was fined $10 when arraigned in the city court.

Today a Record Breaker.

The local observer's official thermometer registered 80 degrees at noon today, the highest recorded for March 29 in fourteen years.

GRACE M. E. PASTOR TO GO TO RAHWAY?

REPORT THAT HE WILL BE ASSISTANT MINISTER THERE.

Rev. R. E. Diffendorfer, pastor of Grace M. E. church, it is reported will become assistant pastor of Trinity M. E. church, Rahway, it being said that the Newark Conference will appoint him to take up work at that place. Rev. S. P. Hammond, the present pastor at Rahway, intends to retire from the active ministry and Rev. Thomas O. Mayham, of Paterson, will be his successor with Rev. Mr. Diffendorfer as assistant.

Rev. Mr. Diffendorfer is a young man and is popular with the members of his congregation. He has been temporarily in charge of the borough church since the resignation of Rev. E. L. Karp, who left to accept a professorship at Syracuse University.

Another well founded report has it that Rev. Mr. Diffendorfer will take up work in the missionary branch of the M. E. church with headquarters in New York. It is also stated that he does not wish to have a regular charge. Rev. Mr. Diffendorfer is at Madison today and could not be reached by telephone.

EDITOR ENTERTAINS G. A. R.

Alfred E. Pearsall at Winfield Scott Post, No. 73.

Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., and its friends were treated to an enjoyable entertainment last night by Alfred E. Pearsall, formerly editor of the Westfield Standard. Miss Budworth, a talented pianist, varied the programme, which was largely taken up by Mr. Pearsall's readings and humorous stories. Mr. Pearsall's manner is funny, and his well chosen jokes and anecdotes never failed to provoke a laugh.

Commander James Atwood, of Trenton, at one time head of the local post, made a few remarks. The affair was order by and in charge of Commander McVoy and Adjutant Smith.

Watchung Mountain Blaze.

The Watchung Mountains were on fire north of Dunellen Monday night. Brush and timberland burned furiously for hours and hundreds of residents watched the snakelike lines of fire as they eat their way up the mountain side. TO PENSION THE FIREMEN

Chief Doane Present When Governor Signs Bill.

PROVISIONS OF LAW

Fund to be Placed in Custody of Five Trustees—Benefits Plainfield.

Chief T. O. Doane, together with others interested in the firemen's pension bill, was in Trenton yesterday, when Governor Stokes signed the bill granting the right to all fire departments in the State to establish a pension fund.

According to the provisions of the bill the fund is to be established by taking one per cent. from the firemen's salaries, a sum from the city equal to this assessment and one per cent. of the money received by the Firemen's Relief Association from the insurance companies. Annually the fire insurance companies contribute two per cent. of the business in force to the association and half of this will now go toward the pension fund.

The combined assessment from the firemen's salaries and the city appropriation will amount to about $170 in this city, while the receipts of the Firemen's Relief Association are increasing every year and its expenses growing less. Last year they amounted to $1,634 17, while from a general fund of $5,913 08, a balance, collected over expenses, of $582.50 remained. As the fund will increase annually and the number of persons to be pensioned decrease, the pension will naturally grow larger each year.

Five trustees, one of whom shall be the chief of each city fire department, and who shall be a permanent officer, shall constitute a governing body of the fund. One member shall be retired each year, and a successor shall be appointed by the board of fire commissioners. Members of the department injured in service are to receive half-pay, as are those who have reached the age of sixty years, or have been in the service twenty years. Widows of firemen receive the same amount.

Drew a Knife for Fun.

Getting into a fight over a trivial matter, last night, Lewis Randolph and Eugene Brittin, both well known local colored men, were arrested by the police. Brittin declared that in the fracas, Randolph drew a long bladed knife and made a desperate attempt to stab him. To Judge Runyon, this morning, Randolph declared he had pulled a knife but that he did it only to frighten his adversary. He was given his preference of $5 or twenty days and sentence was suspended on Brittin.

MARTINE ASKS STOKES TO VETO CANAL BILL

FARMER-ORATOR TELLS GOVERNOR IT IS A MONSTROUS WRONG.

The Morris Canal abandonment bill passed the House, at Trenton yesterday. It is looked upon generally by the press of the State, irrespective of party, as a particularly vicious measure designed to help corporations. Union County's Assemblymen voted solidly for it.

James E. Martine, the "farmer-orator of New Jersey," who perhaps watches the doings of the Legislature better than any other person in this city and certainly is as well informed politically as any one in this section, sent the following letter to Governor Stokes last night:

Plainfield, March 28, 1905.
Cedar Brook Farm.

Hon. E. C. Stokes,
Governor of New Jersey.

My dear sir:

The infamous canal abandonment bill has passed the House of Assembly of this State. I sincerely trust that it may fail in our State Senate, but if through grave misfortune it should pass that body also, then the only hope the people have is in your sense of right and justice that you may interpose between them and this monstrous wrong by the veto vested in you. Never was a measure before our Legislature in which the veto power was more justified. The people look to you. Let their confidence be fully realized.

Respectfully,
J. E. Martine.

Slandered The Daily Press.

An employe of the Courier-News introduced another workman engaged on that paper, as a reporter for The Daily Press and both were accordingly admitted to an affair in Saengerbund Hall last night. Because of their boisterous actions and intoxicated condition, we understand, they were ejected. In justice to this paper we wish to say that neither has any connection with The Daily Press whatever. Furthermore the reporters for this paper are men of good department and are not addicted to liquor.

The party subscribed $60,000.

Chris Sorensen, Jr., of this city, is in charge of the tour of the band, which lasts until the regular season begins at Asbury Park on May 30.

ANOTHER SKIRT FACTORY

M. Kahn to Locate a Plant in Schepflin Building.

LOCAL CAPITAL

Work at New Industrial Place to Begin Early Next Month.

Another industry will soon be located is this city. M. Kahn, of 137th street, New York, formerly engaged as foreman for Hernig & Kapp, of Watchung avenue, has about completed the arrangements for the lease of the building on West Front street, formerly owned by the late Christian Schepflin, where he proposes to manufacture women's garments on an extensive scale.

Mr. Kahn will equip the building with all the latest improved machinery for the employment of a large force of women. He is thoroughly experienced in the business and believes that Plainfield is especially well located for such an industry, it being close to New York, and possible to get a better class of employes. Mr. Kahn expects to be able to begin business sometime during April.

The building he will occupy is just suited to this business, it having previously been used for the manufacture of clothing Mr. Kahn will use the entire second floor of the building.

Local capital is back of the concern.

LECTURED ON BIRDS.

Feature of Annual Meeting of Audubon Society in Crescent Avenue Church Last Night.

Herbert K. Job, an authority, writer and a lecturer, gave a talk at the annual meeting of the Audubon Society last night at the Crescent Avenue church before a good sized audience. A meeting of the executive committee was held before the lecture, at which these officers were elected: President, Alexander Gilbert; secretary and treasurer, Miss Julia Scribner.

Rev. Alfred C. Nickerson, as chairman of the executive committee, made a few remarks explanatory of the work of the society, after which he introduced Mr. Job, as the speaker of the evening. Mr. Job described mainly, birds which are not familiar, particularly those which are difficult to photograph. The pictures, beautifully colored, were attractive and true to nature. The pictures of the young quail, which Mr. Job said, particularly delighted President Roosevelt, when shown in a recent lecture at the White House, on account of their rarity, were realistic and vivid. Mr. Job gave the entire lecture before President Roosevelt's family, a few weeks ago, the Chief Executive being a great lover of birds.

M'DONOUGHS GET LUMBER YARD PERMIT

INSPECTOR GRANTS THE PETITION TO BUILD BUILDING AND SHEDS.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane has granted a permit to McDonough Brothers to erect a lumber building and shed on their recently purchased property on West Third street, near Madison avenue.

This he was obliged to do as the plans and specifications accompanying the application conform in every respect to the building ordinance. Further than that, the firm has filed an affidavit that it will willingly make any changes suggested by the building inspector which will tend to make the buildings more safe and fireproof. In speaking of the matter this morning Mr. Doane said that the firm could not be asked to do more than it has already done.

The building which McDonough Brothers propose to erect will be about one hundred feet long, twenty-five feet wide and about sixteen feet high. It will be constructed entirely of brick and corrugated iron and will be as near fire-proof as possible. Owing to the limited height it would be an easy matter to fight a fire in the structure, and it would not be as hazardous as some other buildings of much larger proportions. It is expected that McDonough Brothers will soon commence the work of construction.

W. A. Coddington represented McDonough Brothers and convinced Common Council that it had no jurisdiction in the matter at all.

Indignant over the charge made by former Judge W. A. Coddington on the floor of the Common Council chamber that the lumber dealers in this city had a combination regulating prices and that rates for lumber here are higher than in adjoining places, Loizeaux & Company have sent the following letter to this paper for publication:

Editor, The Daily Press:

Referring to W. A. Coddington's remarks as attorney for Messrs. McDonough Brothers before the Common Council Monday evening, we beg to state that he had not the slightest basis for his charge that this company was "back" of the opposition to the application for these gentlemen for a lumber yard.

We have not in any way, or at any time, directly or indirectly opposed, or do oppose that application.

In reply to his remark "Why is it we can get cheaper lumber in Elizabeth, Westfield, Bound Brook, etc.?" we simply answer it is not true. The fact is, we have our teams constantly delivering lumber to Somerville, Bound Brook, Westfield, Scotch Plains, Garwood, Cranford, and even as far as Montclair; whilst no lumber is being brought to Plainfield from these places in competition. Common sense would surely teach that it is sold here as cheap or cheaper than anywhere in the vicinity, and will continue to be so as long as we are in the business.

Mr. Coddington will undoubtedly be glad to withdraw a slur that has no foundation.

J. D. Loizeaux Lumber Company.

Nineteenth Wedding Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Stillman, of West Fourth street, were happily surprised last evening on the occasion of their nineteenth wedding anniversary. The affair was quietly arranged by their daughter, Miss Nettie Stillman, who was assisted by Mr. Toms and Miss Oakley. There were thirty guests. During the evening music and games were enjoyed, while at a late hour refreshments were served. Mr. and Mrs. Stillman are well known, having resided here nearly all their lives.

Read Papers at Women's Meeting.

At the regular monthly missionary meeting of the Women's Association of the Congregational church yesterday afternoon, a paper on current missionary events was read by Miss Miste Suffern. Goodrich presided at the meeting, which was followed by a social hour and tea.

Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Tugwell, of the New Madison, who have been visiting out of town for some days, are expected home soon.

C. J. FISK FOR SENATOR

Former Mayor's Name Introduced in Contest for Seat.

A STRONG CANDIDATE

Others Mentioned for the Nomination Include Buckle, Runyon, Ackerman and Newcorn.

The Elizabeth Journal introduces former Mayor Charles J. Fisk, of this city, as a worthy candidate to succeed Judge Joseph Cross, of Elizabeth, as State Senator from Union County, and the suggestion has been received with much enthusiasm here, where Mr. Fisk is looked upon as the most progressive worker for the municipality's well-being. He is at present president of the local Board of Health and occupies the same position on the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital.

Others who have been mentioned for the place include Mayor James F. Buckle, of the First ward; City Judge William N. Runyon, of the Second ward; Ernest R. Ackerman, of the Third ward, and former Assemblyman William Newcorn.

Should Mr. Fisk decline the honor, Judge Runyon will likely be the candidate for the honor and he will be the choice of the local Republican administration, which once before presented his name to the nominating convention. Mr. Ackerman would be strongly supported by the friends of United States Senator John Kean should he decide to enter the lists. Mr. Newcorn's friends count upon his record in the Assembly as a strong card for his approval by the voters.

"The next Senator from Union County will be a Plainfield man," says the Elizabeth Journal, the recognized organ of the party in this county, and it adds that it will be up to Plainfield to decide who will be its candidate.

PLAINFIELDER WEDS A SOMERVILLE GIRL

COUNTY SEAT SOCIETY PEOPLE SURPRISED AT ANNOUNCEMENT.

Considerable surprise was occasioned in the social circles of Somerville, by the announcement today of the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Mehlenbeck, daughter of Mrs. E. B. Mehlenbeck, of that place, and Harry Paulstone Mesler, of this city, which took place at the parsonage of the Second Reformed church, Somerville, Sunday night, Rev. Dr. E. G. Read, the pastor, officiating.

The engagement of the couple was announced a few months ago, but their friends had not the slightest intimation of the marriage. Both the bride and groom are well-known in this city. Miss Reimer, a friend of the bride, attended the couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Mesler are now enjoying a honeymoon. Next week the bride, accompanied by her mother, will sail for an extended visit with relatives in Scotland.

CATHOLICISM IN FRANCE.

Subject of Lecture Heard by Knights of Columbus.

Prof. McAuliff, of New York, gave a highly instructive lecture at the meeting of Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, on the subject of "Catholicism in France." He reviewed the history of Catholics from the early days up to the present time, relating many incidents about the leaders of the faith.

Following the lecture the members enjoyed a novel feature in the form of a prize-story-telling contest. Charles Ward and H. P. Greenwood were credited with telling the best stories. The rest of the evening was spent in a social way.

Plainfielders Won Applause.

The Metropolitan papers of yesterday devote some space to a reception and exhibition given Monday night by the Whipple Art School, which was formally opened at the studios, 900 Sixth avenue, and the programme included a delightful musical in which are mentioned Miss Florence C. Wehlfert, violinist, and Miss Ella Raybert, soprano, of this city. A number of society people of New York assisted in receiving.

REFORMATORY NEGLECTED

Legislature Pays No Heed to Crying Needs at Institution.

NOT EVEN VISITED

Now Overcrowded and No Sight of Fund for Enlarging the Establishment.

The almost criminal inattention on the part of the Legislature to the splendid Rahway Reformatory has provoked outbursts of disgust against the law-makers. The Newark Evening News sizes up the situation when it says:

"The attitude of the Legislature toward the Rahway Reformatory can be designated as nothing short of criminal neglect. No penal institution in New Jersey is capable of doing better work, and no one is doing better work under more unfavorable and aggravating conditions; yet the Legislature not only refuses to afford it the accommodations necessary to meet the demands made upon it, but seems inclined to weaken and impair all efforts made by its officials to reform the young men placed under their espionage.

"These may seem harsh accusations, but they are borne out by the facts. Not a single member of the Appropriation Committee of the Legislature has this year visited the Rahway Reformatory to learn the conditions existing there. They seem to be entirely indifferent to its needs or to the work of reforming first offenders for the benefit of the State at large. There are 250 cells in the Reformatory; every one is occupied, and there were, on Saturday last, 108 prisoners sleeping on cots in the corridors. A few days previous there were 112 of these offenders herded in the institution without cells and in charge of only seven or eight men.

"Such neglect is simply unpardonable. It is inviting riot, it is making discipline impossible; it is vitiating all the good that the Reformatory is intended to effect; it is placing on the Reformatory authorities responsibilities that ought to be laid on no men, particularly those in charge of convicts. A word, a badly accepted joke, the throwing of an article in fun or in malice might precipitate a riot among the 108 men and boys sleeping on cots in one long corridor, with results that might prove fatal. It is a crime to thus invite insurrection, and the Legislature is responsible for it.

"One of two things should be done at once: the Reformatory should have a new wing, or a law should be enacted directing the courts to send no more first offenders to that institution until there is room for them. Send them to the State prison, and let them become hardened, confirmed criminals, if this must be done; but don't send them to the Reformatory, which has now 108 more men than cells. To continue this policy is simply to destroy the whole Reformatory system.

"Last year the legislative committee would hardly listen to the commissioners who went before them to ask for a proper appropriation for a new wing. This year the members of the Appropriation Committee were in a better frame of mind; they heard the commissioners fully and respectfully, but they did not seem to be moved in the direction of building the necessary new wing. Governor Stokes is friendly to the Reformatory, but is anxious to save as much of the State's money as possible. The disposition seems to be to appropriate $350,000 for the accommodation of the hardened criminals at the State prison, but to let the work of reform be hindered or altogether stopped at the Rahway Reformatory.

"That this is wrong has been shown again and again. Few of the State prison convicts ever reform; eighty per cent. of the Reformatory prisoners become good citizens, yet the prison wing is to be built and the Reformatory wing is not, unless the Legislature actually looks into conditions and changes its mind this week. This it ought to do; it is nothing less than criminal neglect that permits conditions to continue as they now exist at the Rahway Reformatory."

—City Treasurer William F. Arnold still continues to improve and recently he has been able to see a few intimate friends.

—Lawyer Robert H. McAdams, of Elizabeth, recently purchased the factory property and dwelling at Garwood on the line of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, running back to North avenue, forming a plot of land 200 feet by 100 feet, formerly owned by Albert J. and Eva C. Beckley, of Garwood.

—William R. Cansbrook, agent in charge of the electric department of the Public Service Corporation, has returned from Philadelphia, where he attended an annual meeting of agents connected with electrical works, held for the purpose of discussing new features of the work. After the meeting the agents went to Atlantic City, where they had a general good time.

RAILROAD MEN FORM INTER-STATE LEAGUE

SERIES ON THE DIAMOND FOR THE SEASON.

The baseball fans employed by the New Jersey Central, Pennsylvania Railroad, the New York, New Haven and Hartford and New York Central Railroads have formed an Inter-State Baseball League for the coming season. These officers have been elected: President, M. H. Connelly, of the New Jersey Central and manager of team; vice president, John A. Robertson, of the New York Central; secretary and treasurer, William J. Hoover, of the Pennsylvania Railroad. The constitution, by-laws and playing rules of the National League have been adopted as far as they can be applied to the association. Other resolutions for the government of the league have been adopted; also the National League ball. Umpires will be selected by the various teams and the double system will be employed.

At the end of the season a suitable pennant, to be selected by the officers, will be presented to the team winning the highest percentage of games. Manager Connelly feels confident that the New Jersey Central team will fly the pennant over the new ground near Communipaw Station, which are underway at present and will be enclosed with a twelve-foot fence, including grandstands and bleachers, by June 1. The following games will be played by the New Jersey Central A. A. team on its home grounds:

May 20, New York Central; May 30, N. Y. N. H. and H. R. R.; June 8, Penna. R. R.; June 24, New York Central; July 1, New York Central; July 8, N. Y. N. H. and H. R. R.; July 22, Penna. R. R.; September 2, N. Y. N. H. and H. R. R.; September 4, Penna. R. R. These games will be played away from home: May 6, New York Central; May 27, N. Y. N. H. and H. R. R.; June 17, Penna. R. R.; July 4, a. m., New York Central; July 15, N. Y. N. H. and H. R. R.; July 29, Penna. R. R.; August 19, New York Central; August 26, N. Y. H. N. and R. R.; September 16, Penna. R. R. In addition to these games, these contests have been arranged by the New Jersey Central management: May 13, Bergen Point Field Club, home ground; June 10, Philadelphia and Reading Railway team, home grounds; August 12, Philadelphia and Reading Railway, Tabor Field, Philadelphia. Manager Connelly will have a very fast team and expects to close the season with a good record.

AMUSEMENTS.

For the first time on any stage, A. M. Lancaster's powerful four act drama, "Anna Karenina," based on Tolstoi's novel, is produced by the stock company at Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre this week. Henry Woodruff, the Fifth Avenue's new leading man, heads the cast, assisted by Isabelle Evesson, leading woman, and the stock company. Theodore Roberts has been especially engaged to create the part of Count Karenin. The production of the play—by no means the first made at the Fifth Avenue under the Proctor's regime—was further signalized by the second souvenir matinee yesterday, at which a fitting and valuable souvenir was given. Old Proctorities know the advantage of purchasing seats early—thus making sure.

Loan Association Prosperous.

The excellent condition of the Plainfield Building and Loan Association is shown in the financial statement printed and distributed at the annual meeting held Monday night. This shows the assets to be $219,533.02 and the liabilities the same, with surplus or undivided profits of $44,517.49. The receipts for the year were $77,676.61 and the disbursements, including a cash balance on hand at the close of the fiscal year of $4,029.92, are the same. The association was organized September 24, 1894, and the total number of shares subscribed is 2,863. The total amount paid in on shares to date is $168,630 and the profits amount to $44,517.49. The total value of shares is $318,147.49. The by-laws of the association were changed to conform to the State laws.

Richard Kissam, formerly of Plainfield, but now of Lyndhurst, L. I., will occupy his new house on Rutherford Heights about April 10.

SPORTING NEWS.

DIAMOND DUST.

For the purpose of clinching the county championship, Manager Daab will probably give Rahway one game.

George Johnston, manager of last year's Plainfield team, is working very hard for the success of the Westfield team.

The Orange Field Club will hold its first baseball practice on Saturday. There are forty candidates for the nine positions on the team.

McManus will not play on the Westfield team this season. He has just joined the New York Fire Department, being a member of Engine Company No. 7.

The greatest secrecy is maintained regarding the short-stop and second baseman secured for Westfield. They are minor leaguers and of course are very fast.

The A. J. and G. team, of New York State, will do its spring training at Elizabeth, owing to the backward season in the Empire State. The nine will play several games at the county seat before opening its regular schedule.

"Jake" Wall, the mascot for the Westfield team, says that the aggregation will be fifty per cent. stronger than last year. To accomplish this the supporters of the association in that town have got to go down very deep in their pockets.

Connelly, who will play in the field for Plainfield this season, will be remembered as winning a game for Scotch Plains two years ago by making a home-run off "Warry" Mac Laughlin in the ninth inning. He put the ball over the left field wire fence, bringing two men as well as himself, home.

For the support of the institution's baseball team three high class entertainments will be given at the Y. M. C. A. Hall next month, the dates being selected for April 11, April 25 and May 4. The proceeds will be devoted entirely to the manager's expenses, as the use of the hall is donated. On April 11 the committee has arranged to have W. Paulding DeNike, of New York, a 'cellist well known in this city. Miss Catherine Lane, soprano, and Helen Mar Wilson, a fascinating reader, will complete the entertainment. The bill on April 25 will include Miss McClaren, reader, and Dorothy Johnston, harpist. The VanEps Brothers, of this city, banjo and mandolin players, will appear in the third entertainment. Edward Frye, a talented monologist, will be the other attraction. This entertainment will be given on May 4.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

The results in the group contests which have been conducted weekly at the Y. M. C. A. Boys' Department show the points to be as follows: Olympians, 10,160; Gladiators, 9,318; Romans, 8,352; Spartans, 5,808. Individual points for the first three positions are as follows: Clarence Steiger, 1,252; Walter Caldwell, 1,164; Charles Line, 1,194.

LITERARY.

The Pinkerton Detective Agency is to most people a sort of unknown quantity; its methods have been shrouded in mystery, and it has been vaguely described as the "eye that never sleeps." Leslie's Magazine for April contains the first installment of an absorbing account of the Agency, now told comprehensively for the first time.

The British Army alone proposes to have a field gun of so powerful a character that it is not found possible or convenient to make it of the same caliber as the horse artillery gun, and most interesting will be to see whether foreign nations follow the example we are setting them in this matter. But in any case there will be no undue delay in carrying out this great military reform, not in getting to the stage at which we have already arrived has there been any undue carelessness or delay.—Britain's Prime Minister in The Metropolitan Magazine for April.

Theodore G. Rowe, of Newark, has returned from a visit with Mr. and Mrs. J. C. VanDyke, of East Fifth street.

Miss May L. Powelson, of Asbury Park, has returned from a visit with her cousin, Miss Mary L. VanEps, of East Fifth street.

RUSSIA WANTS PEACE

French Minister, M. Delcasse, Asked to Mediate.

WASHINGTON AND LONDON TO ASSIST

Fire Adds New Terrors to Revolutionary Movement—Yalta (In Crimea) Prison Burned and All Police Stations Wrecked.

LONDON, March 29.—The latest and apparently the most definite move toward peace on the part of Russia is that country's request to M. Delcasse, the French minister for foreign affairs, to act as intermediary between the czar and the mikado. The French statesman has signified his willingness, but is, however, convinced of the necessity of working in unison with Lord Lansdowne, the British foreign minister.

A special dispatch from St. Petersburg says that Russia has outlined the conditions under which she is prepared to negotiate peace, and it is now stated with every semblance of authority that, thanks to the good offices of the United States and France, the question of peace had assumed practical shape.

While peace rumors multiply the interior situation in Russia is growing worse rapidly. Incendiary fires have been started in the widely separated towns of Baku, Nijni Novgorod and Yalta, and armed bands of peasants are murdering and pillaging on all sides.

So serious is the situation that Russian imperial 4s fell a point on the St. Petersburg bourse.

Numerous fires are reported, supposed to be the work of incendiary revolutionists.

A Baku (Caucasia) dispatch says that the works of the Mantacheff Petroleum company and the Baku Petroleum works at Bibiebat are on fire.

A report From Nijni Novgorod, middle Russia, says that a fire at the Mazoute grain depots has caused heavy losses, estimated at hundreds of thousands of rubles. The flames threaten to spread to the shipping.

At Yalta, Crimea, southern Russia, the town has been set on fire five times, the prison was burned to the ground and all the police stations were wrecked.

A meeting held there was attended by thousands of workmen who adopted a resolution to petition the throne, first, for abrogation of laws limiting civil rights; second, free speech; third, freedom of the press; fourth, the right to strike; fifth, liberty of conscience; sixth, equal rights for all nationalities and religions; seventh, immediate conclusion of peace with Japan, and eighth, popular representation in the constituent assembly.

The troops are arriving there from Simperfol to quell the riots.

A St. Petersburg dispatch says that the funeral of a student named Yakovleff, who on his liberation from eight months' solitary imprisonment for circulating propagandist literature hanged himself, his mind being unhinged, was the occasion of a striking revolutionary demonstration. Disregarding police warnings, crowds of students followed the funeral cortege, singing revolutionary songs and scattering pamphlets. The coffin was covered with wreaths from Socialists, revolutionaries and workmen.

Disturbances in the Caucasus continue. A gendarme was killed at Poti, ten people have been wounded at Gori, while at Suchum the police are powerless to keep order. In the Shorapan district the peasants refuse to pay taxes or rent and have elected a secret committee to manage local affairs.

Baron von Nolken, the chief of police of Warsaw, who was wounded by the explosion of a bomb on Sunday, is improving. He received 120 separate wounds, cuts and scratches.

Wreck on Niagara Bridge.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., March 29.—A Michigan Central and a Pere Marquette train came together in a head-on collision on the American end of the cantalever bridge. Three cars were derailed and pitched over into the street below, a distance of thirty feet, carrying with them a switchman's shanty, in which was seated Patrick Whalen, a switch tender, who was badly cut and bruised and received severe internal injuries.

Mormon Mission at Carthage.

CARTHAGE, Ill., March 29. — Because of historical associations the members of the Mormon church here have purchased for $4,000 the old jail property, where the first prophet and the founder of the faith met a tragic death at the hands of a mob. The old structure was not worth over $1,500. It is proposed to establish a mission church in the building.

Powder Mills Blown Up.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 29.—Four men are reported to have been killed in a frightful explosion of three powder mills owned by the Dupont Powder company at Schaghticoke, Rensselaer county, near Troy. The bodies of the men were blown 300 feet from the wreck.

Made and Lost a Million In a Day.

ST. LOUIS, March 29.—Thomas J. Cleage, Jr., a prominent commission man, who has several times cornered the wheat market and is reputed to have made and lost a million dollars in one day, has been declared a bankrupt by Referee in Bankruptcy Walter D. Coles.

Big Fire at Indianola, Miss.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 29.—A special from Indianola, Miss., says that the town was threatened with destruction by a fire which destroyed the Sunflower inn and other buildings.

ROCKEFELLER GIFT.

Decision by American Mission Board Today.

BARTON DECLINED ALL DISCUSSION

Gladden's Protest Scores Standard Oil Methods, Using Words "Injustice, Oppression and Iniquitous Control of Railroads."

BOSTON, March 29.—Rev. Dr. James L. Barton, secretary of the American board, when he came out of the committee room last night stated that the committee had unanimously voted not to announce its action with reference to the Rockefeller gift until today, when a formal statement will be issued. He declined to discuss in any way the attitude of the committee.

President Washington Gladden's protest to the American board against the acceptance of the gift of $100,000 from John D. Rockefeller is as follows:

"I must ask the privilege of expressing as explicitly as I can my surprise and regret that the officers of the American board have accepted a large sum of money from Mr. John D. Rockefeller. I object to this because the money thus bestowed does not rightfully belong to the man who gives it. It has been flagitiously acquired, and all the world knows it.

"It may be difficult in many cases to judge of the methods by which wealth has been gained. The operations are complex, and we may be in doubt respecting their honesty. It is no doubt impracticable to undertake the investigation of the sources of all the gifts that are offered to us. But when the investigation has been thoroughly made and the case is clear we are bound to guide our conduct by the facts made known.

"In this case the investigation has been thoroughly made and the facts are known. The legislative inquiries, the records of the courts, have given the reading people of this country the materials for a judgment upon the methods of Standard Oil, and there never was a day when their minds were as clear on this subject as they are now. They know that this great power has been built up by injustice and oppression; they know that its immense gains have been made by forcibly despoiling citizens of their honest gains and shutting the doors of opportunity upon them.

"It has been forcibly done, I say. It has been done very largely through illicit and iniquitous control of railways."

Ross, whose body was found in the ruins of her burned home here on the morning of Feb. 23. Mrs. Ross' coachman disappeared on the night of the fire, and his description answers closely to that of the man arrested.

Carnegie Will Help Small Colleges.

NEW YORK, March 29.—In pursuance of his plan to aid the small colleges Andrew Carnegie sent word to Postmaster Willcox, an alumus of the University of Rochester, that he would give $100,000 to that institution for a building to be used for scientific purposes. The gift is made on condition that friends of Rochester raise another $100,000 to endow the building.

Coal Breaker Destroyed by Fire.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., March 29.—No. 9 breaker at Sugar Notch, near here, was destroyed by fire last night. It was owned and operated by the Lehigh and Wilkesbarre Coal company. Kennedy Is a Total Loss.

HONOLULU, March 29.—The United States gunboat Petrel, returning from Midway island via Laysan, brought the crew of the schooner C. Kennedy, which left here with supplies for the cable station on Midway, but was wrecked on the island of Laysan. The crew and some of the cargo of the Kennedy were saved, but the vessel is a total loss.

Murdered by Paul Kruger.

SUNDAY-SCHOOL UNION

Union County Organization in Session at First M. E.

TWO SPEAKERS

Rev. Mr. Fergusson and Rev. Mr. Forbush Talk Interestingly—Rev. Dr. Snodgrass Presides.

Encouraging words and helpful suggestions were made at the meeting held in the First M. E. church, last night, under the auspices of the Union County Sunday-school Association, and which was largely attended by workers from all parts of the county, especially Plainfield. As president of the association, Rev. Dr. W. O. Snodgrass presided and stated that similar meetings were being held throughout the State to enthuse members of all the Sunday-schools in the work.

After the opening exercises, including a prayer by Rev. A. E. Finn, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, and the Scripture reading by Rev. C. E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church, Rev. E. Morris Fergusson, New Jersey State Secretary of the Sunday-school Association, was introduced as the first speaker. He is an earnest practical worker and his remarks were full of interest and to the point.

He said that in building up the efficiency of a corps of Sunday-school workers the machinery employed is a means to a desirable end. He spoke of the qualification of the teacher, methods which have been merged into the era of growth and personal contact. He said that there were five steps essential in the growth of the teacher to efficiency, namely, instruction, as a base line, with full knowledge of the Bible and knowledge of the pupil; dedication, the giving of ones self entirely to the work; specialization, the knack of finding the exact department the teacher is best suited for; leadership, and fellowship, which means that the teacher is not to live for himself or herself alone, but to work to impart such knowledge as they may have to the pupil.

Mr. Fergusson spoke of Plainfield's excellent Sunday-schools, with their fine equipment and he urged that all get closer together and build up the machinery of inter-communication.

George E. Hall, of Belvidere avenue, who is identified with the State Sunday-school work, then presented a plan whereby the subscriptions to this work might be increased. He stated that the annual expenses amount to $4,500 and now that the head office has been moved from Trenton to Newark, it would be necessary to raise an additional $1,000 annually. Cards were distributed and many present decided to contribute a stated sum per month.

The last speaker was Rev. Dr. William Byron Forbush, of New York, who spoke briefly on the subject, "New Methods of Teaching for Men and Boys." He caused a smile at the outset by saying that there are two things for which New Jersey is noted—Sunday-school teachers and mosquitoes. He said he found that out at Asbury Park last summer. Referring to his subject he said that the restlessness of boys, their keenness for ideals, made it necessary to employ new methods in teaching them. More physical and mental activity is desired. He then described the activity in the kindergarten and contrasted it with the more subdued methods in the advanced grades. He suggested that the lessons be taught in an allegorical and symbolical manner, using plenty of illustrations and photographs to impress upon the minds of the pupils the important points in relating Bible history. He also suggested a number of helps for teachers which would assist them in working out novel methods to hold the attention of their classes. Following this address the meeting closed with the singing of the doxology and the benediction by Rev. C. L. Goodrich.

is a fairly large amount of money. How to get it is a question, and how to take care of it after you do get it is another. The way to get it is to save, and deposit a certain sum each month. By allowing the interest to compound semi-annually, the principle is surprisingly increased. We take care of the large and small deposits and pay 3½ per cent. interest.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

Ziba Osmun found a pocketbook in the gutter in front of Alberts' store yesterday morning, containing $10 75. It was supposed that the pocketbook had been lying their a long time, as no one claimed it and as the owner has not yet been found. No such loss was advertised about the borough during the winter, and it is supposed that the money was lost by some one in changing cars at the local terminal. In all probability the loss was not discovered until the owner was out of the borough. While the gutter was being cleared out yesterday, over $2 in change was found by various residents of the borough.

Plans for macadamizing Center street, the dividing line between Dunellen and New Market, are well under way, and it is expected that the work will commence immediately at the expense of the county. County Surveyor Dougherty made a survey of the road between the borough and Plainfield, which is one and one-eighth miles in extent. It is expected that other roads about the borough will shortly be macadamized and in this way the borough will be greatly improved this spring.

The subject of repairs to the borough building was considered at a special meeting of the councilmanic committee held recently. Not only will the building be repaired, but it will be moved back ten feet to the limit of the western boundary. The interior will be somewhat remodeled, and various much needed alterations will be made. The committee in charge of the building improvement consists of Councilmen Randolph, Vail and Snyder.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Fanwood Council, R. A., held a well attended meeting last night. The regency of Samuel Hollingsworth promises to be a most successful one as Fanwood generally has an initiation or several applications received at each meeting.

The Carteret Gun Club building on South avenue now bears the sign of The Manhattan Club. A license was asked for the sale of liquor at this place during the past winter, but for some reason it was withdrawn.

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy J. Ellis and family, who have been spending the winter in New York, have returned to their Forest avenue home in the borough.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The letter social to be held in the lecture room of the Baptist church tonight, will have this particular feature. Each attendant is asked to give as many pennies as he has letters in his name. Ice cream will be for sale. Games and other entertainment will be provided.

The warm weather of the past two days has dried up the mud and improved the roads.

John Wilson, of Plainfield avenue, had peas planted in his garden yesterday.

School Signal.

Commencing on Saturday the school session signals will go into force, arrangement having been made to that end with the fire department to use its alarm whistle for the purpose. This is intended to notify children on stormy days that there will be no sessions. When the whistle blows at 7:30 in the morning, it means that there will be no session of the primary grade, and when it blows at 8:15 there will be no session at the High School. A signal at 1 o'clock means that there will be no session that afternoon.

The signal agreed upon is five sharp blows, with an interval of five seconds between each. In accordance with instructions from Chief Deane the company or acting officers of the fire department will hitch horses and be ready until the signal is completed unless otherwise ordered.

DOMINGO OUTBREAK

General Barba and Exiles Land at Monte Cristi.

ROOSEVELT SUPPORTS MORALES.

Government Accepts Proposal of Republic as Conveyed by Dawson's Cablegram Pending Senate's Action on Treaty.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Advices received from Monte Cristi via Cape Haitien, Haiti, on the northern coast of the republic of Santo Domingo, announce that General Barba and a number of Dominican exiles have landed at Monte Cristi and that the inhabitants have risen against President Morales.

"Down with Morales!" is the cry.

The president is blamed for causing the present difficulties with foreign countries.

It is added that the district of Monte Cristi is ready to begin a revolution in favor of President Jiminez and is only waiting the signal to take up arms.

Announcement was made at the state department that a decision has been reached regarding Santo Domingo finances by the terms of which commissioners who are to be responsible American citizens designated by this government will collect the customs of the southern ports of the republic, deposit 55 per cent of them in a New York bank, to be held for the different foreign creditors, and turn 45 per cent over to the Santo Domingo government itself.

Assistant Secretary Adee has made a statement of the proposed plan following a conference between the president and Secretary Taft at the White House.

The attitude of the United States government is shown in the following instructions given to Acting Secretary Adee by President Roosevelt:

"I have carefully considered the following cablegram from Minister Dawson:

"'Under pressure foreign creditors and domestic peril Dominican government offers nominate a citizen of the United States receiver southern ports pending ratification protocol, four northern ports to be administered under the award. Forty-five per cent total shall go Dominican government, 55 to be deposited New York for distribution after ratification. Creditors to agree take no further steps in the meantime and receiver to have full authority to suspend importers' preferential contracts. Italian, Spanish-German and American creditors except the Santo Domingo Improvement company accept unconditionally. Belgian, French representatives will recommend acceptance. Some modus vivendi absolutely necessary. I am ready if desired start Washington 28th to explain details and modifications to plan obtainable. Whole matter can be held open during my absence.'

"I direct that the minister express acquiescence in the proposal of the government of Santo Domingo for the collection and conservation of its revenues pending the action of the United States senate upon the treaty, to the end that in the meantime no change shall take place in the situation which would render useless its consummation or bring complications into its enforcement. The secretary of war of the United States will present for nomination by the president of the Dominican republic men to act in the positions referred to in both the northern and southern ports. The utmost care will of course be taken to choose men of capacity and absolute integrity who if possible shall have some knowledge of Spanish. All the moneys collected from both the northern and southern ports not turned over to the Dominican government will be deposited in some New York bank to be designated by the secretary of war and will there be kept until the senate has acted. If the action is adverse the money will then be turned over to the Dominican government If it is favorable it will be distributed among the creditors in proportion to their just claims under the treaty. Meanwhile Mr. Hollender will thoroughly investigate these claims, including the claim of the American Improvement company, and will report in detail all the information he is able to gather as to the amount actually received by Santo Domingo, the amount of indebtedness nominally incurred, the circumstances so far as they are known under which the various debts were incurred, and so forth.

"This action is rendered necessary by the peculiar circumstances of the case. The treaty now before the senate was concluded with Santo Domingo at Santo Domingo's earnest request repeatedly pressed upon us and was submitted to the senate because, in my judgment, it was our duty to our less fortunate neighbor to respond to her call for aid inasmuch as we were the only power who could give this aid and inasmuch as her need for it was very great. The treaty is now before the senate and has been favorably reported by the committee on foreign relations. It is pending, and final action will undoubtedly be taken when congress convenes next fall. Meanwhile Santo Domingo has requested that the action above outlined be taken—that is, she desires in this way to maintain the status quo, so that if the treaty is ratified it can be executed.

"With this purpose in view I direct that the proposed arrangement be approved. It will terminate as soon as the senate has acted one way or the other."

Intimations of a projected movement against President Morales of Santo Domingo fomented by exiles from that country have reached the state department. The affair, however, is not giving the officials here any uneasiness, as they now feel free in view of President Roosevelt's acceptance of the Dominican government's proposition to control the finances of that country to assist and, it is stated, will assist President Morales if requested by the latter in putting down any movement which is a menace to its best interests.

The district of Monte Cristi is known to be the hotbed of the revolutionists in Santo Domingo, and it was believed Barba and his associates would head for that section. The navy department has several vessels in Dominican waters and under directions from the state department if requested to do so by President Morales will lend its co-operation in preserving the peace of the country, so that its finances may be restored to a settled condition.

WHO PAID FOR THE HYDE BALL?

Petition Asks Removal of Some Equitable Life Directors.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 29.—Senator Edgar T. Brackett of Saratoga filed with Attorney General Mayer a petition asking leave to begin an action in the name of the people for the removal from office of James H. Hyde and Jacob Schiff of New York and such other directors of the Equitable Life Assurance society as may be proven guilty of misconduct toward the interests of the policy holders of the Equitable. The petition is brought in the names of Senator Brackett himself, Mary S. Young and others from Saratoga as policy holders.

The petition alleges, on information and belief, against Mr. Hyde that the ball recently given by him in New York was really at the expense of the Equitable society rather than of Mr. Hyde himself and against Mr. Schiff that he sold bonds to the society while himself a director.

It has been held by the courts that in such case policy holders may not bring action in person, but must proceed through the attorney general, as in the present case.

Attorney General Mayer last night declined to discuss the matter.

PRISONERS ON A BIG ROCK.

Metropolitan Holiness Church Members Quarantined.

CHICAGO, March 29.—Duke M. Farson, a Chicago banker and religious enthusiast, and forty members of his Metropolitan Holiness church are prisoners on a big rock in the middle of the Illinois river valley, with no means of communication with the rest of the world except by telephone.

The usual residence of Farson and his followers is Holiness home, Franklin boulevard, this city. In the home at present are ten suspected smallpox cases, closely watched and guarded by the police. The church does not believe in medical aid, and when the authorities of Ottawa, Ill., were notified that Farson and forty of his adherents were on the way to Buffalo Rock farm, near Ottawa, prompt action was taken to head off the band. The pilgrims avoided a conflict with the Ottawa authorities by stopping the train a mile from town and walking across the country. Two of the disciples were sick and went in wagons.

A strict quarantine has been established about the farm, and the Rock Island road has been notified to stop no trains either to discharge or receive passengers.

Boiler Explosion at Car Shops.

CHICAGO, March 29.—One man was perhaps fatally scalded and seven others were painfully burned here by the explosion of a boiler at the car shops of the Illinois Central Railroad company at Burnside, a suburb. Judge E. F. Dunne, Democratic candidate for mayor of Chicago, had finished an address to the workmen and had left the building only a little while before the explosion occurred.

Kaiser Doing Lisbon.

LISBON, March 29.—Emperor William and King Charles witnessed exercises by a cavalry regiment, a detachment of artillery and a company of sharpshooters. The emperor was subsequently conducted over the Belem monastery. After luncheon at the Necessidades palace the emperor, King Charles and Queen Amelia visited the public buildings of Lisbon.

Child Carried Away by Torrent.

AMSTERDAM, N. Y., March 29.—Carrie Frazier, the ten-year-old daughter of Edward Frazier, fell into Bunn creek last night and was carried with the spring torrent out into the Chuctanunda and presumably on to the Mohawk river. Hundreds of persons lined the banks and watched in vain for the appearance of her body.

Fort Sumter Flags Sent to Taft.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—The United States colors which floated over Fort Sumter at the time of its surrender in April, 1861, and which afterward were raised over that fort at the time of its recapture by Union forces in April, 1864, have been sent to Secretary of War Taft by the members of the Anderson family.

Storey Agent Took Chloroform.

NEW LONDON, Conn., March 29.—Frank Smith, who was local representative of the Storey Cotton company for several months, took chloroform with, it is believed, suicidal intent. His recovery is probable.

No Plain Clothes Men Wanted.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 29.—Assemblyman McManus introduced a bill forbidding the police commissioner of New York city to detail policemen in plain clothes to watch patrolmen on duty.

Judge's Widow Dead at Paris.

PARIS, March 29.—Sallie Currie Barrett, widow of Judge Oliver Dana Barrett of Washington, died at her residence in the Rue Pomps last evening. Her remains will be sent to America.

BLEW UP THE MAINE.

Dynamiter Rousseau Says One of His Bombs Was Used.

NEW YORK, March 29.—Gessler Rousseau, the dynamiter, sitting in his cell in the Tombs prison awaiting sentence for having sent a box of dynamite to the Cunard steamship Umbria's pier just before she sailed, on May 11, 1903, made the startling confession that it was in all probability one of his own infernal machines that destroyed the United States battleship Maine in Havana harbor in the spring of 1898 and set the nation in a blaze of indignation which resulted in the war with Spain.

"It is a thing that I have never dared to tell before," he said. "I have thought of it with horror at night hundreds of times when sleep would not come to me.

"Yet it resulted in the freeing of a nation from the cruel yoke of Spanish tyranny. Had it not been for the loss of so many lives of American sailors I would not have regretted the destruction of the Maine.

"While in the south a short time before the Maine was blown up I rented a room at New Orleans and put infernal machines together, after which I went on to Jacksonville. There I became acquainted with a party of Cuban leaders who were planning a filibustering expedition. They had engaged the Destroyer, a small vessel, to take them to Cuba along with a number of Americans and European adventurers who were anxious to strike a blow for the freedom of Cuba.

"I suggested to them that they use my machines to destroy Spanish warships in the harbor of Havana and in other ports on the coast of the island. They readily seized upon the idea, and when the Destroyer sailed with the filibusters they took my two machines with them.

"The man who had been intrusted with the task of destroying a Spanish vessel attempted to fasten a box during the night to one of Alfonso's warships and blundered into blowing up the Maine."

DOUBLE SUICIDE AT HOTEL.

Henry L. Woodward and C. A. Brouse Shot Themselves In Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, O., March 29.—Henry L. Woodward, an attorney of New York city, and Charles A. Brouse, a traveling salesman for the National Supply company of Toledo, O., committed suicide in their rooms at the Hollenden hotel some time during the night.

The coroner's verdict in each case gives despondency over domestic and business troubles as the cause of the suicides. Both men had used a pistol and had sent a bullet into their heads in almost the same spot, death in each case being instantaneous. Coroner Siegelstein said that a number of letters had been found in Woodward's possession from his wife which showed that Woodward had evidently been suffering from despondency.

The body of Brouse was found an hour after the discovery of the body of Woodward. So far as is known there was no agreement between the two men to end their lives, although it is said that they had been seen together in the lobby of the hotel. Brouse's home was at Wadsworth, O.

New Shades In Linen—Sleeves Will Be Tight Fitting.

In summer materials the many shades of brown worn so successfully during the winter appear with a new beauty. Yellow, buff and tangerine are also favorite shades in linen.

The new sleeves will fit more closely at the elbow than those of the winter. They will, however, be broad and full at the shoulder, but held down with plaits or shirrings at the elbow. This notion is not as graceful or becoming as the flowing drapery at the elbow. Still, it's the mode, and women will gladly submit to the change.

Taffetas will take the place of foulards in the smart woman's summer wardrobe. Pin stripes are a popular pattern on these new soft taffetas, but dots and figures over a checked background and shaded effects will still hold good.

A shirt waist of turquoise blue taffeta made with a round deep yoke is very pretty when the yoke is slit at intervals and run with three inch ribbon of a soft make. The threaded ribbon ties in a square rosette at one side of the yoke.

It is to be a light season, the fashion votaries all say. White will be plentifully besprinkled with light colors. Some of the strong shaded will not be neglected, notably the wonderful new red Paris is going wild over.

The dainty girl's evening frock illustrated is of pink organdie. The full skirt has waved bands of crochet lace. The bodice and sleeves are trimmed in similar fashion.

FACTS AND FANCIES.

How the New Shirt Waists Will Disport Themselves.

The new shirt waist is known by the cut of its cuff and the turn of its collar, and, unlike its prototype of several seasons, it fits to perfection.

The main features of the new shirt waist are short shoulder seams, the lack of droop below the elbow and the deep cuff when a cuff is used at all.

The more elaborate waists fasten in the back with tiny pearl or linen buttons caught with loops. The former style of tucking or plaiting the shirt from shoulder to waist has been revived, and, although there is no return to arm seams in the advanced models, the underarm seam is shaped to fit the figure.

The sleeve is full, but with a trig and trim fullness. The shoulder seam slants a little toward the back instead of being straight.

Hand work is reserved this summer for the lingerie shirt waist of sheer handkerchief linen, which does not admit of many trips to the laundry. On the heavier waists squares of finely embroidered linen is formed into deep yokes, collars and cuffs, which are detachable.

The pretty waist pictured is of oriental lace mounted over a white china silk slip. An odd little touch is given the bodice at the waist line by rows of shirring beginning on each side of the slightly bloused front. A fan of plaited lace falls over the short puffed sleeves, and the square neck is outlined with folds of violet ribbon caught at the corners with a jabot of lace fastened with cabochon buttons made of silk. These silk cabochons fasten the crossed ribbon girdle and bands about the sleeves.

KATE BONNET

THE ROMANCE OF A PIRATE'S DAUGHTER

By FRANK R. STOCKTON

Copyright, 1902, by D. Appleton & Co., New York.

CHAPTER XI.

FACE TO FACE.

WITH her head to the wind the pirate vessel Revenge bore down slowly upon the King and Queen, now lying to and awaiting her. The stiff breeze was growing stiffer and the sea was rising. The experienced eye of Paul Bittern, the sailing-master of the pirate, now told him that it would be dangerous to approach the brig near enough to make fast to her.

"We cannot do it," shouted Black Paul to Bennet, "we shall run too near her as it is. Shall we let fly at short range and riddle her hull?"

Capt. Bonnet did not immediately answer; the situation puzzled him. But before he could speak, there appeared on the rail of the King and Queen, holding fast to a shroud, the

IN A MOMENT A TALL FELLOW SEIZED A COIL OF LIGHT ROPE AND HURLED IT THROUGH THE AIR.

"Throw me a line! Throw me a line!"

Such an extraordinary request at such a time naturally amazed the pirates, and they stood staring, as they crowded along the side of their vessel.

"If you are not going to board her," shouted Dickory again, "throw me a line!"

Filled with curiosity to know what this strange proceeding meant, Black Paul ordered that a line be thrown, and, in a moment, a tall fellow seized a coil of light rope and hurled it through the air in the direction of the brig; but the rope fell short, and the outer end of it disappeared beneath the water. Now the spirit of Black Paul was up. If the fellow on the brig wanted a line he wanted to come aboard, and if he wanted to come aboard, he should do so. So he seized a heavier coil and, swinging it around his head, sent it, with tremendous force, towards Dickory, who made a wild grab at it and caught it.

Although a comparatively light line, it was a long one, and the slack of it was now in the water, so that Dickory had to pull hard upon it before he could grasp enough of it to pass around his body. He had scarcely done this, and had made a knot in it, before a lurch of the brig brought a strain on the rope, and he was incontinently jerked overboard.

Great was the excitement on board the Revenge. Why should a man from a merchantman endeavor, alone, to board a vessel which flew the Jolly Roger? Did he wish to join the crew? Had they been ill-treating him on board the brig? Was he a criminal endeavoring to escape from the officers of the law? It was impossible to answer any one of these questions, and so the swarthy rascals pulled so hard and so steadily upon the line that the knot in it, when Dickory had not tied properly, became a slipknot, and the poor fellow's breath was nearly squeezed out of him as he was hauled over the rough water. When he reached the vessel's side there was something said about lowering a ladder, but the men who were hauling on the line were in a hurry to satisfy their curiosity, so up came Dickory straight from the water to the rail, and that proceeding so increased the squeezing that the poor fellow fell upon the deck scarcely able to gasp. When the rope was loosened the half-drowned and almost breathless Dickory raised himself and gave two or three deep breaths, but he could not speak, despite the fact that a dozen rough voices were asking him who he was and what he wanted.

With the water pouring from him in streams, and his breath coming from him in puffs, he looked about him with great earnestness.

Suddenly a man rushed through the crowd of pirates and stooped to look at the person who had so strangely come aboard. Then he gave a shout. "It is Dickory Charter," he cried. "Dickory Charter, the son o' old Dame Charter! Ye Dickory! an' how in the name o' all that's blessed did ye come here? Master Bonnet! Master Bonnet!" he shouted to the captain, who now stood by, "it is young Dickory Charter, of Bridgetown. He was on board this vessel before we sailed, wi' Mistress Kate an' me. The last time I saw her he was wi' her."

"What!" exclaimed Bonnet, "with my daughter?"

"Ay, ay!" said Greenway, "it must have been a little before she went on shore."

"Young man!" cried Bonnet, stooping towards Dickory, "when did you last see my daughter? Do you know anything of her?"

The young man opened his mouth, but he could not yet do much in the way of speaking, but he managed to gasp, "I come from her, I am bringing you a message."

"A message from Kate!" shouted Bonnet, now in a state of wild excitement. "Here you, Greenway, lift up the other arm, and we will take him to my cabin. Quick man! Quick, man! he must have some spirits and dry clothes. Make haste now! A message from my daughter!"

"If that's so," said Greenway, as he and Bonnet hurried the young man aft, "ye'd better no' be in too great haste to get his message out o' him or ye'll kill him wi' pure recklessness."

Bonnet took the advice, and before many minutes Dickory was in dry clothes and feeling the inspiriting influence of a glass of good old rum. Now came Black Paul, wanting to know if he should sink the brig and be done with her, for they couldn't lie by in such weather.

"Don't you fire on that ship!" yelled Bonnet, "don't you dare it! For all I know, my daughter may be on board of her."

At this Dickory shook his head. "No," said he, "she is not on board."

"Then let her go," cried Bonnet, "I have no time to fool with the beggarly hulk. Let her go! I have other business here. And now, sir," addressing Dickory, "what of my daughter? You have got your breath now, tell me quickly! What is your message from her? When did you sail from Bridgetown? Did she expect me to overhaul that brig? How in the name of all the devils could she expect that?"

"I didn't sail from Bridgetown," said Dickory, "and your daughter is not there. I come from Jamaica, where she now is, and was bound to Bridgetown to seek news of you, hoping that you had returned there."

"Which, if he had," said Ben, who found it very difficult to keep quiet, "ye would hae been under the necessity o' givin' your message to his bones hangin' in chains."

Bonnet looked savagely at Ben, but he had no time even to curse.

"Jamaica!" he cried, "how did she get there? Tell me quickly, sir—tell me quickly! Do you hear?"

Dickory was not quite recovered and he told his story, not too quickly, and with much attention to details. Even the account of the unusual manner in which he and Kate had disembarked from the private vessel was given without curtailment, nor with any attention to the approving grunts of Ben Greenway. When he came to speak of the letter which Mr. Newcombe had written her, and which had thrown her into such despair on account of its shortcomings, Capt. Bonnet burst into a fury of execration.

"And she never got my letter?" he cried, "and knew not what had happened to me. It is that wife of mine, that cruel wild-cat! I sent the letter to my house, thinking, of course, it would find my daughter there. For where else should she be?"

"As for ye, Dickory," exclaimed Greenway, "ye're a brave boy an' will yet come to be an' honor to yer mither's declining years an' to the memory o' your father. But how did ye ever come to think o' boardin' this nest o' sea-de'ils, an' at such risk to your life?"

WON IN THE STRETCH.

Imperialist Get the Handicap Steeplechase at Bennings.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—The winning of five favorites and the riding of Jockeys Fuller, Shaw and Rodrock were the features of the races at Bennings. The handicap steeplechase and the last race, for three-year-olds, attracted the most interest. Imperialist, in the former, won in the stretch after being led all the way by Jim Slick. Buttons, in the latter, led his field throughout. A holiday crowd was in attendance, and the books did a lively business. Summaries:

First Race.—Arabo, first; Girdle, second; Cantaloupe, third.

Second Race.—Tip Top, first; Consistent, second; Evelyn Griffin, third.

Third Race.—Bohemia, first; Dance Music, second; Mistiss, third.

Fourth Race.—Hagamans, first; Sir Ralph, second; Flat, third.

Fifth Race.—Imperialist, first; Jim Slick, second; Mackey Dwyer, third.

Sixth Race.—Buttons, first; Sais, second; Peter Paul, third.

Dr. Nowlin Won Steeplechase.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 29.—A short course steeplechase was the chief attraction of a fair card that drew another large crowd to Montgomery park. Dr. Nowlin, at 7 to 5, won the jumping race from Cardigan and Class Leader. In the fourth race Rapid Water lowered the track record for one mile, reducing the time from 1:41 to 1:40½. Dishabille won the Tennessee Club purse handily from Miss Inez, the favorite. Four favorites won.

Three Finished Noses Apart.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 29.—Tangible furnished the big surprise at Ascot, winning from a large field with ease. El Verraco was the only favorite to reward backers, the other races going to horses quoted at liberal odds. The free handicap at a mile furnished a splendid race, Ethylene, El Oteros and Elle running on even terms for a quarter of a mile and finishing noses apart.

Douglas Was Knocked Out.

CHELSEA, Mass., March 29.—Tommy Sullivan of Lawrence knocked out Fred Douglas of Savannah, Ga., at the Douglas Athletic association last night in the eighth round of a bout scheduled for fifteen rounds. The knockout blow was so powerful that Douglas remained unconscious for fifteen minutes.

Grenada and Frank Kinney.

NEW ORLEANS, March 29.—Two favorites, Grenada and Frank Kinney, won the first and second races respectively at City park, but after that the favorites came to grief. The sensation was the victory of Willie Newcomb, at 40 to 1, in the fourth race.

Misty's Pride at Oakland.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 29.—Seven high class sprinters met in the handicap at Oakland. Misty's Pride won in a hard drive from Letola.

Arrest In Beef Trust Inquiry Case.

CHICAGO, March 29.—The federal grand jury investigating the alleged beef trust returned an indictment last night against Thomas J. Connors, general superintendent for Armour & Co. The charge is interfering with Witness John E. Shields, who was summoned to appear before the grand jury. Mr. Connors, who is one of J. Ogden Armour's most confidential employees and is the active head of one of the largest packing companies in the world, was arrested last night on a bench warrant by a United States deputy marshal and brought to the grand jury room. After considerable delay the prisoner was released on a $5,000 bond. Following his release, Mr. Connors absolutely refused to discuss the matter.

Ingersoll's Widow Gets $95,000.

BOSTON, March 29.—Judgment for Mrs. Elva Ingersoll, widow of Robert G. Ingersoll of New York, in the sum of $95,000, with interest, against the trustees of the estate of the late Andrew J. Davis, a wealthy mine owner of Butte, Mont., was ordered by Judge Putnam of the United States circuit court. Suit was instituted by Mrs. Ingersoll to recover fees for services which she claimed were given by her husband to the estate.

Meyer's Farewell to Italy.

ROME, March 29.—Dowager Queen Margherita has received American Ambassador Meyer in farewell audience. Mr. Meyer, who has obtained permission to dispense with the presentation of his letters of recall, which will be handed to the king by his successor, will be received in audience by King Victor Emmanuel tomorrow, and at night the king will give a farewell dinner in his honor.

How Saline Salt Is Made.

LANSING, Mich., March 29.—The state senate has directed its committee on saline interests to investigate charges that salt is being shipped in bulk from Manistee and other western Michigan ports to Chicago, where it is barreled and labeled Saginaw salt. The product of the Saginaw district is said to be of a higher grade than that of the other districts.

Sudden Death of W. M. Byrne.

BALTIMORE, March 29.—William M. Byrne, the Republican member of the board of election supervisors and a well known newspaper man and politician of this city, was stricken with apoplexy on the streets here and died in a few minutes after being taken to a hospital.

Child Poisoned by Tablets.

SANDY HILL, N. Y., March 29.—The four-year-old daughter of George Kilburn of Fort Ann ate some medicated tablets left by a physician for an older member of the family and died before medical aid could be rendered.

DR. SCHENCK HONORED

Congregation Pays Tribute to His Long, Valuable Service.

HANDSOME PRESENTS

Reception in Honor of the Pastor and His Wife—Felicitations of Speakers.

As a fitting climax to the exercises which they have been holding in celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of their congregation, the members of Trinity Reformed church congregation tendered a reception to the pastor, Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck and his wife, last night. The affair took place in the lecture rooms, which were filled to overflowing, and occasioned a programme that was particularly appropriate. The anniversary idea was maintained, yet at the close everything gave way to the guests of honor when they were made the recipients of a beautiful present, mute testimony of the esteem in which they both are held by the congregation.

The auditorium was prettily decorated especially for the reception, white crepe paper, palms, plants and cut flowers being used in a tasteful way. The raised section of the Sunday-school room, used by the primary department, was made attractive through dining tables graced by silver candelabra forming a background.

Robert Clark, Jr., presided as master of ceremonies and added a touch of humor to the programme by his ability to be "reminded" of a story before and after every number. He opened it with an invocation after which the full church choir rendered "Auld Lang Syne." The first address was made by Rev. Dr. Erskine M. Redman, rector-emeritus of Grace church, who was introduced as "The dean of the Plainfield clergy." In his usual happy vein he replied to Mr. Clark's introduction and in behalf of all the members of the Ministers' Association he extended congratulations to the gathering and expressed the wish that the next twenty-five years in the history of Trinity church be as successful as those just completed.

In order to maintain the anniversary programme, Mr. Clark announced that he would call for brief reviews from the nine organizations engaged in the church work, Elder George L. VanEmburgh being first asked to speak for the consistory. He told of the work that this body has to supervise and gave an idea of its combined extent since the church was organized. Mr. VanEmburgh has been an elder for thirty-five years and he said in all that time, the great secret of Trinity's success was the perfect harmony that characterized the aims and objects of its organizations. He attributed much of all that has been accomplished to the indefatigable work of Pastor Schenck and in conlusion he appealed to every member of the church to continue to support him in all his undertakings.

A very comprehensive report of the work in the Sunday-school department was given by Superintendent F. E. Smith, beginning with the cradle roll and continuing up to the Bible class, after which the other organizations were reported for as follows: Ladies' Christian Work Society, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Parse; Senior Christian Endeavor Society, Harry Crawford; King's Daughters, Mrs. Chas. Leggett; Junior Endeavor Society, Mrs. J. M. Tier; Young Women's Mission Band, Miss Lillian A. Force; Marconnier chapel, which has been a "protege" of Trinity for the past five years, Mrs. J. W. Schenck, the local superintendent; Men's Association, F. P. Storr.

Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church, was next introduced and in behalf of the active churches of the city, congratulated Trinity's congregation on its great work. During his long pastorate in the city, he said, the church had always been uppermost in his mind as one that was composed of an energetic body of men and women, ready and eager to accomplish something in the Lord's service. They evinced a spirit, he said, that might be copied to advantage by other congregations and he warmly commended the various organizations. Referring to Pastor Schenck, Mr. Goodrich said he was "A man of God, one whom we all revere and one to whom Trinity church owes a great deal."

As Mr. Goodrich resumed his seat, Mr. Clark said that he had saved the best number on the programme until the last and then extended an invitation to Dr. and Mrs. Schenck to adjourn with him to a side room. There they beheld on a table a complete Limoges china dinner set of 112 pieces, which Mr. Clark informed them was

TROLLEY CARS TO BE REVERSED AT TERMINALS

SWINGING FENDERS SOIL EMPLOYES CLOTHING AND LEAD TO COMPLAINTS.

Through complaints preferred by passengers that the clothing of conductors is frequently badly soiled, the Public Service Corporation has consummated a plan to do away with the shifting of the trolley pole and fenders at the end of car runs, holding this to be responsible for the shabbiness of uniforms. Hereafter as cars reach the terminals they will be run into a Y switch which will reverse them and keep the same end in front all the time. The cars will all be equipped with front motor boxes and one stationary fender.

The only terminal in this division to be affected will be at Dunellen and the company is now negotiating for a lot at North avenue and Grove street opposite Taylor's Hotel, owned by Willard Apgar. It is plenty large enough for a switch of this kind and will undoubtedly be purchased. When the company acquires title, the Borough Council will be asked to grant the necessary permission to lay tracks to and from it.

CHARGES ASSEMBLY VOTES WERE BOUGHT

TRENTON PAPER DECLARES BRIBES WERE USED TO PASS CANAL BILL.

The Trenton True American published yesterday a story that members of the Assembly had been bribed to vote for the Morris Canal Abandonment bill. The story, as told in the True American, is as follows:

"Following the hot legislative fight of Monday night on the Morris Canal abandonment proposition, during which the Lehigh Valley Public Service Corporation grab bill was jammed through by the Republicans, ugly rumors were afloat in the Capitol corridors all day yesterday that the passage of the measure was accomplished by a purchase of votes.

"Investigation showed that the rumors emanated from a source that may be taken as reliable. According to the report certain votes were secured for the bill by a financial consideration. The Republicans had determined to railroad the measure through, but it was known that certain Republican members were opposed to it and would not vote for it.

"It is claimed that when this situation became known steps were taken to insure the passage of the bill beyond all doubt. It is alleged that the deal was engineered through certain forces in Northern New Jersey. The charges even go so far as to specify the Assemblymen who, it is claimed, were 'fixed' by the deal, so their votes could surely be counted on.

"Accroding to the allegations, $300 was the sum to be paid for each vote, and it is said that if the bill went through this was to be increased to $800 on application to the forces in North Jersey referred to. It is understood that one member considered he was not getting the same share as the others for the 'delivery of the goods,' so raised a howl, and this, it is claimed, was one way the deal became known."

Debate Examinations.

A debate is to be held between Miss Ball's and Miss Cuming's Junior English classes in the Plainfield High School on Monday. Debaters for each class were elected yesterday morning as follows: Affirmative, Emil Jahn, chairman, Arthur Whitney, Martin Stutsman; negative, Gertrude Hunter, chairman, George Stryker and Louise Klein. The committee voted to invite Mr. Travell, principal of the school, as judge of the contest.

CLOUDS OF DUST; NO STREET SPRINKLING

PROPERTY OWNERS MUST GRIN AND BEAR IT FOR A TIME.

Many complaints have been received regarding the very dusty condition of the streets in the business section of the city and a number of merchants have been asking for relief. The matter is up to Councilman Wilson, chairman of the street and sewer committee. The committee decided a week ago to recommend that the contract for street sprinkling be awarded to John E. Keely, but this action has to be ratified by the Common Council at the April meeting on Monday. In the meantime the residents will have to bear the dusty condition, unless Mr. Wilson desires to make arrangements before hand for sprinkling.

According to this year's contract Mr. Keely's pay begins the moment he starts the work of sprinkling.

The Public Service Corporation is not obliged to sprinkle along its trolley tracks until May 15, according to the ordinance, and it is not likely that anything will be done until that time, however much the sprinkling would greatly add to the convenience of patrons of the cars as well as those living along the line of the road.

HUGHES HOME SOLD.

Henry DeMott Purchases Physician's Residence on Somerset Street.

It is said that Dr. Hughes will have the small brick building on the corner of his new property removed. Mr. DeMott has disposed of his livery business to Dr. L. S. KINSMAN'S DEVICE NOT ACCIDENT'S CAUSE

SAFTY APPLIANCE NOT IN USE WHERE SUBWAY ACCIDENT OCCURRED.

Following a collision between an empty express train and a hand car used by a construction gang in an uncompleted section of the subway at 167th street and Broadway, in New York, yesterday morning, a series of explosions occurred and caused a fire which destroyed the unfinished station and burned throughout the greater part of the day.

F. E. Kinsman, of this city, the inventor of the automatic safety system, said to a reporter for The Daily Press in speaking of the accident: "The fact that the collisions that have been reported have all occurred on the local tracks or that part of the road which has not yet been equipped with the automatic train control, is not fully realized by a large number of people; among them many personal friends, whose expressions of disappointment on account of these occurrences have reached me directly or indirectly. It will give them satisfaction to know that only the express tracks in the Interborough tunnel are equipped with my form of automatic train control, and at the same time give would-be travelers a larger sense of security when using the express tracks of the underground road."

WORK STARTED AT OVAL

Getting the Grounds Into Shape for Opening Game.

MANY MORE SEATS

But One Entrance to Grounds—Covered Stands—Season Tickets.

The pleasant weather of the past few days has given the fans mid-summer enthusiasm and they are anxiously waiting for the opening game on Saturday, April 15, with the Jersey City Club. The work of putting the stands and grounds in condition was started yesterday. The grounds are in excellent shape, all thing considered, although some work will be necessary to put the diamond in order.

Many improvements are planned before the opening. It is proposed to connect the two grandstands, making them continuous. A covering will also be built over the uncovered stand. There will be one entrance to the two stands, which, when rearranged, will be in crescent shape. It is also planned to provide suitable quarters for the newspaper representatives.

Dressing rooms for the players will be built beneath the stands. This will be an improvement over former methods of having players dress so far away from the grounds. Toilet rooms for men and women will also be a part of the general plan of improvement.

One faulty condition last year was the lack of bleacher seats, and several extra rows of these seats will be provided on either side of the diamond. These will be made strong and comfortable, and make it possible for nearly everyone to have a seat. Arrangements will also be made for the horses and carriages so that they will not interfere with or block the entrances to the grounds as they did last year.

One very important change will be made in left field, where in rainy weather the water cannot be run off quickly. The plan is to level off the small elevations, allowing suitable drainage from that portion of the field. Manager Daab and Mr. Groo believe that this will remedy the present difficulty.

Within a short time it is expected that Manager Daab will definitely announce the lineup. According to present plans, Linderman and Beisel will be the pitchers, with Lamar as catcher. No changes are expected in the infield. Captain Driscoll will be on first, "Happy" Kiernan on second, "Rube" Oldring at short and "Mike" Leonard at third. This infield should be a stone-wall and as fast as anyone could wish for. Yesterday it was stated that Harry McCormick will positively play in right field. "Mike" Connelly will play one of the field positions, and the third man has not yet been announced. Manager Daab, it is safe to say, will not pay "Pete" Oregan $15 to cover a field position, but he will have a player just as good, if "Pete" fails to come to Mr. Daab's terms.

It is the opinion of many fans that the locals will defeat Jersey City in the opening game. It has been done before and Manager Daab will make every effort to repeat the performance. There has been a demand for season tickets that the management has decided to have some printed. These will be sold for $6 each, which averages thirty cents a game for a grandstand seat for a series of twenty games.

P. H. S. BASEBALL PROSPECTS.

Seventeen Candidates Making Good Showing.

The squad of candidates for the Plainfield High School baseball team has gradually lessened, though there still remain seventeen men trying for the nine. This number will be reduced to about eleven after the first game, which will be on April 5 with Westfield. The team has been out for practice regularly, and the prospects are excellent. Not for a long time have the baseball chances been so bright at the Plainfield High School. There are two players for nearly every position, and all are good men.

Among those who still stand a chance of making the team are Thompson, Craig, Smith, Collier, Doane, Burt, Davis, Palmer, Bogart, Conway, S. Freeman, Banks, Rockwell, Rugen, Russell, Gavett and Brakeley.

CEDARCROFT'S TEAM ARRANGES SCHEDULE

LONG LIST OF GAMES FOR SPRING AND SUMMER SEASONS.

The Cedarcroft Baseball Association has arranged one of the largest schedules for the coming season of which any team in the vicinity can boast. Among the teams are all three of the local schools, Pingry, of Elizabeth and Carteret Academy.

AMUSEMENTS.

The fact that Mrs. Fiske and the Manhattan Company will close their engagement in "Leah Kleschna" at the Manhattan Theatre on April 15—the cessation being made necessary by bookings in other cities—has stimulated an already remarkably large patronage and practically made necessary the engagement ahead of seats for any of the remaining performances of this fascinatingly interesting play by this great dramatic company. There is no doubt whatever that "Leah Kleschna" might run on indefinitely to very large business had not the departure of Mrs. Fiske and the Manhattan Company on the date mentioned been imperative. As it is, those who have not yet seen this phenomenally finished and stirring representation of the play of the year in New York are arranging to enjoy it before it is too late. No one can afford to miss taking advantage of the opportunities that remain for the witnessing of drama of an unusual type and acting such as has not been seen in New York before in generations.

Col. Henry W. Savage's standard production of musical comedy, "The Prince of Pilsen," one of the greatest hits in this field of amusement ever staged in this country, will begin another New York run at the New York Theatre next Monday evening, April 3. This will be the twelfth engagement of this attraction in the metropolis during the past three years, which most strikingly evidences its wonderful merit and popularity, in gaining in prestige each successive season. Since this company was last seen in New York it made the record of five consecutive months at the Shaftsbury Theatre in London, scoring the most marked success of any American musical production ever presented in England. With its widely known merit, its remarkable record and the superb company Col. Savage presents in it, "The Prince of Pilsen" will continue the policy which has proved so popular at the New York—great attractions at prices ranging from 25 cents to $1.

All who use atomizers in treating nasal catarrh will get the best result from Ely's Liquid Cream Balm. Price, including spraying tube, 75 cts. Sold by druggists or mailed by Ely Brothers, 56 Warren street, N. Y.

RACING AT BENNINGS.

Four Favorites Won—Uncle Uriah Took the Handicap.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Another large crowd and the winning of four favorites, Cantaloupe, Monte Carlo, Ninnasquaw and Uncle Uriah, were the features of the card at Bennings. In the second race Sunglow was a heavily backed favorite, but Tickle took the lead at the start and held it all the way, winning by several lengths. Uncle Uriah at prohibitive odds won the handicap over James F. with ease. Summaries:

First Race.—Cantaloupe, first; Raibert, second; Port Arthur, third.

Second Race.—Tickle, first; Moonshine, second; Cologne, third.

Third Race.—Monte Carlo, first; Gold Dome, second; Yorkshire Lad, third.

Fourth Race.—Ninnasquaw, first; Step Away, second; Royal Widow, third.

Fifth Race.—Lord Aintee, first; Miss Modesty, second; Only One, third.

Sixth Race.—Uncle Uriah, first; James F., second. Only two starters.

Yale Defeated In First Home Game.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 30.—Manhattan college of New York easily defeated Yale here in the first home baseball game of the season for the Yale men. Yale's inability to hit the ball cost her the game, only two men reaching third base. In the first inning, with three men on bases, Zimmerman, the visitors' third baseman, knocked out a three bagger. Yale played well in the field, but were powerless before Dolan.

New Yorkers Defeated at Princeton.

PRINCETON, N. J., March 30.—The New York University baseball team was defeated by Princeton here by the score of 12 to 0. Princeton's batting was poor, not a hit being made until the seventh inning. The visitors showed lack of practice and made numerous errors. Only twice did they get a man on third base. Byram pitched a good game for Princeton.

Big Plunge on El Chihuahua.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 30.—The card at Ascot was equally divided between purse and selling races. In the third race El Chihuahua was the medium of a big plunge and won handily in the final eighth. Mart Gentry, the favorite, failed to get any part of the money. La Chata, winner of the first race, was the only successful favorite.

Britt and White Matched.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 30.—Britt and White have been matched to box under Marquis of Queensberry rules and must weigh in at 133 pounds at 2 o'clock on the day of the contest. Britt has gone to Harbin Springs. He will train at Larkspur, in Marin county.

Overlooked Bombardier.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 30.—The bettors at Oakland overlooked Bombardier, who won from wire to wire. The favorite, Dr. Leggo, had to be content with second money. Nigrette was third.

Standard Oil Robber Captured.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 30.—John Zimmerman, an ex-convict, has been arrested at a lodging house in this city on suspicion of having been one of the principals in the $10,000 robbery in Contra Costa county on March 20. He would not say where he last saw Thomas A. Collins, also a former convict, alleged to have been an associate in the daring holdup. The stolen money was being sent by the Central bank to pay off employees of the Standard Oil plant. Two men in charge of the money were held up at a lonely spot while driving in a buggy. They have identified Zimmerman as one of the highwaymen.

Gould to Be Collector.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—The president has decided to recommend the selection of William E. Gould of Baltimore as collector of customs in Santo Domingo. It has not yet been determined whether Professor Gould shall have general charge of the collections at all ports or whether other persons will be appointed. William F. Gould is a New Yorker. He is a graduate of Johns Hopkins and has made a special study of the romance languages. His appointment is entirely apart from the mission upon which Professor J. H. Hollander goes to Santo Domingo.

Prince George Appeals to People.

CANEA, Island of Crete, March 30.—Prince George has issued a proclamation declaring that the powers had ordered foreign troops to participate in the restoration of order and that in view of the serious nature of such intervention he had requested the governments to postpone action for thirty-six hours in order to enable him to notify the people of the decision. The prince appeals to the revolutionists to lay down their arms. The British cruiser Juno has arrived at Suda bay.

Robbed From a Registered Letter.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 30.—Arthur R. Whitner, a young man belonging to a prominent family here, pleaded guilty in the federal court to taking $500 from a registered letter. Whitner was employed in the Jacksonville postoffice as night registry clerk when the larceny was committed last summer. He was given a sentence of one year's imprisonment.

Proclamation to All Nations.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—The president last night issued a proclamation inviting the nations of the earth to be represented by their military organizations and naval vessels at the celebration to be held in the vicinity of Jamestown, Va., from May 13 until November, 1907.

SPORTING NEWS.

DIAMOND DUST.

James Beisel, of Somerset street, has returned from a visit with his parents in Pennsylvania.

Two weeks from Saturday the local season will open with Jersey City as the opponents of the Plainfield team.

The work of putting Crescent Oval in condition for the opening game between Plainfield and Jersey City, was started today.

The present ideal spring weather is making the fans anxious for the season to open. May the weather man continue to let the sun shine.

Louise Wiltse has agreed to the terms of the management of the Baltimore Eastern League Club and will report for duty at the usual time.

"Tuck" Turner has decided to play with the New Bedford, Conn., team this year, but Manager Daab will have just as strong a man in his place.

"Red" Waller has signed to pitch Sunday throughout the season for the Manhattans, of New York. Last Sunday he pitched a 5 to 0 game in Brooklyn.

The first game of importance in this city will be played between the teams of the Plainfield and Westfield High Schools on Crescent Oval, Wednesday afternoon, April 5.

Nat Strong, of the Murray Hills, has arranged with Manager Burnham for the latter to take his team to Ridgewood for a game. The Newark players are now at Atlantic City.

The Elizabeth Stars will open the season on Sunday with the Cuban Giants. The lineup for the locals will be as follows: Pitcher, Luyster; catcher, Ross, of Trenton; first base, Yale; second base, Foster; third base, Flynn; short-stop, Bird; center field, Middleton; left field, Finn; right field, Bothfuss.

The Hobokens will open the season on Sunday with a game with the Cedars, of New York. On April 9 they play the Visitation Lyceum team, April 16 they are booked to play the Olympia Club and on April 23, they will play at Perth Amboy. Linderman will pitch for Perth Amboy. On April 30 the team will play the Ridgewoods. The following Sunday, May 7, the team will open on its own grounds.

Less than a week remains before the first ball will set arolling the baseball season of 1905. On next Wednesday, the P. H. S. nine will meet the Westfield H. S. aggregation on Crescent Oval. In former years this team has formed a small factor in the baseball annals of New Jersey. Report has it this year, that that team is actually a strong one and as the local boys have what they consider the best team P. H. S. has had lately, the contest will be a lively one. Every effort is being made to have the grounds in first class condition to start the first game and Manager Daab set men to work on the diamond yesterday with that object in view.

Police Chiefs' Retirement.

Assemblyman McKee introduced in the lower house, Tuesday, an amendment to the act of 1891, relating to the retirement of police chiefs in cities by including captains, providing compulsory retirement after twenty years service and fixing pension at half pay for such officers after twenty years' service in case of either retirement or dismissal. Such officers shall perform special service if required until they reach the age of sixty years. The act applies to Plainfield.

Boys Will Be Boys.

Principal Travell read a notice, yesterday morning at the Plainfield High School, at chapel exercises, from the contractor of the new high school. The contractor said that the men were bothered while at their work by a number of small boys who come to the building as spectators and who were in constant danger of being hurt by falling waste material. He told Mr. Travell to warn the pupils not to come within the new structure while work was progressing.

New School Rule.

The State department of education will be strict this year regarding the admission of small children to the beginning classes of school. In former years pupils were admitted to these grades at almost any time in the year. Unless children who wish to begin school enroll their names next week, they will have to wait until September to start.

Father Egan in Town.

Rev. Andrew M. Egan, formerly rector of St. Mary's church, but now of Bayonne, was in town yesterday calling on friends. Father Egan was given a large reception by the congregation in his new parish when he took charge recently.

—Harry Dreier has commenced the erection of a one-story brick building on Madison avenue in the rear of his West Front street store, which he will use as a bicycle repair shop.

SUBWAY EXPLOSION

New York Electric Train Hit Dynamite Car.

UNDERGROUND STATION WRECKED.

Coaches and Car of Cartridges Took Fire From Third Rail—Thirteen Explosions Followed—Firemen Unable to Work.

NEW YORK, March 30.—A terrific explosion in the rapid transit subway here, where a fire raged for several hours, followed a collision that wrecked the One Hundred and Sixty-seventh street and Broadway station and tore away the side of the tunnel for 200 feet to the northward.

An exploring party of firemen had got within 400 feet of the fire when the explosion occurred. In the party were Timothy Gaynor of engine company 67 and other firemen and a reporter. All of them were thrown to the ground and covered with ashes and sand. As soon as they regained their feet they beat a hasty retreat.

The explosion which wrecked the station was the thirteenth in two hours.

All were caused by a collision 120 feet underground in the subway extension at One Hundred and Sixty-eighth street and Broadway, which set fire to the shafting in the tunnel, set off a lot of dynamite, which shook the neighboring section of Washington heights and imperiled the lives of scores of workmen.

An empty train which went too far past the terminal switch ran into a flat car used by the construction gangs. A box of dynamite cartridges on this car is supposed to have exploded at the shock. There was so much inflammable material to feed the fire that it was many hours before it was subdued.

When the collision occurred the cars were set ablaze by the third rail, and in a few minutes the tunnel was filled with smoke and flame. The flames speedily spread to the yellow pine stored in the subway at this point and also reached twenty-five barrels of oil, which exploded.

Dynamite stored in the subway also exploded, causing alarm among the residents of Washington heights, who came rushing from their homes, and sending a hundred Italian workmen in the subway on a mad gallop for safety to One Hundred and Eighty-first street.

George Fry, a switchman, was the only person on the wrecked train, and his experience will not be soon forgotten by him. He was obliged to fight his way through the flames and smoke back to One Hundred and Fifty-seventh street. His story of the accident is that when he was letting the train through the shaft from One Hundred and Fifty-seventh street he crashed into a car ahead, in which there was no light. "I was not making much speed," said Fry, "and was astonished when the crash came.

"How the car came to be there I don't know. There was no light in it, and I knew nothing of it until I was fired from my seat. It's a miracle that I escaped; but, without knowing exactly what I was doing, I crawled through the car, which filled instantly with smoke. Then I knew what was coming, and I ran from car to car. I was blinded with smoke. The whole train was on fire. All this time explosions were taking place. A second after I bumped into the car there was an explosion and then another and another. I think there must have been seven or eight in all. I tell you I was glad when I got on the tracks. I ran to One Hundred and Fifty-seventh street as quickly as I could and had the power turned off."

Firemen were sent down from the One Hundred and Eighty-first street entrance to make an examination. Upon reporting later they said that as far as they could see the archway of the tunnel near the place where the explosion occurred had fallen in for a space of nearly 200 feet. The flames were still eating up the timber work in that part of the tunnel.

Fortunately no lives were lost. The explosions shook dwelling houses for several blocks in every direction, and in the immediate neighborhood of One Hundred and Sixty-eighth street the windows were shattered into atoms, which were showered on the sidewalks until they looked as if a fine snow had fallen.

The president's train is scheduled to arrive in St. Louis from the east at 8 o'clock the evening of April 4 and will depart over the Missouri, Kansas and Texas at 8:10.

Fire at Washington, Pa.

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 30.—A fire which threatened Crosscreek, a town of several hundred inhabitants, with destruction was got under control after a hard battle; loss about $7,000. The Hotel Snodgrass and three other buildings were partially destroyed.

An Anti-Christian Science Bill.

LINCOLN, Neb., March 30.—Governor Mickey last night sent to the house a veto of the McMullen bill for the regulation of the practice of medicine in Nebraska. The bill is also known as "the anti-Christian Science bill."

Roosevelt Takes Action For Panama Canal Shakeup.

ALL COMMISSIONERS NOW OUT OF IT

President Contemplates Entire Reorganization on the Isthmian Waterway Now Being Constructed. New Chiefs to Be Named.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—The first practical step having in view the reorganization of the Panama canal commission was taken when, in compliance with instructions from President Roosevelt, Secretary Taft requested the members of the commission to tender their resignations. This request was promptly complied with by those members of the commission now in Washington, and their resignations are in the hands of the president.

The report of Secretary Taft's letter requesting the resignations of the commissioners was sent to Major General George W. Davis, retired, of the army, the governor of the canal zone and also one of the members of the commission. As indicated in the letter of Secretary Taft, the resignations are requested in order that the president may have a free hand in reorganizing the commission.

That the president contemplated the reorganization of the commission has been known for some time, and he has been in frequent consultation with Secretary Taft as to his future policy in choosing its personnel and directing its work. It was believed originally that better results might be accomplished by the appointment of a smaller commission than that now existing, but a recent opinion of Attorney General Moody held that under the law the president was required to name seven members in all. The appointments probably will be announced by the president during the progress of his southern trip.

The members of the present commission in addition to General Davis are Rear Admiral John G. Walker of the navy, retired, chairman; William Barclay Parsons, William H. Burr, Benjamin M. Harrod and C. Ewald Grunsky.

Chief Engineer John F. Wallace left Panama last night for New York. It is reported that his departure means that the management of canal affairs is to be actively pushed.

MYSTERY STILL UNSOLVED.

Young Woman's Body Found In Wallkill Creek Not Miss Davis.

KINGSTON, N. Y., March 30.—The mystery surrounding the identity of the young woman whose body was found in Wallkill creek remains unsolved. The coroner's jury rendered a verdict that death resulted from a blow on the head inflicted with a blunt instrument by some person unknown. Lyman Davis of New Paltz, who had supposed that the dead woman might be his daughter Elizabeth, decided last night that the body in no way resembled that of the missing girl.

Chief of Police Ronk is following up a possible clew, having learned that a young woman closely answering the description of the woman murdered rode on a trolley car on St. Patrick's day from Newburg to Walden, which is about nine miles from the place where the body was found. The body will be buried today, the woman's clothing and her diamond ring being kept by Coroner Hasbrouck in the hope that they may yet afford a clew to her identity.

An Insane Woman's Acts.

LACROSSE, Wis., March 30.—Confessing that she had burned her house and money because she intended to kill herself and did not want to leave anything whereby her relatives could profit at her death, Charlotte Wolf, aged seventy-four, was adjudged insane here and confined to an asylum. A few days ago she was prevented by relatives from hanging herself. She had previously burned valuable papers, including certificates of deposit worth $1,000, and had then set fire to her house after pouring kerosene on the floors.

Hooker Inquiry at Albany.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 30.—That attempts were made to influence Frank P. Ball, the Dunkirk ticket broker, alleged to have been placed in the Fredonia postoffice by the influence of Justice Warren B. Hooker, to disclose certain facts claimed to be in his possession, was the substance of the testimony of Ball before the assembly judiciary committee in the resumption of the investigation into the charges against Justice Hooker. Justice Hooker was present and sat with his counsel.

Witter Was Thrown Overboard.

NEW LONDON, Conn., March 30.—The autopsy on the body of Charles H. Witter, taken from the waters of Winthrop cove on Tuesday, has shown that death resulted from drowning and not from blows upon the head. Witter was probably stunned, and it is supposed his assailants, believing him dead, threw him overboard. The examination of the four prisoners under arrest is being continued by Coroner Brown.

Miss Roosevelt In Charge.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Mrs. Roosevelt, who leaves for the south tomorrow, contemplates returning to Washington in twelve or fifteen days. While she is away Miss Alice Roosevelt will be in charge of the White House.

Killed His Wife at Latonia.

CINCINNATI, O., March 30.—James Russell has killed his wife at their home in Latonia, Ky. Russell's children notified the police, but he has escaped.

Plainfield, N. J., March 30, 1905.

Where is the street sprinkler? We can stand snow banks in winter but just at this season it is unpleasant to have clouds of dust blowing in your face.

Hoboken, the Teutonic town on the Hudson, celebrated its fiftieth birthday, Tuesday. Well, congratulations, but for goodness sake get the vaudeville actors and comic papers to leave you alone for the next fifty, at least.

The Republican papers throughout the State will concede that the picture of the present Legislature would not make a bad addition to a political rogues' gallery. It is a disgraceful combination any way you look at it.

Proof that Governor Stokes is a good servant of the people will be found in the form of a pile of documents on his desk when the Legislature adjourned. They represent measures passed by a rotten Legislature and will never reach the statute books, thanks to the Chief Executive of New Jersey.

The mention of the name of former Mayor Charles J. Fisk in connection with the State senatorship of Union County will find strong support here and throughout the county. He is the most public spirited man in the city and there would be no opposition to his candidacy for the nomination should he be prevailed upon to allow his name to be used in that connection. Moreover, he will in that wise prevent a rupture in the Republican party here for one in bound to occur if he is left out. Mr. Fisk is eminently qualified to fill the place and would make a worthy successor to the able man who now occupies the honorable office.

Happily there is little or no opposition to the proposed scheme of municipal collection and disposal of garbage to be inaugurated in this city. References to the Plainfield plan, which has become generally known through the passage of a bill in the Legislature giving this city the right to maintain a crematory for the disposal of the garbage, has been made by the State press. One of the most encouraging comes from the Trenton Times, which says:

"That is one of the features of city life that can be better and more economically attended to by the municipal authorities than by the householders themselves. It was the late Judge Buchanan who secured the passage of the ordinance by Trenton Common Council that resulted in the establishing of our present efficient system of collection and disposal, and if any one were to suggest a return to the old conditions he would probably be mobbed."

a present from the men of the congregation and the Ladies' Christian Work Society presented them with the beautiful silver candelabra that adorned the centre of the table, and a pair of cut glass flower vases. It was a complete surprise for both and as soon as Dr. Schenck regained his composure, he heartily thanked the donors for the gift and for the support that had always been extended him as pastor. He also spoke in behalf of Mrs. Schenck.

A solo by Miss Florence Bennett concluded the programme and the next half hour was spent in a formal reception to Dr. and Mrs. Schenck. They were assisted in receiving by the members of the consistory and their wives, and by Rev. A. Peter Tuip, of Hasbrouck Heights, and Rev. Seymour Purdy, of Bogota, both former pastors of Marcellus chapel during their attendance at the New Brunswick Seminary. After the members of the congregation exchanged greetings with them they were served with refreshments at tables on the platform by Mrs. S. C. Baker and Mrs. H. E. Paul, this feature terminating the reception as well as the anniversary exercises.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

With a view to organizing a league of amateur baseball teams in the vicinity, the local aggregation has decided to take the initiative in the matter, and a meeting of the teams interested will be held in a few days. The exact time of the meeting has not yet been decided upon, though notices will be sent to the New Market, Clinton Avenue, Y. M. C. A. and Orange Field Clubs teams. The meeting will, in all probability, be held at the borough, and it is necessary that a conference of the representatives of the various teams take place before any definite action can be taken. Fred Vail, of the local team, is anxious to have the meeting as soon as possible, and all members of the team seem favorable to the arrangement. Manager Fred Dayton, of last year's New Market team, stated yesterday that the team would be organized again this season with about the same material as that which constituted the aggregation in 1904. Squires and Nelson will be the battery again this year, and the make-up of the team will be substantially the same.

The borough Board of Education has organized as follows: President, Wilson Frederick; vice president, Mahlon R. Dayton; district clerk, Theodore W. Day. Mr. Frederick takes the place formerly occupied by William J. Hamilton. Only the routine business of the first meeting was transacted at the organization, further business of importance being laid over until the next meeting.

An indication of spring was apparent yesterday, when the work of clearing up the park in front and adjourning the station was commenced. The grass is already green and if the present weather continues, there will be a good looking lawn about the station this year. Wire fences have already been erected to guard against the intrusion of the small boy.

Further arrangements for the entertainment to be given by the Y. P. S. C. E., of the First Presbyterian church, on April 6, were made at a recent committee meeting, and the affair promises to be one of the most enjoyable yet given by the society. Music and readings will be the features.

Phonograph selections by Benjamin Carpenter made the meeting of the Foresters, Monday night, an enjoyable one. There was a good attendance and a social hour was enjoyed. Refreshments were served.

The union prayer meeting of the Seventh-Day and First Baptist church, of New Market, will be held tomorrow night at the Seventh-Day Baptist church.

The Wednesday Afternoon Sewing Club held its regular bi-monthly meeting yesterday afternoon. There was a good attendance.

George Apgar sustained a severe injury to his arm while playing ball yesterday afternoon. He was hit on the elbow.

AGAINST ROCKEFELLER GIFT.

Rev. Dr. Gladden Will Fight Mission Board Decision.

BOSTON, March 30.—The American board of commissioners for foreign missions has announced that its prudential committee had accepted a report of the subcommittee recommending the acceptance of the gift of $100,000 from John D. Rockefeller, but that final action on the matter had been postponed for two weeks.

Rev. Mr. Evans, chairman of the protesting committee, said:

"A meeting of our committee has been called for today to discuss the report and to decide upon the next step."

A Columbus dispatch says that with voice and pen, his only weapons of offense and defense, Rev. Dr. Washington Gladden, moderator of the Congregational church of the United States, will maintain the fight he has begun against the acceptance by the American board of foreign missions of the gift of $100,000 from John D. Rockefeller.

He is not discouraged by the announcement that the gift was solicited by agents of the board nor by the statement of Secretary James L. Barton that part of it has already been accepted.

"If it is true it was solicited," said Dr. Gladden, "it will cause some embarrassment to those who asked for it to return it to the donor, but it will be much better for them to suffer some personal embarrassment than for the whole church to be compromised."

Dr. Gladden says he has taken up the fight without consulting anybody and does not know that he will have any support in it, but he believes that he will.

"The Congregational church," said he, "has a record to be proud of on the slavery question. In every great moral question it has been on the firing line on the side of right and truth. I protest against the acceptance of this man's money in the name of all that is precious in Christianity and all that is glorious in Congregational history.

"We want nothing to do with this man or his money.

"Let his money perish with him. He represents more perfectly than any other man in America the spirit and methods of conscienceless capital. He has been absolutely ruthless in his destruction of rivals and competitors.

"All that is characteristic of Christianity, its justice, its kindness, its mercy, he has trampled under foot at every step of his career.

"He possesses the power of levying tribute upon a nation, and he is using it now as relentlessly as he ever did. The poorer people, the working people, regard him as the incarnation of all that is relentlessly oppressive and cruel in the present capitalistic regime.

"All this is record, not rumor, known by all intelligent men. I note that some ministers are professing ignorance of these operations. They claim to be unable to understand them.

"They have no right to be ignorant of them. They are pleading the baby act by claiming to be unable to understand the working of this system. If they cannot they ought to retire from the Christian ministry.

"This is a day when men are wanted who can understand the ways of the workers of iniquity and are not afraid to speak their minds about them."

Elton Posses Hunting For Negro.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., March 30.—While alone in her home near Elton except for the presence of a little adopted daughter, Mrs. Frank Rose, aged sixty-two years, was assaulted by a negro, who tore her clothing from her body and left her unconscious upon the kitchen floor, where she was found by neighbors summoned by the little girl. The man had appeared and asked for food, which was given him. Then, finding no men about the place, he made the assault. The aged victim's condition is serious. Posses are being organized to scour the country for the negro, and it is not believed he will escape. It is feared if he is caught there will be a lynching.

Hidden Defect Caused Disaster.

BROCKTON, Mass., March 30.—A statement that no evidence had been adduced to show that any person was criminally liable for the explosion in the R. B. Grover company's shoe factory here last week, which caused the death of fifty-eight employees, made by District Attorney Asa P. French, concluded an inquest to determine the cause of the accident and to place responsibility for it. The explosion was due to a hidden defect in the factory boiler.

Fatal End to Card Game.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., March 30.—As an outcome of a quarrel over a card game Thomas Fry instantly killed his brother-in-law, Henon Smith, at Little Ugly, in Lincoln county. During the quarrel Smith had stabbed his father-in-law, Lewis Fry, inflicting serious injuries. Thomas Fry, coming upon the scene with a shotgun, emptied both barrels into Smith, killing him instantly. The slayer has not been arrested.

Louisburg Fire Cost $70,000.

RALEIGH, N. C., March 30.—A fire which broke out in Louisburg destroyed about $70,000 worth of property, including the tobacco warehouses of C. B. Cheatham, the Louisburg tobacco warehouse, the W. T. Hughes warehouse and a number of other buildings. But for a fortunate change in the wind many more buildings would have been burned.

Oldest Editor Dead.

ANAMOSA, Ia., March 30.—Edmond Booth, editor of the Anamosa Eureka, who claimed to be the oldest editor in the United States, is dead. He was born Aug. 24, 1810, in Springfield, Mass.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

April 2: "The Making of a Christian; His Food"—John vi, 47-58; II Tim. iii, 14-17.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, Ph. D.

"As the living Father sent Me, and I live because of the Father, so he that eateth Me, he also shall live because of Me."

Five thousand hungry people had been fed in picnic style, with bread and fish, free of charge to them, when they had stayed all day in the country by the lake side listening to the traveling preacher who was making such a sensation by his novel way of stating things.

Of course they were up early the next morning and out at the same place looking for another day like yesterday. Any man who will do that sort of thing will have that sort of a crowd. Entertaining talk and free feeding will always draw.

But the preacher is not there. He went over to the other side last night while they slept. They will never meet him again where they saw him yesterday. Manna in the wilderness forty years, free for the picking up! That is in their minds, but that is not to His mind. He knows them. They will never know Him. They will see Him on the other side today.

They find Him and ask, "When did you come over?" He goes straight to the heart of the matter. "Ye seek Me because you ate and were filled, not because ye saw signs." The only sign many had seen was that of a life without labor, bread without toil, entertainment without pay. That is the life they desire. They have not seen the sign He made yesterday, so they shall not eat today of the bread He shall break nor obtain the life He will offer.

He broke bread that day and said of it, "He that eateth this bread shall live forever."

But many when they heard Him said, "This is a hard saying, who can hear him?" and many of His disciples went back and walked no more with Him.

It was best so until some life should stir in them other than that which is fed by loaves and fishes. He has no more of these to give. He had but five loaves and two fishes at the best, and these were borrowed of a little boy. The supply is exhausted. That is why through all the years since the seekers for loaves and fishes have found so little to satisfy their hunger in His service.

But the Christian—his food? That is in abundance. His meat was to do the Father's will. The life he had of the Father He gives to His own, and they find their strength in doing the good pleasure of God. It is better than Elijah's bread brought by ravens or the meal in the bottom of the widow's meal barrel. It is better than manna in the desert. It is like the continual shewbread in the temple, ever laid on the table in the presence of Jehovah. It is the ever present and satisfying Spirit of the God of all life replenishing with His fullness and imparting of His power.

This Christ promises to give all those who desire and seek it. He promises to come in and sup with those who will open to Him and to abide with us to the end of this world age.

He has kept and is still keeping His promise. This is not by visible and outward manifestation of physical wonders. If you are looking for that kind and must have that sort of evidence of His divinity I fear you shall never have it until you get other eyes.

The world's hunger is being relieved this day and all the days by His invisible bread of heaven.

We taste Thee, O Thou Living Bread,
And long to feast upon Thee still;
We drink of Thee, the Fountain Head,
And thirst our souls from Thee to fill.

O Jesus, ever with us stay!
Make all our moments calm and bright.
Chase the dark night of sin away;
Shed o'er the world Thy holy light!

Doing God's Will.

I do not ask, nor does any one ask, for this form or that of work in charity. But I do ask, because God demands, unselfish life somewhere in His service. His will be done, not yours, not mine. And when you tell me that communion with God seems vague and that heaven seems distant you only tell me what the Son of God best beloved told you long ago. He told you it was not enough to repeat His sayings, but that you must do as He did. He told you that you would not enter the kingdom unless you enlisted in God's service. That is the whole of the "follow Me." And the man who makes his own comfort and ease his first object in this life pays for that ease and comfort by this heavy sacrifice—that he begins perhaps to doubt with Mr. Mallock whether life is worth living and to doubt with Mr. Spencer whether he may have any hope of a life beyond.—Edward Everett Hale, D. D.

The stoutest difficulties when overcome by divine grace may be transformed into stepping stones leading upward to the attainment of the perfect life.—Alabama Baptist.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning April 2.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—The making of a Christian; his food.—II Tim. iii, 14-17; John vi, 47-58.

In the making of a Christian we have already considered his birth and speech. We come in this topic to his food, a very essential element in his development. No sooner is a child born into this world than it must be fed. The unfed child would soon languish and perish. This is essentially true also of the child born into the kingdom of God. Its life will be supported and sustained by that which nourishes and develops spiritual life.

Growth, whether physical or spiritual, is gradual. Therefore food to produce the desired results must be regularly partaken of and be adapted to the age and condition of the one for whom it is intended. Irregularity in eating is very injurious to physical health. So it is to the spiritual life. We must be regular in the exercise of the means of grace by which the soul grows if we are to produce the best kind of spiritual life. Adaptability is also an essential factor in the development of spiritual as well as physical life. Each age has that which is more particularly adapted to it. We do not feed meat to a babe, but milk. In the spiritual realm also there should be "strong meat for men and milk for babes." This fact is sometimes overlooked and the good things of the gospel are indiscriminately dispensed. But this is unwise and unnecessary. God's word is a storehouse in which suitable truth may always be found. Here young and old, weak and strong, wise and unwise, may find the word in season that will meet the want and need of the soul.

But of what does the Christian's food consist? (1) He feeds upon the Scriptures. The Bible is the inspired word of God and is "profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness, that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works." (2) He feeds upon Christ. "I am the bread of life," says Christ. That is, what bread is to the physical life Christ is to the spiritual life. He is our model, and to become like Him we must have constant fellowship and communion with Him, must daily sit at His feet and study His words and acts and work them out into our own lives.

BIBLE READINGS.

Ex. xvi, 11-15; Ps. lxxviii, 23-25; cxxxiii, 1-3; Isa. lv, 1-3; Matt. iv, 1-4; Luke xi, 1-3; John i, 4; iv, 5-15; Rom. xii, 1, 2; Heb. x, 5-10.

Rural Endeavor.

In the December Chat, sent to New York state Endeavor workers by John R. Clements, state secretary, he gives an interesting account of success in a new line of endeavor which he is pushing in his state and which is adapted to all states. He says:

"As showing what may be done, only this afternoon it has been my great joy to aid in the foundation of a Junior rural family Endeavor society. There are three members in the society in addition to the mother, who is its superintendent. A little lad of nine summers is its president. For half an hour on Sunday afternoon they hold their meeting. They sing; they pray; they recite Scripture; they plan benevolent work; they give money. Once a month they send the money and a written report to the Junior society of the home church. The membership of that Junior society was increased 5 per cent by the formation of this one Junior rural family Endeavor, an increase it could not possibly have had but for the 'R. F. E.' idea. You see its possibilities, I am sure. Now let us push it with all our God given wisdom and strength."

Invocation Hymn.

The following invocation sung at the fifteenth international Christian Endeavor convention, held in Washington in 1896 and written for the convention by the Hon. John Hay, who has become so famous as secretary of state, will be sung to original music at the Baltimore Christian Endeavor convention in July:

INVOCATION.

Lord, from far severed climes we come
To meet at last in Thee, our home.
Thou who hast been our guide and guard,
Be still our hope, our rich reward!

Defend us, Lord, from every ill,
Strengthen our hearts to do Thy will.
In all we plan and all we do
Still keep us to Thy service true.

Oh, let us hear the inspiring word
Which they of old at Horeb heard!
Breathe to our hearts the high command,
"Go onward and possess the land!"

Thou who art Light, shine on each soul!
Thou who art Truth, each mind control!
Open our eyes and make us see
The path which leads to heaven and Thee!

A Suggestion.

Societies that wish recognition at Baltimore should keep in front of the members during the meetings a placard with a plain statement of the objects sought, together with the achievement thus far made. For example:

WANTED:
A 25 per cent gain in new members.
OBTAINED:
A 15 per cent gain.
Who will bring in one new member?

—Christian Endeavor World.

Fifty Per Cent.

A systematic, personal, friendly canvass for new members is needful. No society has attained its maximum membership. Far too many make a sad showing, and the largest churches usually have the smallest proportionate enrollment. Why? We can, if we will, increase our membership 50 per cent this year. A failure to do so will indicate our lack of interest and effort.—Lyman S. Stone, President New York City Union.

SMART GOWN TRIMMINGS.

Batiste Embroidery Inset With Oriental Lace Is Modish.

Some of the smart dress trimmings are made of braid put together in a wide loose mesh drawn together at intervals and a round motif of soutache braid set at the divisions.

There is a French novelty trimming that is very handsome. It has bits of batiste embroidery inset in the midst of oriental patterns.

Turnovers are as popular as ever and come in a great variety of styles.

TAILORED SUMMER BLOUSE.

Colored and embroidered laces are used, and the delicate hand worked ones are marvels of beauty.

The modish skirt will be trimmed merely at or near the bottom.

Flat disk trimmings made by sewing tiny braid together in snail fashion are seen upon a number of the wool gowns.

Some of the new linen frocks have lace or heavy embroidery inset in long tapering points, with the points reaching up the skirt.

A dainty blouse of lace is crossed all over with a latticework of pale blue silk and has a little frilled fichu of the same.

The tailored waist illustrated is a smart design for heavy linen. It is tucked from waist to round yoke in fine plaits. The neck emplecement and vest are of dotted linen trimmed with small pearl buttons. The sleeves are leg o' mutton affairs simply trimmed with stitched bands and buttons.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FASHION HINTS.

India Muslins—Bolero Costumes Will Be High In Favor.

New india muslins are in the shops fine and sheer enough to draw through the traditional ring.

Bolero costumes are still in high favor, and the bolero coats are more attractive than ever.

Some of the handsomest white blouses are perforated and buttonholed and worn over a black silk slip.

In the new spring coats the tendency is toward a rolling collar crossing low on the figure and turning toward the left.

Black satin girdles with long sash ends are worn with dressy shirt waist gowns.

Mixed straws of deep yellow tones are shown among the first spring hat models.

Buff and corn color are seen in all the summer stuffs, particularly in silks, and light orange and pinkish combination with white are charming.

In checked material, both silk and woolen, the old effects are missing, and in their place come blurred designs sprinkled over with tiny dots which only show in certain lights.

Many of the airy materials, such as gauze, mousseline and organdie, come this season with floral borders.

The smart gown illustrated is of almond green cashmere. The skirt is ornamented with a deep braided design and fits quite smoothly about the hips. Over a bloused waist of white chiffon is a deep bertha of cut embroidery edged with green chiffon velvet. The smaller turnover collar is mounted over the velvet, a tie of which fastens the bertha in front. The deep ceinture is of panne velvet.

KATE BONNET

THE ROMANCE OF A PIRATE'S DAUGHTER

By FRANK R. STOCKTON

Copyright, 1902, by D. Appleton & Co., New York.

"I did it," said Dickory, simply, "because Mistress Kate's father was here, and I was bound to come to him wherever I should find him, for that was my main errand. They told me on the brig that it was Capt. Bonnet's ship that was overhauling us, and I vowed that as soon as she boarded us I would seek him out and give him her message; and when I heard that the sea was getting too heavy for you to board us, I determined to come on board if I could get hold of a line."

"Young man," cried Bonnet, rising to his full height and swelling his chest, "I bestow upon you a father's blessing. More than that"—and as he spoke he pulled open a drawer of a small locker—"here's a bag of gold pieces, and when you take my answer you shall have another like it."

But Dickory did not reach out his hand for the money, nor did he say a word.

"Don't be afraid," cried Bonnet. "If you have any religious scruples, I will tell you that this gold I did not get by piracy. It is part of my private fortune, and came as honestly to me as I now give it to you."

But Dickory did not reach out his hand.

Now up spoke Ben Greenway: "Look ye, boy," said he, "as long as there's a chance left o' gettin' honest gold on board this vessel, I pray ye, seize it, an' if ye're afraid o' this gold, thinkin' it may be smeared wi' the blood o' fathers an' the tears o' mithers, I'll tell ye ane thing, an' that is, that Master Bonnet hasna got to be so much o' a pirate that he willna tell the truth. So I'll tak' the money for ye, Dickory, an' I'll keep it till ye're ready to tak' it to your mither; an' I hope that will be soon."

CHAPTER XII.

CAPTAIN BONNET BECOMES AN ADMIRAL.

THE pirate vessel Revenge was now bound to the coast of the Carolinas and Virginia, and perhaps even farther north, if her wicked fortune should favor her. The growing commerce of the colonies offered great prizes in those days to the piratical cruisers which swarmed up and down the Atlantic coast. To lie over for a time off the coast of Charlestown was Capt. Bonnet's immediate object, and to get there as soon as possible was almost a necessity.

The crew of desperate scoundrels whom he had gathered together had discovered that their captain knew nothing of navigation or the management of a ship, and there were many of them who believed that if Black Paul had chosen to turn the vessel's bows to the coast of South America, Bonnet would not have known that they were not sailing northward. Thus they had lost all respect for him, and their conduct was kept within bounds only by the cruel punishments which he inflicted for disobedience or general bad conduct, and which were rendered possible by the dissensions and bad feelings among the men themselves; one clique or faction being always ready to help punish another. Consequently, the landsman pirate would speedily have been tossed overboard and the command given to another, had it not been that the men were not at all united in their opinions as to who that other should be.

There was also another very good reason for Bonnet's continuance in authority; he was a good divider, and, so far, had been a good provider. If he should continue to take prizes, and to give each man under him his fair share of the plunder, the men were likely to stand by him until some good reason came for their changing their minds. So with fine rigs and irons, on deck and below, and with fair winds filling the sails above, the Revenge kept on her way; and, in spite of the curses and quarrels and threats which polluted the air through which the stout ship sailed, there was always good-natured companionship wherever the captain, Dickory, and Ben Greenway found themselves together. There seemed to be no end to the questions which Bonnet asked about his daughter, and when he had asked them all he began over again, and Dickory made answer, as he had done before.

The young fellow was growing very anxious at this northern voyage, and when he asked questions they always related to the probability of his getting back to Jamaica with news from the father of Mistress Kate Bonnet. The captain encouraged the hopes of an early return, and vowed to Dickory that he would send him to Spanish Town with a letter to his daughter just as soon as an opportunity should show itself.

When the Revenge reached the mouth of Charles Town harbor she stationed herself there, and in four days captured three well-laden merchantmen; two bound outward, and one going in from England.

Thus all went well, and with willing hands to man her yards and a proudly strutting captain on her quarter-deck, the pirate ship renewed her northward course, and spread terror and made prizes even as far as the New England coast; and if Dickory had had any doubts that the late reputable planter of Bridgetown had now become a veritable pirate he had many opportunities of setting himself right. Bonnet seemed to be growing proud of his newly acquired taste for rapacity and cruelty. Merchantmen were recklessly robbed and burned, their crews and passengers, even babes and women, being set on shore in some desolate spot, to perish or survive, the pirate cared not which, and if resistance were offered, bloody massacres or heartless drownings were almost sure to follow, and, as his men coveted spoils and delighted in cruelty, he satisfied them to their heart's content.

"I tell you, Dickory Charter," said he, one day, "when you see my daughter I want you to make her understand that I am a real pirate, and not playing at the business. She's a brave girl, my daugnter Kate, and what I do, she would have me do well and not half-heartedly, to make her ashamed of me. And then, there is my brother-in-law, Delaplaine. I don't believe that he had a very high opinion of me when I was a plain farmer and planter, and I want him to think better of me now. A bold, fearless pirate cannot he looked upon with disrespect."

Dickory groaned in his heart that this man was the father of Kate.

The spirits of Dickory rose very much as the bow of the Revenge was pointed southward. Every mile that the pirate vessel sailed brought him nearer to the delivery of his message—a message which, while it told of her father's wicked career, still told of his safety and of his steadfast affection for her. Indirectly, the bringing of such a message, and the story of how the bearer brought it, might have another effect, which, although he had no right to expect, was never absent from Dickory's soul. This ardent young lover did not believe in Master Martin Newcombe. He had no good reason for not believing in him, but his want of faith did not depend upon reason. If lovers reasoned too much, it would be a sad world for many of them.

When the Revenge stopped in her progress towards the heavenly island of Jamaica, or at least that island which was the abode of an angel, and anchored off Charles Town harbor, South Carolina, Dickory fumed and talked impatiently to his friend, Ben Greenway. Why a man, even though he were a pirate, and therefore of an avaricious nature, should want more booty, when his vessel was already crowded with valuable goods, he could not imagine.

Dickory did not know very much, or care very much about the sea and its commerce, and some ships to be robbed soon made their appearance. One was a large merchantman, with a full cargo, and the other was a bark, northward bound, in ballast. The acquisition of the latter vessel put a new idea into Capt. Bonnet's head. The Revenge was already overloaded, and he determined to take the bark as a tender to relieve him of a portion of his cargo and to make herself useful in the business of marooning and such troublesome duties.

LINDEN, N. J.

Beautiful and Accessible

2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark, 14 MILES FROM NEW YORK

On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL, or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

JAPAN'S HARD TERMS

Russia Must Hand Over Eight Hundred Millions.

CZAR'S TROOPS IN GEORGIA REBEL

Emperor Nicholas Unwilling to Pay Any Indemnity or Cede Territory to the Japanese—Government Organ at Last Talks Peace.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 30.—Trustworthy reports from Georgia, Russian Transcaucasia, say that the insurrectionary movement is growing in the mountainous districts. It is added that the authorities have been deposed, that a provisional government has been proclaimed and that the troops decline to carry out the orders given them.

At Batum, Erivan and Kars anarchy prevails and business is at a standstill.

The Novoe Vremya, supposed to be the official organ of the Russian government, for the first time has admitted the possibility of negotiations for peace, commenting on the efforts of the British and French press to prove that peace is advisable both for Russia and Japan. The Novoe Vremya declares that the payment of indemnity by Russia is utterly out of question, as it would be a contribution tending to build up the strength of Japan, and that Japan is not in a position to claim indemnity.

Dispatches show that the Japanese are gathering in heavy force twenty miles south of Sipinghai, evidently intending to attack the Russian position at Sipinghai. The Russians are strongly fortifying there and apparently expect to make a stand.

Equally important news is that a column of Japanese is moving against Kirin, perhaps with the intention of turning the position eastward and striking at the Vladivostok line of communication, with the double purpose of isolating the fortress and separating General Linevitch's army from a valuable base of supplies, the Ussuri district.

St. Petersburg dispatches this morning say that officially the authorities continue to deny stoutly that Russia has made any proposals to Japan. This is literally true, as Russia has only made known the negative conditions, leaving the intermediary to convey these conditions on its own responsibility to Japan.

In spite of the general inclination in favor of conclusion of the war Russia has not proposed any peace conditions nor prepared any such conditions.

It is asserted that Japan has permitted Russia to learn that the peace conditions will be severely rigorous and will not be responsive to the recent sentimental appeal to Japan's magnanimity.

In particular it is said that Japan's indemnity figure is $800,000,000 and that this stupendous sum has proved to be so staggering to Russian diplomacy that it is the chief cause why the peace preliminaries do not advance to a decisive stage.

There is good authority for the statement that France is diligently striving to end the war, and for six weeks past negotiations of the most confidential character have been in progress between Paris and St. Petersburg. Even diplomats of the highest rank have failed to obtain from M. Delcasse, the French foreign minister, the results of these negotiations, but it can be announced on the same authority that Count Lamsdorff, the Russian minister for foreign affairs, has within a week admitted that he had in a general way outlined to M. Delcasse the general terms along which Russia might consent to consider peace.

Advices tell of the fear prevalent in certain quarters that the activities of Lamsdorff and Delcasse are directed toward an international conference to be held in some neutral European capital, such as Stockholm, where peace negotiations might be conducted. It is said that this move had in a measure been blocked by the refusal of Japan to give any indication as to the peace terms she would accept until positively assured in the name of the czar himself that Russia is prepared to negotiate in good faith for peace. Not only does Japan insist upon this assurance, but she prefers to negotiate directly with St. Petersburg.

With the United States, Germany and Japan opposed to an international conference to end the war the belief is strong that successful peace negotiations will date from the day St. Petersburg communicates with Tokyo direct. The powers are alertly watching for the opportunity to assist Russia and Japan in getting into diplomatic communication. Thus would an international conference be avoided, and the powers would be in a better position to insist upon the maintenance of the integrity and administrative entity of China.

Czar Has Not Weakened.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Neither Russia nor Japan has asked President Roosevelt to assist them in ending the war. So far as the Washington government is aware, Emperor Nicholas has not yet weakened in his announced decision to prosecute the war to the bitter end a[illegible] his determination not to cede terr[illegible] or pay a war indemnity to the Japanese.

No Agreement on Wage Scale.

ALTOONA, Pa., March 30.—The operators and miners of the central bituminous district of Pennsylvania, after being in conference in this city almost continuously since March 16 endeavoring to agree upon a wage scale to go into effect April 1, have adjourned finally without coming to an agreement.

FARM BUILDINGS BURNED

Disastrous Blaze on Charles Arnold's Place on Rock Ave.

LOSS ABOUT $6,000

Both City and Borough Departments Called Out at the Same Time—Origin a Mystery.

From a cause that the firemen have yet been unable to ascertain, fire broke out in the buildings on the Charles Arnold farm at Rock avenue and Greenbrook road at 12:30 this morning, and destroyed all but the residence and a small woodshed. The structures burned included a large barn, wagon houses and store houses, together with machinery, tools and hay. Mr. Arnold places the total loss at $6,000 with only a small insurance.

Both the city and borough fire departments were called out for the blaze, the alarms being turned in at almost exactly the same time by Patrolman Vanderweg and Marshal Fred Emmons. The former was on Clinton avenue and believing the fire to be in the city pulled box 49. Emmons was at Somerset street and Grandview avenue and seeing the bright glare pulled box 143. The city department returned as soon as Chief Deane learned the location but the borough's laid in hose and by hard work saved the house and shed. They left the scene at 3:45.

Until yesterday, the residence on the place was occupied by Samuel McMahon, who seems to be pursued by the fire fiend. He occupied the city's Isolation Hospital on Rock avenue a short time ago when it caught fire mysteriously one day and was saved only by hard work on the part of Chief Deane's men. He moved from there to the farm house on the Brunson property, on Greenbrook road, which was burned to the ground one day several months ago while he was in town. He purchased new furniture and had occupied the Arnold place since, his lease expiring today.

Chief Woolston, of the borough department, conducted an investigation today but was unable to learn anything that would reveal the origin of the blaze. There had been no one about the place since McMahon went away in the afternoon and when the fire was discovered by neighbors, the barn and adjacent buildings were wrapped in flames.

WESTFIELD'S LINEUP.

President Denman Announces the List of Players for the Season.

All the fans will be interested to know that President Charles H. Denman, of the Westfield Baseball Association, has completed his lineup for the season. McGeoy, who played part of last season with the Alis Club, will play an outfield position. The shortstop position will be filled by Kellogg, who played the infield under the name of "Nelson" with the New York Nationals two years ago. He gave up professional ball to accept the mastership of a city grammar school. Second base will probably be covered in the early games by Burch, of the Poughkeepsie Hudson River League. Another player will be secured after Burch returns to Poughkeepsie. John Henning, who officiates on Sundays for the Cedars of the Bronx, will fill the position of umpire at Recreation Park through the season.

Summit will play Westfield Saturday, April 29. The hill-top city team includes Richardson, the former Alis Club first baseman; "Chick" Grunius, the favorite of Scotch Plains, at short; Reinacher and Hopper, of the old Equitable Life team, and High Bridge "Rube" Ramsay in the box.

DEFER GARBAGE COLLECTION.

Municipal System Not Likely to be Operated Soon.

Notwithstanding that the law giving Plainfield the right to raise money by taxation for the maintenance of a garbage disposal plant, is now in effect, there is little likelihood of the Common Council taking advantage of it this year.

The installation of a municipal system of collection and disposal of garbage in this city would be costly at the outset, and which the individual tax would not be large, the Common Council does not feel like adding the expense of the taxpayers at present. A number of improvements will be necessary in the crematory plant purchased by the city to put it in first-class working order.

REGER APPOINTED COUNTY PROSECUTOR

L. A. THOMPSON FAILS TO HAVE GRIGGS RENAMED.

Col. Joseph Frelinghuysen, chairman of the Somerset County Republican committee has scored a victory over Lewis E. Thompson, the Republican leader, his candidate for prosecutor, John F. Reger, having been appointed yesterday afternoon.

Thompson spurned the compromise offered by the Governor to allow his candidate, Prosecutor James L. Griggs, to hold over for another year and then to quit in favor of Reger and the upshot of it was the appointment of Reger for the full five years' terms.

It was reliably reported two days ago that Governor Stokes proposed to settle the whole matter by appointing Reger and when he transmitted the nomination to the Senate yesterday afternoon the leaders were not surprised.

BRIBERY CHARGES ARE NOT PROVEN

SO SAYS THE LEGISLATURE WHICH INVESTIGATES (?)

The investigation of the alleged bribery was commenced in the Assembly at Trenton yesterday, when the Republican floor leader, Mr. Duffield, rose on a question of personal privilege and declared before the House that he took serious exception to the rumors that the Canal measure was not an honest move and that it had not been passed in an honest manner. He offered a resolution, which was adopted, calling before the House Joseph L. Naar, editor of the Trenton True American, as a witness as to the truth of the charges made in that newspaper during the last two days.

Mr. Naar responded and when informed that he could have counsel if he so desired he declared he was merely a witness and was perfectly willing to give all the information at his command. This information proved to be nothing for Mr. Naar has been ill for some time and has not been in charge of the newspaper.

His acting editor, Francis B. Lee, was equally ignorant concerning the bribery story, except that it was written by Harry S. Conover, a legislative reporter. Harry B. Reilly, news editor, was called to the stand, but he could give no information other than that Mr. Conover had written the story. Mr. Conover, when summoned, refused to tell the source of his information until he was threatened with imprisonment. Then he said that Frederick Ege, correspondent of the Hoboken Observer, was his informant.

Mr. Ege was called, but he absolutely refused to give the source of his information or any more details. After two hours of stubborn cross-examination the House referred the matter to Attorney General McCarter for an opinion as to the right to compel the witness to divulge his information or go to jail.

Mr. McCarter was called from Newark by Governor Stokes. He reached the State House by the time the stenographers were ready with the testimony, and a few minutes later informed the House that it had no right to punish a refractory witness, although it could carry the matter to the attention of the Grand Jury of this county, which might report a true bill and in this way bring Mr. Ege to the bar of justice.

The House resolved that the charges had not been proven and directed that copies of the evidence be presented to the Mercer County prosecutor for presentation to the Union County Grand Jury.

A Wave of Insanity.

In addition several more who have been acting strangely are under consideration.

SHAKESPEAREAN RECITAL

Miss Johnson's Efforts of a Specially High Order.

LAST OF THE SERIES

Lecture-Recital of "Anthony and Cleopatra" — Mrs. Hall Congratulated.

The lecture-recital of Miss Katharine Johnson, the last of the Lenten series arranged by Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, in All Souls' church yesterday afternoon was as successful as the previous numbers of the course. Her interpretations of the great Shakespearian love tragedy were unsurpassed. Miss Johnson has a charming and gracious presence, and a dignity which enable her to bring vividly before her hearers the royal couple whose misfortunes the world has sympathized with for two thousand years. Her voice, soft and yet strong and flexible, has a large compass and gives evidence of thorough training, as well as of innate refinement. Thus she can indicate in a pleasing way the deep tones of Antony, although like all womanly women. She is at her best, when depicting a feminine character. Her motions are full of grace. Miss Johnson's view of Egypt's queen were new to many of her hearers, and of special interest. She said in part:

"The Latin historians have been hardly less unjust to the great Egyptian queen than were the English chronicles to Joan of Arc. Neither nation could figure the woman who had waged war against it. There are therefore two Cleopatras—the Cleopatra of fact, and the Cleopatra of myth and romance. The Cleopatra of romance holds the field at present against the real woman, the princess of fact and history."

The recital ended all too soon for the pleasure of the audience, who were carried along by Miss Johnson's dramatic and pathetic interpretation, to the crisis of the tragedy.

Mrs. Hall was warmly congratulated by many women on the signal success which has attended her course of entertainments. In introducing Miss Johnson, she thanked the women of Plainfield in general and the patronesses in particular, for the kind interest which enabled her to carry through her project, with so much pleasure to herself and to all the speakers who have proved a warm welcome in Plainfield.

Trolley Car Collision.

A through Trenton trolley car, stopping suddenly at North and Jackson avenues, Dunellen, Wednesday afternoon, was crashed into from the rear by the regular Plainfield car. The motorman of the latter stuck to his post and sought hard to avoid the collision but without effect. The passengers in both cars were badly shaken up and a woman who was just in the act of alighting from the forward one was thrown into the road. The platforms of the cars were damaged and many of the windows were broken.

BLATZ'S CORNER SOLD

C. Gloekler Purchases Property at Front and Somerset.

PRICE NOT STATED

Site of Home of Plainfield Union and First Meeting Place of Masons.

Following negotiations that have been pending for many months, the property at Front and Somerset streets owned by Joseph A. Blatz was today sold by him to Christian Gloekler, whose cafe is located in the frame building encumbering it. The deal is one of the most important that has taken place since local realty circles assumed such unprecedented activity, as this corner has been sought after times without number in the past ten years. Both the Plainfield Trust Company and the First National Bank wanted it as did the Y. M. C. A. before the East Front street building was erected, but no deal was consummated.

The new owner has leased the place since 1903 when he purchased the cafe business from Mr. Blatz, coming here from Newark. He has been anxious to secure title to the property and the sale has been reported made several times but it was not brought about until this morning. The purchase price has not been given out but it is understood to be one of the highest figures yet paid for a plot of Front street ground. It has a frontage of fifty feet on West Front street and 100 feet on Somerset street.

When asked as to whether he would make any extensive improvements, Mr. Gloekler said today that the place would remain just as it is for the present. He intimated, however, that in the near future the frame building would be torn down and replaced by a strictly modern structure.

The building in which Mr. Gloekler's business was located was owned originally by the late Milton F. Cushing, who used the upper floors as a printing establishment and the home of the Plainfield Union, a weekly paper. The ground floor for many years was the office of the Hope express company, then operating on the New Jersey Central and which was represented locally by Cushing. In previous years the upper floor was divided into a dance hall and lodge rooms, wherein the first Mason and Odd Fellow meetings in Plainfield were held. Cushing sold the property to Mr. Blatz in 1866, who retained it until the present time. He opened a saloon in it and after conducting it for some years sold the business to Charles Smith. He purchased it back a few years ago and was then succeeded by Mr. Gloekler, who has been successful in business since his entrance to the city.

CONGREGATIONALISTS MUSICALE.

Second Annual Concert a Decided Success.

Every seat in the Congregational church was filled last night on the occasion of the second annual musicale, which was all the success that a finished programme by talented musicians could make it. Vocal selections by the choir, in quartette, duet and solo work, together with mandolin and banjo selections by the VanEps brothers, comprised the programme. Willard Wadsworth and Lennox D. Barnes also pleased with baritone solos, while H. R. Hubbard presided at the organ. The accompanists were Miss Mary Wadsworth, Mrs. B. T. Barnes and W. E. MacClyment.

Those who sang in the quartette composing the church choir were Miss Cornelia Miller, soprano; Miss Jessie Haynes, contralto; J. Halsey Sanford, tenor and Fred S. Cutter, bass. The ushers were H. D. Rice, A. Weesman, Harold Miller and Philip Suffern.

Building Prospects Bright.

The various contractors in this city all believe that the coming year will be one of the best in the history of Plainfield for building. Many plans are out or underway for new structures, both business houses and residences, and a prosperous year is confidently expected.

Company K Dinner Postponed.

The annual dinner planned by Company K to be given at Trucil Inn on April 10 has been postponed one week. The change has been made necessary owing to previous engagements made by the brigade and regimental officers who were invited.

Seventh-Day Adventists.

STOCK TRANSFER TAX

L. V. F. Randolph's Protest Against New York Measure.

HURTS WALL STREET

Plainfielder Says That Proposed Law is Wrong in Principle and Probably Unconstitutional.

In an effort to raise about $6,000,000 annually, the New York Legislature is likely to pass a stock transfer tax bill, which will be injurious to Wall Street. Brokers and bankers generally have joined in the protest which has gone up to Albany against the measure from the New York Consolidated Exchange.

L. V. F. Randolph, of this city, president of the New York Consolidated Exchange, who has taken a very active part in the opposition to the bill, said yesterday:

"Of late who have hoped that the Assembly would not be forced into caucus on this bill. The Republican Assemblymen from Greater New York have in general expressed their opinion against the measure. Several of the Senators, who had been doubtful concerning the measure, have upon reflection seen the evil of it, and have manifested a readiness to cooperate in good faith with efforts to substitute other measures, enabling the State to raise the sum required. It seems clear that the speaker of the House became, at least partly if not wholly, convinced that the stock transfer tax would prove injurious alike to the city of New York and to the Republican party.

"It appears now that (despite advice received from earnest Republicans in many quarters) certain of the leaders of the party, including the Governor, have insisted on the adoption of this measure.

"We are still reluctant to believe that it can be passed and can become a law in the face of the protest of tens of thousands of good men from all over the State, the larger part of whom are and have always been earnest supporters of Republican policies.

"We are bound to hope and entertain a reasonable expectation that a substitute measure will yet be availed of to put the State in funds for its annual requirements.

"Senate bills 549 and 550 have been espoused by some Senators and Assemblymen as suitable substitutes. The enactment of these bills, known as the recording mortgage tax and the optional securities tax would, without difficulty or serious protest, yield $6,000,000 a year. It is entirely practicable yet to have these measures substituted for the odious and hurtful stock transfer tax.

"It has been shown clearly that the stock transfer tax is so inequitable as to be practically confiscatory, and that it will prove a serious blow to financial interests here and thus to the while city and State.

"The law is probably unconstitutional, also; is is certainly contrary to the basic principles of equity on which the constitution is founded.

"The only persons who can look with any degree of comfort on the existing situation are the Democratic politicians and statesmen, who line up in opposition to this bill and in opposition to all Republican propositions for indirect taxation. They, the Democrats, know that the insistence of the Republicans in regard to this stock transfer tax will turn tens of thousands of votes to the Democratic party at the next election in this State."

BLIND PIANIST PLEASES.

William Schott Displayed Wonderful Ability at the Y. M. C. A. in Good Concert Last Night.

William Shott, the blind pianist, gave a remarkable exhibition of skill at the Y. M. C. A. last night, when in conjunction with Miss Othlia M. Rauch, soprano, and F. Lesser, a violinist, a pleasing programme was given at the association hall.

Mr. Shott's rendition of classical music is wonderful, the pieces sing learned entirely by ear, but with an exactness and an expression which made them faultless. Miss Rauch is the possessor of a delightful manner and a pleasant voice, a combination which never fails an enthusiastic reception. As a violinist, Mr. Lesser was excellent, several numbers being rendered in an artistic manner.

SCHOOLS OBSERVED WRITER'S CENTENARY

HANS CHRISTIAN ANDERSEN'S BIRTHDAY OCCURS TODAY.

Celebrating the one hundredth anniversary of the birthday of Hans Christian Andersen, the children's poet and writer, exercises appropriate to the occasion were held at the primary grades, this morning, while at the High School department, Principal I. W. Travell made a short address commemoratory of the man's life. In addition Mr. Travell read one of the writer's best fairy stories.

In speaking of Hans Christian Andersen, Mr. Travell referred especially to the hard struggle with which he acquired an education, mentioning the fact that it was against odds that the celebrated story writer satisfied his ambition. Difficulty seems to have confronted him through all his life, the speaker said, as he enumerated some of the hardships which the poet endured. At the primary grades the teachers read more of the stories written by Hans Andersen, and told something about the writer.

BEGGARS METHODS EXPOSED BY MINISTER

REV. H. E. ADRIANCE'S TALK BEFORE MEN'S CLUB.

Modern methods of mendicancy or professional tricks in begging were instructively described at the Men's Club meeting of the First Presbyterian church last night, to which the women of the congregation were extended an invitation, by Rev. Harris Eli Adriance, a minister and prominent worker in the Organized Charity Association, of New York. His subject was "The Machinery of Charity, and the Methods of American mendicants."

Rev. Mr. Adriance's description of the various kinds of mendicancy, practised by men of all stations with the most clever and unique devises, was amusing and surprising. The speaker showed photographs of the men whom the society has brought under its direction. The methods used in vagrancy and practically highway robbery, were exceedingly sharp, fitthrowing and contortions being among the favorite occupations of these mendicants. The usual "I-am-blind" attraction and "sick-wife-and-large-family" features were exposed by the speaker, who warned his hearers against crediting such deceits.

At the conclusion of the lecture, refreshments were served by a committee composed of Fred Lounsbury, Jr., chairman; George Ballantine and Arthur Haseltine.

The appointment is for five years.

MARTINE'S SPEECH

Farmer - Orator's Startling Statements to Trinity Reformed Men's Club.

If any of the members of the Men's Association, of Trinity Reformed church, or their friends had doubts as to the ability of James E. Martine to speak on his given subject, "The Ins ands Outs of Politics," their minds were disabused of this at the meeting of the association, last night.

After expressing his appreciation for the opportunity of talking before the association, Mr. Martine stated frankly that he was a politician and was proud of it. He said that he could see nothing undignified in being a politician and he thought it well that all should evidence an interest in the management of municipal, State and National affairs. He deplored the dereliction on the part of so many who never interest themselves in these matters and who remain away from the primaries and the polls, allowing persons to be nominated who are afterward distasteful.

Mr. Martine then gave some of his experiences on the "outs" of politics, beginning with his entrance to politics at the age of eighteen years, when he was elected as a delegate to a State convention held at Trenton. He took part in the argument of a vital question and helped to win the day for his side. This effort kindled his mind with great enthusiasm and he accompanied then Governor Theodore F. Randolph, at his request, to Newark, where he spoke at three different meetings. Since that time he said that he had been pounding politics and his opposite party. He spoke of his first nomination for the Assembly, news of which was brought to him while at work in the field on his farm. He was then for the first time advertised as the "Farmer Candidate." His Republican opponent was withdrawn for the reason that he was not strong enough, and J. B. Coward was nominated in his place, and was elected.

"Men who have never earned a honest dollar in their lives," said Mr. Martine, "come to the candidate and tell him that he can control forty votes and what is there in it. Last November in Warren County I calculated that parties claimed to control five hundred more men there than there were voters in the town.

Mr. Martine referred to the manner in which he had been pictured and cartooned in the newspapers. One amusing cartoon pictured Mr. Martine as a blooming rose and a prominent aspirant for Senatorial honors standing over him with a sprinkling pot. Another cartoon pictured the "Farmer Orator" playing golf. Mr. Martine said that he always kept a scrap book of the good, bad and indifferent things said about him. At Allentown he was advertised as "Prof." Martine. The thing that impressed him perhaps more than anything else was the number of social clubs that spring up as soon as a person becomes a candidate, all seeking financial aid and sending an innumerable lot of tickets for various objects. Perhaps the most humorous efforts in this line was the appeal made to Mr. Martine by a well-known Bible Society asking him to contribute toward a fund to send the Word of God to millions who had never seen it. The communication stated that his opponent had given $150 to the fund and it was thought that he would be willing to contribute at least half that sum.

Mr. Martine said that bribery was sapping the very life out of the country. Right here in Plainfield, he added, there are people who buy souls and convictions and votes in many ways. This, he said, needs checking. He did not think it was due to the Irish and Germans who come here in search of freedom, but the American-born citizen, who sells his time for a vote.

Mr. Martine said that he had spoken in New Jersey, New York, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Colorado, Nebraska and Iowa with W. J. Bryan, Charles A. Towne, Webster Davis, Adlai Stevenson, Alton B. Parker, George B. McClellan, father of New York's Mayor; George Weris and Leon Abbott. He considered Congress as the greatest parliamentary body on God's footstool, and admitted that he would have reached the goal in his life had he been successful last year.

When Mr. Martine finished his address, Dr. Schenck said a few pleasant

NEED FOR A THEATRE

Correspondent Draws Attention to Lack of Amusements.

NEW YORK PROFITS

Says Plainfield People Would Enjoy a Moderate Price Place of Amusement.

"Editor, The Daily Press:

"Does Plainfield need a theatre? Would a small well-appointed place of amusement pay? As the case stands people of moderate means are practically barred from enjoying the pleasure and diversion of a good, clean play because of the cost of the loss of time and rest in going to theatres in either Newark or New York.

"The need of a theatre in Plainfield increases with the growth of population. It does seem as though the people of Plainfield and North Plainfield would support a properly-conducted place of amusement. 25,000 people and no place of public amusement! It would seem that the mere statement would attract attention and invite capital to the enterprise. Why not? A clean vaudeville house alternated with good plays would prove beyond question to be a paying investment—why does the theatre world ignore this opportunity? Has Plainfield in the past been so indifferent that the experiment failed? Does the warning of this failure check others from trying the venture?

"What are the facts about the closing of Music Hall? Were the people indifferent or were there other reasons? One fact in connection with this problem should always be in mind, that the population of Plainfield is changing and the city is fast becoming, owing to its industries, a centre of local support and less dependent each year upon the patronage of the commuters and this in itself would make a theatre enterprise more attractive, although the bulk of the commuters would support a good, local theatre instead of having to travel 25 miles or more to get to one—or journey home on the midnight train.

"The co-operative plan will never make a theatre pay in Plainfield. The thing to do is to talk about it to advertise this rare opportunity for profit and safe investment, show its attractiveness and at last some one with good, business judgment will seize the opportunity and reap the reward of private enterprise.

"Ask your neighbor if he would like a theatre in Plainfield and note the answer. Ask the business men of Plainfield if one would pay. The time is ripe and the opportunity is here; but where is the man for the occasion? The Plainfield public would enjoy at a moderate price good, clean amusement and also with something occasionally for the children to enjoy too. Who will make the first move in this direction?

"Lonely Resident."

SHORT APPLE CROP.

That's the Outlook at the Present Time.

Professor Merton Waite, chief of the bureau of orchard diseases of the agricultural department, will leave Washington in a few days for an extended trip throughout the eastern states, and will spend much time in New Jersey. Complaints have been received at the agricultural department that the outlook for a good apple crop is not what it should be, and Professor Waite will make an investigation to discover the causes of the various diseases with which the apple trees are afflicted.

"New Jersey is one of the best apple States in the country," said Mr. Waite, "but the trees are afflicted with nearly every disease known to the department. I shall endeavor to learn the cause and will report to the secretary as soon as I return. I expect to be gone some months and will visit not only New Jersey, but several of the eastern States."

At the agricultural department it was stated that every effort would be made to bring the New Jersey apple crop up to the standard. Apples, the officials say, are one of the most important products on the market, and while those of the eastern states are of good quality, the eastern fruit excels it by far. For this reason an effort will be made to save the crop and to destroy the insects that are now working such destruction.

"An Esteemed Resident."

The Dover, N. J., Index, says: "On Tuesday A. B. Rosell, of Plainfield, came to Dover and purchased of George Uarmer, proprietor of the Denville Hotel, the said hotel business, including all of the fine new fixtures and furnishings. He will move to Denville and take charge of the place on April 1. The hotel building, which was erected by Mr. Carmer less than a year ago, is not included in the deal. Mr. Rosell was an esteemed resident of Plainfield and we wish him all success in his new venture.

Plainfield, N. J., March 31, 1905.

CHRISTIAN FIELD.

The stated Spring session of the Classis of Raritan will be held in the Reformed church, at Whitehouse on April 11.

Rev. John Hart, pastor of the Reformed church, Neshanic, who has many friends here, has just concluded thirty years of active pastorate.

A preparatory service will be held at Warren chapel this evening at 8 o'clock. The celebration of the Lord's Supper will be observed Sunday morning.

There will be a special Lenten service at the colored mission of Grace P. E. church, corner of Sixth and Sycamore streets, tonight at 8 o'clock. Rev. A. E. Jensen, of St. Augustine's church, Asbury Park, will be the special preacher.

The members of the Park Avenue Baptist church on Wednesday night, decided to hold no meeting on Sunday night, thereby enabling them to attend the service at the First Baptist church in memory of the late Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes.

Subscriptions amounting to $89 were received at the meeting of the Union County Sunday-school Association in the First M. E church, Tuesday night. This money will be devoted to State work. The association desires to increase its receipts $1,000 this year.

At a meeting of the official board of the First M. E. church Wednesday night Nelson A. Miller and Samuel Bingham were elected delegates to the laymen's conference to be held in connection with the Newark Conference on Friday, April 7. During the past year $4,000 was raised for benevolent purposes at the church.

These officers have been elected by the Ladies' Home Missionary Society of Hope chapel: President, Mrs. G. H. Condict; vice-president, Mrs. L. R. Howard; secretary, Mrs. George Radford; treasurer, Mrs. Jos. Brown. During the year $100 was raised for home missions, and this sum will be given toward a scholarship at Asheville Farm School, Asheville, N. C. The scholarship will be continued.

The Catholic church in America contributed last year in private contributions and "Peter's pence" a trine more than $500,000 to the support of the Church's expenses, and, at the present rate, will exceed that amount by several hundred thousand for 1905. That was the answer the American bishops gave to the proposal to make Mgr. Broderick, of Havana, a sort of commissioner in this country to increase the "Peter's pence" contributions. The announcement made that that the Pope had withdrawn the mission intrusted to Mgr. Broderick therefore was no surprise. Bishop McDonnell, of Brooklyn, and other prelates who were at Rome recently are believed to have voiced the American sentiment against the proposed mission.

things about Mr. Martine in praise of his remarks, and he felt sure that all present regretted that he had not been successful in his search for office. He hoped that all would profit by the speaker's earnest words and in the future do their best to secure the highest and best form of Government. During the evening the association was pleasantly entertained with piano, harmonica and guitar selections by Harold Cook, A. E. Willard and William Shermerhorn, they being obliged to respond to several encores. The next meeting of the association will be a "ladies' night," as announced by the president, Frank Storr.

"Garry, the Jersey Hawkshaw."

"Garry, the Jersey Hawkshaw," is the title of a good story in next Sunday's edition of The North American. It is not necessary to inform readers of this paper that the man referred to in the title role of this story is no other than Henry C. Garrison, of Swedesboro, the man who in his time has made 600 arrests, and whose thrilling adventures as detector of criminals belies is modest appearance and position. Although everybody in this section knows Mr. Garrison, not all of them, however, know exactly what he has done. The record is pretty nearly complete in the Sunday North American, the article having been approved by Mr. Garrison himself. The North American is continually giving neighborhood stories to its readers in different sections of New Jersey, Maryland and Pennsylvania. In addition to this, it contains a great deal of other good reading matter, and is different from most of the Sunday papers.

AFTER LONG CHASE

J. Morgan Smith and Wife Captured at Cincinnati.

WOMAN IS NAN PATTERSON'S SISTER

Detective Followed Couple Over Half the Continent—They Are Wanted at New York In Caesar Young Murder Case.

CINCINNATI, March 31.—Accused of conspiracy to commit murder, J. Morgan Smith and wife were arrested in this city on telegraphic request from District Attorney Jerome of New York city. Nan Patterson, the actress, who has been twice put on trial for the murder of Caesar Young in New York on May 4, 1904, is charged in the same connection, new indictments to this effect having been found in New York.

For a long time the authorities had been unable to locate Smith and his wife, the couple having left New York a few months after the murder and before the beginning of the recent mistrial of Nan Patterson, in which Smith's testimony was considered almost vital to the prosecution. Several weeks ago a New York detective met Smith in Montreal, and from that time until the arrests here this officer has awaited a favorable time for making the arrest. He followed the couple, part of the time as traveling companion, over half of the continent, having made friends with Smith, who knew him to be a detective, but believed that the officer was after some other person. Detroit, Cleveland and a number of Canadian cities were visited. Finally Smith went to Nashville and Louisville in the hope of securing a position with some of the bookmakers in those cities, leaving his wife in Cleveland. He was unsuccessful and came to Cincinnati, where his wife met him on Wednesday.

Mrs. Smith said she had relatives in Covington, Ky., and she went with her husband to that city to call on these people, who, however, refused to see the visitors and afterward declared that there was no relationship between them. Returning to this city, Mr. and Mrs. Smith registered at the Grand hotel as H. H. Banning and wife.

The detective had kept in telegraphic communication with New York and had deferred an arrest until it was possible to take both husband and wife, their separation soon after reaching the United States on returning from Canada having caused the delay. Last night the detective acted, and the arrest was quietly made. Smith and wife were taken to police headquarters, where they made no attempt to deny or conceal their identity, although both denied any guilt in connection with the case. They showed signs of nervousness and worry, but both husband and wife expressed an intention to return to New York without requisition. The couple stated that they had expected to go to New York, although they had not anticipated doing so under arrest.

The detective who has been following Smith says that Smith went under many aliases in different cities before registering here as H. H. Banning. At Hamilton, Ont., Smith called himself Bush, at Montreal he was known as Adams, at Detroit it was Collins and in Cleveland Robinson.

Before being locked up Smith was searched. In his pockets were found an old watch, some pocket pieces and $2.85 in cash. In his breast pocket were found two envelopes sealed. When Lieutenant Poppe took the envelopes Smith made frantic efforts to get them back, but the two envelopes were retained by the police. Smith at first refused to discuss the case, but his wife talked freely of their travels. She said:

"I came on here Wednesday and went to Covington, where we met Mr. Smith on the street. We called at my uncle's house, 406 Garrard street, but did not remain there. Then we came to this city and registered at the Grand hotel. Mr. Smith took the name of H. H. Banning, I suppose, because he did not want our identity known. The arrest was a complete surprise to me."

Lafayette Statue Not Ready.

WASHINGTON, March 31. — The equestrian statue of Lafayette, the work of Paul Bartlett, will not be ready for the fete on July 4, which was planned by the Lafayette memorial commission, and the event has been postponed until 1906. The original programme was for a discourse by Secretary of State Hay and an unveiling by a grandson of President Loubet of France and a son of President Roosevelt. The statue will be cast in Washington some time this year.

Anti Skim Milk Bill.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 31.—For the purpose of stopping the importation and sale of condensed skim milk, which has become extensive, Senator Ambler at the request of the department of agriculture introduced a bill authorizing the commissioner of agriculture to seize and condemn all condensed milk containing less than the percentage of fat required by the state milk law.

Two Duck Hunters Drowned.

OWOSSO, Mich., March 31.—Charles Scott, aged thirty years, and Ray Scott, aged nineteen, of St. Charles have been drowned in the marsh near that place while duck hunting. A storm that came up suddenly capsized their duck skiff.

Washington Courthouse Goes Wet.

Russian Commission Reports Against Peace Plans.

JAPANESE COLUMN AT SITJASA.

St. Petersburg Looking For a Move From Washington or Paris—Peasant Revolutionists Making Trouble For Government.

LONDON, March 31. — Dispatches from St. Petersburg say that the imperial commission, under the presidency of Grand Duke Nicholas Nicholaievitch, which has been considering the question of prosecuting the war, has completed its preliminary report and favors a continuation of the war.

The report says there is nothing in the situation, either financial or military, to prevent its prosecution.

All eyes there are centered on Washington and Paris, where developments are expected.

The Washington dispatches are scanned with especial eagerness. The reports of President Roosevelt's conferences with Minister Takahira and Ambassadors Jusserand and Speck von Sternburg, in spite of official denials, are believed in diplomatic circles here to relate to the opening of negotiations.

The foreign office continues to maintain that Russia has taken no official step, which certainly is literally true. There is an important admission, however, that Ambassador Jusserand upon his own responsibility may have given President Roosevelt the French idea of Russia's position.

In view of the peasant agitation throughout the country some of the newspapers are seriously alarmed at the effect of the recent pastoral address of the metropolitan of St. Petersburg, M. Antonius, as being a direct incitement to the ignorant peasants to begin a war of extermination against the entire educated class, and the papers are demanding that the metropolitan and the holy synod, whose mouthpiece it is assumed Antonius was, take immediate measures to counteract the effect of his statements.

A telegram from Sitjasa, Manchuria, says that a Japanese column, which is probably carrying out a flanking movement, has been seen twenty-seven miles northeast of Sipinghai, seventy-four miles north of Tie pass.

At St. Petersburg a man dressed as a porter fired three revolver shots at a secret police agent in Great Morskaia street last night. All the shots missed their aim. The assailant was arrested.

A Tokyo dispatch says Russia's evident desire for peace is observable to Japanese statesmen the same as to the rest of the world, and they possess good facilities to correctly estimate the peace tendencies in responsible Russian quarters. Japan knows that Russia wants peace without indemnity, without humiliation and without rigorous terms, but it is clear that some very substantial indemnity is necessary as compensation for Russia's causing Japan to engage in this costly war.

The land owners of the government of Kharkov are almost panic stricken at the spread of rural disorders, and many of them are deserting their estates and flocking to the cities.

The peasants of the Bolachoff district, in the government of Saratov, are already discussing division of the properties of the large proprietors.

Thousands of peasants have marched through the town of Gori carrying red flags and destroyed a number of shops. The crowd also attacked a military patrol, whereupon the soldiers fired a volley, wounding ten of the peasants, one of whom has since died.

Valuable Library For America.

NEW YORK, March 31.—One of the most valuable libraries ever brought into this country, the Rowfant library, collected during many years by the late Frederick Locker-Lampson, the English poet and Shakesperean collector, has just been purchased by a New York publishing house. The library contains about a thousand volumes and is known to book collectors and bibliophiles the world over. While the purchase price has not been disclosed, it is known to have been many thousands of dollars.

Tangier to Welcome Kaiser.

TANGIER, Morocco, March 31.—Preparations are complete for the reception here of Emperor William. The pier has been carpeted and decorated, and numerous arches have been erected in the streets along the route of the procession. The Moorish and German flags are displayed everywhere. The garrison, newly uniformed, rehearsed its part in the reception under Kaid Sir Henry Maclean. The natives are very enthusiastic over the welcome to be given the German emperor.

Michigan Anticigarette Law.

LANSING, Mich., March 31. — The lower house of the state legislature in committee of the whole adopted a bill introduced by Representative Ming of Cheboygan prohibiting the sale and use of cigarettes and cigarette material. The bill is similar to the one acted upon in the Indiana legislature.

Sudden Death at Newport News.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., March 31.—Alexander Purvis, a native of Brooklyn, N. Y., a son-in-law of Robert C. Ogden and for several years treasurer of the Hampton Normal Agricultural Institute, died suddenly here of heart trouble, following an operation a week ago for an internal disorder.

SPORTING NEWS.

DIAMOND DUST.

If satisfactory arrangements can be made the Plainfield Baseball Association management may have a telephone installed at Crescent Oval for the season. It would be quite a convenience.

Griffith, formerly pitcher for the Pearsall A. C., and Plainfield teams, will play with Saugerties, of the Hudson River League, this season. Worthley, formerly third baseman for Plainfield, will play that position for Saugerties.

Peekskill has been admitted to membership in the Hudson River League in place of Elizabeth, Manager Dobbins being unable make satisfactory arrangements to enter a team from the county seat as the Newark Club protested under the five-mile limit rule.

The Riversides, of Rahway, would like to play all uniformed teams from 18 to 20 years, Orange Field Club, of this city; Garwood Field Club, Pearsalls, Hillsides and A. S. Laundry, of Elizabeth, preferred. Games to be played on grounds of either team. Good inducements. Address all challenges to Thomas Moulton, Jackson avenue, Rahway.

A notice was placed on the P. H. S. bulletin board yesterday that an election for permanent captain of the baseball team will take place tomorrow morning at recess. Harry Thompson and Howard Craig are the two likely candidates who will fight for the place as leader of the teams. Those candidates who have turned out regularly for practice will be given a chance to vote.

GOLF.

Frank O. Reinhart has been chosen captain of the 'Varsty Golf team at Princeton.

The schedule committee of the Plainfield Country Club is busily engaged in preparing the season's programme. It will be announced soon.

Leighton Calkins, secretary of the Metropolitan Golf Association, has allotted the dates of July 27, 28 and 29 to the Shinnecock Hills Golf Club for its annual invitation tournament.

There will also be addresses by Charles W. McCutchen, for the trustees; George H. Bachelor, as superintendent of the First Baptist church Sunday-school, and Kenneth Robbie. TAR FOR COUNTY ROADS

Union's Board of Freeholders Interested in the Experiment.

SUCCESSFUL TRIAL

Arthur N. Pierson Says Tar is Superior to Oil for Laying the Dust.

The Union County Board of Freeholders has displayed considerable interest in the experiment being made with a new system of improving county roads by a treatment of tar, which is considered a better scheme for laying dust in summer and preventing muddy roads in winter than the systems adopted in Kansas and in California of using oil, which has been found, has a tendency of rotting the tires of automobiles and bicycles.

Arthur N. Pierson, formerly councilman of Westfield and, during his term of office, was chairman of the streets and parks committee, was mainly instrumental in bringing about a trial of the new system of treating roads. In an interview with a reporter, Mr. Pierson, who was asked what effect the recent severe winter had upon the roadway thus treated said: "I went over this road very carefully notwithstanding the hard winter, the condition of the road was excellent.

"I took occasion to examine this road several times during last summer's heated spell and found that the conditions shewed even more value for the treatment than the apparent value of the tar for winter wear, as its tendency is to keep the dust from flying, and to furnish a coating for the road surface that prevents the loosening of the bond of the readbed.

"While conditions for this experiment were not as favorable as we would have liked to have them, on account of the readbed having been worn considerably, and the interstices of the surface filled with dirt, so that the tar did not really penetrate the readbed, the result was satisfactory.

"It is my belief that in road construction, or in the redressing of roads, if this material is applied to roads having an inch top dressing or crusher dust, that first spreading one-half an inch of this stone and thoroughly rolling to a hard surface, then applying the tar coating and immediately spreading another half an inch of dust, rolling the dust and tar with a heavy roller, will thoroughly bind the top dressing and mix the tar through the entire dressing coat. With this application I believe the road would show appreciable benefits from this dressing for from four to five years and the dressing would consequently be of great value as a preservative to the road. The estimate given by the Barrett Manufacturing Company is from $500 to $600 a mile.

"We heard of no complaint made on account of the odor of the tar, which lasted about two or three weeks, nor were there any other detrimental effects that I have been able to discern."

State Road Inspector Hutchinson has informed the Boards of Freeholders in all the counties of the State that unless these bodies pay some attention to keeping in repair the roads already improved they need not look for any assistance from the State in securing funds for new roads. It is the opinion of many of the members of the Board of Freeholders of Union County, especially C. C. Connolly, of Westfield, that this is a cheap and very satisfactory method of treating the roads and of making more durable, those roads which have already been improved and it is considered probable that some more of the county roads will be treated with tar in continuance of this experiment during the summer.

Birthday Celebration.

Kiston Hoagland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin E. Hoagland, of West Front street, celebrated the ninth anniversary of his birthday on Thursday and in the evening his parents arranged a party for him. There were sixteen guests, playmates of the young man. Games, music and refreshments made the time pass pleasantly for all. Master Hoagland received a number of useful gifts.

Starting to Raze Buildings.

Contractor Alex Kane today began the preliminary work of razing the old structures on the Plainfield Trust Company's new building site on Park avenue. All the windows and sashes are being removed and as soon as M. R. Giles secures new quarters the actual work of demolition will start.

—The "Indian Summer" waltzes, which is the last piece of music written by the late W. Wesley Wells, has just been published and can be obtained from all music dealers. For melody and attractiveness, the "Indian Summer" is the most characteristic of this composer's works. His most popular songs are, "My Mercedes" and "I Wait Alone For You," both of which are known throughout the country.

DR. MAXSON TELLS OF SCHOOL SIGNAL

"NO SCHOOL" NOTICE BY FIRE ALARM SYSTEM.

"Editor, The Daily Press:

"May I, through your columns, call the attention of the parents to the new arrangement as to the 'no session' signals which will go into effect on April 3, 1905?

"Several times each year it happens that there is a beating storm of rain or a heavy fall of snow which makes it almost impossible for pupils and teachers to reach the school in a condition dry enough to make it suitable for them to sit during the school sessions with safety to health. But hitherto there has been no way of avoiding the necessity on the part of the teachers, since duty compelled them to go, and many pupils have felt the duty of attendance and the desire of a perfect record so strong that they have ventured out only to be sent home by the teacher when they reached school, because of wet feet and clothing, or because so few pupils arrived in condition to stay that it was not worth while to attempt any class work.

"By reason of a mutual arrangement between the Board of Education and the committee on Fire Department of the Council, it is now possible for me, as Superintendent of Schools, to give a signal with the fire alarm on such occasions, announcing that there will be no session of school and so preventing unnecessary exposure of health on the part of pupils and teachers. The plan arranged is as follows: A signal will be given on the fire alarm consisting of five blows, the interval between the five strokes being five seconds instead of the usual interval. Whenever it is used, it will be given either at 7:30 or 8:15 a. m., or at 1 p. m. If given at 7:30, it means that there will be no session in any schools that day; if given at 8:15, it means that there will be no session outside of the High School and the Whittier School; if struck at 1 o'clock, it means that there will be no afternoon session.

"The signal can be readily recognized by two facts: First, that it will be struck exactly at one of the three hours given above; and second, by the fact that the intervals between the strokes are much longer than in the usual fire alarm signal. I may say further that it will be very rarely used; in the case of rain storm only when it is accompanied by furious wind, when ordinary protection against the weather will not suffice to keep one dry; and in the case of snow, when the fall is so great as to make it unwise for women and girls to attempt to plow through it to get to school.

"If it should seem to any parent that I do not give the signal when it is needed, of course the parent has full power to make his own decision and retain the child at home. There have been but three days this school year when I should have used the signal if one had been at my command, but on those days it was much needed.

"Sincerely yours,
"H. M. Maxson."
